20 And he did evil in the ſight of the Lord, as his father Manaſſeh did.

21 For he walked in all the way that his father walked in, and ſerved the idols that his father ſerved, and worſhipped them.

22 And he forſook the Lord God of his fathers, and walked not in the way of the Lord.

23 And the ſervants of Amon conſpired againſt him, and ſlew the king in his own houſe.

24 And the people of the land ſlew all them that had conſpired againſt king Amon, and the people made Joſiah his ſon king in his ſtead.

25 Concerning the reſt of the acts of Amon which he did, are they not written in the book of the Chronicles of the kings of Judah?

¶ Joſiah repaireth the temple. 8 Hilkiab findeth the book of the law, and cauſeth it to be preſented to Joſiah, 12 Who ſendeth it to Huldah the prophetess, to inquire the Lord's will.

JOSIAH was eight years old when he began to reign, and he reigned one and thirty years in Jerusalem. His mother's name alſo was Jedidah the daughter of Adaiah of Bozath.

2 And he did uprightly in the ſight of the Lord, and walked in all the ways of David his father, and bowed neither to the right hand nor to the left.

3 ¶ And in the eighteenth year of king Joſiah, the king ſent Shaphan the ſon of Azaliah the ſon of Mannaſſah the chancellor, to the houſe of the Lord, ſaying,

4 Go up to Hilkiab the high prieſt, that he may ſum the ſilver which is brought into the houſe of the Lord, which the keepers of the door have gathered of the people.

5 And let them deliver it into the hand of them that do the work, and have the overſight of the houſe of the Lord, let them give it to them that work in the houſe of the Lord, to repair the decayed places of the houſe:

6 To wit, unto the artificers, and carpenters, and maſons, and to buy timber, and hewed ſtone to repair the houſe.

7 Howbeit, let no reckoning be made with them of the money that is delivered into their hand: for they deal faithfully.

8 And Hilkiab the high prieſt ſaid unto Shaphan the chancellor, I have found the book of the law in the houſe of the Lord: and Hilkiab gave the book to Shaphan, and he read it.

9 So Shaphan the chancellor came to the king, and brought him word again, and ſaid, Thy ſervants have gathered the money that was found in the houſe, and have delivered it unto the hands of them that do the work, and have the overſight of the houſe of the Lord.

10 Alſo Shaphan the chancellor ſhewed the king, ſaying, Hilkiab the prieſt hath delivered me a book. And Shaphan read it before the king.

11 And when the king had heard the words of the book of the law, he rent his cloaths.

12 Therefore the king commanded Hilkiab the prieſt, and Ahikam the ſon of Shaphan, and Achbor the ſon of Micaiah, and Shaphan the chancellor, and Aſahiah the king's ſervant, ſaying, 14 ¶ So Hilkiah the priest and Ahikam, and Achbor, and Shaphan, and Afahiah went unto Huldah the prophetess the wife of Shallum the son of Tikvah, the son of Harhas keeper of the wardrobe: (and she dwelt in Jerusalem in the college) and they communed with her.

15 And she answered them, Thus saith the Lord God of Israel, Tell the man that sent you to me,

16 Thus saith the Lord, Behold, I will bring evil upon this place, and on the inhabitants thereof, even all the words of the book which the king of Judah hath read, 17 Because they have forsaken me, and have burnt incense unto other gods, to anger me with all the works of their hands: my wrath also shall be kindled against this place, and shall not be quenched.

18 But to the king of Judah, who sent you to inquire of the Lord, so shall ye say unto him, Thus saith the Lord God of Israel, The words that thou hast heard, shall come to pass.

19 But because thine heart did melt, and thou hast humbled thyself before the Lord, when thou heardest what I spake against this place, and against the inhabitants of the same, to wit, that it should be destroyed and accursed, and hast rent thy cloaths, and wept before me, I have also heard it, saith the Lord.

20 Behold therefore, I will gather thee to thy fathers, and thou shalt be put in thy grave in peace, and thine eyes shall not see all the evil which I will bring upon this place. Thus they brought the king word again.

2 And the king went up into the house of the Lord, with all the men of Judah, and all the inhabitants of Jerusalem with him, and the priests Bef. Chr. and prophets, and all the people both small and 624. great: and he read in their ears all the words of the book of the covenant, which was found in the house of the Lord.

3 And the king stood by the pillar, and made a covenant before the Lord, that they should walk after the Lord, and keep his commandments and his testimonies, and his statutes, with all their heart and with all their soul, that they might accomplish the words of this covenant written in this book. And all the people stood to the covenant.

4 Then the king commanded Hilkiah the high priest, and the priests of the second order, and the keepers of the door, to bring out of the temple of the Lord all the vessels that were made for Baal, and for the grove, and for all the host of heaven, and he burnt them without Jerusalem in the fields of Kedron, and carried the powder of them into Beth-el.

5 And he put down the Chemarims, whom the kings of Judah had founded to burn incense in the high places, and in the cities of Judah, and about Jerusalem, and also them that burnt incense unto Baal, to the sun, and to the moon, and to the planets, and to all the host of heaven.

6 And he brought out the grove from the temple of the Lord without Jerusalem unto the valley of Kedron, and burnt it in the valley of Kedron, and stamped it to powder, and cast the dust thereof upon the graves of the children of the people.

7 And he brake down the houses of the Sodomites that were in the house of the Lord, where the women wove hangings for the grove.

13 Moreover the king defiled the high places that were before Jerusalem and on the right hand of the = mount of corruption (which * Solomon the king of Israel had built for Ashtoreth the idol of the Zidonians, and for Chemosh the idol of the Moabites, and for Milcom the abomination of the children of Ammon)

14 And he brake the images in pieces, and cut down the groves, and filled their places with the bones of men.

15 Furthermore ^ the altar that was at Beth-el, and the high place made by Jeroboam the son of Nebat, which made Israel to sin, both this altar, and also the high place, brake he down, and burnt the high place, and stamped it to powder, and burned the grove.

16 And as Josiah turned himself, he spied the graves that were in the mount, and sent and took the bones out of the graves, and burned them upon the altar, and polluted it, according to the word of the Lord, that the ^ man of God proclaimed, which cried the same words.

17 Then he said, What title is that which I see? And the men of the city said unto him, It is the sepulchre of the man of God which came from Judah, and told these things that thou hast done to the altar of Beth-el.

18 Then said he, Let him alone: let none remove his bones. So his bones were saved with the bones of the ^ prophet that came from Samaria.

19 Josiah also took away all the houses of the high places, which were in the cities of Samaria, which the kings of Israel had made to anger the Lord, and did to them according to all the facts that he had done in Beth-el.

20 And he sacrificed all the priests of the high places that were there upon the altars, and burnt men's bones upon them, and returned to Jerusalem.

21 C Then the king commanded all the people, saying, * Keep the passover unto the Lord your God, * as it is written in the book of this covenant.

22 And there was no passover holden ^ like that from the days of the judges that judged Israel, nor in all the days of the kings of Israel, and of the kings of Judah.

23 And in the eighteenth year of king Josiah was this passover celebrated unto the Lord in Jerusalem.

24 Josiah also took away them that had familiar spirits, and the soothsayers, and the images, and the idols, and all the abominations that were espied in the land of Judah and in Jerusalem, to perform the words of the * law, which were written in the book that Hilkiah the priest found in the house of the Lord.

25 Like unto him was there no king before him, that turned to the Lord with all his heart, and with all his soul, and with all his might, according to all the law of Moses, neither after him arose there any like him.

26 Notwithstanding the Lord turned not from the ^ fierceness of his great wrath wherewith he was angry against Judah, because of all the provocations wherewith Manasseh had provoked him.

27 Therefore the Lord said, I will put Judah also out of my sight, as I have put away Israel, and will cast off this city Jerusalem, which I have chosen, and the house whereof I said, My * name shall be there.

OR PARALIPOMENON †.

† Or, of things omitted, to wit, in the books of the kings.

THE ARGUMENT.

The Jews comprehend both these books in one, which the Grecians, because of the length, divide into two: and they are called Chronicles, because they note briefly the histories from Adam to the return from their captivity in Babylon. But these are not those books of Chronicles, which are so oft mentioned in the books of the kings of Judah and Israel, which did at large set forth the story of both the kingdoms, and afterward perished in the captivity: but an abridgment of the same, and were gathered by Ezra, as the Jews write, after their return from Babylon. This first book containeth a brief rehearsal of the children of Adam unto Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, and the twelve patriarchs, chiefly of Judah, and of the reign of David, because Christ came of him according to the flesh. And therefore it setteth forth more amply his acts, both concerning civil government, and also the administration, and care of things concerning religion, for the good success whercof he rejoiceth, and giveth thanks to the Lord.

33 And the sons of Midian were Ephah, and Ephar, and Henoah, and Abida, and Eldaah: * All these are the sons of Keturah.

34 And * Abraham begat Isaac: the sons of Isaac, Esau, and Israel.

35 ¶ The sons of Esau were ¹ Eliphaz, Reuel, and Jeuth, and Jaalam, and Korah.

36 The sons of Eliphaz; Teman, and Omar, † Zephi, and Gatam, Kenaz, and * Timna, and Amalek.

37 The sons of Reuel, Nahath, Zerah, Shamamah and Mizzah.

38 And the sons of ¹ Seir, Lotan, and Shobal, and Zibeon, and Anah, and Dishon, and Ezer, and Dishan.

39 And the sons of Lotan, Hori, and Homam, and Timna Lotan's sister.

40 The sons of Shobal were Alian, and Manahath, and Ebal, and Shephi, and Onam. And the sons of Zibeon, Aiah and Anah.

41 The son of Anah was Dishon. And the sons of Dishon, Amran, and Eshban, and Ithran, and Cheran.

42 The sons of Ezer were Bilhan, and Zavan, and Jakan. The sons of Dishon were Uz, and Aran.

43 ¶ And these were the ² kings that reigned in the land of Edom, before a king reigned over the children of Israel, to wit, Bela the son of Beor, and the name of his city was Dinhabah.

44 Then Bela died, and Jobab the son of Zerah of ² Bozrah reigned in his stead.

45 And when Jobab was dead, Husham of the land of the Temanites reigned in his stead.

46 And when Husham was dead, Hadad the son of Bedad, which smote Midian in the field of Moab, reigned in his stead, and the name of his city was Avith.

47 So Hadad died, and Samlah of Masrekah reigned in his stead.

48 And Samlah died, and Shaul of Rehoboth by the river reigned in his stead.

49 And when Shaul was dead, Baal-hanan the son of Achbor reigned in his stead.

50 And Baal-hanan died, and Hadad reigned in his stead, and the name of his city was † Pai, and his wife's name Mehetabel the daughter of Matred the daughter of Mezahab.

51 Hadad died also, and there were dukes in Edom, duke Timna, duke † Aliah, duke Jetheth, 52 Duke Aholibamah, duke Elah, duke Pinon,

53 Duke Kenaz, duke Teman, duke Mibzar,

54 Duke Magdiel, duke Iram: these were the dukes of Edom.

° Who was prince of mount Gilead: read Num. 32. 40.

° That is, the Geshurites and Syrians took the towns from Jair's children.

° Which was a town named of the husband and wife, called also Bethlehem-ephratah.

* Meaning, the chief and prince.

Bef. Chr. 25 And the sons of Jerahmeel the eldest son 1471, &c of Hezron were Ram the eldest, then Bunah, and Oren, and Ozem, and Ahijah.

26 Also Jerahmeel had another wife named Atarah, which was the mother of Onam.

27 And the sons of Ram, the eldest son of Jerahmeel, were Maaz, and Jamin, and Ekar.

28 And the sons of Onam were Shammai and Jada. And the sons of Shammai, Nadab and Abishur.

29 And the name of the wife of Abishur was called Abihail, and she bare him Ahban and Molid.

30 The sons of Nadab were Seled and Appaim: but Seled died without children.

31 And the son of Appaim was Ishi, and the son of Ishi, Sheshan, and the son of Sheshan, Ahlai.

32 And the sons of Jada the brother of Shammai were Jether and Jonathan: but Jether died without children.

33 And the sons of Jonathan were Peleth and Zaza. These were the sons of Jerahmeel.

34 And Sheshan had no sons, but daughters. And Sheshan had a servant that was an Egyptian named Jarha.

35 And Sheshan gave his daughter to Jarha his servant to wife, and she bare him Attai.

36 And Attai begat Nathan, and Nathan begat Zabad,

37 And Zabad begat Ephlal, and Ephlal begat Obed,

38 And Obed begat Jehu, and Jehu begat Azariah,

39 And Azariah begat Helez, and Helez begat Eleasah,

40 And Eleasah begat Sifamai, and Sifamai begat Shallum, 41 And Shallum begat Jekamiah, and Jekamiah begat Elishama.

42 Also the sons of Caleb the brother of Jerahmeel, were Mesha his eldest son, which was the father of Ziph: and the sons of Mareshah the father of Hebron.

43 And the sons of Hebron were Korah, and Tappuah, and Rekem, and Shema.

44 And Shema begat Raham the father of Jorkoam: and Rekem begat Shammai.

45 The son also of Shammai was Maon: and Maon was the father of Bethzur.

46 And Ephah a concubine of Caleb bare Haran and Moza, and Gazez: Haran also begat Gazez.

47 The sons of Jahdai were Regem, and Jotham, and Geshan, and Pelet, and Ephah, and Shaaph.

48 Caleb's concubine Maachah bare Sheber and Tirhanah.

49 She bare also Shaaph, the father of Madmannah, and Sheva the father of Machbenah, and the father of Gibeah. * And Achsa was Caleb's daughter.

50 ¶ These were the sons of Caleb the son of Hur the eldest son of Ephrathah, Shobal the father of Kirjath-jearim, 51 Salma the father of Beth-lehem, and Hareph the father of Beth-gader.

52 And Shobal the father of Kirjath-jearim had sons, and he † was the overseer of half Hammenoth.

53 And the families of Kirjath-jearim were the Ithrites, and the Puthites, and the Shumathites, and the Mishraites: of them came the Zareaites, and the Eshtaulites.

54 The sons of Salma of Beth-lehem, and the Netophathite, the crowns of the house of Joab, and † half the Manahethites, and the Zorites.

55 And the families of the scribes dwelling at Jabez; the Tirathites, the Shimeathites, the Shuchathites, which are the Kenites, that came of Hemath the father of the house of Rechab.

C H A P. III.

1 The genealogy of David, and of his posterity unto the sons of Josiah.

THESE also were the sons of David, which were born unto him in Hebron: the eldest Amnon, of Ahinoam the Jezreelitess: the second Daniel, of Abigail the Carmelitess.

2 The third, Absalom, the son of Maachah daughter of Talmai king of Geshur: the fourth Adonijah the son of Haggith:

3 The fifth, Shephatiah of Abital: the sixth, Ithream by Eglah his wife.

4 These six were born unto him in Hebron: and there he reigned seven years and six months: and in Jerusalem he reigned three and thirty years.

5 And these four were born unto him in Jerusalem, Shimea, and Shobab, and Nathan, and Solomon of Bath-shua the daughter of Ammiel:

6 Ibhar also, and Elishama, and Eliphelet,

7 And Nogah, and Nepheg, and Japhia,

8 And Elishama, and Eliada, and Eliphelet, nine in number.

9 These are all the sons of David, besides the sons of the concubines, and Tamar their sister.

10 ¶ And Solomon's son was Rehoboam, whose son was Abiah, and Afa his son, and Jehoshaphat his son,

11 And Joram his son, and Ahaziah his son, and Joash his son,

12 And Amaziah his son, and Azariah his son, and Jotham his son,

13 And Ahaz his son, and Hezekiah his son, and Manasseh his son, 14 And Amon his son, and Josiah his son.

32 And their towns were Etam, and Ain, Rimmon, and Tochen, and Afhan, five cities.

33 And all their towns that were round about these cities unto Baal. These are their habitations and the declaration of their genealogy.

34 And Meshobab and Jamlech, and Jofhah the son of Amaziah, 35 And Joel, and Jehu the son of Joflibiah, the son of Seraiah, the son of Asiel, 36 And Elioenai, and Jaakobah, and Jeshohaiah, and Afaiah, and Adiel, and Jesimiel, and Benaiah, 37 And Ziza the son of Shiphi, the son of Allon, the son of Jedaiah, the son of Shimri, the son of Shemaiah.

38 These were famous princes in their families, and increased greatly their fathers houses.

39 And they ^w went to the entering in of Gedor, even unto the east-side of the valley, to seek pasture for their sheep.

40 And they found fat pasture and good, and a wide land, both quiet and fruitful: for they of Ham had dwelt there before.

41 And these described by name came in the days of Hezekiah king of Judah, and smote their tents, and the inhabitants that were found there, and destroyed them utterly unto this day, and dwelt in their room, because there was pasture there for their sheep.

42 And besides these, five hundred men of the sons of Simeon went to mount Seir, and Pelatiah, and Neariah, and Rephaiah, and Uzziel the sons of Ishi, were their captains, 43 And they smote the rest of Amalek that had ^x escaped, and they dwelt there unto this day.

7 And when his brethren in their families reckoned the genealogy of their generations, Jeiel and Zechariah were the chief,

8 And Bela the son of Azaz, the son of Shema, the son of Joel, which dwelt in ^b Aroer, even unto Nebo and Baal-meon:

9 Also eastward he inhabited unto the entering in of the wilderness from the river [†] Perath: for they had much cattle in the land of Gilead. † Or, Ephrates.

10 And in the days of Saul they warred with the ^c Hagarims, which fell by their hands: and they dwelt in their tents in all the east parts of Gilead.

11 ¶ And the children of Gad dwelt over-against them in the land of Bashan unto Salcah.

12 Joel was the chiefest, and Shapham the second, but Jaanai and Shaphat were in Bashan.

13 And their brethren of the house of their fathers were Michael, and Meshullam, and Sheba, and Jorai, and Jahan, and Zia, and Heber, seven.

14 These are the children of Abihail, the son of Huri, the son of Jaroah, the son of Gilead, the son of Michael, the son of Jeshishai, the son of Jahdo, the son of Buz.

15 Ahi the son of Abdiel, the son of Guni, was chief of the household of their fathers.

16 And they dwelt in Gilead in ^d Bashan, and in the towns thereof, and in all the suburbs of Sharon by their borders.

17 All these were reckoned by genealogies in the days of Jotham king of Judah, and in the days of Jeroboam king of Israel.

18 ¶ The sons of Reuben and of Gad, and of half the tribe of Manasseh, of those that were valiant men, able to bear shield and sword, and to draw a bow, exercised in war, were four and forty thousand seven hundred and threescore, that went out to the war.

19 And they made war with the Hagarims, with ^e Jetur, and Naphish, and Nodab.

20 And they were ^f holpen against them, and the Hagarims were delivered into their hand, and all that were with them: for they cried to God in the battle, and he heard them, because they trusted in him.

21 And they led away their cattle, even their camels fifty thousand, and two hundred and fifty thousand sheep, and two thousand asses, and of [†] persons an hundred thousand. † Heb. seals of men.

Ref. Chr. 1280, &c. 47 The son of Mahli, the son of Musli, the son of Merari, the son of Levi.

48 ¶ And their ^a brethren the Levites were appointed unto all the service of the tabernacle of the house of God.

49 But Aaron and his sons burnt incense upon the altar of burnt-offering, and on the altar of incense, for all that was to do in the most holy place, and to make an atonement for Israel, according to all that Moses the servant of God had commanded.

50 These are also the sons of Aaron, Eleazar his son, Phinehas his son, Abishua his son,

51 Bukki his son, Uzzi his son, Zeraiah his son,

52 Meraioth his son, Amariah his son, Ahitub his son, 53 Zadok his son, and Ahimaaz his son.

54 ¶ And these are the ^u dwelling-places of them throughout their towns and coasts, even of the sons of Aaron for the family of the Kohathites, for the ^w lot was theirs.

55 So they gave them ^x Hebron in the land of Judah, and the suburbs thereof round about it.

56 But the field of the city, and the villages thereof, they gave to Caleb the son of Jephunneh.

57 And to the sons of Aaron they gave the cities of Judah for ^y refuge, even Hebron, and Libna with their suburbs, and Jattir, and Esh-temoa with their suburbs,

58 And ^z Hilen with her suburbs, and Debir with her suburbs, 59 And Ashan and her suburbs, and Bethshemesh and her suburbs.

60 ¶ And of the tribe of Benjamin, Geba and her suburbs, and ^a Alemeth with her suburbs, and Anathoth with her suburbs: all their cities were thirteen cities, by their families.

61 And unto the sons of ^b Kohath, the remnant of the family of the tribe even of the half tribe of the half of Manasseh, by lot ten cities.

62 And to the sons of Gershom according to their families out of the tribe of Issachar, and out of the tribe of Asher, and out of the tribe of Naphtali, and out of the tribe of Manasseh in Bashan, thirteen cities.

63 Unto the sons of Merari according to their families, out of the tribe of Reuben, and out of the tribe of Gad, and out of the tribe of Zebulun, by lot twelve cities.

64 Thus the children of Israel gave to the Levites, cities with their suburbs.

65 And they gave by lot out of the tribe of the children of Judah, and out of the tribe of the children of Simeon, and out of the tribe of the children of Benjamin, these cities which they called by their names.

66 And they of the families of the sons of Kohath, had cities and their coasts out of the tribe of Ephraim.

^c Josh. 21. 21. 67 * And they gave unto them cities of refuge, Shechem in mount Ephraim and her suburbs, and Gezer and her suburbs, 68 Jokmeam also and her suburbs, and Bethhoron with her suburbs,

69 And Aijalon and her suburbs, and Gathrimmon, and her suburbs,

70 And out of the half tribe of Manasseh, † Aner and her suburbs, and † Bileam and her suburbs, for the families of the remnant of the sons of Kohath.

71 Unto the sons of ^c Gershom out of the family of the half tribe of Manasseh, Golan in Bashan and her suburbs, and † Ashtaroth with her suburbs,

72 And out of the tribe of Issachar † Kedesh and her suburbs, Daberath and her suburbs,

73 † Ramoth also and her suburbs, and † Anem with her suburbs,

74 And out of the tribe of Asher, Mashal and her suburbs, and Abdon and her suburbs,

75 And † Hukok and her suburbs, and Rehob and her suburbs,

76 And out of the tribe of Naphtali, Kedesh in Galilee and her suburbs, and † Hammon and her suburbs, and † Kirjathaim and her suburbs,

77 Unto the rest of the children of Merari were given out of the tribe of Zebulun † Rimmon and her suburbs, and † Tabor and her suburbs,

78 And on the other side Jordan by Jericho, even on the east side of Jordan, out of the tribe of Reuben, * Bezer in the wilderness with her suburbs, and Jahzah with her suburbs,

79 And Kedemoth with her suburbs, and Mephaath with her suburbs,

80 And out of the tribe of Gad, Ramoth in Gilead with her suburbs, and Mahanaim with her suburbs, 81 And Heshbon with her suburbs, and Jazer with her suburbs.

6 ¶ The sons of Benjamin were Bela, and Becher, and Jediael, ³ three.

7 And the sons of Bela, Ezbon, and Uzzi, and Uzziel, and Jerimoth, and Iri, five heads of the household of their fathers, valiant men of war, and were reckoned by their genealogies, two and twenty thousand and thirty and four.

8 And the sons of Becher, Zemira, and Josph, and Eliezer, and Elioenai, and Omri, and Jerimoth, and Abia and Anathoth, and Alameh: all these were the sons of Becher.

9 And they were numbered by their genealogies, according to their generations, and the chief of the houses of their fathers, valiant men of war, twenty thousand and two hundred.

10 And the son of Jediael was Bilhan, and the sons of Bilhan, Jeush, and Benjamin, and E-hud, and Chenaanah, and Zethan, and Tharshish, and Ahishahar.

11 All these were the sons of Jediael, chief of the fathers, valiant men of war, seventeen thousand and two hundred, marching in battle array to the war.

12 And Shuppim and Huppim were the sons of ¶ Ir, ¹ but Hushim was the son ¹ of ¶ another.

13 ¶ The sons of Naphtali, Jahziel, and Guni, and Jezer, and ¶ Shallum ² of the sons of Bilhah.

14 The son of Manasseh was Ashriel, whom she bare unto him, ³ but his concubine of Aram bare Machir the ⁴ father of Gilead.

15 And Machir took to wife the sister of Huppim and Shuppim, and the name of their sister was Maachah. And the name of the second son was Zelophehad, and Zelophehad had daughters.

16 And Maachah the wife of Machir bare a son, and called his name ¶ Peresh, and the name of his brother was Sheresh: and his sons were Ulam and Rakem.

17 And the son of Ulam was Bedan. These were the sons of Gilead the son of Machir, the son of Manasseh.

18 And ⁵ his sister Molecheth bare Ishod, and Abiezer, and Mahalah.

19 And the sons of Shemida were Ahian, and Shechem, and Likhi, and Aniam.

20 ¶ The sons also of Ephraim were Shuthelah, and Bered his son, and Tahath his son, and his son Eladah, and Tahath his son, 21 And Zabad his son, and Shuthelah his son, and Ezer, and Elead: and the men ⁶ of Gath that were born in the land, slew them, because they came down to take away their cattle.

22 Therefore Ephraim their father mourned many days, and his ¶ brethren came to comfort him.

23 And when he went to his wife, she conceived and bare him a son, and he called his name Beriah, because affliction was in his house.

24 And his ¶ daughter was Sherah, which built Beth-horon the nether, and the upper, and Uzzen Sheerah. ⁷

25 And Rephah was his ⁸ son, and Resheph, and Telah his son, and Tahan his son, 26 Laadan his son, Ammihud his son, Elishama his son,

27 Non his son, Jehoshua his son.

28 And their possessions and their habitations were Beth-el, and the villages thereof, and Eastward Naaran, and Westward Gezer with the villages thereof, unto ¶ Azzah, and the villages thereof, ⁹

29 And by the places of the children of Manasseh, Beth-shean and her villages, Taanach and her villages, Megiddo and her villages, Dor and her villages. In those dwelt the children of Joseph the son of Israel.

30 ¶ ¹⁰ The sons of Asher were Imnah, and Huah, and Ithuai, and Beriah, and Serah their sister. ¹¹

31 And the sons of Beriah, Heber, and Malchiel, which is the father of Birzavith.

32 And Heber begat Japhlet and Shomer, and Hotham, and Shua their sister.

33 And the sons of Japhlet were Pafach, and ¶ Bimhal, and Ashuath: these were the children of Japhlet. ¹²

34 And the sons of Shamer, Ahi, and Rohgah, Jehubbah, and Aram.

35 And the sons of his brother Helem were Zophah, and Jimna, and Shelesh, and Amal.

36 The sons of Zophah, Suah, and Harnepher, and Shual, and Beri, and Imrah, 37 Bezer and Hod, and Shammah, and Shilshah, and Ithran, and Beera.

38 And the sons of Jether, Jephunneh, and Pifpa, and Ara.

39 And the sons of Ulla, Harah, and Haniel, and Rizia.

40 All these were the children of Ashur, the heads of their fathers houses, noble men, valiant men of war and chief princes, and they were reckoned by their genealogies for war and for battle to the number of six and twenty thousand men.

3 So came all the elders of Israel to the king to Hebron, and David made a covenant with them in Hebron before the Lord. And they anointed David king over Israel, * according to the word of the Lord by the hand of Samuel.

4 ¶ And David and all Israel went to Jerusalem, which is Jebus, where were the Jebusites, the inhabitants of the land.

5 And the inhabitants of Jebus said to David, Thou shalt not come in hither. Nevertheless David took the tower of Zion, which is the city of David.

6 And David said, * Whosoever smiteth the Jebusites first, shall be the chief and captain. So Joab the son of Zeruiah went first up, and was captain.

7 And David dwelt in the tower: therefore they called it the city of David.

14 And they stood in the midst of the field, and saved it, and slew the Philistines: so the Lord gave a great victory.

15 ¶ And three of the ^m thirty captains went to a rock to David, into the cave of Adullam. And the army of the Philistines camped in the valley of Rephaim.

16 And when David was in the hold, the Philistines garrison was at Beth-lehem.

17 And David longed, and said, * Oh that one would give me to drink of the water of the well of Beth-lehem, that is at the gate!

18 Then these three brake through the host of the Philistines, and drew water out of the well of Beth-lehem that was by the gate, and took it and brought it to David: but David would not drink of it, but poured it for an oblation to the Lord,

19 And said, Let not my God suffer me to do this: should I drink the ⁿ blood of these men's lives? for they have brought it with the jeopardy of their lives: therefore he would not drink it: these things did these three mighty men.

20 ¶ And Abishai the brother of Joab, he was chief of the three, and he lift up his spear against three hundred, and slew them, and had the name among the three.

1 Who they were that went with David when he fled from Saul. 14 Their valiantness. 23 They that came unto him unto Hebron out of every tribe to make him king.

TH E S E also are they that came to David to ' Ziklag, while he was yet kept close, because of Saul the son of Kish : and they were among the valiant and helpers of the battle.

2 They were weaponed with bows, and could use the right and the left hand with stones and with arrows, and with bows, and were of Saul's brethren, even of Benjamin.

3 The chief were Ahiezer, and Joash the sons of Shemaah a Gibeathite, and Jeziel, and Pelet the sons of Asmaveth, Berachah, and Jehu the Antothite,

4 And Ishmaiah the Gibeonite, a valiant man

Gederathite,

5 Eluzai, and Jerimoth, and Bealiah, and Shemariah, and Shephatiah the Haruphite,

6 Elkanah, and Jesiah, and Azareel, and Joezer, and Jashobeam of Hakorehim,

7 And Joelah, and Zebadiah, the sons of Jeroham of † Gedor,

8 And of the Gadites there separated themselves some unto David into the hold of the wilderness, valiant men of war, and men of arms, and † apt for battle, which could handle spear, and † shield, and their faces were like the faces of ' li-

14 These were the sons of Gad, captains of the host: one of the least could resist an hundred, and the greatest a thousand.

15 These are they that went over Jordan in the first month when he had filled over all his banks, and put to flight all them of the valley:
toward the east and the west.

16 And there came of the children of Benjamin, and Judah to the hold unto David,

17 And David went out to meet them, and answered and said unto them, If ye be come peaceably unto me to help me, mine heart shall be knit unto you: but if you come to betray me to mine adversaries, seeing there is no wickedness in mine hands, the God of our fathers behold it, and rebuke it.

18 And the spirit came upon Amasai, which was the chief of thirty, and he said, Thine are we, David, and with thee, O son of Jesse. Peace, peace be unto thee, and peace be unto thine helpers: for thy God helpeth thee. Then David received them, and made them captains of the garrison.

19 ¶ And of Manasseh some fell to David, when he came with the Philistines against Saul to battle, but they helped them not: for the princes of the Philistines by advisement sent him away, saying, He will fall to his master
Saul † for our heads.

20 As he went to Ziklag, there fell to him of Manasseh, Adnah, and Jozabad, and Jediael, and Michael, and Jozabad, and Elihu, and Ziltai, heads of the thousands that were of Manasseh.

21 And they helped David against that band: for they were all valiant men, and were captains in the host.

22 For at that time day by day there came to David to help him, until it was a great host, like the host of God.

23 And these are the numbers of the captains

40 To offer burnt-offerings unto the Lord, upon the burnt-offering altar continually, in the morning and in the evening, even according unto all that is written in the law of the Lord, which he commanded Israel.

41 And with them were Heman and Jeduthun, and the rest that were chosen (which were appointed by names) to praise the Lord, because his mercy endureth for ever.

42 Even with them were Heman and Jeduthun, to make a sound with the cornets, and with the cymbals, with excellent instruments of music: and the sons of Jeduthun were at the gate.

43 And all the people departed, every man to his house: and David returned to bless his house.

CHAPTER XVII.

3 David is forbidden to build an house unto the Lord.

12 Christ is promised under the figure of Solomon.

18 David giveth thanks, 23 And prayeth unto God.

NOW * afterward when David dwelt in his house, he said to Nathan the prophet, Behold, I dwell in an house of cedar trees, but the ark of the Lord's covenant remaineth under curtains.

2 Then Nathan said to David, Do all that is in thine heart: for God is with thee.

3 And the same night even the word of God came to Nathan, saying,

4 Go, and tell David my servant, Thus saith the Lord, Thou shalt not build me an house to dwell in:

5 For I have dwelt in no house since the day that I brought out the children of Israel unto this day, but I have been from tent to tent, and from habitation to habitation.

6 Wheresoever I have walked with all Israel, spake I one word to any of the judges of Israel (whom I commanded to feed my people) saying, Why have ye not built me an house of cedar trees?

7 Now therefore thus shalt thou say unto my servant David, Thus saith the Lord of hosts, I took thee from the sheep-cote, and from following the sheep, that thou shouldst be a prince over my people Israel.

8 And I have been with thee whithersoever thou hast walked, and have destroyed all thine enemies out of thy sight, and have made thee a name, like the name of the great men that are in the earth.

9 (Also I will appoint a place for my people Israel, and will plant it, that they may dwell in their place, and move no more: neither shall the wicked people vex them any more, as at the beginning,

10 And since the time that I commanded judges over my people Israel). And I will subdue all thine enemies: therefore I say unto thee, that the Lord will build thee an house.

11 And when thy days shall be fulfilled to go with thy fathers, then will I raise up thy seed after thee, which shall be of thy sons, and will establish his kingdom.

12 He shall build me an house, and I will establish his throne for ever.

13 I will be his father, and he shall be my son, and I will not take my mercy away from him, as I took it from him that was before thee.

14 But I will establish him in mine house, and in my kingdom for ever, and his throne shall be established for ever, 15 According to all these words, and according to all this vision: so Nathan spake to David.

16 ¶ And David the king went in and sat before the Lord, and said, Who am I, O Lord God, and what is mine house, that thou hast brought me hitherto?

17 Yet thou esteeming this a small thing, O God, hast also spoken concerning the house of thy servant for a great while, and hast regarded me according to the estate of a man of high degree, O Lord God.

18 What can David desire more of thee, for the honour of thy servant? for thou knowest thy servant.

20 Lord, there is none like thee, neither is there any God beside thee, according to all that we have heard with our ears.

21 Moreover, what one nation in the earth is like thy people Israel, whose God went to redeem them to be his people, and to make thyself a name, and to do great and terrible things by casting out nations from before thy people, whom thou hast delivered out of Egypt?

22 For thou hast ordained thy people Israel to be thine own people for ever, and thou Lord art become their God.

23 Therefore now Lord, let the thing that thou hast spoken concerning thy servant, and concerning his house, be confirmed for ever, and do as thou hast said,

24 And let thy name be stable and magnified for ever, that it may be said, The Lord of hosts, God of Israel, is the God of Israel, and let the house of David thy servant be established before thee.

25 For thou, O my God, hast revealed unto the ear of thy servant, that thou wilt build him an house: therefore thy servant hath been bold to pray before thee.

26 Therefore now Lord (for thou art God, and hast spoken this goodneis unto thy servant.)

27 Now therefore it hath pleased thee to bless the house of thy servant, that it may be before thee for ever: for thou, O Lord, hast blessed it, and it shall be blessed for ever.

1 The battle of David against the Philistines, 2 And against Moab, 3 Zobab, 5 Aram, 12 And Edom.

AND after this, David smote the Philistines, and subdued them, and took Gath, and the villages thereof out of the hand of the Philistines.

2 And he smote Moab, and the Moabites became David's servants, and brought gifts.

3 ¶ And David smote Hadarezer king of Zobah unto Hamath, as he went to establish his border by the river Perath.

4 And David took from him a thousand chariots, and seven thousand horsemen, and twenty thousand footmen, and destroyed all the chariots, but he reserved of them an hundred chariots.

5 ¶ Then came the Aramites of Damascus to succour Hadarezer king of Zobah, but David slew of the Aramites two and twenty thousand.

6 And David put a garrison in Aram of Damascus, and the Aramites became David's servants, and brought gifts: and the Lord preserved David wheresoever he went.

7 And David took the shields of gold that were of the servants of Hadarezer, and brought them to Jerusalem.

8 And from Tibhath, and from Chun (cities of Hadarezer) brought David exceeding much brass, wherewith Solomon made the brasen sea, and the pillars, and the vessels of brass.

9 ¶ Then Tou king of Hamath heard how David had smitten all the host of Hadarezer king of Zobah:

10 Therefore he sent Hadoram his son to king David, to salute him, and to rejoice with him, because he had fought against Hadarezer, and beaten him (for Tou had war with Hadarezer) who brought all vessels of gold, and silver, and brass.

11 And king David did dedicate them unto the Lord, with the silver and gold that he brought from all the nations, from Edom, and from Moab, and from the children of Ammon, and from the Philistines, and from Amalek.

12 ¶ And Abishai the son of Zeruiah smote of Edom in the salt valley eighteen thousand.

13 And he put a garrison in Edom, and all the Edomites became David's servants: and the Lord preserved David wheresoever he went.

14 So David reigned over all Israel, and executed judgment and justice to all his people.

15 And Joab the son of Zeruiah was over the host, and Jehoshaphat the son of Ahilud recorder,

16 And Zadok the son of Ahitub, and Abimelech the son of Abiathar were the priests, and Shausa the scribe,

3 And the princes of the children of Ammon said to Hanun, Thinkest thou that David doth honour thy father, that he hath sent comforters unto thee? Are not his servants come to thee to search, to seek, and to spy out the land?

7 And they hired them two and thirty thousand chariots, and the king of Maachah and his people, which came and pitched before Medeba: and the children of Ammon gathered themselves together from their cities, and came to the battle.

8 ¶ And when David heard, he sent Joab and all the host of the valiant men.

9 And the children of Ammon came out, and set their battle in array at the gate of the city. And the kings that were come, were by themselves in the field.

10 When Joab saw that the front of the battle was against him before and behind, then he chose out of all the choice of Israel, and set himself in array to meet the Aramites.

11 And the rest of the people he delivered unto the hand of Abishai his brother, and they put themselves in array against the children of Ammon.

12 And he said, If Aram be too strong for me, then thou shalt succour me: and if the children of Ammon prevail against thee, then I will succour thee.

13 Be strong, and let us shew ourselves valiant for our ^{1022.} † people, and for the cities of our God, and let the Lord do that which is good in his own sight.

14 So Joab and the people that was with him, came near before the Aramites unto the battle, and they fled before him.

15 And when the children of Ammon saw that the Aramites fled, they fled also before Abishai his brother, and entered into the city: so Joab came to Jerusalem.

16 ¶ And when the Aramites saw that they were discomfited before Israel, they sent messengers, and caused the Aramites to come forth that were beyond the ^{1023.} † river: and Shophach the captain of the host of Hadarezer went before them.

17 And when it was shewed David, he gathered all Israel, and went over Jordan, and came unto them, and put himself in array against them: And when David had put himself in battle array to meet the Aramites, they fought with him.

18 But the Aramites fled before Israel, and David destroyed of the Aramites ^{1036.} † seven thousand chariots, and forty thousand footmen, and killed Shophach the captain of the host.

Bef. Chr. 1017. 3 And Joab answered, The Lord increase his people an hundred times so many as they be, O my lord the king: are they not all my lord's servants? wherefore doth my lord require this thing? why should he be a cause of trespass to Israel?

4 Nevertheless, the king's word prevailed against Joab. And Joab departed and went through all Israel, and returned to Jerusalem.

5 And Joab gave the number and sum of the people unto David: and all Israel were ^u eleven hundred thousand men that drew sword: and Judah was ^w four hundred and seventy thousand men that drew sword.

6 But the Levites and Benjamin counted he not among them: for the king's word was abominable to Joab.

7 ¶ And God was displeased with this thing: therefore he smote Israel.

8 Then David said unto God, I have sinned greatly, because I have done this thing: but now, I beseech thee, remove the iniquity of thy servant: for I have done very foolishly.

9 And the Lord spake unto Gad, David's † seer, saying,

10 Go and tell David, saying, Thus saith the Lord, I offer thee three things: chuse thee one of them, that I may do it unto thee.

11 So Gad came to David, and said unto him, Thus saith the Lord, Take to thee

12 Either three years famine, or three months to be destroyed before thine adversaries, and the sword of thine enemies † to take thee, or else the sword of the Lord and pestilence in the land three days, that the angel of the Lord might destroy throughout all the coasts of Israel: now therefore advise thee, what word I shall bring again to him that sent me.

13 And David said unto Gad, I am in a wonderful strait: let me now fall into the hand of the Lord: for his mercies are exceeding great, and let me not fall into the hand of man.

14 So the Lord sent a pestilence in Israel, and there fell of Israel seventy thousand men.

15 ¶ And God sent the angel into Jerusalem to destroy it. And ^x as he was destroying, the Lord beheld, and ^y repented of the evil, and said to the angel that destroyed it, It is now enough, let thine hand cease. Then the angel of the Lord stood by the threshing-floor of † Ornan the Jebusite.

16 And David lift up his eyes, and saw the angel of the Lord stand between the earth and the heaven with his sword drawn in his hand, and stretched out toward Jerusalem.

Then David and the elders of Israel, which were clothed in sack, fell upon their faces. Bef. Chr. 1017.

17 And David said unto God, Is it not I that commanded to number the people? It is even I that have sinned and have committed evil, but these sheep what have they done? O Lord my God, I beseech thee, let thine hand be on me and on my father's house, and not on ^z thy people for their destruction.

18 ¶ Then the angel of the Lord commanded Gad to say to David, that David should go up, and set up an altar unto the Lord in the threshing-floor of Ornan the Jebusite.

19 So David went up according to the saying of Gad, which he had spoken in the name of the Lord.

20 And Ornan turned about and saw the angel: and his four sons, that were with him; ^p hid themselves, and Ornan threshed wheat.

21 And as David came to Ornan, Ornan looked and saw David, and went out of the threshing-floor, and bowed himself to David with his face to the ground.

22 And David said to Ornan, Give me the place of thy threshing-floor, that I may build an ^b altar therein unto the Lord: give it me for sufficient money, that the plague may be stayed from the people.

23 Then Ornan said unto David, Take it to thee, and let my lord the king do that which seemeth him good: lo, I give thee bullocks for burnt-offerings, and threshing-instruments for wood, and wheat for meat-offering; I give it all.

24 And king David said to Ornan, Not so: but I will buy it for sufficient ^c money: for I will not take that which is thine for the Lord, nor offer burnt-offerings without cost.

25 So David gave to Ornan for that place ^d six hundred shekels of gold by weight.

26 And David built there an altar unto the Lord, and offered burnt-offerings, and peace-offerings, and called upon the Lord, and he ^e answered him by fire from heaven upon the altar of burnt-offering.

27 And when the Lord had spoken to the angel, he put up his sword again into his sheath.

28 At that time when David saw that the Lord had heard him in the threshing-floor of Ornan the Jebusite, then he sacrificed there.

29 (But the tabernacle of the Lord which Moses had made in the wilderness, and the altar of burnt-offering were at that season in the high place at Gibeon.)

30 And David could not go before it to ask counsel at God: for he was afraid of the sword of the angel of the Lord.)

2 David prepareth things necessary for the building of the temple. 6 He commandeth his son Solomon to build the temple of the Lord, which thing he himself was forbidden to do. 9 Under the figure of Solomon Christ is promised.

AND David said, This is the ^e house of the Lord God, and this is the altar for the burnt-offering of Israel.

2 And David commanded to gather together the ^f strangers that were in the land of Israel, and he set masons to hew and polish stones to build the house of God.

23 The sons of Mushi were Mahli, and Eder, and Jeremoth, three.

24 These were the sons of Levi according to the house of their fathers, even the chief fathers according to their offices, according to the number of names, and their sum that did the work for the service of the house of the Lord, from the age of ^s twenty years and above.

25 For David said, The Lord God of Israel hath given rest unto his people, that they may dwell in Jerusalem for ever.

26 And also the Levites shall no more bear the tabernacle, and all the vessels for the service thereof.

27 Therefore according to the last words of David, the Levites were numbered from twenty years and above,

28 And their office was under the hand of the sons of Aaron, for the service of the house of the Lord in the courts, and chambers, and in the ^t purifying of all holy things, and in the work of the service of the house of God,

29 Both for the shew-bread, and for the fine flour, for the meat-offering, and for the unleavened cakes, and for the fried things, and for that which was roasted, and for all measures and size,

30 And for to stand every morning, to give thanks and to praise the Lord, and likewise at even,

31 And to offer all burnt-offerings unto the Lord, in the sabbaths, in the months, and at the appointed times, according to the number, and according to their custom continually before the Lord, 32 And that they should keep the charge of the tabernacle of the congregation, and the charge of the holy place, and the charge of the sons of Aaron their brethren in the service of the house of the Lord.

C H A P. XXIV.

David assigneth offices unto the sons of Aaron.

THESE are also the * divisions of the sons of Aaron: the sons of Aaron were Nadab, and Abihu, Eleazar, and Ithamar.

2 But Nadab and Abihu died ^w before their father, and had no children: therefore Eleazar and Ithamar executed the priests office.

3 And David distributed them, even Zadok of the [†] sons of Eleazar, and Ahimelech of the sons of Ithamar, according to their offices in their ministrations.

4 And there were found more of the sons of Eleazar by the [†] number of men, than of the sons of Ithamar, and they divided them, to wit, among the sons of Eleazar, sixteen heads, according to the household of their fathers, and among the sons of Ithamar, according to the household of their fathers, eight.

5 Thus they distributed them by lot the one from the other, and so the rulers of the sanctuary, and the rulers of the house of God, were of the sons of Eleazar, and of the sons of Ithamar.

6 And Shemaiah the son of Nethaneel the scribe of the Levites, wrote them before the king and the princes, and Zadok the priest, and Ahimelech the son of Abiathar, and before the chief fathers of the priests and of the Levites, one family being reserved for Eleazar, and another for Ithamar.

7 And the first ^x lot fell to Jehoiarib, and the second to Jedaiah,

8 The third to Harim, the fourth to Seorim,

9 The fifth to Malchijah, the sixth to Mijamin,

10 The seventh to Hakkoz, the eighth to Abijah,

11 The ninth to Jeshua, the tenth to Shecaniah,

12 The eleventh to Eliashib, the twelfth to Jakim,

13 The thirteenth to Huppah, the fourteenth to Jeshebeab,

14 The fifteenth to Bilgah, the sixteenth to Immer,

15 The seventeenth to Hezir, the eighteenth to Happizer,

16 The nineteenth to Pethaliah, the twentieth to Jehezkel,

17 The one and twentieth to Jachin, the two and twentieth to Gamul, 18 The three and twentieth to Deliah, the four and twentieth to Maaziah.

19 These were their orders according to their offices, when they entered into the house of the Lord

22 Of Izhari, Shelomoth, of the sons of Shelomoth, Jahath, 23 And his sons Jeriah the first, Amariah the second, Jehaziel the third, and Jekameam the fourth,

24 The son of Uzziel was Michah, the son of Michah was Shamir, 25 The brother of Michah was Isshiah, the son of Isshiah, Zechariah,

26 The sons of Merari, were Mahli and Mushi, the son of Jaaziah was Beno, 27 The sons of Merari of Jaaziah, were Beno, and Shoham, and Zaccur, and Ibri.

28 Of Mahli came Eleazar, which had no sons.

29 Of Kish, the son of Kish, was Jerahmeel,

30 And the sons of ^a Mushi were Mahli, and Eder, and Jerimoth: these were the sons of the Levites after the household of their fathers.

31 And these also cast ^b lots with their brethren the sons of Aaron before king David, and Zadok and Ahimelech, and the chief fathers of the priests, and of the Levites, even the chief of the families against their younger brethren.

The Second Book of the CHRONICLES.

THE ARGUMENT.

The second book containeth briefly in effect that which is comprehended in the two books of the kings: that is, from the reign of Solomon to the destruction of Jerusalem, and the carrying away of the people captive into Babylon. In this story are certain things declared and set forth more copiously than in the books of the kings, and therefore serve greatly to the understanding of the prophets. But three things are here chiefly to be considered. First, that the godly kings, when they saw the plagues of God prepared against their country for sin, had recourse to the Lord, and by earnest prayer were heard, and the plagues removed. The second, how it is a thing that greatly offendeth God, that such as fear him and profess his religion, should join in amity with the wicked. And thirdly, how the good rulers ever loved the prophets of God, and were very zealous to set forth his religion throughout all their dominions, and contrariwise the wicked hated his ministers, deposed them, and for the true religion and word of God, set up idolatry, and served God according to the fancy of men. Thus have we hitherto the chief acts from the beginning of the world to the building again of Jerusalem, which was the two and thirtieth year of Darius, and contain in the whole three thousand five hundred threescore and eighteen years and six months.

CHAP. I.

6 The offering of Solomon at Gibeon. 8 He prayeth unto God to give him wisdom: 11 Which he giveth him, and more. 14 The number of his chariots and horsemen, 15 and of his riches.

† Or, stablished, and strong, read 1 Kings 2. 46.

THEN Solomon the son of David was † confirmed in his kingdom: and the Lord his God was with him, and magnified him highly.

2 And Solomon ^a spake unto all Israel, to the captains of thousands, and of hundreds, and to the judges, and to all the governors in all Israel, even the chief fathers.

3 So Solomon and all the congregation with him went to the high place that was at ^b Gibeon: for there was the tabernacle ^c of the congregation of God which Moses the servant of the Lord had made in the wilderness.

4 But the ark of God had David brought up from Kirjath-jearim, when David had made preparation for it: for he had pitched a tent for it in Jerusalem.

^a Exod. 38. 1, 2.

5 Moreover, the ^d brazen altar ^{*} that Bezael the son of Uri, the son of Hur had made, did he set before the tabernacle of the Lord: and Solomon and the congregation sought it.

^b 1 Kings 3. 4.

6 And Solomon offered there before the Lord upon the brazen altar that was in the tabernacle of the congregation: ^{*} even a thousand burnt-offerings offered he upon it.

7 ¶ The same night did God appear unto Solomon, and said unto him, Ask what I shall give thee.

8 And Solomon said unto God, Thou hast shewed great mercy unto David my father, and hast made me to reign in his stead.

9 Now therefore, O Lord God, let thy promise unto David my father be ^e true: for thou hast made me king over a great people, like to the dust of the earth.

10 Give me now wisdom and knowledge, that I may ^f go out and go in before this people: for who can judge this thy great people?

11 And God said to Solomon, Because this was in thine heart, and thou hast not asked riches, treasures, nor honour, nor the ^g lives of thine enemies, neither yet hast asked long life, but hast asked for thee wisdom and knowledge that thou mightest judge my people, over whom I have made thee king, 12 Wisdom and knowledge is granted unto thee, and I will give thee riches and treasures, and honour, so that there hath not been the like among the kings which were before thee, neither after thee shall there be the like.

13 Then Solomon came from the high place that was at Gibeon, to Jerusalem from before the tabernacle of the congregation, and reigned ^h over Israel.

15 And the king gave silver and gold at Jerusalem as ^b stones, and gave cedar-trees as the wild fig-trees, that are abundantly in the plain.

16 Also Solomon had horses brought out of Egypt, and ^c fine linen: ^d the king's merchants received the fine linen for a price.

17 They came up also and brought out of Egypt ^e some chariots, worth six hundred shekels of silver, that is, an horse for an hundred and fifty: and thus they brought ^f horses to all the kings of the Hittites, and to the kings of Aram by their ^g means.

CHAP. II.

2 The number of Solomon's workmen to build the temple.

3 Solomon sendeth to Hiram the king of Tyrus for wood and workmen.

THEN Solomon determined to build an house for the name of the Lord, and an ^h house for his kingdom.

2 And Solomon told out seventy thousand that bare burdens, and fourscore thousand men to hew ⁱ stones in the mountain, and three thousand and ^j six hundred to oversee them.

3 And Solomon sent to ^k Hiram the king of Tyrus, saying, As thou hast done to David my father, and ^l didst send him cedar-trees to build him an house to dwell in, ^m so do to me.

4 Behold, I build an house unto the name of the Lord my God, to sanctify it unto him, and to burn sweet incense before him, and for the continual shew-bread, and for the burnt-offerings of the morning and evening on the sabbath days, and in the new moons, and in the solemn feasts of the Lord our God: this is a perpetual thing for Israel.

5 And the house which I build ⁿ is great: for great ^o is our God above all gods.

6 Who is he then that can be able to build him an house, when the heaven, and the heaven of heavens cannot contain him? who am I then that I should build him an house? but ^p I do it to burn ^q incense before him.

7 Send me now therefore a cunning man that can work in gold, in silver, and in brass, and in iron, and in purple, and ^r crimson, and blue silk, and that can grave in graven work with the cunning men that are with me in Judah and in Jerusalem, whom David my father hath prepared.

8 Send me also cedar-trees, fir-trees, and ^s almuggim-trees from Lebanon: for I know that thy servants can skill to hew timber in Lebanon: and behold, my servants ^t shall be with thine, 9 That they may prepare me timber in abundance: for the house which I do build ^u is great and wonderful.

10 And behold, I will give to thy servants the cutters and the hewers of timber twenty thousand ^v measures of beaten wheat, and twenty thousand measures of barley, and twenty thousand baths of wine, and twenty ^w thousand baths of oil.

11 Then Hiram king of Tyrus answered in writing which he sent to Solomon, Because the Lord hath loved his people, he hath made ^x thee king over them.

12 Hiram said moreover, Blessed ^y be the Lord God of Israel, which made the heaven and the earth, and that hath given unto David the king a ^z wise son, that hath discretion, prudence, and understanding, to build an house for the Lord, and a ^{aa} palace for his kingdom.

13 Now therefore I have sent a wise man, and of understanding of my father Hiram's, 14 The son of a woman of the ^{ab} daughters of Dan: and his father was a man of Tyrus, and he can skill to work in gold, in silver, in brass, in iron, in stone, and in timber, in purple, in blue silk, and in fine linen, and in crimson, and can grave in all graven works, and broider in all broidered work that shall be given him, with thy cunning men, and with the cunning men of my lord David thy father.

15 Now therefore the wheat and the barley, the oil and the wine, which my lord hath spoken of, let him send unto his servants.

16 And we will cut wood in Lebanon, as much as thou shalt need, and will bring it to thee in ^{ac} rafts by the sea to ^{ad} Japho, so thou mayst carry them to Jerusalem.

17 ¶ And Solomon numbered all the strangers that were in the land of Israel, after the numbering that his father David had numbered them: and they were found an hundred and three and fifty thousand and six hundred.

18 And he set seventy thousand of them to the burden, and fourscore thousand to hew ^{ae} stones in the mountain, and three thousand and six hundred overseers to cause the people to work.

CHAP. III.

1 The temple of the Lord, and the porch are builded, with other things thereto belonging.

SO ^{af} Solomon began to build the house of the Lord in Jerusalem, in mount ^{ag} Moriah which had been declared unto David his father, in the place that David prepared in the threshing floor of ^{ah} Ornan the Jebusite.

2 And he began to build in the second month and the second day, in the fourth year of his reign.

3 And these are the measures whereon Solomon grounded to build the house of God: the length of cubits after the first ^a measure was threescore cubits, and the breadth twenty cubits:

4 And the porch that was before the length in the front ^b of the breadth was twenty cubits, and the height was an ^c hundred and twenty, and he overlaid it within with pure gold.

5 And the greater house he cieled with fir-tree which he overlaid with good gold, and graved thereon palm-trees and chains.

6 And he overlaid the house with precious stone for beauty: and the gold was gold of ^d Parvaim.

7 The house, I say, the beams, posts, and walls thereof and the doors thereof overlaid he with gold, and graved cherubims upon the walls.

8 ¶ He made also the house of the most holy place: the length thereof was in the front of the breadth of the house, twenty cubits, and the breadth thereof twenty cubits: and he overlaid it with the best gold, of six hundred talents.

9 And the weight of the nails was fifty shekels of gold: and he overlaid the chambers with gold.

10 ¶ And in the house of the most holy place he made two cherubims wrought like children, and overlaid them with gold.

11 * And the wings of the cherubims were twenty cubits long: the one wing was five cubits, reaching to the wall of the house, and the other wing five cubits, reaching to the wing of the other cherub.

12 Likewise the wing of the other cherub was five cubits, reaching to the wall of the house, and the other wing five cubits joining to the wing of the other cherub.

13 The wings of these cherubims were spread abroad twenty cubits: they stood on their feet, and their faces were toward the house.

14 ¶ He made also ^e the vail of blue silk and purple, and crimson, and fine linen, and wrought cherubims thereon.

15 ¶ And he made before the house two pillars ^f of five and thirty cubits high: and the chapter that was upon the top of each of them was five cubits.

16 He made also chains for the oracle, and put them on the heads of the pillars, and made an ^g hundred pomegranates, and put them among the chains.

17 And he set up the pillars before the temple, one on the right hand, and the other on the left, and called that on the right hand Jachin, and that on the left hand Boaz.

3 And under ^b it was the fashion of oxen; which did compass it round about, ^c ten in a cubit compassing the sea about: two rows of oxen were cast when it was molten.

4 It stood upon twelve oxen: three looked toward the north, and three looked toward the west, and three looked toward the south, and three looked toward the east, and the sea stood above upon them, and all their hinder parts were inward.

5 And the thickness thereof was an hand breadth, and the brim thereof was like the work of the brim of a cup, with flowers of ^d lilies: it contained ^e three thousand baths.

6 ¶ He made also ten caldrons, and put five on the right hand, and five on the left, to wash in them, and to cleanse in them that which appertained to the burnt-offerings: but the sea was for the priests to wash in.

7 ¶ And he made ten candlesticks of gold (according to their ^f form) and put them in the temple, five on the right hand, and five on the left.

8 ¶ And he made ten tables, and put them in the temple, five on the right hand, and five on the left: and he made an hundred basons of gold.

9 And he made the court of the priests, and the great ^g court, and doors for the court, and overlaid the doors thereof with bras.

10 And he set the sea on the right side eastward toward the south.

11 And Hiram made ^h pots, and besoms, and basons, and Hiram finished the work that he should make for king Solomon for the house of God.

13 And four hundred pomegranates for the two grates, two rows of pomegranates for every grate to cover the two bowls of the chapters that were upon the pillars.

2 Then Solomon aſſembled the elders of Iſrael, and all the heads of the tribes, the chief fathers of the children of Iſrael unto Jeruſalem, to bring up the ark of the covenant of the Lord from the ^b city of David, which is Zion.

3 And all the men of Iſrael aſſembled unto the king at the ⁱ feaſt: it was in the ſeventh ^m month.

3 And when all the children of Israel saw the fire, and the glory of the Lord come down upon the house, they bowed themselves with their faces to the earth upon the pavement, and worshipped and praised the Lord, saying, For he is good, because his mercy ^g lasteth for ever.

4 * Then the king and all the people offered sacrifices before the Lord.

5 And king Solomon offered a sacrifice of two and twenty thousand bullocks, and an hundred and twenty thousand sheep : so the king, and all the people dedicated the house of God.

6 And the priests waited on their offices, and the Levites with the instruments of music of the Lord, which king David had made to praise the Lord, because his mercy ^g lasteth for ever : when David praised God † by them, the priests also blew trumpets over-against them : and all they of Israel stood by.

7 Moreover, Solomon hallowed the middle of the court that was before the house of the Lord : for there he had prepared burnt-offering, and the fat of the peace-offerings, because the brazen altar which Solomon had made was not able to receive the burnt-offering, and the meat-offering, and the fat.

8 And Solomon made ^h a feast at that time of seven days, and all Israel with him, a very great congregation, from the entering in of Hamath unto the river of Egypt.

9 And in the eighth day they ⁱ made a solemn assembly : for they had made the dedication of the altar seven days, and the feast seven days.

10 And the ^j three and twentieth day of the seventh month, he sent the people away into their tents, joyous and with glad heart, because of the goodness that the Lord had done for David and for Solomon, and for Israel his people.

11 * So Solomon finished the house of the Lord, and the king's house, and all that came into Solomon's heart to make in the house of the Lord : and he prospered in his house.

12 ¶ And the Lord * appeared to Solomon by night, and said to him, I have heard thy prayer, and have chosen this place for myself to be an house of sacrifice.

13 If I shut the heaven that there be no rain, or if I command the grasshopper to devour the land, or if I send pestilence among my people,

14 If my people, among whom my name is called upon, do humble themselves, and pray, and seek my presence, and turn from their wicked ways, then will I hear in heaven, and be merciful to their sin, and will ^k heal their land :

15 Then mine eyes shall be open, and mine ears attend unto the prayer made in this place.

16 For I have now chosen and sanctified this house, that my name may be there for ever : and mine eyes and mine heart shall be there, perpetually.

17 And if thou wilt walk before me, as David thy father walked, to do according unto all that I have commanded thee, and shalt observe my statutes and my judgments :

18 Then will I stablish the throne of thy kingdom, according as I made the covenant with David thy father, saying, * Thou shalt not want a man to be ruler in Israel.

19 But if ye turn away, and forsake my statutes and my commandments which I have set before you, and shall go and serve other gods, and worship them, 20 Then will I pluck them up out of my land, which I have given them, and this house which I have ^l sanctified for my name, will I cast out of my sight, and will make it to be a proverb and a common talk among all people.

21 And this house which is most high, shall be an astonishment to every one that passeth by it, so that he shall say, Why hath the Lord done thus to this land, and to this house ?

22 And

22 And they shall answer, Because they forsook the Lord God of their fathers, which brought them out of the land of Egypt, and have taken hold on other gods, and have worshipped them, and served them, therefore hath he brought all this evil upon them.

CHAP. VIII.

2 The cities that Solomon built. 7 People that were made tributary unto him. 12 His sacrifices. 17 He sendeth to Ophir.

AND * after ^m twenty years when Solomon had built the house of the Lord, and his own house,

2 Then Solomon built the cities that Hiram ^a gave to Solomon, and caused the children of Israel to dwell there.

3 And Solomon went to Hamath Zobah, and overcame it.

4 And he built Tadmor in the wilderness, and repaired all the ^o cities of store which he built in Hamath.

5 And he built ^p Beth-horon the upper, and Beth-horon the nether, cities fenced with walls, gates, and bars :

6 Also Baalath, and all the cities of store that Solomon had, and all the chariot-cities, and the cities of the horsemen, and every pleasant place that Solomon had a mind to build in Jerusalem, and in ^q Lebanon, and throughout all the land of his dominion.

7 And all the people that were left of the Hittites, and the Amorites, and the Perizzites, and the Hivites, and the Jebusites, which were not of Israel,

8 But of their children which were left after them in the land, whom the children of Israel had not consumed, even them did Solomon make [†] tributaries until this day.

9 But of the children of Israel did Solomon make no servants for his work : for they were men of war, and his chief princes, and the captains of his chariots, and of his horsemen.

10 So these were the chief of the officers which Solomon had, even ^r two hundred and fifty that bare rule over the people.

11 ¶ Then Solomon brought up the daughter of Pharaoh out of the city of David, into the house that he had built for her : for he said, My wife shall not dwell in the house of David king of Israel : for it is holy, because that the ark of the Lord came unto it.

12 ¶ Then Solomon offered burnt-offerings unto the Lord, on the ^{*} altar of the Lord, which he had built before the porch,

13 To ^{*} offer according to the commandment of Moses [‡] every day, in the sabbaths, and in the new moons, and in the solemn feasts, ^s three times in the year, that is, in the feast of the unleavened bread, and in the feast of the weeks, and in the feast of the tabernacles.

14 And he set the courses of the priests to their offices, according to the order of David his father, and the Levites in their watches, for to praise and minister before the priests every day, and the porters by ^{} their courses, at every ^{} gate : for so was the commandment of David ^{24. 1.} the man of God.

15 And they declined not from the commandment of the king, concerning the priests and Levites, touching all things, and touching the treasures.

16 ¶ Now Solomon had made provision for all the ^t work, from the day of the foundation of the house of the Lord, until it was finished : so the house of the Lord was perfect.

17 Then went Solomon to Ezion-geber, and to Eloth by the ^u sea side in the land of Edom.

18 And Hiram sent him by the hands of his servants, ships, and servants that had knowledge of the sea : and they went with the servants of Solomon to Ophir, and brought thence ^v four hundred and fifty talents of gold, and brought them to king Solomon.

CHAP. IX.

1, 9 The queen of Sheba cometh to see Solomon, and bringeth gifts. 13 His yearly revenues. 30 The time of his reign. 31 His death.

AND * when the queen of Sheba heard of ^{} the fame of Solomon, she came to ^{} prove Solomon with hard questions at Jerusalem, with a very great train, and camels that bare sweet odours, and much gold, and precious stones : and when she came to Solomon, she communed with him of all that was in her heart.

2 And Solomon declared her all her questions, and there was ^v nothing hid from Solomon, which he declared not unto her.

3 Then the queen of Sheba saw the wisdom of Solomon, and the house that he had built,

4 And the meat of his table, and the sitting of his servants, and the order of his waiters, and their apparel, and his butlers, and their apparel, and his [‡] burnt-offerings, which he offered in the house of the Lord, and she [†] was greatly astonished.

5 And she said to the king, It was a true word which I heard in mine own land of thy [‡] sayings, and of thy wisdom :

6 Howbeit, I believed not their report, until I came, and mine eyes had seen it : and behold, the one half of thy great wisdom was not told me : for thou exceedest the fame that I heard.

7 Happy are thy men, and happy are these thy servants, which stand before thee always, and hear thy wisdom.

9 Then she gave the king sixscore talents of gold, and of sweet odours exceeding much, and precious stones: neither was there such sweet odours before, as the queen of Sheba gave unto king Solomon.

10 And the servants also of Hiram, and the servants of Solomon which brought gold from Ophir, brought Algummim wood and precious stones.

11 And the king made of the Algummim wood stairs in the house of the Lord, and in the king's house, and harps and viols for singers: and there was no such seen before in the land of Judah.

12 And king Solomon gave to the queen of Sheba every pleasant thing that she asked, besides for that which she had brought unto the king: so she returned and went to her own country, with she, and her servants.

13 Also the weight of gold that came to Solomon in one year, was six hundred threescore and six talents of gold, 14 Besides that which chapmen and merchants brought: and all the kings of Arabia, and the princes of the country brought gold and silver to Solomon.

15 And king Solomon made two hundred targets of beaten gold, and six hundred shekels of beaten gold went to one target, 16 And three hundred shields of beaten gold: three hundred shekels of gold went to one shield, and the king put them in the house of the wood of Lebanon.

17 And the king made a great throne of ivory, and overlaid it with pure gold.

18 And the throne had six steps, with a footstool of gold fastened to the throne, and stays on either side on the place of the seat, and two lions standing by the stays.

19 And twelve lions stood there on the six steps on either side: there was not the like made in any kingdom.

20 And all king Solomon's drinking vessels were of gold, and all the vessels of the house of the wood of Lebanon were of pure gold: for silver was nothing esteemed in the days of Solomon.

21 For the king's ships went to Tarshish with the servants of Hiram, every three years once came the ships of Tarshish, and brought gold, and silver, ivory, and apes, and peacocks.

22 So king Solomon excelled all the kings of the earth in riches and wisdom.

23 And all the kings of the earth sought the presence of Solomon, to hear his wisdom that God had put in his heart.

24 And they brought every man his present, vessels of silver, and vessels of gold, and raiment, armour, and sweet odours, horses, and mules, from year to year.

25 And Solomon had four thousand stalls of horses, and chariots, and twelve thousand horsemen, whom he bestowed in the chariot cities, and with the king at Jerusalem.

26 And he reigned over all the kings from the river even unto the land of the Philistines, and to the border of Egypt.

27 And the king gave silver in Jerusalem, as stones, and gave cedar-trees as the wild fig-trees that are abundant in the plain.

28 And they brought unto Solomon horses out of Egypt, and out of all lands.

29 Concerning the rest of the acts of Solomon, first and last, are they not written in the book of Nathan the prophet, and in the prophecy of Ahijah the Shilonite, and in the visions of Jeedo the Seer, against Jeroboam the son of Nebat?

30 And Solomon reigned in Jerusalem over all Israel forty years.

31 And Solomon slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the city of David his father: and Rehoboam his son reigned in his stead.

THEN Rehoboam went to Shechem: for to Shechem came all Israel to make him king.

2 And when Jeroboam the son of Nebat heard it (which was in Egypt, whither he had fled from the presence of Solomon the king) he returned out of Egypt.

3 And they sent and called him: so came Jeroboam, and all Israel, and communed with Rehoboam, saying,

4 Thy father made our yoke grievous: now therefore make thou the grievous servitude of thy father, and his sore yoke that he put upon us, lighter, and we will serve thee.

5 And he said to them, Depart yet three days, then come again unto me. And the people departed.

6 And king Rehoboam took counsel with the old men that had stood before Solomon his father, while he yet lived, saying, What counsel give ye that I may answer this people?

9 And he said unto them, What counsel give ye, that we may answer this people which have spoken to me, saying, Make the yoke which thy father did put upon us lighter?

10 And the young men that were brought up with him, spake unto him, saying, Thus shalt thou answer the people that spake to thee, saying, Thy father made our yoke heavy, but make thou it lighter for us: thus shalt thou say unto them, My ^p least part shall be bigger than my father's loins.

975. AND * when Rehoboam was come to Jerusalem, he gathered of the house of Judah and Benjamin, nine score thousand chosen men of war to fight against Israel, and to bring the kingdom again to Rehoboam.

Bef. Chr. 975. 1 Kings 12. 22. 21

2 But the word of the Lord came to She-maiah the man of God, saying,

3 Speak unto Rehoboam the son of Solomon king of Judah, and to all Israel that are in Judah, and Benjamin, saying,

4 Thus saith the Lord, Ye shall not go up, nor fight against your brethren: return every man to his house: for this thing is done of me. They obeyed therefore the word of the Lord, and returned from going against Jeroboam.

5 And Rehoboam dwelt in Jerusalem, and built strong cities in Judah.

6 He built also Beth-lehem, and Etam, and Tekoa,

7 And Beth-zur, and Shoco, and Adullam,

8 And Gath, and Maresah, and Ziph,

20 And after her he took Machaah the daughter of Abfalom, which bare him Abijah, and Attai, and Ziza, and Shelomith.

22 And Rehoboam made ⁷ Abijah the son of Maachah the chief ruler among his brethren: for he thought to make him king.

23 And he taught him: and dispersed all his sons throughout all the countries of Judah and Benjamin unto every strong city: and he gave them abundance of victuals, and ² desired many wives.

C H A P. XII.

1 Rehoboam forsaketh the Lord, and is punished by Shishak. 5 Shemaiah reproveth him. 6 He humbled himself. 7 God sendeth him succour. 9 Shishak taketh his treasures. 13 His reign and death. 16 Abijah his son succeedeth him.

AND when [†] Rehoboam had established the kingdom, and made it strong, he forsook the law of the Lord, and ² all Israel with him.

2 Therefore in the fifth year of king Rehoboam, Shishak the king of Egypt came up against Jerusalem (because they had transgressed against the Lord)

3 With twelve hundred chariots, and threescore thousand horsemen, and the people were without number that came with him from Egypt, even the Libims, ³ Sukkiims, and the [†] Ethiopians.

4 And he took the strong cities which were of Judah, and came unto Jerusalem.

5 ¶ Then came Shemaiah the prophet to Rehoboam, and to the princes of Judah that were gathered together in Jerusalem, because of Shishak, and said unto them, Thus saith the Lord, Ye have forsaken me, ² therefore have I also left you in the hands of Shishak.

6 Then the princes of Israel, and the king humbled themselves, and said, The Lord is just.

7 And when the Lord saw that they humbled themselves, the word of the Lord came to Shemaiah, saying, They have humbled themselves, therefore I will not destroy them, but I will send them deliverance shortly, and my wrath shall not ² be poured out upon Jerusalem by the hand of Shishak.

8 Nevertheless they shall be his servants: so shall they know my ² service, and the service of the kingdoms of the earth.

9 ¶ Then Shishak king of Egypt came up against Jerusalem, and took the treasures of the house of the Lord, and the treasures of the king's house: he took even all, and he carried away the shields of gold ² which Solomon had made. Chr. 971. ² Chr. 9. 15, 16.

10 Instead whereof king Rehoboam made shields of brass, and committed them to the hands of the chief of the guard, that waited at the door of the king's house.

11 And when the king entered into the house of the Lord, the guard came and bare them, and brought them again unto the guard chamber.

12 And because he ² humbled himself, the wrath of the Lord turned from him, that he would not destroy all together. And also in Judah the things prospered.

13 ² So king Rehoboam was strong in Jerusalem and reigned: for Rehoboam was one and forty years old when he began to reign, and reigned ² seventeen years in Jerusalem, the city which the Lord had chosen out of all the tribes of Israel to put his name there. And his mother's name was Naamah, an Ammonitess. 1 Kings 14. 21.

14 And he did evil: for he prepared not his heart to seek the Lord.

15 The acts also of Rehoboam, first and last, are they not written in the [†] book of Shemaiah the prophet, and Iddo the Seer, in rehearsing the genealogy? and there was war alway between Rehoboam and Jeroboam. II. Chr. 11. 15.

16 And Rehoboam slept with his fathers, and was buried in the city of David, and [†] Abijah his son reigned in his stead. 1 Or, Abijah.

6 And Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat, the ſervant of Solomon the ſon of David, is riſen up, and hath * rebelled againſt his lord :

7 And there are gathered to him ° vain men and † wicked, and made themſelves ſtrong againſt Rehoboam the ſon of Solomon : for Rehoboam was ^p but a child and ‡ * tender hearted, and could not reſiſt them.

8 Now therefore ye think that ye be able to reſiſt againſt the kingdom of the Lord, which is in the hands of the ſons of David, and ye be a great multitude, and the golden calves are with you which Jeroboam made you for gods.

9 * Have ye not driven away the prieſts of the Lord, the ſons of Aaron, and the Levites, and have made you prieſts like the people of other countries ? whoſoever cometh to † conſecrate with a ° young bullock and ſeven rams, the ſame may be a prieſt of them that are no gods.

10 But we belong unto the Lord our God, and have not forſaken him, and the prieſts, the ſons of Aaron miniſter unto the Lord, and the Levites in their office.

11 And they burn unto the Lord every morning and every evening burnt-offerings and ſweet incenſe, and the bread is ſet in order upon the pure table, and the candleſtick of gold, with the lamps thereof, to burn every evening : for we keep the watch of the Lord our God : but ye have forſaken him.

13 ¶ But Jeroboam cauſed an ambuſhment to compaſs, and come behind them, when they were before Judah, and the ambuſhment behind them.

14 Then Judah looked, and behold, the battle was before and behind them, and they cried unto the Lord, and the prieſts blew with the trumpets, 15 And the men of Judah gave a ſhout : and even as the men of Judah ſhouted, God ‡ ſmote Jeroboam and alſo Iſrael before Abijah and Judah.

16 And the children of Iſrael fled before Judah, and God delivered them into their hand.

17 And Abijah and his people ſlew a great ſlaughter of them, ſo that there fell down wounded of Iſrael five hundred thouſand choſen men.

18 So the children of Iſrael were brought under at that time : and the children of Judah prevailed, ° becauſe they ſtayed upon the Lord God of their fathers.

6 And said, O Lord God of our fathers, art not thou God in heaven? and reignest not thou over all the kingdoms of the heathen? and in thine hand is power and might, and none is able to withstand thee.

7 Didst not thou our God cast out the inhabitants of this land before thy people Israel, and gavest it to the seed of Abraham thy friend for ever?

8 And they dwelt therein, and have built thee a sanctuary therein for thy name, saying,

9 * If evil come upon us, as the ^p sword of judgment, or pestilence, or famine, we will stand before this house and in thy presence (for thy name ^{is} in this house) and will cry unto thee in our tribulation, and thou wilt hear and help.

10 And now behold, the children of * Ammon and Moab, and mount Seir, by whom thou wouldest not let Israel go, when they came out of the land of Egypt: but they turned aside from them, and destroyed them not:

11 Behold, I say, how they reward us, in coming to cast us out of thine inheritance, which thou hast caused us to inherit.

12 O our God, wilt thou not judge them? for there is no strength in us to stand before this great multitude that cometh against us, neither do we know what to do: but our eyes ^{are} toward thee.

13 And all Judah stood ^{before} the Lord with their young ones, their wives, and their children.

20 And when they arose early in the morning they went forth to the wilderness of Tekoa: and as they departed, Jehoshaphat stood and said, Hear ye me, O Judah, and ye inhabitants of Jerusalem: put your trust in the Lord your God, and ye shall be assured: believe his ^{are} prophets, and ye shall prosper.

1 Jehoshaphat dieth. 3 Jehoram succeedeth him, 4 who killeth his brethren. 6 He was brought to idolatry, 11 and seduceth the people. 16 He is oppressed of the Philistines. 18 His miserable end.

Jehoshaphat then slept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers in the city of David: and Jehoram his son reigned in his stead.

2 And he had brethren the sons of Jehoshaphat, Azariah, and Jehiel, and Zechariah, and Azariah, and Michael, and Shephatiah. All these were the sons of Jehoshaphat king of ^g Israel.

3 And their father gave them great gifts of silver and of gold, and of precious things, with strong cities in Judah, but the kingdom gave he to Jehoram: for he was the eldest.

4 ^{*} And Jehoram rose up upon the kingdom of his father, and made himself strong, and ^h slew all his brethren with the sword, and also of the princes of ⁱ Israel.

5 Jehoram was two and thirty years old when he began to reign, and he reigned eight years in Jerusalem.

6 And he walked in the way of the kings of Israel, as the house of Ahab had done: for he had the daughter of Ahab to ^k wife, and he wrought evil in the eyes of the Lord.

7 Howbeit the Lord would not destroy the house of David, because of the ^{*} covenant that he had made with David, and because he had promised to give a light to him, and to his sons forever.

8 ¶ In his days Edom rebelled from under the hand of Judah, and made a king over them.

9 And Jehoram went forth with his princes, and all his chariots with him: and he arose up by night, and smote Edom, which had compassed him in, and the captains of the chariots.

10 But Edom rebelled from under the hand of Judah unto this day: then did ^l Libnah rebel at the same time from under his hand, because he had forsaken the Lord God of his fathers.

11 ¶ Moreover he made high places in the mountains of Judah, and caused the inhabitants of Jerusalem to commit ^m fornication, and compelled Judah thereto,

12 And there came a writing to him from ⁿ Elijah the prophet, saying, Thus saith the Lord God of David thy father, Because thou hast not walked in the ways of Jehoshaphat thy father, nor in the ways of Afa king of Judah,

13 But hast walked in the way of the kings of Israel, and hast made Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem to go a whoring, as the house of Ahab went a whoring, and hast also slain thy brethren of thy father's house, which were better than thou, 14 Behold, with a great plague will the Lord smite thy people, and thy children, and thy wives, and all thy substance.

15 And thou shalt be in great diseases in the disease of thy bowels, until ^o thy bowels fall out for the disease, day by day.

16 ¶ So the Lord stirred up against Jehoram the spirit of the Philistines, and the Arabians that were beside the ^p Ethiopians.

17 And they came up into Judah, and brake into it, and carried away all the substance that was found in the king's house, and his sons also, and his wives, so that there was not a son left him, save ^q Jehoahaz, the youngest of his sons.

18 And after all this, the Lord smote him in his bowels with an incurable disease.

19 And in process of time, even after the end of two years, his guts fell out with his disease: so he died of sore diseases: and his people made no burning for him like the burning of his fathers.

20 When he began to reign, he was two and thirty years old, and reigned in Jerusalem eight years, ^r and lived without being desired: yet they buried him in the city of David, but not among the sepulchres of the kings.

CHAP. XXII.

1 Ahaziah reigneth after Jehoram. 9 Jehu king of Israel killeth Ahaziah. 10 Athaliah putteth to death all the king's lineage. 11 Joash escapeth.

AND * the inhabitants of Jerusalem made Ahaziah his youngest son king in his stead: for the army that came with the Arabians to the camp, had slain all the eldest: therefore Ahaziah the son of Jehoram king of Judah reigned.

2 Two and forty years old was Ahaziah when he began to reign, and he reigned ^a one year in Jerusalem, and his mother's name was Athaliah the daughter of ^b Omri.

3 He walked also in the ways of the house of Ahab: for his mother counselled him to do wickedly.

4 Wherefore he did evil in the sight of the Lord, like the house of Ahab: for they were his ^c counsellors after the death of his father, to his destruction.

5 And he walked after their counsel, and went with Jehoram the son of Ahab king of Israel to fight against Hazael king of Aram, at Ramoth-Gilead: and the Aramites smote Jehoram.

6 ¶ And he returned to be healed in Jezreel, because of the wounds wherewith they had wounded him at Ramah, when he fought with Hazael king of Aram. Now Azariah the son of Jehoram king of Judah went down to see Jehoram the son of Ahab at Jezreel, because he was diseased.

7 And the destruction of Ahaziah ^d came of God, in that he went to Jehoram: for when he was come, he went forth with Jehoram against Jehu the son of Nimshi, ^e whom the Lord had anointed to destroy the house of Ahab.

8 Therefore when Jehu ^f executed judgment upon the house of Ahab, and found the princes of Judah and the sons of the brethren of Ahaziah that waited on Ahaziah, he slew them also.

9 And he sought Ahaziah, and they caught him where he was hid in Samaria, and brought him to Jehu, and slew him, and buried him, because, said they, he is the son of ^g Jehoshaphat, which sought the Lord with all his heart. So the house of Ahaziah was not able to retain the kingdom.

10 ¶ ^h Therefore when Athaliah the mother of Ahaziah saw that her son was dead, she arose and ⁱ destroyed all the king's seed of the house of Judah.

11 But Jehoshabeath, the daughter of the king, took Joash the son of Ahaziah, and stole him from among the king's sons that should be slain, and put him and his nurse in the bed-chamber: so Jehoshabeath the daughter of king Jehoram the wife of Jehoiada the priest (for she was the sister of Ahaziah) hid him from Athaliah: so she slew him not.

12 And he was with them hid in the ^b house of God six years, while Athaliah reigned over the ^c land.

CHAP. XXIII.

1 Joash the son of Ahaziah is made king. 15 Athaliah is put to death. 17 The temple of Baal is destroyed. 19 Jehoiada appointeth ministers in the temple.

AND * ^d in the seventh year Jehoiada ^e waxed bold, and took the captains of hundreds, to wit, Azariah the son of Jeroham, and Ishmael the son of Jehohanan, and Azariah the son of Obed, and Maaseiah the son of Adaiah, and Elishaphat the son of Zichri, in covenant with him.

2 And they went about in Judah, and gathered the Levites out of all the cities of Judah, and the chief fathers ^f of Israel: and they came to Jerusalem.

3 And all the congregation made a covenant with the king in the house of God: and he said unto them, Behold, the king's son must reign, ^g as the Lord hath said of the sons of David.

4 This is it that ye shall do, The third part of you that come on the sabbath, of the priests and the Levites, shall be porters of the doors.

5 And another third part toward the king's house, and another third part at the ^h gate of the ⁱ foundation, and all the people shall be in the courts of the house of the Lord.

6 But let none come into the house of the Lord, save the priests and the Levites that minister: they shall go in, for they are holy: but all the people shall keep the watch of the Lord.

7 And the Levites shall compass the king round about, and every man with his weapon in his hand, and he that entereth ^j into the house shall be slain, and be you with the king, when he cometh in, and when he goeth out.

8 ¶ So the Levites and all Judah did according to all things that Jehoiada the priest had commanded, and took every man his men that came on the sabbath, with them that ^k went out on the sabbath: for Jehoiada the priest did not discharge the courses.

JOASH * was seven years old when he began^{• 2 Kings 12. 1.} to reign, and he reigned forty years in Jerusalem: and his mother's name was Zibiah of Beer-sheba.

2 And Joash did uprightly in the sight of the Lord all the days of^s Jehoiada the priest.

3 And Jehoiada † took him two wives, and he begat sons and daughters. † Or, gave him two wives.

4 ¶ And afterward it came into Joash's mind to renew the house of the Lord.

5 And he assembled the priests and the Levites, and said to them, Go out unto the cities of Judah, and gather of all^t Israel money to repair the house of your God, from year to year, and haste the thing: but the Levites hastened not.

6 Therefore the king called Jehoiada the^u chief, and said unto him, Why hast thou not required of the Levites to bring in out of Judah and Jerusalem * the tax of Moses the^{• Exod. 30. 13.} servant of the Lord, and of the congregation of Israel, for the tabernacle of the testimony?

7 For^v wicked Athaliah, and her children brake up the house of God: and all the things that were dedicate for the house of the Lord did they bestow upon Baalim.

8 Therefore the king commanded, * and they^{• 2 Kings 12. 9.} made a chest, and set it at the gate of the house of the Lord without.

9 And they made proclamation through Judah and Jerusalem, to bring unto the Lord * the^{• Exod. 30. 13.} tax of Moses the servant of God, laid upon Israel in the wilderness.

10 And all the princes and all the people rejoiced, and brought in, and cast into the chest until they had finished.

11 And when it was time, * they brought the chest unto the king's officer by the hand of the Levites: and when they saw that there was much silver, then the king's scribe (and one appointed by the high priest) came and emptied the chest, and took it, and carried it to his place again: thus they did day by day, and gathered silver in abundance.

12 And the king and^y Jehoiada gave it to such as did the labour and work in the house of the Lord, and hired masons and carpenters to repair the house of the Lord: they gave it also to workers of iron and brass, to repair the house of the Lord.

13 So the workmen wrought, and the work amended through their hands: and they restored the house of God to his state, and strengthened it.

14 And when they had finished it, they brought the rest of the silver before the king and Jehoiada, and he made thereof vessels for the house of the Lord, even vessels to minister, both mortars and incense cups, and vessels of gold and of silver: and they offered burnt-offerings in the house of the Lord continually all the days of Jehoiada.

15 ¶ But Jehoiada waxed old, and was full of days, and died. An hundred and thirty years old was he when he died.

16 And they buried him in the city of David with the kings, because he had done good in Israel, and toward God and his house.

17 ¶ And after the death of Jehoiada, came the princes of Judah, and did reverence to the king, and the king hearkened unto them.

18 And they left the house of the Lord God of their fathers, and served groves and idols: and wrath came upon Judah and Jerusalem, because of this their trespass.

19 And God sent prophets among them, to bring them again unto the Lord: and they made protestation among them, but they would not hear.

20 And the Spirit of God came upon Zechariah the son of Jehoiada the priest, which stood above the people, and said unto them, Thus saith God, Why transgress ye the commandments of the Lord? surely ye shall not prosper: because ye have forsaken the Lord, he also hath forsaken you.

21 Then they conspired against him, and stoned him with stones at the commandment of the king, in the court of the house of the Lord.

22 Thus Joash the king remembered not the kindness which Jehoiada his father had done to him, but slew his son. And when he died, he said, The Lord look upon it, and require it.

23 ¶ And when the year was out, the host of Aram came up against him, and they came against Judah and Jerusalem, and destroyed all the princes of the people from among the people, and sent all the spoil of them unto the king of Damascus.

24 Though the army of Aram came with a small company of men, yet the Lord delivered a very great army into their hand, because they had forsaken the Lord God of their fathers: and they gave sentence against Joash.

25 And when they were departed from him (for they left him in great diseases) his own servants conspired against him for the blood of the children of Jehoiada the priest, and slew him on his bed, and he died, and they buried him in the city of David: but they buried him not in the sepulchres of the kings.

26 And these are they that conspired against him, Zabad the son of Shimrath an Ammonitess, and Jehozabad the son of Shimrith a Moabitess.

27 But his sons, and the sum of the tax gathered by him, and the foundation of the house of God, behold, they are written in the story of the book of the Kings. And Amaziah his son reigned in his stead.

CHAPTER XXV.

3 Amaziah putteth them to death which slew his father. 10 He sendeth back them of Israel. 11 He overcometh the Edomites. 14 He falleth to idolatry. 17 And Joash king of Israel overcometh Amaziah. 27 He is slain by a conspiracy.

Amaziah was five and twenty years old when he began to reign, and he reigned nine and twenty years in Jerusalem: and his mother's name was Jehoaddan, of Jerusalem.

2 And he did uprightly in the eyes of the Lord, but not with a perfect heart.

3 And when the kingdom was established unto him, he slew his servants that had slain the king his father.

4 But he slew not their children, but did as it is written in the law, and in the book of Moses, where the Lord commanded, saying, The fathers shall not die for the children, neither shall the children die for the fathers, but every man shall die for his own sin.

5 ¶ And Amaziah assembled Judah, and made them captains over thousands, and captains over hundreds, according to the houses of their fathers, throughout all Judah and Benjamin: and he numbered them from twenty years old and above, and found among them three hundred thousand chosen men, to go forth to the war, and to handle spear and shield.

6 He hired also an hundred thousand valiant men out of Israel for an hundred talents of silver.

7 But a man of God came to him, saying, O king, let not the army of Israel go with thee: for the Lord is not with Israel, neither with all the house of Ephraim.

Deut. 24. 16. 2 King 24. 6. Jer. 31. 30. Ezek. 18. 20.

839. Chr. strong to the battle, but God shall make thee fall before the enemy: for God hath power to help, and to cast down.

9 And Amaziah said to the man of God, What shall we do then for the hundred talents, which I have given to the host of Israel? Then the man of God answered, The Lord is able to give thee more than this.

10 So Amaziah separated them, to wit, the army that was come to him out of Ephraim, to return to their place: wherefore their wrath was kindled greatly against Judah, and they returned to their places with great anger.

11 Then Amaziah was encouraged, and led forth his people, and went to the salt valley, and smote of the children of Seir, ten thousand.

12 And other ten thousand did the children of Judah take alive, and carried them to the top of a rock, and cast them down from the top of the rock, and they all burst to pieces.

13 But the men of the army, which Amaziah sent away, that they should not go with his people to battle, fell upon the cities of Judah from Samaria unto Beth-horon, and smote three thousand of them, and took much spoil.

14 Now after that Amaziah was come from the slaughter of the Edomites, he brought the gods of the children of Seir, and set them up to be his gods, and worshipped, and burned incense unto them.

15 Wherefore the Lord was wroth with Amaziah, and sent unto him a prophet, which said unto him, Why hast thou sought the gods of the people, which were not able to deliver their own people out of thine hand?

16 And as he talked with him, he said unto him, Have they made thee the king's counsellor? cease thou: why should they smite thee? And the prophet ceased: but said, I know that God hath determined to destroy thee, because thou hast done this, and hast not obeyed my counsel.

17 ¶ Then Amaziah king of Judah took counsel, and sent to Joash the son of Jehoahaz, the son of Jehu king of Israel, saying, Come, let us see one another in the face.

18 But Joash king of Israel sent to Amaziah king of Judah, saying, The thistle that is in Lebanon sent to the cedar that is in Lebanon, saying, * Give thy daughter to my son to wife: and the wild beast that was in Lebanon went and trod down the thistle.

19 Thou thinkest: lo, thou hast smitten Edom, and thine heart lifteth thee up to brag: abide now at home: why dost thou provoke to thine hurt, that thou shouldest fall, and Judah with thee?

20 But Amaziah would not hear: for ^{it} was of God, that he might deliver them into his hand, because they had fought the gods of Edom. Bef. Chr. 826.

21 So Joash the king of Israel went up: and he, and Amaziah king of Judah saw one another in the face at Beth-sheMesh, which is in Judah.

22 And Judah was put to the worse before Israel, and they fled every man to his tent.

23 But Joash the king of Israel took Amaziah king of Judah, the son of Joash, the son of Jehoahaz in Beth-sheMesh, and brought him to Jerusalem, and brake down the wall of Jerusalem, from the gate of Ephraim unto the corner gate, four hundred cubits:

24 And he took all the gold and the silver, and all the vessels that were found in the house of God with Obed-Edom, and in the treasures of the king's house, and the children that were in hostage, and returned to Samaria.

25 ¶ And Amaziah the son of Joash king of Judah lived after the death of Joash son of Jehoahaz king of Israel fifteen years.

26 Concerning the rest of the acts of Amaziah, first and last, are they not written in the book of the kings of Judah and Israel?

27 Now after the time that Amaziah did turn away from the Lord, * they wrought treason against him in Jerusalem: and when he was fled to Lachish, they sent to Lachish after him, and slew him there. * 2 Kings 14. 19.

6 And when he had fought the Lord, God made him to prosper.

7 For he went forth and fought against the Philistines, and brake down the wall of Gath, and the wall of Jabneh, and the wall of Ashdod, and built cities in Ashdod, and among the Philistines.

8 And God helped him against the Philistines, and against the Arabians that dwelt in Gath-baal, and Hammeunim.

9 And the Ammonites gave gifts to Uzziah, and his name spread to the entering in of Egypt: for he did most valiantly.

10 Moreover, Uzziah built towers in Jerusalem at the corner-gate, and at the valley-gate, and at the turning, and made them strong.

11 And he built towers in the wilderness, and digged many cisterns: for he had much cattle both in the vallies and plains, ploughmen, and dressers of vines in the mountains, and in Carmel: for he loved husbandry.

12 Uzziah had also an host of fighting men that went out to war by bands, according to the count of their number under the hand of Jeleel the scribe, and Maaseiah the ruler, and under the hand of Hananiah, one of the king's captains.

13 The whole number of the chief of the families of the valiant men were two thousand and six hundred.

14 And under their hand was the army for war, three hundred and seven thousand, and five hundred that fought valiantly to help the king against the enemy.

15 And Uzziah prepared them throughout all the host, shields, and spears, and helmets, and brigandines, and bows, and staves to sling.

16 He made also very artificial engines in Jerusalem, to be upon the towers and upon the corners, to shoot arrows and great stones: and his name spread far abroad, because God did help him marvellously, till he was mighty.

17 But when he was strong, his heart was lifted up to his destruction: for he transgressed against the Lord his God, and went into the temple of the Lord to burn incense upon the altar of incense.

18 And Azariah the priest went in after him, and with him fourscore priests of the Lord, valiant men.

19 And they withstood Uzziah the king, and said unto him, It pertaineth not to thee, Uzziah, to burn incense unto the Lord, but to the priests the sons of Aaron, that are consecrated for to offer incense: go forth of the Sanctuary: for thou hast transgressed, and thou shalt have none honour of the Lord God.

20 Then Uzziah was wroth, and had incense incense in his hand to burn it: and while he was wroth with the priests, the leprosy rose up in his forehead before the priests in the house of the Lord beside the incense altar.

21 And when Azariah the chief priest with all the priests looked upon him, behold, he was leprous in his forehead, and they caused him hastily to depart thence: and he was even compelled to go out, because the Lord had smitten him.

22 And Uzziah the king was a leper unto the day of his death, and dwelt as a leper in a house apart, because he was cut off from the house of the Lord: and Jotham his son ruled over the king's house, and judged the people of the land.

23 Concerning the rest of the acts of Uzziah, first and last, did Isaiah the prophet the son of Amoz write.

24 So Uzziah slept with his fathers, and they buried him with his fathers in the field of the burial, which pertained to the kings: for they said, He is a leper. And Jotham his son reigned in his stead.

CHAPTER XXVII.

1 Jotham reigneth, and overcometh the Ammonites, 8 His reign and death. 9 Abaz his son reigneth in his stead.

JOTHAM was five and twenty years old when he began to reign, and reigned sixteen years in Jerusalem, and his mother's name was Jerushah the daughter of Zadok.

2 And he did uprightly in the sight of the Lord, according unto all that his father Uzziah did, save that he entered not into the temple of the Lord, and the people did yet corrupt their ways.

3 He built the high gate of the house of the Lord, and he built very much on the wall of the castle.

4 Moreover, he built cities in the mountains of Judah, and in the forests he built palaces and towers.

5 And he fought with the king of the children of Ammon, and prevailed against them. And the children of Ammon gave him the same year an hundred talents of silver, and ten thousand measures of wheat, and ten thousand of barley: this did the children of Ammon give him both in the second year and the third.

6 So Jotham became mighty, because he directed his way before the Lord his God.

1 Ahaz an idolater is given into the hands of the Syrians, and the king of Israel. 9 The prophet reproveth the Israelites cruelty. 18 Judah is molested with enemies. 23 Ahaz increaseth his idolatry. 26 His death and successor.

2 Kings 16. 2. AHAZ * was twenty years old when he began to reign, and reigned sixteen years in Jerusalem, and did not uprightly in the sight of the Lord, like David his † father :

2 But ^u he walked in the ways of the kings of Israel, and made even molten images for ^w Baalim.

3 Moreover, he burnt incense in the valley of Ben-hinnom, and † burnt his sons with fire, after the abominations of the heathen whom the Lord had cast out before the children of Israel.

4 He sacrificed also and burnt incense in the high places, and on hills, and under every green tree.

5 Wherefore the Lord his God delivered him into the hand of the king of the Aramites, and they smote him, and took of his † many prisoners, and brought them to Damascus: and he was also delivered into the hand of the king of Israel, which smote him with a great slaughter.

6 For ^x Pekah the son of Remaliah slew in Judah sixscore thousand in one day, all † valiant men, because they had forsaken the Lord God of their fathers.

7 And Zichri a † mighty man of Ephraim slew Maaseiah the king's son, and Azrikam the governor of the house, and Elkanah the second after the king.

8 And the children of Israel took prisoners of their brethren, ^y two hundred thousand of women, sons and daughters, and carried away much spoil of them, and brought the spoil to Samaria.

9 ¶ But there was a prophet of the Lord's, (whose name was Oded) and he went out before the host that came to Samaria, and said unto them, Behold, ^z because the Lord God of your fathers is wroth with Judah, he hath delivered them into your hand, and ye have slain them in a rage, that reacheth up to heaven.

10 And now ye purpose to keep under the children of Judah and Jerusalem, as servants and handmaids unto you: but are not you sueb, that ^a sins are with you before the Lord your God?

11 Now therefore hear me, and deliver the Bef. Chr. 741. captives again, which ye have taken prisoners of your brethren: for the fierce wrath of the Lord is toward you.

12 Wherefore certain of the chief of the children of ^b Ephraim, Azariah the son of Johanan, Berechiah the son of Meshillemoth, and Jehizkiah the son of Shallum, and Amasa the son of Hadlai, stood up against them that came from the war, 13 And said unto them, Bring not in the captives thither: for this shall be ^c a sin upon us against the Lord: ye intend to add more to our sins and to our trespass, though our trespass be great, and the fierce wrath of God is against Israel.

14 So the army left the captives and the spoil before the princes and all the congregation.

15 And the men that were ^d named by name, rose up and took the prisoners, and with the spoil clothed all that were naked among them, and arrayed them, and shod them, and gave them meat, and gave them drink, and ^e anointed them, and carried all that were feeble of them upon asses, and brought them to Jericho the city of palm-trees to their ^f brethren: so they returned to Samaria.

16 ¶ At that time did king Ahaz send unto the ^g kings of Asshur to help him.

17 (For the Edomites came moreover, and slew of Judah: and carried away captives.)

18 The Philistines also invaded the cities in the low country, and toward the south of Judah, and took Beth-shemesh, and Aijalon, and Gederoth, and Shocho with the villages thereof, and Timnah with her villages, and Gimzo with her villages, and they dwelt there.

19 For the Lord had humbled Judah, because of Ahaz king of ^h Israel: for he had brought vengeance upon Judah, and had grievously transgressed against the Lord.)

20 And Tilgath-Pilnefer king of Asshur came unto him: who troubled him, and did not strengthen him.

21 For Ahaz † took a portion ⁱ out of the house of the Lord, and out of the king's house, and of the princes, and gave unto the king of Asshur: yet it helped him not.

22 And in the time of his tribulation did he yet trespass more against the Lord (this is king Ahaz)

23 For he sacrificed unto the gods of Damascus, which ^j plagued him, and he said, Because the gods of the kings of Aram helped them, I will sacrifice unto them, and they will ^k help me: yet they were his ruin, and of all † Israel.

24 And Ahaz gathered the vessels of the house of God, and brake the vessels of the house of God, ^u He was an idolater like them.

^w As the idolaters have certain chief idols, who are as patrons: (as were these Baalim) so have they others which are inferior, and do represent the greater idols.
^x Who was king of Israel.
^y Thus by the just judgment of God, Israel destroyed Judah.
^z For they thought they had overcome them by their own valiantness, and did not consider that God had delivered them into their hands, because Judah had offended him.
^a May not God as well punish you for your sins, as he hath done these men for theirs, seeing yours are greater?
^b Which tribe was now greatest, and had most authority.

^c God will not suffer this sin which we commit against him, to be unpunished.

^k Thus the wicked measure God's favour by prosperity and adversity: for if idolaters prosper, they make their idols gods, not considering that God punisheth them oft-times whom he loveth, and giveth his enemies good success for a time, whom afterward he will destroy.

741. Car. God, and shut up the doors of the house of the Lord, and made him altars in every corner of Jerusalem.

16 And the priests went into the inner parts of the house of the Lord to † cleanse it, and brought out all the uncleanness that they found in the temple of the Lord, into the court of the house of the Lord: and the Levites took it to carry it out unto the brook Kidron.

17 They began the first † day of the † first month to sanctify it, and the eighth day of the month came they to the porch of the Lord: so they sanctified the house of the Lord in eight days, and in the sixteenth day of the first month they made an end.

19 And all the vessels which king Ahaz had cast aside when he reigned and transgressed, have we prepared and sanctified: and behold, they are before the altar of the Lord.

20 ¶ And Hezekiah the king † rose early, and gathered the princes of the city, and went up to the house of the Lord.

21 And they brought seven bullocks, and seven rams, and seven lambs, and seven he-goats for a * sin-offering for the kingdom, and for the sanctuary, and for Judah. And he commanded the priests the sons of Aaron, to offer † them on the altar of the Lord.

22 So they slew the bullocks, and the priests received the blood, and † sprinkled it upon the altar: they slew also the rams, and sprinkled the blood upon the altar: and they slew the lambs, and they sprinkled the blood upon the altar.

25 He appointed also the Levites in the house of the Lord with cymbals, with viols, and with harps, * according to the commandment of David, and Gad the king's seer, and Nathan the prophet: for the * commandment was by the hand of the Lord, and by the hand of his prophets.

And the congregation brought sacrifices and offerings of praises, and every man that was willing in heart offered burnt-offerings.

32 And the number of the burnt-offerings which the congregation brought was seventy bullocks, an hundred rams, and two hundred lambs: all these were for a burnt-offering to the Lord:

33 And for ^b sanctification six hundred bullocks, and three thousand sheep.

34 But the priests were too few, and were not able to slay all the burnt-offerings: therefore their brethren the Levites did help them till they had ended the work, and until other priests were sanctified: for the Levites were ^c more upright in heart to sanctify themselves than the priests.

35 And also the burnt-offerings were many, with the * fat of the peace-offerings and the drink-offerings for the burnt-offering: so the service of the house of the Lord was set in order.

AND Hezekiah sent to all Israel and Judah, and also wrote letters to ^e Ephraim and Manasseh, that they should come to the house of the Lord at Jerusalem, to keep the passover unto the Lord God of Israel.

2 And the king and his princes, and all the congregation had taken counsel in Jerusalem to keep the passover in the ^f second month.

3 For they could not keep it at this time, because there were not priests enough sanctified, neither was the people gathered to Jerusalem.

4 And the thing pleased the king, and all the congregation.

5 And they decreed to make proclamation throughout all Israel, from ^g Beer-sheba even to Dan, that they should come to keep the passover unto the Lord God of Israel at Jerusalem: for they had not done it of a great time, ^h as it was written.

6 ¶ So the posts went with letters by the commission of the king, and his princes, throughout all Israel and Judah, and with the commandment of the king, saying, Ye children of Israel, turn again unto the Lord God of Abraham, Isaac, and Israel, and ⁱ he will return to the remnant that are escaped of you, out of the hands of the kings of Asshur.

7 And be not ye like your fathers, and like your brethren, which trespassed against the Lord God of their fathers: and therefore he made them desolate, as ye see.

8 Be not ye now stiff-necked like your fathers, but ^k give the hand to the Lord, and come unto his sanctuary, which he hath sanctified for ever, and serve the Lord your God, and the fierceness of his wrath shall turn from you.

9 For if ye return unto the Lord, your brethren and your children shall find mercy before them that led them captives, and they shall ^l return unto this land: for the Lord your God is gracious and merciful, and will not turn away his face from you, if ye convert unto him.

10 ¶ So the posts went from city to city through the land of Ephraim and Manasseh, even unto Zebulun: but they ^m laughed them to scorn, and mocked them.

11 Nevertheless divers of Asshur, and Manasseh, and of Zebulun, submitted themselves and came to Jerusalem.

12 And the hand of God was in Judah, so

13 And there assembled to Jerusalem much people, to keep the feast of the unleavened bread in the second month, a very great assembly.

14 ¶ And they arose, and took away the altars that were in Jerusalem: and all those for incense took they away, and cast them into the brook Kidron.

15 Afterward they slew the passover the fourteenth day of the second month: and the priests and Levites were ashamed, and sanctified themselves, and brought the burnt-offerings into the house of the Lord.

16 And they stood in their place after their manner, according to the law of Moses the man of God: and the priests sprinkled the blood ^{of} the sacrifice of the hands of the Levites.

17 Because there were many in the congregation that were not sanctified, therefore the Levites had the charge of killing of the passover for all that were not clean, to sanctify it to the Lord.

18 For a multitude of the people, even a multitude of Ephraim and Manasseh, Issachar and Zebulun, had not cleansed themselves, yet did eat the passover, but not as it was written: wherefore Hezekiah prayed for them, saying, The good Lord be merciful toward him, 19 That prepareth his whole heart to seek the Lord God, the God of his fathers, though he be not cleansed according to the purification of the sanctuary.

20 And the Lord heard Hezekiah, and healed the people.

21 And the children of Israel that were present at Jerusalem, kept the feast of the unleavened bread seven days with great joy, and the Levites and the priests praised the Lord, day by day, singing with loud instruments unto the Lord.

22 And Hezekiah † spake comfortably unto all the Levites that had good knowledge to sing unto the Lord: and they did eat in that feast seven days, and offered peace-offerings, and praised the Lord God of their fathers.

23 And the whole assembly took counsel to keep it other seven days. So they kept it seven days with joy.

24 For Hezekiah king of Judah had given to the congregation a thousand bullocks, and seven thousand sheep. And the princes had given to the congregation a thousand bullocks, and ten thousand sheep: and many priests were sanctified.

25 And all the congregation of Judah rejoiced with the priests and the Levites, and all the congregation that came out of Israel, and the strangers that came out of the land of Israel, and that dwelt in Judah.

26 So there was great joy in Jerusalem: for since the time of Solomon the son of David king of Israel, there was not the like thing in Jerusalem.

27 Then the priests and the Levites arose, and blessed the people, and their voice was heard, and their prayer came up unto heaven, to his holy habitation.

CHAP. XXXI.

1 The people destroy idolatry. 2 Hezekiah appointeth priests and Levites, 4 and provideth for their living. 13 He ordaineth overseers to distribute to every one his portion.

AND when all these things were finished, all Israel that were found in the cities of Judah, went out and brake the images, and cut down the groves, and brake down the high places, and the altars throughout all Judah and Benjamin, in Ephraim also and Manasseh, until they had made an end: afterward all the children of Israel returned every man to his possession, into their own cities.

2 And Hezekiah appointed the courses of the priests and Levites by their turns, every man according to his office, both priests and Levites, for the burnt-offering and peace-offerings, to minister and to give thanks, and to praise in the gates of the tents of the Lord.

3 (And the king's portion was of his own substance for the burnt-offerings, even for the burnt-offerings of the morning, and of the evening, and the burnt-offerings for the sabbaths, and for the new moons, and for the solemn feasts, * as it is written in the law of the Lord) † Num. 11.

4 He commanded also the people that dwelt in Jerusalem, to give a part to the priests and Levites, that they might be encouraged in the law of the Lord.

5 ¶ And when the commandment was spread, the children of Israel brought abundance of first-fruits, of corn, wine, and oil, and honey, and of all the increase of the field, and the tythes of all things brought they abundantly.

6 And the children of Israel and Judah that dwelt in the cities of Judah, they also brought the tythes of bullocks and sheep, and the holy tythes ^b which were consecrated unto the Lord their God, and laid them on many heaps.

7 In the third month they began to lay the foundation of the heaps, and finished them in the seventh month.

8 ¶ And

¶ Which they had dedicated to the Lord by a vow.

¶ For the relief of the priests, Levites, widows, pupils, fatherless, strangers, and such as were in necessity.

8 ¶ And when Hezekiah and the princes came, and saw the heaps, they ^d blessed the Lord and his people Israel.

9 And Hezekiah questioned with the priests and the Levites, concerning the heaps.

10 And Azariah the chief priest of the house of Zadok answered him, and said, Since the people began to bring the offerings into the house of the Lord, we have ^e eaten and have been satisfied, and there is left in abundance: for the Lord hath blessed his people, and this abundance that is left.

11 ¶ And Hezekiah commanded to prepare chambers in the house of the Lord: and they prepared them, 12 And carried in the first-fruits, and the tythes, and the dedicate things faithfully: and over them was Cononiah the Levite, the chief, and Shimei his brother the second.

13 And Jehiel, and Azariah, and Nahath, and Afahel, and Jerimoth, and Jozabad, and Eliel, and Ismachiah, and Mahath, and Benai-ah, were overseers [†] by the appointment of Cononiah and Shimei his brother, and by the commandment of Hezekiah the king, and of Azariah the chief of the house of God.

14 And Kore the son of Immah the Levite, porter toward the East, was over the things that were willingly offered unto God, to distribute the oblations of the Lord, and the holy things that were consecrate.

15 And at his hand were Eden, and Miniamin, and Jeshua, and Shemaiah, Amariah, and Shechaniah, in the cities of the priests, to distribute with fidelity to their brethren by courses, both to the great and small,

16 Their daily portion: beside their generation, being males ^f from three years old and above, even to all that entered into the house of the Lord to their office in their charge, according to their courses:

17 Both to the generation of the priests after the house of their fathers, and to the Levites from twenty years old and above, according to their charge in their courses:

18 And to the generation of all their children, their wives, and their sons, and their daughters throughout all their congregation: for by their ^g fidelity are they partakers of the holy things.

19 Also the sons of Aaron, the priests, which were in the fields and suburbs of their cities, in every city the men which were appointed by names, should give portions to all the males of the priests, and to all the generation of the Levites.

20 And thus did Hezekiah throughout all Judah, and did well, and uprightly, and truly before the Lord his God.

21 And in all the works that he began for the service of the house of God, both in the law [†] and in the commandments, to seek his God, he did it with all his heart, and prospered.

C H A P. XXXII.

Sennacherib invadeth Judah. 3 Hezekiah prepareth for the war. 7 He exhorteth the people to put their trust in the Lord. 9 Sennacherib blasphemeth God. 20 Hezekiah prayeth. 21 The angel destroyeth the Assyrians, and the king is slain. 25 Hezekiah is not thankful toward the Lord. 33 His death.

AFTER these things faithfully described, ^{* 2 Kings 18. 13. Isa. 36. 1.} Sennacherib king of Asshur came and entered into Judah, and besieged the strong cities, and thought to [†] win them for himself. ^{† Heb. b. est. 11. 17. 4.}

2 When Hezekiah saw that Sennacherib was come, and that his [†] purpose was to fight against Jerusalem, ^{† Heb. fact.}

3 Then he took counsel with his princes and his nobles, to stop the water of the fountains without the city: and they did help him.

4 So many of the people assembled themselves, and stopt all the fountains, and the river that ran through the midst of the country, saying, Why should the kings of Asshur come, and find much water?

5 And [†] he took courage, and built all the broken wall, and made up the towers, and another wall without, and repaired ^h Millo in the city of David, and made many ^k darts and shields. ^{† Heb. b. was first strengthened.}

6 And he set captains of war over the people, and assembled them to him in the broad place of the gate of the city, and [†] spake comfortably unto them, saying, ^{† Heb. he spake to their hearts.}

7 Be strong and courageous: fear not, neither be afraid for the king of Asshur, neither for all the multitude that is with him: ^{* for 2 Kings 6. 16.} there be more with us, than is with him.

8 With him is an ^l arm of flesh, but with us is the ^m Lord our God for to help us, and to fight our battles. Then the people were confirmed by the words of Hezekiah king of Judah.

9 ^{* After this, did Sennacherib king of Asshur send his servants to Jerusalem (while he was ⁿ against Lachish, and all his dominion with him) unto Hezekiah king of Judah, and unto all Judah that were at Jerusalem, saying,} ^{* 2 Kings 18. 17.}

10 Thus saith Sennacherib the king of Asshur, Wherein do ye trust, that ye will remain in Jerusalem, during the siege?

11 Doth not Hezekiah entice you to give over yourselves unto death, by famine and by thirst, saying, The Lord our God shall deliver us out of the hand of the king of Asshur?

12 Hath not the same Hezekiah taken away his high places and his ^o altars, and commanded Judah

^d They praised the Lord, and prayed for all prosperity to his people.

^m This declareth that Hezekiah did ever put his trust in God, and yet made himself strong and used lawful means, lest he should seem to tempt God.

ⁿ While he besieged Lachish.

^o Thus the wicked put no difference between true religion and false, God and idols: for Hezekiah only destroyed idolatry, and placed true religion. Thus the Papists slander the servants of God: for when they destroy idolatry, they say that they abolish religion.

10. Judah and Jerusalem, saying, Ye shall worship before one altar, and burn incense upon it?

11. Know ye not what I and my fathers have done unto all the people of other countries? were the gods of the nations of other lands able to deliver their land out of mine hand?

12. Who is he of all the gods of those nations, that my fathers have destroyed, that could deliver his people out of my hand? that your God should be able to deliver you out of mine hand?

13. Now therefore let not Hezekiah deceive you, nor seduce you after this sort, neither believe ye him: for none of all the gods of any nation or kingdom was able to deliver his people out of mine hand, and out of the hand of my fathers: how much less shall your gods deliver you out of mine hand?

14. And his servants spake yet more against the Lord God, and against his servant Hezekiah.

15. He wrote also letters, blaspheming the Lord God of Israel, and speaking against him, saying, As the gods of the nations of other countries could not deliver their people out of mine hand, so shall not the God of Hezekiah deliver his people out of mine hand.

16. Then they cried with a loud voice in the Jews speech unto the people of Jerusalem that were on the wall, to fear them and to astonish them, that they might take the city.

17. Thus they spake against the God of Jerusalem, as against the gods of the people of the earth, over the works of man's hands.

18. But Hezekiah the king, and the prophet Isaiah the son of Amoz, prayed against this, and cried to heaven.

19. And the Lord sent an angel which destroyed all the valiant men, and the princes and captains of the host of the king of Asshur: so he returned with shame to his own land. And when he was come into the house of his god, they that came forth of his own bowels, slew him there with the sword.

20. So the Lord saved Hezekiah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem from the hand of Sennacherib king of Asshur, and from the hand of all other, and maintained them on every side.

21. And many brought offerings unto the Lord to Jerusalem, and presents to Hezekiah king of Judah, so that he was magnified in the sight of all nations from thenceforth.

22. In those days Hezekiah was sick unto the death, and prayed unto the Lord, who spake unto him, and gave him a sign.

23. But Hezekiah did not render according to the reward bestowed upon him: for his heart was lifted up, and wrath came upon him, and upon Judah and Jerusalem.

24. Notwithstanding Hezekiah humbled himself (after that his heart was lifted up) he and the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and the wrath of the Lord came not upon them in the days of Hezekiah.

25. Hezekiah also had exceeding much riches and honour, and he gat him treasures of silver, and of gold, and of precious stones, and of sweet odours, and of shields, and of all pleasant vessels:

26. And of store-houses for the increase of wheat, and wine and oil, and stalls for all beasts, and rows for the stables.

27. And he made him cities, and had possession of sheep and oxen in abundance: for God had given him substance exceeding much.

28. This same Hezekiah also stopped the upper water springs of Gihon, and led them straight underneath toward the city of David westward: so Hezekiah prospered in all his works.

29. But because of the ambassadors of the princes of Babel which sent unto him to inquire of the wonder that was done in the land, God left him to try him: and to know all that was in his heart.

30. Concerning the rest of the acts of Hezekiah, and his goodness, behold, they are written in the vision of Isaiah the prophet, the son of Amoz, in the book of the kings of Judah and Israel.

31. So Hezekiah slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the highest sepulchre of the sons of David: and all Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem did him honour at his death: and Manasseh his son reigned in his stead.

CHAP XXXIII.

2. Manasseh an idolater. 9 He causeth Judah to err. 11 He is led away prisoner into Babylon. 12 He prayeth to the Lord, and is delivered. 14 He abhorreth idolatry, 16 and setteth up true religion. 20 He dieth, and Amon his son succeedeth, 24 whom his own servants slay.

MANASSEH was twelve years old when he began to reign, and he reigned five and fifty years in Jerusalem:

2. And he did evil in the sight of the Lord, like the abominations of the heathen, whom the Lord had cast out before the children of Israel.

3. For he went back and built the high places which Hezekiah his father had broken down: and he set up altars for Baalim, and made groves

10. This is his blasphemy, that he will compare the living God to vile idols.

11. When man hath prosperity, he swelleth in pride, and thinketh himself able to resist and overcome even God himself.

12. Herein we see that when the wicked speak evil of the servants of God, they care not to blaspheme God himself: for if they feared God, they would love his servants.

Their words are written, 2 Kings 18. 19.

4 Also he built altars in the house of the Lord, whereof the Lord had said, * In Jerusalem shall my name be for ever.

5 And he built altars for all the host of the heaven in the two courts of the house of the Lord.

6 And he caused his sons to pass through the fire in the valley of Ben-hinnom: he gave himself to witchcraft, and to charming, and to sorcery, and he used them that had familiar spirits, and soothsayers: he did very much evil in the sight of the Lord to anger him.

7 He put also the carved image which he had made, in the house of God: whereof God had said to David and to Solomon his son, * In this house and in Jerusalem which I have chosen before all the tribes of Israel, will I put my name for ever.

8 Neither will * I make the foot of Israel to remove any more out of the land which I have appointed for your fathers, so that they take heed and do all that I have commanded them, according to the law, and statutes, and judgments, by the hand of Moses.

9 So Manasseh made Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem to err, and to do worse than the heathen whom the Lord had destroyed before the children of Israel.

10 ¶ And the Lord spake to Manasseh and to his people, but they would not regard.

11 Wherefore the Lord brought upon them the captains of the host of the king of Asshur, which took Manasseh and put him in fetters, and bound him in chains, and carried him to Babel.

12 And when he was in tribulation, he prayed to the Lord his God, and humbled himself greatly before the God of his fathers, 13 And prayed unto him: and God was entreated of him, and heard his prayer, and brought him again to Jerusalem into his kingdom: then Manasseh knew that the Lord was God.

14 Now after this he built a wall without the city of David, on the west side of Gihon in the valley, even at the entry of the fish-gate, and compassed about Ophel, and raised it very high, and put captains of war in all the strong cities of Judah.

15 And he took away the strange gods, and the image out of the house of the Lord, and all the altars that he had built in the mount of the house of the Lord, and in Jerusalem, and cast them out of the city.

16 Also he prepared the altar of the Lord, and sacrificed thereon peace-offerings, and of thanks, and commanded Judah to serve the Lord God of Israel.

17 Nevertheless the people did sacrifice still in the high places, but unto the Lord their God.

18 ¶ Concerning the rest of the acts of Manasseh, and his prayer unto his God, and the words of the seers, that spake to him in the name of the Lord God of Israel, behold, they are written in the book of the kings of Israel.

19 And his prayer, and how God was intreated of him: and all his sin, and his trespass, and the places where he built high places, and set groves and images (before he was humbled) behold, they are written in the book of the seers.

20 So Manasseh slept with his fathers, and they buried him in his own house: and Amon his son reigned in his stead.

21 ¶ Amon was two and twenty years old when he began to reign, and reigned two years in Jerusalem.

22 But he did evil in the sight of the Lord, as did Manasseh his father: for Amon sacrificed to all the images which Manasseh his father had made, and served them, 23 And he humbled not himself before the Lord, as Manasseh his father had humbled himself: but this Amon trespassed more and more.

24 And his servants conspired against him, and slew him in his own house.

25 But the people of the land slew all them that had conspired against king Amon: and the people of the land made Josiah his son king in his stead.

5 Also he burnt the bones of the priests upon their altars, and purged Judah and Jerusalem.

6 And in the cities of Manasseh, and Ephraim, and Simeon, even unto Naphtali, with their maules they brake all round about.

7 And when he had destroyed the altars and the groves, and had broken and stamped to powder the images, and had cut down all the idols throughout all the land of Israel, he returned to Jerusalem.

8 ¶ Then in the eighteenth year of his reign, when he had purged the land and the temple, he sent Shaphan the son of Azaliah, and Maaiach the governor of the city, and Joah the son of Joahaz the recorder, to repair the house of the Lord his God.

9 And when they came to Hilkiyah the high priest, they delivered the money that was brought into the house of God, which the Levites that kept the door had gathered at the hand of Manasseh and Ephraim, and of all the residue of Israel, and of all Judah and Benjamin, and of the inhabitants of Jerusalem.

2 Or, they returned to Jerusalem, meaning Shaphan, &c.

10 And they put it in the hands of them that should do the work and had the oversight in the house of the Lord, and they gave it to the workmen that wrought in the house of the Lord, to repair and amend the house.

11 Even to the workmen and to the builders gave they it, to buy hewed stone and timber for couples and for beams of the houses, which the kings of Judah had destroyed.

12 And the men did the work faithfully, and the overseers of them were Jahath and Obadiah the Levites, of the children of Merari, and Zechariah, and Meshullam, of the children of the Kohathites, to set it forward: and of the Levites all that could skill of instruments of music.

13 And they were over the bearers of burdens, and them that set forward all the workmen in every work: and of the Levites were scribes, and officers, and porters.

14 ¶ And when they brought out the money that was brought into the house of the Lord, Hilkiyah the priest found the book of the law of the Lord given by the hand of Moses.

15 Therefore Hilkiyah answered and said to Shaphan the chancellor, I have found the book of the law in the house of the Lord: and Hilkiyah gave the book to Shaphan.

16 And Shaphan carried the book to the king, and brought the king word again, saying, All that is committed to the hand of thy servants, that do they.

17 For they have gathered the money that was found in the house of the Lord, and have delivered it into the hands of the overseers, and to the hands of the workmen.

Bef. Chr. 630.

18 Also Shaphan the chancellor declared to the king, saying, Hilkiyah the priest hath given me a book, and Shaphan read it before the king.

19 And when the king had heard the words of the law, he tare his cloaths,

20 And the king commanded Hilkiyah, and Ahikam the son of Shaphan, and Abdon the son of Micah, and Shaphan the chancellor, and Afaiah the king's servant, saying,

21 Go and inquire of the Lord for me, and for the rest in Israel and Judah, concerning the words of this book that is found: for great is the wrath of the Lord that is fallen upon us, because our fathers have not kept the word of the Lord, to do after all that is written in this book.

22 Then Hilkiyah and they that the king had appointed, went to Huldah the prophetess the wife of Shallum, the son of Tokhath, the son of Hasrah keeper of the wardrobe (and she dwelt in Jerusalem within the college) and they communed hereof with her.

2 Or, Tokhath, Hasrah.

23 And she answered them, Thus saith the Lord God of Israel, Tell ye the man that sent you to me,

24 Thus saith the Lord, Behold, I will bring evil upon this place, and upon the inhabitants thereof, even all the curses that are written in the book which they have read before the king of Judah:

25 Because they have forsaken me, and burnt incense unto other gods, to anger me with all the works of their hands, therefore shall my wrath fall upon this place, and shall not be quenched.

26 But to the king of Judah, who sent you to inquire of the Lord, so shall ye say unto him, Thus saith the Lord God of Israel, The words which thou hast heard shall come to pass.

27 But because thine heart did melt, and thou didst humble thyself before God, when thou heardest his words against this place, and against the inhabitants thereof, and humbledst thyself before me, and tarest thy cloaths, and wepest before me, I have also heard it, saith the Lord.

28 Behold, I will gather thee to thy fathers, and thou shalt be put in thy grave in peace, and thine eyes shall not see all the evil which I will bring upon this place, and upon the inhabitants of the same. Thus they brought the king word again.

29 ¶ Then the king sent and gathered all the elders of Judah and Jerusalem.

30 And

1 Read 2 Kings 23. 16.

2 This great zeal of this godly king the Holy Ghost setteth forth as an example and pattern to other kings and rulers, to teach them what God requireth of them.

3 For there were many portions and pieces annexed to the temple.

4 Meaning, that they were in such credit for their fidelity, that they made none accounts of that which they received, 2 Kings 22. 7. 9.

5 Read 2 Kings 22. 8.

6 For the king was commanded to have continually a copy of this book, and to read therein day and night, Deut. 17. 18.

7 For sorrow, that the word of God had been so long suppressed, and the people kept in ignorance, considering also the curses contained therein against the transgressors.

8 Thus the godly do not only lament their own sins, but also that their fathers and predecessors have offended God.

9 Meaning, either of the priests apparel, or of the king's.

10 Read hereof, 2 Kings 22. 15.

11 That is, to the king.

12 This she speaketh in contempt of the idolaters, who contrary to reason and nature make that a god, which they have made and framed with their own hands.

13 This declareth what is the end of God's threatenings, to call his to repentance, and to assure the unrepentant of their destruction.

14 It may appear that very few were touched with true repentance, seeing that God spared them for a time only for the king's sake.

30 And the king went up into the house of the Lord, and all the men of Judah, and the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and the priests and the Levites, and all the people from the greatest to the smallest, and he read in their ears all the words of the book of the covenant that was found in the house of the Lord.

31 And the king stood by his pillar, and made a covenant before the Lord, to walk after the Lord, and to keep his commandments, and his testimonies, and his statutes, with all his heart, and with all his soul, and that he would accomplish the words of the covenant written in the same book.

32 And he caused all that were found in Jerusalem, and Benjamin to stand to it: and the inhabitants of Jerusalem did according to the covenant of God, even the God of their fathers.

33 So Josiah took away all the abominations out of all the countries that pertained to the children of Israel, and compelled all that were found in Israel to serve the Lord their God: so all his days they turned not back from the Lord God of their fathers.

C H A P. XXXV.

1 Josiah keepeth the passover. 2 He setteth forth God's service. 20 He fighteth against the king of Egypt, and dieth. 24 The people bewail him.

Moreover * Josiah kept a passover unto the Lord in Jerusalem, and they slew the passover in the fourteenth day of the first month.

2 And he appointed the priests to their charges, and encouraged them to the service of the house of the Lord,

3 And he said unto the Levites that ^k taught all Israel, and were sanctified unto the Lord, Put the holy ark in the house which Solomon the son of David king of Israel did build: it shall be no more a ^l burden upon your shoulders: serve now the Lord your God, and his people Israel,

4 And prepare yourselves by the houses of your fathers according to your courses, as * David the king of Israel hath written, and according to the writing of Solomon his son,

5 And stand in the sanctuary according to the division of the families of your brethren † the children of the people, and after the division of the family of the Levites:

6 So kill the passover and sanctify yourselves, and ^m prepare your brethren that they may do according to the word of the Lord by the hand of Moses.

7 Josiah also gave to the † people sheep, lamb and kids, all for the passover, even to all that were present, to the number of thirty thousand, and three thousand bullocks: these were of the king's substance.

8 And his princes offered willingly unto the people, to the priests and to the Levites: Hilkiah, and Zechariah, and Jehiel, rulers of the house of God, gave unto the priests for the passover, even two thousand and six hundred sheep, and three hundred bullocks.

9 Conaniah also and Shemaiah and Nethaneel his brethren, and Hashabiah and Jeiel, and Jozabad, chief of the Levites, gave unto the Levites for the passover, five thousand sheep, and five hundred bullocks.

10 Thus the service was prepared, and the priests stood in their places, also the Levites in their orders, according to the king's commandment:

11 And they slew the passover, and the priests ^o sprinkled the blood with their hands, and the Levites slayed them.

12 And they took away from the ^p burnt-offering to give it according to the divisions of the families of the children of the people, to offer unto the Lord, as it is written in the book of Moses, and so of the bullocks.

13 And * they roasted the passover with fire according to the custom, but the sanctified things they sod in pots, pans, and caldrons, and distributed them quickly to all the people. * Exod. 12. 8.

14 Afterward also they prepared for themselves and for the priests: for the priests the sons of Aaron were occupied in offering of burnt-offerings, and the fat until night: therefore the Levites prepared for themselves, and for the priests the sons of Aaron.

15 And the singers the sons of Asaph stood in their standing, * according to the commandment of David, and Asaph, and Heman, and Jeduthun the king's ^q seer: and the porters at every gate, who might not depart from their service: therefore their brethren the Levites prepared for them. * 1 Chron. 25. 2.

16 So all the service of the Lord was prepared the same day, to keep the passover, and to offer burnt-offerings upon the altar of the Lord, according to the commandment of king Josiah.

17 And the children of Israel that were present kept the passover the same time, and the feast of the unleavened bread seven days.

18 And there was no passover kept like that in Israel, from the days of Samuel the prophet: neither did all the kings of Israel keep such a passover as Josiah kept, and the priests and the Levites, and all Judah, and Israel that were † present, and the inhabitants of Jerusalem. † Heb. found.

19 This

^g Forasmuch as neither young nor old could be exempted from the curses contained therein, if they did transgress, he knew it pertained to all, and was his duty to see it read to all sorts, that every one might learn to avoid those punishments by serving God aright.

^h Because he had charge over all, and must answer for every one that perished, he thought it his duty to see that all should make profession to receive the word of God.

ⁱ The scripture useth in sundry places to call the lamb, the passover, which was but the sign of the passover, because in all sacraments the signs of the things have the names which are signified.

^k So that the Levites charge was not only to minister in the temple, but also to instruct the people in the word of God.

^l As it was before the temple was built: therefore your office only is now to teach the people, and to praise God.

^m Exhort every one to examine themselves, that they be not unmeet to eat of the passover.

ⁿ So that every one, and of all sorts, gave of that they had, a liberal portion to the service of God.

^o Meaning of the lamb, which was called the passover: for only the priests might sprinkle, and in necessity the Levites might kill the sacrifice.

^p They reserved for the people that which was not expedient to be offered, that every man might offer peace-offerings, and so have his portion.

^q Meaning hereby his prophet, because he appointed the psalms and prophecies which were to be sung.

* 2 Kings 23. 21.

† Or, the people.

† Heb. sons of the people.

19 This passover was kept in the eighteenth year of the reign of Josiah.

20 ¶ After all this, when Josiah had prepared the temple, Necho king of Egypt came up to fight against Carchemish by Perath, and Josiah went out against him.

21 But he sent messengers to him, saying, What have I to do with thee, thou king of Judah? I come not against thee this day, but against the house of mine enemy, and God commanded me to make haste: leave off to come against God, which is with me, lest he destroy thee.

22 But Josiah would not turn his face from him, but changed his apparel to fight with him, and hearkened not unto the words of Necho, which were of the mouth of God, but came to fight in the valley of Megiddo.

23 And the shooters shot at king Josiah: then the king said to his servants, Carry me away, for I am very sick.

24 So his servants took him out of that chariot, and put him in the second chariot which he had, and when they had brought him to Jerusalem, he died, and was buried in the sepulchres of his fathers: and all Judah and Jerusalem mourned for Josiah.

25 And Jeremiah lamented Josiah, and all singing men and singing women mourned for Josiah in their lamentations to this day, and made the same for an ordinance unto Israel: and behold, they be written in the Lamentations.

26 Concerning the rest of the acts of Josiah, and his goodness, doing as it was written in the law of the Lord, 27 And his deeds, first and last, behold, they are written in the book of the kings of Israel and Judah.

CHAPTER XXXVI.

1 After Josiah, reigneth Jehoaabaz. 4 After Jehoaabaz, Jehoiakim. 8 After him Jehoiachin. 11 After him Zedekiah, 14, 17 In whose time all the people were carried away to Babel for contemning the admonitions of the prophets, 22 And were restored again the seventieth year after by king Cyrus.

1 THEN * the people of the land took Jehoahaz the son of Josiah, and made him king in his father's stead in Jerusalem.

2 Jehoahaz was three and twenty years old when he began to reign, and he reigned three months in Jerusalem.

3 And the king of Egypt took him away at Jerusalem, and condemned the land in an hundred talents of silver, and a talent of gold.

* Which was in the six and twentieth year of his age.
 † Which was a city of the Assyrians, and Josiah fearing lest the passing through Judah would have taken his kingdom, made war against him, and consulted not with the Lord.
 ‡ That is, armed himself, or disguised himself, because he might not be known.
 § The people so much lamented the loss of this good king, that after when there was any great lamentation, this was spoken of as a proverb, read Zech. 12. 11.
 ¶ Which some think Jeremiah made, wherein he lamenteth the state of the church after this king's death.
 * For three months after the death of Josiah came Necho to Jerusalem, and so the plagues began, which Huldah and the prophets forewarned should come upon Jerusalem.
 † To pay this as a yearly tribute.

4 ¶ And the king of Egypt made Eliakim, his brother king over Judah and Jerusalem, and turned his name to Jehoiakim: and Necho took Jehoahaz his brother, and carried him to Egypt.

5 Jehoiakim was five and twenty years old when he began to reign, and he reigned eleven years in Jerusalem, and did evil in the sight of the Lord his God.

6 Against him came up Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel, and bound him with chains to carry him to Babel.

7 Nebuchadnezzar also * carried of the vessels of the house of the Lord to Babel, and put them in his temple at Babel.

8 Concerning the rest of the acts of Jehoiakim, and his abominations which he did, and that which was found upon him, behold, they are written in the book of the kings of Israel and Judah, and Jehoiachin his son reigned in his stead.

9 ¶ Jehoiachin was ^b eight years old when he began to reign, and he reigned three months and ten days in Jerusalem, and did evil in the sight of the Lord.

10 And when the year was out, king Nebuchadnezzar sent and brought him to Babel with the precious vessels of the house of the Lord: and he made Zedekiah his † brother king over Judah and Jerusalem.

11 Zedekiah was one and twenty years old when he began to reign, and reigned eleven years in Jerusalem.

12 * And he did evil in the sight of the Lord his God, and humbled not himself before Jeremiah the prophet at the commandment of the Lord.

13 But he rebelled moreover against Nebuchadnezzar, which had caused him to swear by God: and he hardened his neck, and made his heart obstinate, that he might not return to the Lord God of Israel.

14 All the chief of the priests also, and of the people trespassed wonderfully, according to all the abominations of the heathen, and polluted the house of the Lord which he had sanctified in Jerusalem.

15 Therefore the Lord God of their fathers sent to them † by his messengers, ^c rising early, and sending: for he had compassion on his people, and on his habitation.

16 But they mocked the messengers of God, and despised his words, and misused his prophets, until the wrath of the Lord arose against his people, and till there was no ^d remedy.

17 For he brought upon them the king of the Chaldeans, who slew their young men with the sword ^e in the house of their sanctuary, and spared

* Because he and the people turned not to God by his first plague, he brought a new upon him, and at length rooted them out.
 † He meaneth, superstitious marks, which were found upon his body, when he was dead: which thing declared how deeply idolatry was rooted in his heart, seeing he bare the marks in his flesh.
 ‡ That is, he began his reign at eight years old, and reigned ten years when his father was alive, and after his father's death, which was the eighteenth year of his age, he reigned alone three months and ten days.
 § By this phrase the scripture meaneth, oftentimes and diligently, as Jer. 11. 7. and 25. 3. and 26. 5. and 32. 32.
 ¶ Till God could no longer suffer their sins, but must needs punish them.
 * Whither they fled, thinking to have been saved, for the holiness thereof.

18 And all the vessels of the house of God great and small, and the treasures of the house of the Lord, and the treasures of the king, and of his princes: all these carried he to Babel.

19 And they burnt the house of God, and broke down the wall of Jerusalem, and burnt all the palaces thereof with fire, and all the precious vessels thereof, to destroy all.

20 And they that were left by the sword carried he away to Babel, and they were servants to him and to his sons, until the kingdom of the^s Persians had rule,

21 To fulfil the word of the Lord by the ^h mouth of Jeremiah, until the land had her fill ^{Def. Chr.} of her sabbaths: for all the days that she lay ^{588.} desolate, she kept sabbath, to fulfil seventy years.

22 ¶ ^{} But in the ⁱ first year of Cyrus king ^{ Jer. 25.} of Persia (when the word of the Lord, ^{13.} spoken by ^{and 29. 10.} the mouth of Jeremiah, was finished) the Lord stirred up the spirit of Cyrus king of Persia, and he made a proclamation through all his kingdom, and also by writing, saying,

23 Thus saith Cyrus king of Persia, All the kingdoms of the earth hath the Lord God of heaven given me, and he hath ^k commanded me to build him an house in Jerusalem, that is in Judah. Who is among you of all his people, with whom the Lord his God is? let him go up.

¶ The Prayer of Manasseh king of the Jews.

O LORD Almighty, God of our fathers, Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, and of their righteous seed, which hast made heaven and earth, with all their ornament, which hast bound the sea by the word of thy commandment, which hast shut up the deep, and sealed it by thy terrible and glorious name, whom all do fear, and tremble before thy power: for the majesty of thy glory cannot be borne, and thy angry threatening towards sinners is insupportable, but thy merciful promise is unmeasurable and unsearchable. For thou art the most high Lord, of great compassion, long suffering, and most merciful, and repentest for man's miseries. Thou, O Lord, according to thy great goodness, hast promised ^l repentance and forgiveness to them that sin against thee, and for thine infinite mercies hast appointed repentance unto sinners that they may be saved. Thou, therefore, O Lord, that art the God of the just, hast not appointed repentance to the just, as to Abraham, and Isaac, and Jacob, which have not ^m sinned against thee, but thou hast appointed repentance unto me that am a sinner: for I have sinned above the number of the sand of the sea. My transgressions, O Lord, are multiplied: my transgressions are exceeding many: and I am not worthy to behold and see the height of the heavens for the multitude of mine unrighteousness. I am bowed down with many iron bands that I cannot lift up mine head, neither have any release. For I have provoked thy wrath and done evil before thee. I did not thy will, neither kept I thy commandments. I have set up abominations, and have multiplied offences. Now, therefore, I bow the knee of mine heart, beseeching thee of grace. I have sinned, O Lord, I have sinned, and I acknowledge my transgressions: but I humbly beseech thee, forgive me: O Lord, forgive me, and destroy me not with my transgressions. Be not angry with me for ever by reserving evil for me, neither condemn me into the lower parts of the earth. For thou art the God, even the God of them that repent: and in me thou wilt shew all thy goodness: for thou wilt save me that am unworthy, according to thy great mercy: therefore I will praise thee for ever all the days of my life: for all the power of the heavens praise thee, and thine is the glory for ever and ever. Amen.

This prayer is not in the Hebrew, but translated out of the Greek.

^f Which is not because God approveth him, which yet is the minister of his justice, but because God would by his just judgment punish this people: for this king was led with ambition and vain glory, whereunto were joined fury and cruelty: therefore his work was condemnable, notwithstanding it was just and holy on God's part, who used this wicked instrument to declare his justice.

^k God had so forewarned by his prophet above an hundred years before Cyrus was born, Isa. 44. 28 that Jerusalem and the temple should be built again by Cyrus his anointed: so called, because God used his service for a time to deliver his church.

^l Thou hast promised that repentance shall be the way for them to return to thee.

^m He speaketh this in comparison of himself and those holy fathers, which have their commendation in the scriptures, so that in respect of himself, he calleth their sins nothing, but attributeth unto them righteousness.

E Z R A.

THE ARGUMENT.

AS the Lord is ever merciful unto his church, and doth not punish them, but to the intent they should see their own miseries, and be exercised under the cross, that they may contemn the world and aspire unto the heavens: so after that he had visited the Jews and kept them now in bondage seventy years in a strange country among infidels and idolaters, he remembered his tender mercies and their infirmities, and therefore for his own sake raised them up a deliverer, and moved both the heart of the chief ruler to pity them, and also by him punished such which had kept them in servitude. Notwithstanding, lest they should grow into a contempt of God's great benefit, he keepeth them still in exercise, and raiseth domestical enemies, which endeavour as much as they can to binder their most worthy enterprises: yet by the exhortation of the prophets they went forward by little and little till their work was finished. The author of this book was Ezra, who was priest and scribe of the law, as chap. vii. 6. He returned to Jerusalem the sixth year of Darius, who succeeded Cyrus, that is, about fifty years after the return of the first under Zerubbabel, when the temple was built. He brought with him a great company and much treasures, with letters to the king's officers for all such things as should be necessary for the temple: and at his coming he redressed that which was amiss, and set the things in good order.

Ref. Chr. 1 Cyrus sendeth again the people that was in captivity, 536. 8 and restoreth them their holy vessels.

NOW * in ^a the first year of Cyrus king of Persia (that the word of the Lord, spoken by the ^b mouth of Jeremiah, might be accomplished) the Lord stirred up the ^c spirit of Cyrus king of Persia, and he made a proclamation through all his kingdom, and also by writing, saying,

2 Thus saith Cyrus king of Persia, The Lord God of heaven hath given me ^d all the kingdoms of the earth, and he hath commanded me to build him an house in Jerusalem, which is in Judah.

3 Who is he among you of all his people with whom his God is? let him go up to Jerusalem which is in Judah, and build the house of the Lord God of Israel: he is the God, which is in Jerusalem.

4 And every one that remaineth in any place (where he sojourneth) ^e let the men of his place relieve him with silver and with gold, and with substance, and with cattle, ^f and with a willing offering, for the house of God that is in Jerusalem.

5 Then the chief father of Judah and Benjamin, and the priests and the Levites rose up, with all them whose spirit God had raised to go up to build the house of the Lord which is in Jerusalem.

^a After that he and Darius had won Babylon.

^b Who promised them deliverance after that seventy years were past, Jer. 25. 11.

^c That is, moved him, and gave him heart.

^d For he was chief monarch, and had many nations under his dominion, which this heathen king confesseth to have received of the living God.

^e If any, through poverty, were not able to return, the king's commission was, that he should be furnished with necessaries.

^f Which they themselves should send toward the reparation of the temple.

6 And all ^g they that were about them, strengthened their hands with vessels of silver, with gold, with substance, and with cattle, and with precious things, besides all that was willingly offered. Ref. Chr. 536.

7 Also the king Cyrus brought forth the vessels of the house of the Lord, ^h which Nebuchadnezzar had taken out of Jerusalem, and had put them in the house of his god: ⁱ 2 Kings 15; 2 Chron. 35; 7.

8 Even them did Cyrus king of Persia bring forth by the hand of Mithredath the treasurer, and counted them unto ^j Shefhabazzar the prince of Judah. ^k Jer. 27. 15; 20; D. n. 1. 4.

9 And this is the number of them, thirty basons of gold, a thousand basons of silver, nine and twenty ^l knives,

10 Thirty bowls of gold, and of silver bowls of the second sort four hundred and ten, and of other vessels a thousand.

11 All the vessels of gold and silver were five thousand and four hundred. Shefhabazzar brought up all ^m with them of the captivity that came up from Babel to Jerusalem.

11 Thus they sang when they gave praise, and when they gave thanks unto the Lord, For he is good, for his mercy endureth for ever toward Israel. And all the people shouted with a great shout, when they praised the Lord, because the foundation of the house of the Lord was laid.

12 Many also of the priests and the Levites and the chief of the fathers, ancient men which had seen the first house, (when the foundation of this house was laid before their eyes) ^h wept with a loud voice, and many shouted aloud for joy.

2 The building of the temple is hindered, and how. 11
Letters to Artaxerxes, and the answer.

BUT^h the adversaries of Judah and Benjamin heard that the children of the captivity builded the temple unto the Lord God of Israel.

2 And they came to Zerubbabel, and to the chief fathers, and said unto them, We will build with you: for we seek the Lord your God as ye do, and we have sacrificed unto him since the time of Esar-Haddon king of Ashur, which brought us up hither.

3 Then Zerubbabel, and Jeshua, and the rest of the chief fathers of Israel, said unto them, It is not for you, but for us to build the house unto our God: for we ourselves together will build it unto the Lord God of Israel, as king Cyrus the king of Persia hath commanded us.

4 Wherefore the people of the land [†] discouraged the people of Judah, and troubled them in building,

5 And they^k hired counsellors against them to hinder their device, all the days of Cyrus king of Persia, even unto the reign of Darius king of Persia.

6 And in the reign of^l Ahafuerus (in the beginning of his reign) wrote they an accusation against the inhabitants of Judah and Jerusalem.

7 And in the days of^m Artahshashte, Mithridath, Tabeel, and the rest of their companions wrote when it was peace, unto Artahshashte king of Persia, and the writing of the letter was the Aramites writing, and the thing declared was in the language of the Aramites.

12 Be it known unto the king, that the Jews, which came up from thee to us, are come unto Jerusalem (a city rebellious and wicked) and build, and lay the foundations of the walls, and have joined the foundations.

14 Now therefore because [†] we have been brought up in the king's palace, it was not meet for us to see the king's dishonour: for this cause have we sent and certified the king,

15 That one may search in the book of the Chronicles of thy fathers, and thou shalt find in the book of the Chronicles, and perceive that this city is rebellious and noisome unto kings and provinces, and that they have moved sedition of old time, for the which cause this city was destroyed.

16 We certify the king therefore, that if this city be builded, and the foundation of the walls laid, by this means the portion beyond the river shall not be thine.

17 ¶ The king sent an answer unto Rehum the chancellor, and Shimshai the scribe, and to the rest of their companions that dwelt in Samaria, and unto the other beyond the river^r Shelam and^s Cheeth.

18 ¶ The letter which ye sent unto us hath been openly read before me, 19 And I have commanded, and they have searched, and found, that this city of old time hath made insurrection against kings, and hath rebelled, and rebellion hath been committed therein.

20 There have been mighty kings also over Jerusalem, which have ruled over all beyond the river, and toll, tribute, and custom was given unto them.

21 Make ye now a decree, that those men may cease; and that the city be not built, till I have given another commandment.

22 Take heed now that ye fail not to do this: why should damage grow to hurt the king?

23 When the copy of king Artaxerxes letter was read before Rehum and Shimshai the scribe, and their companions, they went up in all the haste to Jerusalem unto the Jews, and caused them to cease by force and power.

24 Then^u ceased the work of the house of God, which was in Jerusalem, and did stay unto the second year of Darius king of Persia.

3 ¶ At the same time came to them Tatnai, which was captain beyond the river, and Shethar-boznai and their companions, and said thus unto them, Who hath given you commandment to build this house, and to lay the foundations of these walls?

4 Then said we unto them after this manner, What are the names of the men that build this building?

5 But the eye of their God was upon the elders of the Jews, that they could not cause them to cease, till the matter came to Darius: and then they answered by letters thereunto.

6 The copy of the letter that Tatnai captain beyond the river, and Shethar-boznai and his companions, Apharsechaie (which were beyond the river) sent unto king Darius.

7 They sent a letter unto him, wherein it was written thus, Unto Darius the king, all peace.

8 Be it known unto the king, that we went into the province of Judea, to the house of the great God, which is builded with great stones, and beams are laid in the walls, and this work is wrought speedily, and prospereth in their hands.

9 Then asked we those elders, and said unto them thus, Who hath given you commandment to build this house, and to lay the foundation of these walls?

10 We asked their names also, that we might certify thee, and that we might write the names of the men that were their rulers.

11 But they answered us thus, and said, We are the servants of the God of heaven and earth, and build the house that was built of old many years ago, which a great king of Israel builded, and founded it.

12 But after that our fathers had provoked the God of heaven unto wrath, he gave them over into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel the Chaldean, and he destroyed this house, and carried the people away captive unto Babel.

13 But in the first year of Cyrus king of Babel, king Cyrus made a decree to build this house of God.

14 And the vessels of gold and silver of the house of God, which Nebuchadnezzar took out of the temple that was in Jerusalem, and brought them into the temple of Babel, those did Cyrus the king take out of the temple of Babel, and they gave them unto one Sheshbazzar by his name, whom he had made captain:

15 And he said unto him, Take these vessels and go thy way, and put them in the temple that is in Jerusalem, and let the house of God be built in his place.

16 Then came the same Sheshbazzar, and laid the foundation of the house of God, which is in Jerusalem: and since that time even until now hath it been in building, yet is it not finished.

17 Now therefore, if it please the king, let there be search made in the house of the king's treasures, which is there in Babel, whether a decree hath been made by king Cyrus, to build this house of God in Jerusalem, and let the king send his mind concerning this.

C H A P. VI.

At the command of Darius king of Persia, after the temple was builded and dedicated, the children of Israel keep the feast of unleavened bread.

THEN king Darius gave commandment, and they made search in the library of the treasures, which were there laid up in Babel:

3 In the first year of king Cyrus, king Cyrus made a decree for the house of God in Jerusalem, Let the house be built, even the place where they offered sacrifices, and let the walls thereof be joined together: let the height thereof be threescore cubits, and the breadth thereof threescore cubits:

4 Three orders of great stones, and one order of timber, and let the expences be given of the king's house.

5 And also let them render the vessels of the house of God (of gold and silver, which Nebuchadnezzar took out of the temple, which was in Jerusalem, and brought unto Babel) and let him go unto the temple that is in Jerusalem to his place, and put them in the house of God.

6 Therefore Tatnai captain beyond the river, and Shethar-boznai, (and their companions Apharsechaie, which are beyond the river) be ye far from thence.

7 Suffer ye the work of this house of God, that the captain of the Jews, and the elders of the Jews, may build this house of God in his place.

8 For I have given a commandment what ye shall do to the elders of these Jews, for the building of this house of God, that of the revenues of the king, which is of the tribute beyond the river, there be incontinently expences given unto these men, that they cease not.

9 And that which they shall have need of, let it be given unto them day by day, whether it be young bullocks, or rams, or lambs, for the burnt-offerings of the God of heaven, wheat, salt, wine, and oil, according to the appointment of the priests that are in Jerusalem, that there be no fault.

10 That they may have to offer sweet odours unto the God of heaven, and pray for the king's life, and for his sons.

11 And I have made a decree, that whosoever shall alter this sentence, the wood shall be pulled down from his house, and shall be set up, and he shall be hanged thereon, and his house shall be made a dunghil for this.

GOD doth in all ages and at all times set up worthy persons for the commodity and profit of his church, as now within the compass of seventy years he raised up divers excellent men for the preservation of his people, after their return from Babylon, as Zerubbabel, Ezra, and Nehemiah. Whereof the first was their captain to bring them home, and provided that the temple was builded: the second reformed their manners and planted religion: and the third builded up the walls, delivered the people from oppression, and provided that the law of God was put in execution among them. He was a godly man, and in great authority with the king, so that the king favoured him greatly, and gave him most ample letters for the accomplishment of all things which he could desire. 2 Came Hanani, one of my ^b brethren, he and the men of Judah, and I asked them concerning the Jews that were delivered, which were of the residue of the captivity, and concerning Jerusalem.

7 We have grievously sinned against thee, and have not kept the commandments, nor the statutes, nor the judgments, which thou commandedst thy servant Moses.

8 I beseech thee, remember the word that thou commandedst thy servant Moses, saying, Ye will transgress, and I will scatter you abroad among the people.

9 But if ye turn unto me, and keep my commandments, and do them, though your scattering were to the uttermost part of the heaven, yet will I gather you from thence, and will bring you into the place that I have chosen to place my name there.

10 Now these are thy servants, and thy people, whom thou hast redeemed by thy great power, and by thy mighty hand.

11 O Lord, I beseech thee, let thine ear now hearken to the prayer of thy servant, and to the prayer of thy servants, who desire to fear thy name, and I pray thee, cause thy servant to prosper this day, and give him favour in the presence of this man: for I was the king's butler.

1 After Nehemiah had obtained letters of Artaxerxes, 11 he came to Jerusalem, 17 and builded the walls.

NOW in the month^f Nisan, in the twentieth year of king^g Artaxerxes, the wine stood before him: and I took up the wine, and gave it unto the king. Now I was not before time sad in his presence.

2 And the king said unto me, Why is thy countenance sad, seeing thou art not sick? this is nothing but sorrow of heart. Then was I fore afraid,

3 And I said to the king, God save the king for ever: why should not my countenance be sad, when the city and house of the sepulchres of my fathers lieth waste, and the gates thereof are devoured with fire?

4 And the king said unto me, For what thing dost thou require? Then I prayed^h to the God of heaven,

5 And said unto the king, If it please the king, and if thy servant have found favour in thy sight, I desire that thou wouldst send me to Judah unto the city of the sepulchres of my fathers, that I may build it.

6 And the king said unto me, (the queen also sitting by him) How long shall thy journey be? and when wilt thou come again? So it pleased the king, and he sent me, and I set him a time.

7 After I said unto the king, If it please the king, let them give me letters to the captains beyond the \ddagger river, that they may convey me over, till I come into Judah,

8 And letters unto Asaph the keeper of the king's \ddagger park, that he may give me timber to build the gates of the palace (which appertained to the house) and for the walls of the city, and for the house that I shall enter into. And the king gave me according to the good hand of my God upon me.

9 ¶ Then came I to the captains beyond the river, and gave them the king's letters. And the king had sent captains of the army, and horsemen with me.

10 But^k Sanballat the Horonite, and Tobiah a servant an Ammonite heard it, and it grieved them sore, that there was come a man which sought the wealth of the children of Israel.

11 So I came to Jerusalem, and was there three days.

12 And I rose in the night, I, and a few men with me: for I told no man, what God had put in mine heart to do at Jerusalem: and there was not a beast with me, save the beast whereon I rode.

13 And I went out by night by the gate of the valley, and came before the dragon well, and to the dung port, and viewed the walls of Jerusalem, how they were broken down, and the ports thereof devoured with the fire.

14 Then I went forth unto the gate of the \ddagger fountain, and to the king's fishpool, and there was no room for the beast that was under me to pass.

15 Then went I up in the night by the brook, and viewed the wall, and turned back, and coming back, I entered by the gate of the valley, and returned.

16 And the rulers knew not whither I was gone, nor what I did, neither did I as yet tell it unto the Jews, nor to the priests, nor to the noblemen, nor to the rulers, nor to the rest that laboured in the work.

17 Afterward I said unto them, Ye see the misery that we are in, how Jerusalem lieth waste, and the gates thereof are burnt with fire: come and let us build the wall of Jerusalem, that we be no more a reproach.

18 Then I told them of the hand of my God (which was good over me) and also of the king's words that he had spoken unto me. And they said, Let us rise, and build. So they strengthened^m their hand to good.

19 But when Sanballat the Horonite, and Tobiah the servant an Ammonite, andⁿ Geshem the Arabian heard it, they mocked us and despised us, and said, What a thing is this that ye do? Will ye rebel against the king?

THEN arose Eliashib the high priest with his brethren the priests, and they built the sheep-gate: they ^a repaired it, and set up the doors thereof: even unto the tower of Meah repaired they it, and unto the tower of Hana-neel.

2 And next unto him builded the men of Jericho, and beside him Zaccur the son of Imri.

3 But the fish-port did the sons of Senaah build, which also laid the beams thereof, and set on the doors thereof, the locks thereof, and the bars thereof.

4 And next unto them fortified Merimoth, the son of Urijah, the son of Hakkoz: and next unto them fortified Meshullam, the son of Berechiah, the son of Meshezabeel: and next unto them fortified Zadok, the son of Baana.

5 And next unto them fortified the Tekoites: but the great men of them ^r put not their necks to the work of their lords.

6 And the gate of the ^{*} old fish-pool fortified Jehoiada the son of Paseah, and Meshullam the son of Besodaiah: they laid the beams thereof, and set on the doors thereof, and the locks thereof, and the bars thereof.

7 Next unto them also fortified Melatiah the Gibeonite, and Jadon the Meronothite, men of Gibeon, and of Mizpah, unto the ^s throne of the duke, which was beyond the river.

8 Next unto him fortified Uzziel the son of Harhaiah [†] of the goldsmiths: next unto him also fortified Hananiah, the son [‡] of Harkahim, and they repaired Jerusalem unto the broad wall.

9 Also next unto them fortified Rephaiah, the son of Hur, the ruler of the half part of Jerusalem.

10 And next unto him fortified Jedaiah the son of Harumaph, even over-against his house: and next unto him fortified Hattush, the son of Hashabniah.

11 Malchijah the son of Harim, and Hashub the son of Pahath-Moab, fortified the second [‡] portion, and the tower of the furnaces.

12 Next unto him also fortified Shallum, the son of Haloheah, the ruler of the half part of Jerusalem, he and his daughters.

13 The valley-gate fortified Hanun, and the inhabitants of Zanoah: they built it, and set on the doors thereof, the locks thereof, and the bars thereof, even a thousand cubits on the wall unto the dung port.

14 But the dung-port fortified Malchiah the son of Rechab, the ruler of the fourth part of Beth-haccarem: he built it, and set on the doors thereof, the locks thereof, and the bars thereof.

15 But the gate of the fountain fortified Shallum the son of Col-hozeh, the ruler of the fourth part of Mizpah: he builded it, and covered it, and set on the doors thereof, the locks thereof, and the bars thereof, and the wall unto the fish-pool of [†] Shelah by the king's garden, and unto the steps that go down from the city of David.

16 After him fortified Nehemiah the son of Azbuk, the ruler of the half part of Beth-zur, until the other side over-against the sepulchres of David, and to the fish-pool that was repaired, and unto the house of the mighty.

17 After him fortified the Levites, Rehum the son of Bani, and next unto him fortified Hashabiah the ruler of the half part of Keilah in his quarter.

18 After him fortified their brethren: Bavai, the son of Henadad, the ruler of the half part of Keilah:

19 And next unto him fortified Ezer, the son of Jeshua the ruler of Mizpah, the other portion over-against the going up to the ^t corner of the armour.

20 After him was earnest Baruch the son of Zacchai, and fortified another portion from the corner unto the door of the house of Eliashib the high priest.

22 After him also fortified the priests, the men of the ^u plain.

23 After him fortified Benjamin and Hashub, over-against their house: after him fortified Azariah the son of Maaseiah, the son of Ananiah, by his house.

24 After him fortified Binnui, the son of Henadad, another portion, from the house of Azariah unto the turning and unto the corner.

25 Palal, the son of Uzai, from over-against the corner, and the high-tower, that lieth out from the king's house, which is beside the court of the prison. After him Pedaiah the son of Parosh.

C H A P. IV.

7 The building of Jerusalem is hindered, 15 but God breaketh their enterprize. 17 The Jews build with one hand, and hold their weapons in the other.

BUT when Sanballat heard that we builded the wall, then was he wroth, and sore grieved, and mocked the Jews,

2 And said before his ² brethren, and the army of Samaria, thus he said, What do these ³ weak Jews? will they fortify themselves? will they sacrifice? will they finish it in a day? will they make the stones whole again out of the heaps of dust, seeing they are burnt?

3 And Tobiah the Ammonite was beside him, and said, Although they build, yet if a fox go up, he shall even break down their stony wall.

4 ⁴ Hear, O our God, (for we are despised) and turn their shame upon their own head, and give them unto a prey ⁴ in the land of their captivity,

5 And cover not their ⁵ iniquity, neither let their sin be put out in thy presence: for they have provoked us before the builders.

6 So we built the wall, and all the wall was joined unto the [†] half thereof, and the heart of the people was to work.

7 ¶ But when Sanballat, and Tobiah, and the Arabians, and the Ammonites, and the Ashdodims heard that the walls of Jerusalem were repaired, (for the breaches began to be stopped) then they were very wroth,

8 And conspired all together to come and to fight against Jerusalem, and to [†] hinder them.

9 Then we prayed unto our God, and set watchmen by them, day and night, because of them.

10 And Judah said, The strength of the bearers is weakened, and there is much earth, so that we are not able to build the wall.

11 Also our adversaries had said, They shall not know, neither see, till we come into the midst of them, and slay them, and cause the work to cease.

12 But when the Jews (which dwelt beside them) came, they told us [†] ten times, ² From all places, whence ye shall return, they will be upon us.

13 Therefore set I in the lower places behind the wall upon the tops of the stones, and placed the people by their families, with their swords, their spears, and their bows. Bef. Chr. 445.

14 Then I beheld, and rose up, and said unto the princes, and to the rulers, and to the rest of the people, Be not afraid of them: ² remember the great Lord, and fearful, and fight for your brethren, your sons, and your daughters, your wives, and your houses.

15 And when our enemies heard that it was known unto us, then God brought their counsel to nought, and we turned all again to the wall, every one unto his work.

16 And from that day, half of the young men did the labour, and the other half part of them held the spears, and shields, and bows, and habergeons: and the rulers stood ¹ behind all the house of Judah.

17 They that builded on the wall, and they that bare burdens, and they that laded, did the work with one hand, and with the other held the sword.

18 For every one of the builders had his sword girded on his loins, and so builded: and he that blew the trumpet was beside me.

19 Then said I unto the princes, and to the rulers, and to the rest of the people, The work is great and large, and we are separated upon the wall, one far from another.

20 In what place therefore ye hear the sound of the trumpet, ² resort ye thither unto us: our God shall fight for us.

21 So we laboured in the work, and half of them held the spears, from the appearing of the morning, till the stars came forth.

22 And at the same time said I unto the people, Let every one with his servant lodge within Jerusalem, that they may be a watch for us in the night, and labour in the day.

23 So neither I, nor my brethren, nor my servants, nor the men of the ward (which followed me) none of us did put off our cloaths, save every one put them off ¹ for washing.

8 And I said unto them, We (according to our ability) have redeemed our brethren the Jews, which were sold unto the heathen: and will you sell your brethren again, or shall they be ^t sold unto us? Then held they their peace, and could not answer.

9 ^u I said also, That which ye do, is not good. Ought ye not to walk in the fear of our God, for the ^v reproach of the heathen our enemies?

11 Restore, I pray you, unto them this day their lands, their vineyards, their olives, and their houses, and remit the hundredth part of the silver and of the corn, of the wine, and of the oil ^x that ye exact of them.

12 Then said they, We will restore it, and will not require it of them: we will do as thou hast said. Then I called the priests, and caused them to swear, that they should do according to this promise.

13 So I shook my lap, and said, So let God shake out every man that will not perform this promise, from his house, and from his labour: even thus let him be shaken out, and emptied. And all the congregation said, Amen, and praised the Lord: and the people did according to this promise.

14 And from the time that the king gave me charge to be governor in the land of Judah, from the twentieth year, even unto the two and thirtieth year of king Artaxerxes, that is, twelve years, I, and my brethren have not eaten the ^y bread of the governor.

15 For the former governors that were before me, had been chargeable unto the people, and had taken of them bread and wine, besides forty shekels of silver: yea, and their servants bare rule over the people: but so did not I, because of the fear of God.

16 But rather I fortified a portion in the work of this wall, and we bought no land, and all my servants came thither together unto the work. Bef. Chr. 445.

17 Moreover, there were at my table an hundred and fifty of the Jews, and rulers, which came unto us from among the heathen that are about us.

18 And there was prepared daily an ox, and six chosen sheep, and birds were prepared for me, and [†] within ten days wine for all ^z in abundance. Yet for all this I required not the bread of the governor: for the bondage was grievous unto this people. ^{† Or, once in ten days.}

31 The men of Michmas, an hundred and two and twenty.

32 The men of Beth-el and Ai, an hundred and three and twenty.

33 The men ^p of the other Nebo, two and fifty.

34 The sons of the other Elam, a thousand two hundred and four and fifty.

35 The sons of Harim, three hundred and twenty.

36 The sons of Jericho, three hundred and five and forty.

37 The sons of Lod-hadid and Ono, seven hundred and one and twenty.

38 The sons of Senaah, three thousand nine hundred and thirty.

39 The priests: the sons of Jedaiah of the house of Joshua, nine hundred seventy and three.

40 The sons of Immer, a thousand and two and fifty.

41 The sons of Pashur, a thousand two hundred and seven and forty.

42 The sons of Harim, a thousand and seventeen.

43 ¶ The Levites: the sons of Jeshua of Kadmiel, and of the sons of † Hodivah, seventy and four.

44 ¶ The singers: the children of Asaph, an hundred and eight and forty.

45 The porters: the sons of Shallum, the sons of Ater, the sons of Talmon, the sons of Akkub, the sons of Hatita, the sons of Shobai, an hundred and eight and thirty.

46 ¶ The ^q Nethinims: the sons of Zihia, the sons of Hashupha, the sons of Tabaoth, 47 The sons of Keros, the sons of Sia, the sons of Padon, 48 The sons of Lebana, the sons of Hagaba, the sons of Salmai,

57 The sons of Solomon's servants, the sons of Sotai, the sons of Sophereth, the sons of Perida, 58 The sons of Jaala, the sons of Darkon, the sons of Giddel, 59 The sons of Shephatiah, the sons of Hattil, the sons of Pochereth of Zebaim, the sons of Amon.

60 All the Nethinims, and the sons of Solomon's servants ^{were} three hundred ninety and two. 536. Bef. Chr.

61 ¶ And these came up from Tel-melah, Tel-haresha, Cherub, Addon, and Immer: but they could not shew their father's house, nor their seed, ^{or} if they were of Israel.

62 The sons of Delaiah: the sons of Tobiah, the sons of Nekoda, six hundred and two and forty.

63 And of the priests: the sons of Habaiah, the sons of Hakkoz, the sons of Barzillai, which took one of the daughters of Barzillai the Gileadite to wife, and was named after their name.

64 These sought their writing of the genealogies, but it was not found: therefore they were put from the priesthood.

65 And the ^r Tirshatha said unto them, that they should not eat of the most holy, till there rose up a priest with * Urim and Thummim. * Exod. 28, 66 All the congregation together ^{was} two and forty thousand three hundred and three-score. 30.

67 Besides their servants and their maids, which were seven thousand three hundred and seven and thirty: and they had two hundred and five and forty singing men and singing women.

68 Their horses ^{were} seven hundred and six and thirty, ^{and} their mules two hundred and five and forty.

69 The camels four hundred and five and thirty, ^{and} six thousand seven hundred and twenty asses.

70 And certain of the chief fathers gave unto the work. The Tirshatha gave to the treasure, a thousand ^r drams of gold, fifty basons, five hundred and thirty priests garments.

71 And ^{some} of the chief fathers gave unto the treasure of the work, twenty thousand drachms of gold, and two thousand two hundred † pieces of silver. † Or, minets

72 And the rest of the people gave twenty thousand drachms of gold, and two thousand pieces of silver, and threescore and seven priests garments.

73 And the priests, and the Levites, and the porters, and the singers, and the rest of the people, and the Nethinims, and all Israel dwelt in their cities: and when the seventh ^r month came, the children of Israel were in their cities.

C H A P. VIII.

2 Ezra gathereth together the people, and readeth to them the law. 12 They rejoice in Israel for the knowledge of the word of God. 15 They keep the feast of tabernacles or booths.

AND all the people assembled themselves † together, in the street that was before the water-gate, and they spake unto Ezra the ^u scribe, that he would bring the book of the law of Moses, which the Lord had commanded to Israel. † Heb. as one man.

2 And Ezra the priest brought the law before the congregation both of men and women, and of all that ^w could hear and understand it, in the first day of the seventh month.

3 And

^p For there were two cities of this name.

^q Read Ezra 2. 58.

^s Read Ezra 2. 69.

^r Which containeth part of September, and part of October.

^u Read Ezra 7. 6.

^w Which had age and discretion to understand.

3 And he read therein in the street that was before the water-gate (from the morning until the mid-day) before men and women, and them that understood it, and the ears of all the people listened unto the book of the law.

4 And Ezra the scribe stood upon a pulpit of wood which he had made for the preaching, and beside him stood Mattithiah, and Shema, and Anaiah, and Urijah, and Hilkiah, and Maaseiah on his right hand, and on his left hand Pedaiah, and Mishael, and Malchiah, and Hashum, and Hashbadana, Zechariah, and Meshullam.

5 And Ezra opened the book before all the people: for he was ^r above all the people: and when he opened it, all the people stood up.

6 And Ezra praised the Lord the great God, and all the people answered, Amen, Amen, with lifting up their hands: and they bowed themselves, and worshipped the Lord with their faces toward the ground.

7 Also Jeshua, and Dani, and Sherebiah, Jamin, Akkub, Shabbethai, Hodijah, Maaseiah, Kelita, Azariah, Jozabad, Hanan, Pelaiah, and the Levites caused the people to understand the law, and the people stood in their place.

8 And they read in the book of the law of God distinctly, and gave the sense, and caused them to understand the reading.

9 Then Nehemiah (which is Tirshatha) and Ezra the priest and scribe, and the Levites that instructed the people, said unto all the people, This day is holy unto the Lord your God: mourn not, neither weep: for all the people ^w wept when they heard the words of the law.

10 He said unto them, Go, and eat of the fat, and drink the sweet, and send part unto them for whom none ^{is} prepared: for this day is holy unto our Lord: be ye not sorry therefore: for the ^b joy of the Lord is your strength.

11 And the Levites made silence throughout all the people, saying, Hold your peace: for the day is holy, be not sad therefore.

12 Then all the people went to eat and to drink, and to send away part, and to make great joy, because they had understood the words that they had taught them.

13 And on the second day the chief fathers of all the people, the priests and the Levites, were gathered unto Ezra the scribe, that he also might instruct them in the words of the law.

14 And they found written in the law (that the Lord had commanded by Moses) that the children of Israel should dwell in ^{*} booths in the feast of the seventh month,

15 And that they should cause it to be declared and proclaimed in all their cities, and in Jerusalem, saying, Go forth unto the mount, and bring olive-branches, and pine-branches, and branches of [†] myrtle, and palm-branches, and branches of thick trees, to make booths, as it is written.

16 So the people went forth and brought them, and made them booths, every one upon the ^r roof of his house, and in their courts, and in the courts of the house of God, and in the street by the water-gate, and in the street of the gate of Ephraim.

17 And all the congregation of them that were come again out of the captivity made booths, and sat under the booths: for since the time of Joshua the son of Nun unto this day, had not the children of Israel done so, and there was very great joy.

18 And he read in the book of the law of God every day, from the first day unto the last day. And they kept the feast seven days, and on the eighth day a solemn assembly, according unto the manner.

C H A P. IX.

The people repent, and forsake their strange wives. 5 The Levites exhort them to praise God, 6 Declaring his wonders, 26 and their ingratitude, 30 and God's great mercies toward them.

IN the four and twentieth day of this ^e month the children of Israel were assembled with fasting, and with sackcloth, and earth upon them.

2 (And they that were of the seed of Israel were separated from all the [†] strangers) and they stood and confessed their sins, and the iniquities of their fathers.

3 And they stood up in their place and read in the book of the law of the Lord their God four times on the day, and they ^f confessed and worshipped the Lord their God four times.

4 Then stood up upon the stairs of the Levites, Jeshua, and Bani, Kadmiel, Shebaniah, Bunni, Sherebiah, Bani, and Chenani, and cried with a loud voice unto the Lord their God.

5 And the Levites said, even Jeshua, and Kadmiel, Bani, Hashabniah, Sherebiah, Hodijah, Shebaniah, and Pethahiah, Stand up, and praise the Lord your God for ever and ever, and let them praise thy glorious name, O God, which excelleth above all thanksgiving and praise.

6 Thou art Lord alone: thou hast made heaven, and the heaven of all heavens, with all their host, the earth, and all things that are therein, the seas, and all that are in them, and thou preservest them all, and the host of the heaven worshippeth thee.

7 Thou art, O Lord, the God that hast chosen Abram, and broughtest him out of ^{} Ur in Chaldea, ^{} and madest his name Abraham, 8 And foundest his heart faithful before thee, ^{*} and madest a covenant with him, to give unto his seed the land of the Canaanites, Hittites, Amorites, and Perizzites, and Jebusites, and Girgashites, and hast performed thy words, because thou art just.

9 ^{*} Thou hast also considered the affliction of our fathers in Egypt, and heard their cry by the red sea,

10 And shewed tokens and wonders upon Pharaoh, and on all his servants, and on all the people of his land: for thou knewest that they dealt

^a This declareth the great zeal that the people had to hear the word of God.

^r To the intent that his voice might be the better heard.

^w In considering their offences against the law, therefore the Levites do not reprove them for mourning, but assure them of God's mercies, forasmuch as they are repentant.

^a That is, remember the poor.

^b Rejoice in the Lord, and he will give you strength.

^c For their houses were made flat above, read Deut. 22. 8.

^d Which was almost a thousand years.

^e Meaning, the seventh.

^f They made confession of their sins, and used prayers.

445. Bef. Chr. dealt proudly against them: therefore thou madest thee a name, as appeareth this day.

* Exod. 14. 22. 11 * For thou didst break up the sea before them, and they went through the midst of the sea on the dry land: and those that pursued them hast thou cast into the bottoms as a stone in the mighty waters:

* Exod. 13. 21. 12 * And leddest them in the day with a pillar of a cloud, and in the night with a pillar of fire to give them light in the way that they went.

* Exod. 19. 18, 20. and 20. 1. 13 * Thou camest down also upon mount Sinai, and spakest unto them from heaven, and gavest them right judgments, and true laws, ordinances, and good commandments,

14 And declaredst unto them thine holy sabbath, and commandedst them precepts, and ordinances, and laws, by the hand of Moses thy servant,

* Exod. 16. 15. * Exod. 17. 6. * Deut. 1. 3. 15 * And gavest them bread from heaven for their hunger, * and broughtest forth water for them out of the rock for their thirst: and and * promisedst them that they should go in, and take possession of the land, for the which thou hadst lift up thine hand for to give them.

16 But they and our fathers behaved themselves proudly, and hardened their neck, so that they hearkened not unto thy commandments,

17 But refused to obey, and would not remember thy marvellous works, that thou hadst done for them, but hardened their necks, and had in their heads to return to their bondage by their rebellion: but thou, O God of mercies, gracious and full of compassion, of long-suffering, and of great mercy, yet forsookest them not.

18 Moreover, when they made them a molten calf (and said, This is thy God that brought thee up out of the land of Egypt) and committed great blasphemies,

* Exod. 13. 22. Num. 14. 14. 1 Cor. 10. 1. 19 Yet thou for thy great mercies forsookest them not in the wilderness: * the pillar of the cloud departed not from them by day to lead them the way, neither the pillar of fire by night, to shew them light, and the way whereby they should go.

20 Thou gavest also thy good Spirit to instruct them, and withheldst not thy MAN from their mouth, and gavest them water for their thirst.

* Deut. 8. 4. 21 Thou didst also feed them forty years in the wilderness: they lacked nothing: * their cloaths waxed not old, and their feet ^e swelled not.

* Num. 21. 6. 22 And thou gavest them kingdoms and people, and ^h scatteredst them into corners: so they possessed the * land of Sihon, and the land of the king of Heshbon, and the land of Og king of Bashan.

23 And thou didst multiply their children like the stars of the heaven, and broughtest them into the land, whereof thou hadst spoken unto their fathers, that they should go and possess it.

Bef. Chr. 445. 24 So the children went in, and possessed the land, and thou subduedst before them the inhabitants of the land, even the Canaanites, and gavest them into their hands, with their kings and the people of the land, that they might do with them what they would.

25 And they took their strong cities and the fat land, and possessed houses full of all goods, cisterns digged out, vineyards, and olives, and trees for food in abundance, and they did eat, and were filled, and became fat, and lived in pleasure through thy great goodness.

26 Yet they were disobedient, and rebelled against thee, and cast thy law behind their backs, and slew thy prophets (which ⁱ protested among them to turn them unto thee) and committed great blasphemies.

27 Therefore thou deliveredst them into the hand of their enemies that vexed them: yet in the time of their affliction, when they cried unto thee, thou heardest them from the heaven, and through thy great mercies thou gavest them favours, who saved them out of the hands of their adversaries.

28 But when they had ^k rest, they returned to do evil before thee: therefore leftest thou them in the hand of their enemies, so that they had the dominion over them, yet when they converted and cried unto thee, thou heardest them from heaven, and deliveredst them according to thy great mercies many times,

29 And protestedst among them that thou mightest bring them again unto thy law: but they behaved themselves proudly, and hearkened not unto thy commandments, but sinned against thy judgments (*which a man should do and live in them) and ^l pulled away the shoulder, and were stiff-necked, and would not ^m hear.

30 Yet thou [†] didst forbear them many years, and protestedst among them by thy Spirit, even by the hand of thy prophets, but they would not hear: therefore gavest thou them into the hand of the people of the lands.

31 Yet for thy great mercies thou hast not consumed them, neither forsaken them: for thou art a gracious and a merciful God.

32 Now therefore our God, * thou great God, mighty and terrible, that keepest covenant and * mercy, let not all the affliction that hath come unto us seem a little before thee, that is, to our kings, and to our princes, and to our priests, and to our prophets, and to our fathers, and to all thy people since the time of the kings of ⁿ Asshur unto this day.

33 Surely thou art just in all that is come upon us: for thou ^o hast dealt truly, but we have done wickedly.

34 And our kings, and our princes, our priests, and our fathers have not done thy law, nor regarded thy commandments, nor thy protestations, wherewith thou hast ^p protested among them,

35 And they have not served thee in their kingdom,

^e Though the way was tedious and long.

^h Meaning, the heathen whom he drove out.

ⁱ Taking heaven and earth to witness, that God would destroy them, except they returned, as 2 Chron. 24. 19.

^k He declareth how God's mercies ever contended with the wickedness of the people, who ever in their prosperity forgot God.

^l Which is a similitude taken of oxen that shrink at the yoke, or burden, as Zech. 7. 11.

^m When thou didst admonish them by thy prophets.

ⁿ By whom we were led away into captivity, and have been appointed to be slain, as Esther 3. 13.

^o He confesseth that all these things came to them justly for their sins, but he appealeth from God's justice to his mercies.

^p That thou wouldst destroy them, except they would return to thee, as ver. 26.

4-5. Bes. Can. kingdom, and in thy great goodneſs that thou ſhewedit unto them, and in the large and fat land which thou didſt ſet before them, and have not converted from their evil works.

36 Behold, we are ſervants this day, and the land that thou gavelt unto our fathers, to eat the fruit thereof, and the goodneſs thereof, behold, we are ſervants therein.

37 And it yielded much fruit unto the kings whom thou haſt ſet over us, becauſe of our ſins : and they have dominion over our bodies, and over our cattle at their pleaſure, and we are in great affliction.

38 Now becauſe of all this we make ^r a ſure covenant, and write it, and our princes, our Levites, and our prieſts ſeal unto it.

1 Who dwelted in Jerusalem, after it was builded, 21 and who in the cities of Judah.

AND the rulers of the people dwelt in Jerusalem: the other people also cast lots, ^d to bring one out of ten to dwell in Jerusalem the holy city, and nine parts to be in the cities.

2 And the people thanked all the men that were willing to dwell in Jerusalem.

3 These now are the chief of the province, that dwelt in Jerusalem, but in the cities of Judah, every one dwelt in his own possession in their cities of Israel; the priests, and the Levites, and the Nethinims, and the sons of Solomon's servants.

4 And in Jerusalem dwelt certain of the children of Judah, and of the children of Benjamin. Of the sons of Judah, Athaiah, the son of Uziah, the son of Zechariah, the son of Amariah, the son of Shephatiah, the son of Mahaleel, of the sons of ^e Perez.

5 And Maaseiah the son of Baruch, the son of Col-hozeh, the son of Hazaiah, the son of Adaiah, the son of Joiarib, the son of Zechariah, the son [†] of Shiloni.

6 All the sons of Perez that dwelt at Jerusalem, were four hundred threescore and eight valiant men.

7 These also are the sons of Benjamin, Sallu, the son of Meshullam, the son of Joed, the son of Pedaiah; the son of Kolaiah, the son of Maaseiah, the son of Ithiel, the son of Jeshaiah.

8 And after him Gabai, Sallai, nine hundred and twenty and eight.

9 And Joel the son of Zichri was governor over them: and Judah, the son of Senuah was the second over the city:

10 Of the priests, Jedaiah, the son of Joiarib, Jachin.

11 Seraiah the son of Hilkiyah, the son of Meshullam, the son of Zadok, the son of Meraioth, the son of Ahitub, ^f was chief of the house of God.

12 And their brethren ^g that did the work in the temple, were eight hundred twenty and two: and Adaiah the son of Jeroham, the son of Pelaliah, the son of Amzi, the son of Zechariah, the son of Pashur, the son of Malchiah:

13 And his brethren, chief of the fathers, two hundred and two and forty: and Amashai the son of Azareel, the son of Ahafai, the son of Meshillemoth, the son of Immer:

14 And their brethren valiant men, an hundred and eight and twenty, and their overseer was Zabdiel the son of [†] Haggadolim.

15 And of the Levites, Shemaiah the son of Hashub, the son of Azrikam, the son of Hashabiah, the son of Bunni.

16 And Shabbethai, and Jozabad of the chief of the Levites were over the works of the house of God without.

17 And Mattaniah the son of Micha, the son of Zabdi, the son of Asaph, was the chief to ^h begin the thanksgiving and prayer: and Bakbukiah the second of his brethren, and Abda, the son of Shammua, the son of Galal, the son of Jeduthun. 445

18 All the Levites in the holy city were two hundred fourscore and four.

19 And the porters, Akkub; Talmon and their brethren that kept the ⁱ gates, were an hundred twenty and two.

20 And the ^k residue of Israel, of the priests, and of the Levites dwelt in all the cities of Judah, every one in his inheritance.

21 And the Nethinims dwelt in the [†] fortrefs, [†] Or, Ophel; and Zicha and Gispa were over the Nethinims.

22 And the overseer of the Levites in Jerusalem was Uzzi the son of Bani, the son of Hashabiah, the son of Mattaniah, the son of Micha: of the sons of Asaph singers were over the work of the house of God.

23 For it was the king's commandment concerning them, that faithful provision should be for the singers every day.

24 And Pethathiah the son of Meshezabeel, of the sons of Zerah, the son of Judah, ^l was at the king's hand in all matters concerning the people.

25 And in the villages in their lands, some of the children of Judah dwelt in Kirjath-arba and in the villages thereof, and in Dibon and in the villages thereof, and in Jekabzeel and in the villages thereof,

26 And in Jeshua, and in Moladah, and in Beth-palet,

27 And in Hazer-shual, and in Beer-sheba and in the villages thereof,

28 And in Ziklag, and in Mechonah and in the villages thereof,

29 And in En-rimmon, and in Zareah, and in Jarmuth,

30 Zanoah, Adullam, and in their villages, in Lachish and in the fields thereof, at Azekah and in the villages thereof: and they dwelt from Beer-sheba, unto the valley of Hinnom.

31 And the sons of Benjamin from Geba, in Michmash, and Aijah, and Beth-el and in the villages thereof,

32 Anathoth, Nob, Ananiah,

33 Hazor, Ramah, Gittaim,

34 Hadid, Zeboim, Neballat,

35 Lod and Ono, in the carpenters valley;

Bef. Chr. 536. 6 Shemaiah, and Joiarib, Jedaiah,
7 Sallu, Amok, Hilkijah, Jedaiah: these were the chief of the priests and of their brethren in the days of Jeshua.

8 And the Levites, Jeshua, Binnui, Kadmiel, Sherebiah, Judah, Mattaniah^o were over the thanksgivings, he, and his brethren.

9 And Bakbukiah, and Unni, and their brethren were about them in the watches.

10 And Jeshua begat Joiakim: Joiakim also begat Eliashib, and Eliashib begat Joiada, 11 And Joiada begat Jonathan, and Jonathan begat Jaddua.

12 And in the days of Joiakim were these the chief fathers of the priests: under^r Seraiah was Meraiah: under Jeremiah, Hananiah:

13 Under Ezra, Meshullam: under Amariah, Jehohanan:

14 Under Melicu, Jonathan: under Shebaniah, Joseph:

15 Under Harim, Adna: under Meraioth, Helkai:

16 Under Iddo, Zechariah: under Ginnethon, Meshullam:

17 Under^r Abijah, Zichri: under Miniamin, and under Moadiah, Piltai:

18 Under Bilgah, Shammua: under Shemaiah, Jehonathan:

19 Under Joiarib, Mattenai: under Jedaiah, Uzzi:

20 Under Sallai, Kallai: under Amok, Eber:

21 Under Hilkiah, Hashabiah: under Jedaiah, Nethaneel.

22 In the days of Eliashib, Joiada and Johanan and Jaddua were the chief fathers of the Levites written, and the priests in the reign of Darius the Persian.

23 The sons of Levi, the chief fathers were written in the book of the Chronicles, even unto the days of Johanan the son of Eliashib.

24 And the chief of the Levites were Hashabiah, Sherabiah, and Jeshua the son of Kadmiel, and their brethren about them to give praise and thanks, according to the ordinance of David the man of God, ward^r over-against ward.

25 Mattaniah and Bakbukiah, Obadiah, Meshullam, Talmon and Akkub were porters keeping the ward at the thresholds of the gates.

26 These were in the days of Joiakim, the son of Jeshua, the son of Jozadak, and in the days of Nehemiah the captain, and of Ezra the priest and scribe.

27 And in the dedication of the wall at Jerusalem they sought the Levites out of all their places to bring them to Jerusalem to keep the dedication with gladness, both with thanksgivings and with songs, cymbals, viols, and with harps.

† E. 1. 2. 28 Then the † fingers gathered themselves together both from the plain country about Jerusalem, and from the villages of^r Netophathi.

29 And from the house of Gilgal, and out of the countries of Jeba and Azmaveth: for the fingers had built them villages round about Jerusalem. 445.

30 And the priests and Levites were purified, and cleansed the people, and the gates, and the wall.

31 And I^o brought up the princes of Judah upon the wall, and appointed two great companies to give thanks, and the one went on the right hand of the wall toward the dung gate.

32 And after them went Hoshaiah, and half of the princes of Judah.

33 And Azariah, Ezra, and Meshullam,

34 Judah, Benjamin, and Shemaiah, and Jeremiah,

35 And of the priests sons with trumpets, Zechariah the son of Jonathan, the son of Shemaiah, the son of Mattaniah, the son of Michaiah, the son of Zaccur, the son of Asaph:

36 And^r his brethren, Shemaiah and Azareel, Milalai, Gilalai, Maai, Nethaneel, and Judah, Hanani, with the musical instruments of David the man of God: and Ezra the scribe went before them.

37 And to the gate of the fountain, even over-against them, went they up by the^x stairs of the city of David, at the going up of the wall beyond the house of David, even unto the water-gate eastward.

38 And the second company of them that gave thanks, went on the other side, and I after them, and the half of the people was upon the wall, and upon the tower of the furnaces, even unto the broad wall.

39 And upon the gate of Ephraim, and upon the old gate, and upon the fish-gate, and the tower of Hananeel, and the tower of Meah, even unto the sheep-gate: and they stood in the gate of the ward.

40 So stood the two companies of them that gave thanks, in the house of God, and I and the half of the rulers with me.

41 The priests also, Eliakim, Maaseiah, Miniamin, Micaiah, Elioenai, Zechariah, Hananiah, with trumpets.

43 And the same day they offered great sacrifices and rejoiced: for God had given them great joy, so that both the women and the children were joyful: and the joy of Jerusalem was heard far off.

44 Also at the same time were men appointed^r over the chambers of the store for the offerings, for the first fruits, and for the tithes, to gather into them out of the fields of the cities, the portions of the law for the priests and the Levites: for Judah rejoiced for the priests and for the Levites that served.

Tobiah, in that he had made him a chamber in the court of the house of God,

8 And it grieved me sore: therefore I cast forth all the vessels of the house of Tobiah out of the chamber.

9 And I commanded them to cleanse the chambers: and thither brought I again the vessels of the house of God with the meat-offering and the incense.

10 And I perceived that the portions of the Levites had not been given, and that every one was fled to his land, even the Levites and the Hanan the son of Zaccur the son of Mattaniah:

for they were counted faithful, and their office was to distribute unto their brethren.

trode wine-presses on the sabbath, and that brought in sheaves, and which laded asses also with wine, grapes, and figs, and all burdens, and brought them into Jerusalem upon the sabbath-day: and ^g I protested to them in the day that they sold victuals.

16 There dwelt men of Tyrus also therein, which brought fish and all wares, and sold on the sabbath unto the children of Judah even in Jerusalem.

17 Then reproveth I the rulers of Judah, and said unto them, What evil thing is this that ye do, and break the sabbath-day?

18 Did not your fathers ^h thus, and our God brought all this plague upon us, and upon this city? yet ye increase the wrath upon Israel, in breaking the sabbath.

19 And when the gates of Jerusalem began to be ⁱ dark before the sabbath, I commanded to shut the gates, and charged that they should not be opened till after the sabbath-day, and ^{some} of my servants set I at the gates, that there should no burden be brought in on the sabbath day.

20 So the chapmen and merchants of all merchandise remained once or twice all night without Jerusalem.

21 And I protested among them, and said unto them, Why tarry ye all night about the wall? If ye do it once again, I will lay hands upon you. From that time came they no more on the sabbath.

22 ¶ And I said unto the Levites, that they should cleanse themselves, and that they should come and keep ^k the gates, to sanctify the sabbath day. Remember me, O my God, concerning this, and pardon me according to thy great

23 In those days I also saw Jews that married wives of ^l Ashdod, of Ammon, and of Moab.

24 And their children spake half in the speech of Ashdod, and could not speak in the Jews language,

God to favour him, and to be merciful unto him for his transgressors of his law to be unpunished.

Because of the diversity of names, whereby they used to name their kings, and the supputation of years wherein the Hebrews and the Grecians do vary, divers authors write diversly as touching this Abasuerus, but it seemeth, Dan. 6. 1. and 9. 1. that he was Darius king of the Medes, and son of Astyages, called also Abasuerus, which was a name of honour, and signified great and chief, as chief head. Herein is declared the great mercies of God toward his church: who never faileth them in their greatest dangers, but when all hope of worldly help faileth, he ever stirreth up some, by whom he sendeth comfort and deliverance. Herein also is described the ambition, pride and cruelty of the wicked, when they come to honour, and their sudden fall when they are at the highest, and how God preserveth and preferreth them which are zealous of his glory, and have a care and love toward their brethren.

5 And when Haman saw that Mordecai bowed not the knee unto him, nor did reverence unto him, then Haman was full of wrath.

6 Now he ³ thought it too little to lay hands only on Mordecai: and because they had shewed him the people of Mordecai, Haman sought to destroy all the Jews that were throughout the whole kingdom of Ahasuerus, even the people of Mordecai.

7 In the first month (that is the month ^h Nisan) in the twelfth year of king Ahasuerus, they cast Pur (that is, a lot) ¹ before Haman, from day to day, and from month to month, unto the twelfth month, that is the month ^k Adar.

^{† Heb. the} 13 ^{13th} And the letters were sent † by posts into all the king's provinces to root out, to kill and to destroy all the Jews, both young and old, children and women, in one day, upon the thirteenth day of the twelfth month (which is the month Adar) and to spoil them as a prey.

14 The contents of the writing was, that there should be given a commandment in all provinces, and published unto all people, that they should be ready against the same day.

15 And the posts compelled by the king's commandment went forth, and the commandment was given in the palace at Shushan: and the king and Haman sat drinking: but the ^m city of Shushan was in perplexity.

5 Mordecai giveth the queen knowledge of the cruel decree of the king against the Jews. 16 She willetb that they pray for her.

NOW when Mordecai perceived all that was done, Mordecai rent his cloaths, and put on sackcloth, and ashes, and went out into the midst of the city, and cried with a great cry and a bitter.

2 And he came even before the king's ⁿ gate, but he might not enter within the king's gate, being cloathed with sackcloth.

3 And in every province; and place, whither the king's charge and his commission came, there was great sorrow among the Jews, and fasting, and weeping, and mourning, and † many lay in sackcloth and in ashes.

^{† Heb. sack-} 4 ¶ Then Esther's maids and her eunuchs ^{cloth & ashes} came and told it her: therefore the queen was very heavy, and she sent raiment to cloath Mordecai, and to take away his sackcloth from him, but he received it not.

5 Then called Esther Hatach one of the king's eunuchs, whom he † had appointed to serve her, and gave him a commandment unto Mordecai, to know what it was, and why it was.

6 So Hatach went forth to Mordecai unto the street of the city, which was before the king's gate.

7 And Mordecai told him of all that which had come unto him, and of the † sum of the silver that Haman had promised to pay unto the king's treasures, because of the Jews, for to destroy them,

8 Also he gave him the † copy of the writing ^{† Heb. de-} and commission that was given at Shushan, to destroy them, that he might shew it unto Esther, and declare it unto her, and to charge her, that she should go in to the king, and make petition and supplication before him for her people.

^m To wit, the Jews that were in Shushan.

ⁿ Because he would advertise Esther of this cruel proclamation.

^o Thus Mordecai spake in the confidence of that faith, which all God's children ought to have: which is, that God will deliver them, though all worldly means fail.

^p For to deliver God's church out of these present dangers.

^q I will put my life in danger, and refer the success to God, seeing it is for his glory, and the deliverance of his

9 ¶ So when Hatach came, he told Esther ^{Def. Chr.} the words of Mordecai. 510.

10 Then Esther said unto Hatach, and commanded him to say unto Mordecai, 11 All the king's servants and the people of the king's provinces do know, that whosoever, man or woman, that cometh to the king into the inner court, which is not called, there is a law of his, that he shall die, except him to whom the king holdeth out the golden rod, that he may live. Now I have not been called to come unto the king these thirty days.

12 And they certified Mordecai of Esther's words.

13 And Mordecai said, that they should answer Esther thus, Think not with thyself that thou shalt escape in the king's house, more than all the Jews.

14 For if thou holdest thy peace at this time, † comfort and deliverance ^o shall appear to the Jews out of another place, but thou and thy father's house shall perish: and who knoweth whether thou art come to the kingdom for ^p such a time?

15 Then Esther commanded to answer Mordecai,

16 Go, and assemble all the Jews that are found in Shushan, and fast ye for me, and eat not, nor drink in three days, day nor night. I also and my maids will fast likewise, and so will I go in to the king, which is not according to the law: and if I perish, ^q I perish.

17 So Mordecai went his way, and did according to all that Esther had commanded him.

1 Esther entereth in to the king, and biddeth him and Haman to a feast. 14 Haman prepareth a gallows for Mordecai.

AND on the third ^r day Esther put on her royal apparel, and stood in the court of the king's palace within, over-against the king's house: and the king sat upon his royal throne in the king's palace over-against the gate of the house.

2 And when the king saw Esther the queen standing in the court, she found favour in his sight: and the king ^s held out the golden scepter that was in his hand: so Esther drew near, and touched the top of the sceptre.

3 Then said the king unto her, What wilt thou, queen Esther? and what is thy request? it shall be even given ^t thee to the half of the kingdom.

4 Then said Esther, If it please the king, let the king and Haman come this day unto the banquet that I have prepared for him.

5 And the king said, Cause Haman to make haste that he may do as Esther hath said. So the king and Haman came to the banquet that Esther had prepared.

9 Then went Haman forth the same day joyful and with a glad heart. But when Haman saw Mordecai in the king's gate, that he stood not up, nor moved for him, then was Haman full of indignation at Mordecai.

10 Nevertheless Haman refrained himself: and when he came home, he sent, and called for his friends, and Zeresh his wife.

11 And Haman told them of the glory of his riches, and the multitude of his children, and all the things wherein the king had promoted him, and how that he had set him above the princes and servants of the king.

12 Haman said moreover, Yea, Esther the queen did let no man come in with the king to the banquet that she had prepared, save me: and to-morrow I am bidden unto her also with the king.

13 But all this doth nothing avail me, as long as I see Mordecai the Jew sitting at the king's gate.

14 Then said Zeresh his wife and all his friends unto him, Let them make a tree of fifty cubits high, and to-morrow speak thou unto the king, that Mordecai may be hanged thereon: then shalt thou go joyfully with the king unto the banquet. And the thing pleased Haman, and he caused to make the tree.

1 The king turneth over the Chronicles, and findeth the fidelity of Mordecai, 10 and commanded Haman to cause Mordecai to be had in honour.

THE same night [†] the king slept not, and he commanded to bring the book of the records, and the Chronicles: and they were read before the king.

2 Then it was found written, that Mordecai had ^a told of Bigthana and Teresh, two of the king's eunuchs, keepers of the door, who sought to lay hands on the king Ahafuerus.

3 Then the king said, What honour and dignity hath been given to Mordecai ^a for this? And the king's servants that ministered unto him, said, There is nothing done for him.

4 And the king said, Who is in the court? (Now Haman was come into the inner-court of the king's house, that he might speak unto the king to ^b hang Mordecai on the tree that he had prepared for him)

9 And let the raiment and the horse be delivered by the hand of one of the king's most noble princes, and let them apparel the man (whom the king will honour) and cause him to ride upon the horse through the street of the city, and proclaim before him, Thus shall it be done unto the man whom the king will honour.

10 Then the king said to Haman, Make haste, take the raiment and the horse, as thou hast said, and do so unto Mordecai the Jew, that sitteth at the king's gate: let nothing fail of all that thou hast spoken.

11 So Haman took the raiment and the horse, and arrayed Mordecai, and brought him on horseback through the street of the city, and proclaimed before him, Thus shall it be done to the man whom the king will honour.

12 And Mordecai came again to the king's gate, but Haman hastened home mourning, and his head covered.

13 And Haman told Zeresh his wife, and all his friends all that had befallen him. Then said his wife men, and Zeresh his wife unto him, If Mordecai be of the seed of the Jews, before whom thou hast begun to fall, thou shalt not prevail against him, ^d but shalt surely fall before him.

14 And while they were yet talking with him, came the king's eunuchs, and hastened to bring Haman unto the banquet that Esther had prepared.

THE same day did king Ahasuerus give the house of Haman the adversary of the Jews unto the queen Esther : and Mordecai [†]came before the king : for Esther told what he was ^munto her.

2 And the king took off his ring, which he had taken from Haman, and gave it unto Mordecai : and Esther set Mordecai over the house of Haman.

3 And Esther spake yet more before the king, and fell down at his feet weeping, and besought him that he would put away the ⁿwickedness of Haman the Agagite, and his device that he had imagined against the Jews.

4 And the king held out the golden ^oscepter toward Esther. Then arose Esther, and stood before the king,

† Or, went also to slay the Jews.

8 Write ye also for the Jews, as it liketh you in the king's name, and seal it with the king's ring (for the writings written in the king's name, and sealed with the king's ring, may no ^pman revoke.)

9 Then were the king's scribes called at the same time, even in the third month, that is in the month ^qSivan, on the three and twentieth day thereof : and it was written, according to all as Mordecai commanded, unto the Jews, and to the princes and captains, and rulers of the provinces, which were from India even unto Ethiopia, an hundred and seven and twenty provinces, unto every province, according to the ^rwriting thereof, and to every people after their speech, and to the Jews, according to their writing, and according to their language.

10 And he wrote in the king Ahasuerus's name, and sealed it with the king's ring : and he sent letters by post on horseback and that rode on ^sbeasts of price, as dromedaries and [†]colts of mares.

1. Commandment and his decree came, there was joy and gladness to the Jews, a feast and good day, and many of the people of the land ^a became Jews: for the fear of the Jews fell upon them.

C H A P. IX.

1. In the commandment of the king, the Jews put their adversaries to death. 14 The ten sons of Haman are hanged. 17 The Jews keep a feast in remembrance of their deliverance.

SO in the twelfth month, which is the month Adar, upon the thirteenth day of the same, when the king's commandment and his decree drew near to be put in execution, in the day that the enemies of the Jews hoped to have power over them (but it ^b turned contrary, for the Jews had rule over them that hated them)

2 The Jews gathered themselves together into their cities throughout all the provinces of the king Ahasuerus, to lay hand on such as sought their hurt, and no man could withstand them: for the fear of them fell upon all people.

3 And all the rulers of the provinces, and the prince and the captains, and the officers of the king ^c exalted the Jews: for the fear of Mordecai fell upon them.

4 For Mordecai was great in the king's house, and the report of him went through all the provinces: for this man Mordecai waxed greater and greater.

5 Thus the Jews smote all their ^d enemies with strokes of the sword, and slaughter, and destruction, and did what they would unto those that hated them.

6 And at Shushan the palace the Jews slew and destroyed ^e five hundred men,

7 And Parshandatha, and Dalphon, and Aspatha,

8 And Poratha, and Adalia, and Aridatha,

9 And Parmashta, and Arifai, and Aridai, and Vajezatha,

10 The ten sons of Haman the son of Hammedatha, the adversary of the Jews, slew they: but they laid not their hands ^f on the spoil.

11 On the same day came the number of those that were slain, unto the palace of Shushan before the king, 12 And the king said unto the queen Esther, The Jews have slain in Shushan the palace, and destroyed five hundred men, and the ten sons of Haman: what have they done in the rest of the king's provinces? and what is thy petition that it may be given thee? or what is thy request moreover, that it may be performed?

13 Then said Esther, If it please the king, let it be granted also to-morrow to the Jews that are in Shushan, to do according ^g unto this day's decree, that they may hang upon the tree Haman's ten sons.

14 And the king charged to do so, and the decree was given at Shushan, and they hanged Haman's ten sons.

15 ¶ So the Jews that were in Shushan assembled themselves upon the fourteenth day of the month Adar, and slew three hundred men in Shushan, but on the spoil they laid not their hand.

16 And the rest of the Jews that were in the king's provinces assembled themselves, and stood for their ^h lives, and had rest from their enemies, and slew of them that ⁱ hated them, seventy and five thousand: but they laid not their hand on the spoil.

17 This they did on the ^j thirteenth day of the month Adar, and rested the fourteenth day thereof, and kept it a day of feasting and joy.

18 But the Jews that were in Shushan assembled themselves on the thirteenth day, and on the fourteenth thereof, and they rested on the fifteenth of the same, and kept it a day of feasting and joy.

19 Therefore the Jews of the villages that dwelt in the unwalled towns, ^k kept the fourteenth day of the month Adar: with joy and feasting, even a joyful day, and every one sent presents to his neighbour.

20 ¶ And Mordecai wrote ^l these words, and sent letters unto all the Jews that were through all the provinces of the king Ahasuerus, both near and far, 21 Enjoining them that they should keep the fourteenth day of the month Adar, and the fifteenth day of the same every year.

22 According to the days wherein the Jews rested from their enemies, and the month which was turned unto them from sorrow to joy, and from mourning unto a joyful day, to keep them the days of feasting, and joy, and ^m to send presents every man to his neighbour, and gifts to the poor.

T H E A R G U M E N T.

In this history is set before our eyes the example of a singular patience. For this holy man Job was not only extremely afflicted in outward things and in his body, but also in his mind and conscience, by the sharp temptations of his wife and chief friends: which by their vehement words, and subtil disputations, brought him almost to despair: for they set forth God as a severe judge and mortal enemy unto him, which had cast him off, therefore in vain he should seek unto him for succour. These friends came unto him under pretence of consolation, and yet they tormented him more than did all his affliction. Notwithstanding he did constantly resist them, and at length had good success. In this story we have to mark, that Job maintaineth a good cause, but handleth it evil: again, his adversaries have an evil matter, but they defend it craftily. For Job held that God did not alway punish men according to their sins, but that he had secret judgments, whereof man knew not the cause, and therefore man could not reason against God therein, but he should be convicted. Moreover, he was assured that God had not rejected him, yet through his great torments and affliction he bursteth forth into many inconveniences both of words and sentences, and sheweth himself as a desperate man in many things, and as one that would resist God: and this is his good cause which he doth not handle well. Again, the adversaries maintain with many goodly arguments, that God punisheth continually according to the trespass, grounding upon God's providence, his justice, and man's sins, yet their intention is evil: for they laboured to bring Job into despair, and so they maintain an evil cause. Ezekiel commendeth Job as a just man, Ezek. xiv. 14. and James setteth out his patience for an example, James v. 11.

C H A P. I.

1 The fall of, riches, and care of Job for his children. 10 Satan hath permission to tempt him. 13 He tempteth him by taking away his substance, and his children. 20 His faith and patience.

HERE was a man in the land of Uz, called Job, and this man was an upright and just man, one that feared God and eschewed evil.

2 And he had seven sons, and three daughters.

3 His substance also was seven thousand sheep, and three thousand camels, and five hundred yoke of oxen, and five hundred she-asses, and his family was very great, so that this man was the greatest of all the men of the east,

4 And his sons went and banquetted in their houses, every one his day, and sent, and called their three sisters to eat and drink with them.

5 And when the days of their banquetting were gone about, Job sent, and sanctified them, and rose up early in the morning, and offered burnt-offerings according to the number of them all. For Job thought, It may be that my sons have sinned, and blasphemed God in their hearts: thus did Job every day.

6 Now on a day when the children of God came and stood before the Lord, Satan came also among them.

7 Then the Lord said unto Satan, Whence comest thou? And Satan answered the Lord, saying, From compassing the earth to and fro, and from walking in it.

8 And the Lord said unto Satan, Hast thou not considered my servant Job, how none is like him in the earth? an upright and just man, one that feareth God, and escheweth evil?

9 Then Satan answered the Lord, and said, Doth Job fear God for nought?

10 Hast thou not made an hedge about him, and about his house, and about all that he hath on every side? thou hast blessed the work of his hands, and his substance is increased in the land.

11 But stretch out now thine hand, and touch all that he hath, to see if he will not blaspheme thee to thy face.

^a That is, of the country of Idumca, as Lam. 4. 21. or bordering thereupon: for the land was called by the name of Uz the son of Dishan the son of Seir. Gen. xxxvi. 28.

^b Forasmuch as he was a Gentile, and not a Jew, and yet is pronounced upright, and without hypocrisy, it declareth that amongst the heathen God hath his.

^c Hereby is declared, what is meant by an upright and just man.

^d His children and riches are declared to commend his virtue in his prosperity, and his patience and constancy, when God had taken them from him.

^e Meaning, the Arabians, Chaldeans, Idumeans, &c. ^f That is, commanded them to be sanctified: meaning, that they should consider the faults that they had committed, and reconcile themselves for the same.

^g That is, he offered for every one of his children an offering of reconciliation, which declared his religion toward God, and the care that he had toward his children.

^h In Hebrew it is, and blessed God, which is sometimes taken for blaspheming and cursing, as here, and 1 Kings 21. 10. and 13. &c.

^k Meaning, the angels, which are called the sons of God, because they are willing to execute his will.

^l Because our infirmity cannot comprehend God in his majesty, he is set forth unto us as a king, that our capacity may be able to understand that which is spoken of him.

^m This declareth, that although Satan be adversary to God, yet he is compelled to obey him, and to do him all homage, without whose permission and appointment he can do nothing.

This question is asked for our infirmity: for God know whence he came.

ⁿ Herein is described the nature of Satan, which is ever ranging for his prey, 1 Pet. 5. 8.

12 Then the Lord said unto Satan, Lo, all that he hath is in thine hand: only upon himself shalt thou not stretch out thine hand. So Satan departed from the presence of the Lord.

13 ¶ And on a day when his sons and his daughters were eating and drinking wine in their eldest brother's house,

14 There came a messenger unto Job, and said, The oxen were plowing, and the asses feeding in their places,

15 And the Sabeans came violently, and took them: yea, they have slain the servants with the edge of the sword: but I only am escaped alone to tell thee.

16 And whilst he was yet speaking, another came and said, The fire of God is fallen from the heaven, and hath burnt up the sheep, and the servants, and devoured them: but I only am escaped to tell thee.

17 And whilst he was yet speaking, another came, and said, The Chaldeans set out three bands, and fell upon the camels, and have taken them, and have slain the servants with the edge of the sword: but I only am escaped alone to tell thee.

18 And whilst he was yet speaking, came another, and said, Thy sons and thy daughters were eating, and drinking wine in their eldest brother's house, 19 And behold, there came a great wind from beyond the wilderness, and smote the four corners of the house, which fell upon the children, and they are dead, and I only am escaped alone to tell thee.

20 Then Job arose, and rent his garment, and shaved his head, and fell down upon the ground, and worshipped, 21 And said, * Naked came I out of my mother's womb, and naked shall I return thither: the Lord hath given, and the Lord hath taken it: blessed be the name of the Lord.

22 In all this did not Job sin, nor charge God foolishly.

C H A P.

^p He feareth not thee for thine own sake, but for the commodity that he receiveth by thee.

^q Meaning, the grace of God, which served Job as a rampart against all temptations.

^r This signifieth, that Satan is not able to touch us, but it is God that must do it.

^s Satan noteth the vice whereunto men are commonly subject: that is, to hide their rebellion, and to be content with God in the time of prosperity, which vice is disclosed in the time of their adversity.

^t God giveth not Satan power over man to gratify him, but to declare that he hath no power over man, but that which God giveth him.

^u That is, went to execute that which God had permitted him to do: for else he can never go out of God's presence.

^v That is, the Arabians.

^w Which thing also was done by the craft of Satan, to tempt Job the more grievously, forasmuch as he might see, that not only men were his enemies, but that God made war against him.

^x This last plague declareth that when one plague is past, which seemeth hard to be borne, God can send us another far more grievous to try his, and teach them obedience.

^y Which came not of impatience, but declareth that the children of God are not insensible like blocks, but that in their patience they feel affliction and grief of mind: yet they keep a mean herein, and rebel not against God, as the wicked do.

^z That is, into the belly of the earth, which is the mother of all.

^{aa} Hereby he confesseth that God is just and good, although his hand be sore upon him.

^{ab} But declared that God did all things according to justice and equity.

C H A P. II.

6 Satan hath permission to afflict Job. 9 His wife tempteth him to forsake God. 11 His three friends visit him.

AND on a day the ^e children of God came and stood before the Lord, and ^f Satan came also among them, and stood before the Lord.

2 Then the Lord said unto Satan, Whence comest thou? And Satan answered the Lord, and said, From compassing the earth to and fro, and from walking in it.

3 And the Lord said unto Satan, Hast thou not considered my servant Job, how none is like him in the earth? ^{*} an upright and just man, one that feareth God, and escheweth evil? for yet he continueth in his uprightness, ^g although thou movedst me against him, to destroy him ^h without cause.

4 And Satan answered the Lord, and said, ⁱ Skin for skin, and all that ever a man hath will he give for his life.

5 But stretch now out thine hand, and touch his ^k bones and his flesh, to see if he will not blaspheme thee to thy face.

6 Then the Lord said unto Satan, Lo, he is in thine hand, but save ^l his life.

7 ¶ So Satan departed from the presence of the Lord, and smote Job with sore ^m boils, from the sole of his foot unto his crown.

8 And he took a ⁿ potsherd to scrape him, and he sat down among the ashes.

9 Then said his ^o wife unto him, Dost thou ^p continue yet in thine uprightness? Blaspheme God, and die.

10 But he said unto her, Thou speakest like a foolish woman: what? shall we receive good at the hand of God, and not ^q receive evil? in all this did not Job sin with his ^r lips.

11 Now when Job's three ^s friends heard of all this evil that was come upon him, they came, every one from his own place, to wit, Eliphaz the Temanite, and Bildad the Shuhite, and Zophar the Naamathite: for they were agreed together to come to lament with him, and to comfort him.

^e That is, the angels, as ch. 1. 6.

^f Read ch. 1. 6.

^g He proveth Job's integrity by this, that he ceased not to fear God when his plagues were grievously upon him.

^h That is, when thou hadst nought against him, or when thou wast not able to bring thy purpose to pass.

ⁱ Hereby he meant that a man's own skin is dearer unto him than any other man's.

^k Meaning, his own person.

^l Thus Satan can go no further in punishing, than God hath limited him.

^m This sore was most vehement, wherewith also God plagued the Egyptians, Exod. 9. 9. and threateneth to punish the rebellious people, Deut. 28. 27. So that this temptation was most grievous: for if Job had measured God's favour by the vehemence of his disease, he might have thought that God had cast him off.

ⁿ As destitute of all other help and means, and wonderfully afflicted with the sorrow of his disease.

^o Satan useth the same instrument against Job, as he did against Adam.

^p Meaning, what gainest thou to serve God, seeing he thus plagueth thee, as though he were thine enemy? This is the most grievous temptation of the faithful, when their faith is assailed, and when Satan goeth about to persuade them, that they trust in God in vain.

^q For death was appointed to the blasphemer, and so he meant, that he should be soon rid out of his pain.

^r That is, to be patient in adversity, as we rejoice when 12 So when they lift up their eyes afar off, they knew him not: therefore they lift up their voices and wept, and every one of them rent his garment, and sprinkled ^u dust upon their heads toward the heaven.

13 So they sat by him upon the ground seven days, and seven nights, and none spake a word unto him: for they saw that his grief ^v was very great.

C H A P. III.

1 Job complaineth, and curseth the day of his birth.

11 He desireth to die, as though death were the end of all man's misery.

AFTERWARD ^x Job opened his mouth, and ^y cursed his day.

2 And Job cried out, and said,

3 Let the day ^z perish wherein I was born, and the night when it was said, There is a man child conceived.

4 Let that day be darkness, let not God ^a regard it from above, neither let the light shine upon it,

5 But let darkness, and the ^b shadow of death stain it: let the cloud remain upon it, and let them make it fearful as a bitter day.

6 Let darkness possess that night, let it not be joined unto the days of the year, nor let it come into the count of the months.

7 Yea, desolate be that night, and let no joy be in it.

8 Let them that curse the day (being ^c ready to renew their mourning) curse it.

9 Let the stars of that twilight be dim through darkness of it: let it look for light, but have none: neither let it ^d see [†] the dawning of the day,

10 Because it shut not up the doors of my ^e mother's womb, nor hid sorrow from mine eyes.

11 ^e Why died I not in the birth? or why died I not when I came out of the womb?

12 Why did the knees prevent me? and why did I suck the breasts?

^u This was also a ceremony, which they used in those countries, as the rending of their cloaths in sign of sorrow, &c.

^v And therefore thought that he would not have hearkened to their counsel.

^x The seven days ended, ch. 2. 13.

^y Here Job beginneth to feel his great imperfection, in this battle between the spirit and the flesh, Rom. 7. 18. and after a manner yieldeth, yet in the end he getteth victory, though he was in the mean time greatly wounded.

^z Men ought not to be weary of their life, and curse it because of the infirmities that it is subject unto, but because they are given to sin and rebellion against God.

^a Let it be put out of the number of days, and let it not have the light of the sun to separate it from the night.

CHAP. IV.

5 Job is reprehended of impatience, 7 and injustice, 17 and of the presumption of his own righteousness.

THEN Eliphaz the Temanite answered, and said,

2 If we assay to commune with thee, wilt thou be grieved? but ^o who can withhold himself from speaking?
 3 Behold, thou hast taught many, and ^{hast} strengthened the weary hands.

man giveth place to his passions, he is not able to stay, nor keep measure, but runneth headlong into all evil, except God call him back.

^f The vehemency of his afflictions made him to utter these words, as though death were the end of all miseries, and as if there were no life after this: which he speaketh not as though it were so, but the infirmities of his flesh caused him to burst out into this error of the wicked.

^g He noteth the ambition of them, which for their pleasure as it were change the order of nature, and build in most barren places, because they would hereby make their names immortal.

^h That is, by death the cruelty of the tyrants hath ceased.

ⁱ All they that sustain any kind of calamity and misery in this world: which he speaketh after the judgment of the flesh.

^k He sheweth that the benefits of God are not comfortable, except the heart be joyful, and the conscience quieted.

^l That seeth not how to come out of his miseries, because he dependeth not on God's providence.

^m In my prosperity I looked ever for a fall, as is now come to pass.

ⁿ The fear of troubles that should ensue, caused my prosperity to seem to me as nothing, and yet I am not exempted from trouble.

^o Seeing this thine impatience.

^p Thou hast comforted others in their afflictions, and canst not now comfort thyself.

^q Thus he concludeth that Job was but an hypocrite, and had no true fear nor trust in God.

^r He concludeth that Job was reprov'd, seeing that God

4 Thy words have confirmed him that was falling, and thou hast strengthened the weak knees.

5 But now it is come upon thee, and thou art grieved: it toucheth thee, and thou art troubled.

6 Is not this thy ^a fear, thy confidence, thy patience, and the uprightness of thy ways?

7 Remember, I pray thee: who ever perished, being an ^r innocent? or where were the upright destroyed?

8 As I have seen, they that ^s plow iniquity, and sow wickedness, reap the same.

9 With the ^t blast of God they perish, and with the breath of his nostrils are they consumed.

^c Though men according to their office do not punish tyrants, (whom for their cruelty he compareth to lions, and their children to their whelps) yet God both is able, and his justice will punish them.

^d A thing that I knew not before, was declared unto me by visions, that is, that whosoever thinketh himself just, shall be found a sinner when he cometh before God.

^e In these visions which God sheweth to his creatures, there is ever a certain fear joined, that the authority thereof might be had in greater reverence.

^f When all things were quiet, or when the fear was somewhat assuaged, as God appeared to Elijah, 1 Kings 19. 12.

^g He proveth that if God did punish the innocent, the creature should be more just than the Creator, which were a blasphemy.

triest him every moment?

me? thou wilt not let me alone while I may swallow my spittle.

20 I have ^k sinned, what shall I do unto thee?
O thou preserver of men, why hast thou set me as a mark against thee, so that I am a burden unto myself?

21 And why dost thou not pardon my tres-pafs? and take away mine iniquity? for now shall I sleep in the dust, and if thou seek me in the morning, I shall ^l not be found.

¹ Bildad sheweth that Job is a sinner, because God punisheth the wicked, and preserveth the good.

THEN answered Bildad the Shuhite, and said,

² How long wilt thou talk of these things?
and how long shall the words of thy mouth ^m be as a mighty wind?

³ Doth God pervert judgment? or doth the Almighty subvert justice?

will awake up unto thee, and he will make the habitation of thy righteousness prosperous.

⁷ And though thy beginning ^p be small, yet thy latter end shall greatly increase.

⁸ ^q Inquire therefore, I pray thee, of the former age, and prepare thyself to search of their fathers.

¹ Job declareth the mighty power of God, and that man's righteousness is nothing.

THEN Job answered, and said,

² I know verily that it is so: for how should man compared unto God be ^a justified?

³ If he would dispute with him, he could not answer him one thing of a ^b thousand.

^f So that I can have no rest, night nor day.

^g He speaketh as one overcome with sorrow, and not of judgment, or of the examination of his faith.

^h Seeing my term of life is so short, let me have some rest and ease.

ⁱ Seeing that man of himself is so vile, why dost thou give him that honour to contend against him? Job useth all kinds of persuasion with God, that he might stay his hand.

^k After all temptations, faith bursteth forth, and leadeth Job to repentance: yet it was not in such perfection, that he could bridle himself from reasoning with God, because that he still tried his faith.

^l That is, I shall be dead.

^m He declareth that their words which would diminish any thing from the justice of God, are but as a puff of wind that vanisheth away.

ⁿ That is, hath rewarded them according to their iniquity, meaning that Job ought to be warned by the example of his children, that he offend not God.

^o That is, if thou turn betimes, while God calleth thee to repentance.

^p Though the beginnings be not so pleasant as thou wouldest desire, yet in the end thou shalt have sufficient occasion to content thyself.

^q He willeth Job to examine all antiquity, and he shall find it true which he here saith.

^r Meaning, that it is not enough to have the experience of ourselves, but to be confirmed by the examples of them that went before us.

^s As a rush cannot grow without moistness, so cannot the hypocrite, because he hath not faith, which is moistened with God's Spirit.

^t Which is to-day, and to-morrow swept away.

^u He compareth the just to a tree, which although it be removed out of one place unto another, yet flourisheth:
so the affliction of the godly turneth to their profit.

^x That is, so that there remain nothing there to prove whether the tree had grown there or no.

^y To be planted in another place, where it may grow at pleasure.

^z If thou be godly, he will give thee occasion to rejoice, and if not, thine affliction shall increase.

^a Job here answereth to that point of Eliphaz and Bildad's oration, touching the justice of God, and his innocence, confessing God to be infinite in justice, and man to be nothing in respect.

^b Of a thousand things which God could lay to his charge, man cannot answer him one.

^c He declareth what is the infirmity of man, by the mighty and incomprehensible power that is in God, shew-ing what he could do if he would set forth his power.

10. Ch. 5. He himself alone spreadeth out the heavens, and walketh upon the height of the sea.

11. He maketh the stars ^a Arcturus, Orion, and Pleiades, and the climates of the south.

12. He doth great things and unsearchable: yea, marvellous things without number.

13. Lo, when he goeth ^c by me, I see him not: and when he passeth by, I perceive him not.

14. Behold, when he taketh a prey, ^d who can make him to restore it? who shall say unto him, What doest thou?

15. God ^e will not withdraw his anger, and the most mighty helps ^f do stoop under him.

16. How much less shall I answer him? or how should I find out ^g my words with him?

17. For though I were just, yet could I ^h not answer, but I would make supplication to my judge.

18. If I cry, and he answer me, yet would I not believe, that he heard my voice.

19. For he destroyeth me with a tempest, and woundeth me ⁱ without cause.

20. He will not suffer me to take my breath, but filleth me with bitternefs.

21. If we speak of strength, behold, he is strong: if we speak of judgment, who shall bring me in to plead?

22. If I would justify myself, mine own mouth shall condemn me: ^j if I would be perfect, he shall judge me wicked.

23. Though I were perfect, yet I know not my soul: therefore abhor I my life.

24. This is one point: therefore I said, He destroyeth the ^k perfect and the wicked.

25. If the scourge should suddenly ^l slay, should God ^m laugh at the punishment of the innocent?

26. The earth is given into the hand of the wicked: he ⁿ covereth the faces of the judges thereof: if not, where ^o is he? or who is he?

27. My days have been more swift than a post: they have fled, and have seen no good thing.

25. They are passed as with the most swift ships, and as the eagle that ^p flieth to the prey.

27. If ^q I say, I will forget my complaint, I will cease from my wrath, and comfort me,

28. Then I am afraid of all my sorrows, knowing that thou wilt not judge me innocent.

29. If I be wicked, why ^r labour I thus in vain?

30. If I wash ^s myself with snow water, and purge mine hands most clean,

31. Yet shalt thou plunge me in the pit, and mine own ^t cloaths shall make me filthy.

32. For he is not a man as I am, that I should answer him, if we come together to judgment.

33. Neither is there any umpire ^u that might lay his hand upon us both.

34. Let him take his rod away from me, and let not his fear astonish me:

35. Then will I speak, and fear him not: but because I am not so, I hold me still.

CHAP. X.

1. Job is weary of his life, and setteth out his frailty before God. 20. He desireth him to stay his hand.

22. A description of death.

MY soul is cut off ^v though I live: I will leave my ^w complaint upon myself, and will speak in the bitternefs of my soul.

2. I will say unto God, ^x Condemn me not: shew me wherefore thou contendest with me.

3. Thinkest thou it ^y good to oppress me, and to cast off the ^z labour of thine hands, and to favour the ^a counsel of the wicked?

4. Hast thou ^b carnal eyes? or dost thou see as man seeth?

5. Are thy days as man's ^c days? or thy years as the time of man,

7. Thou knowest that I cannot do ^d wickedly: for none can deliver me out of thine hand.

8. Thine ^e hands have made me, and fashioned me

^a These are the names of certain stars, whereby he meaneth that all stars both known and unknown are at his appointment.

^b I am not able to comprehend his works, which are common and daily before mine eyes, much less in those things which are hid and secret.

^c He sheweth that when God doth execute his power, he doth it justly, forasmuch as none can controul him.

^d God will not be appeased for aught that man can say for himself for his justification.

^e That is, all the reasons that men can lay to approve their cause.

^f How should I be able to answer him by eloquence? whereby he noteth his friends, that albeit they were eloquent in talk, yet they felt not in heart that which they spake.

^g Meaning, in his own opinion, signifying that man will sometime flatter himself to be righteous, which before God is abomination.

^h While I am in my pangs, I cannot but burst forth into many inconveniences, although I know still that God is just.

ⁱ I am not able to feel my sins so great, as I feel the weight of his plagues: and this he speaketh to condemn his dullness, and to justify God.

^j After he hath accused his own weakness, he continueth to justify God and his power.

^k If I would stand in mine own defence, yet God hath just cause to condemn me, if he examine mine heart and conscience.

^l If God punish according to his justice, he will destroy as well them that are counted perfect, as them that are wicked.

^m To wit, the wicked.

ⁿ This is spoken according to our apprehension, as though he would say, If God destroy but the wicked, as

ch. 5. 3. why should he suffer the innocents to be so long tormented by them?

^o That they cannot see to do justice.

^p That can shew the contrary.

^q I think not to fall into these affections, but my sorrows bring me to these manifold infirmities, and my conscience condemneth me.

^r Why doth not God destroy me at once? Thus he speaketh according to the infirmity of the flesh.

^s Though I seem never so pure in mine own eyes, yet all is but corruption before God.

^t Whatsoever I would use to cover my silt. incs with, shall disclose me so much more.

^u Which might make an accord between God and me, speaking of impatience, and yet confessing God to be just in punishing him.

^v Signifying that God's judgments keep him in awe.

^w I am more like to a dead man than to one that liveth.

^x I will make an ample declaration of my torments, accusing myself, and not God.

^y He would not that God should proceed against him by his secret justice, but by the ordinary means that he punisheth others.

^z Is it agreeable to thy justice to do me wrong?

^a Wilt thou be without compassion?

^b Wilt thou gratify the wicked, and condemn me?

^c Dcest thou this of ignorance?

^d Art thou inconstant and changeable, as the times, to-day a friend, and to-morrow an enemy?

^e By affliction thou keepst me as in a prison, and restrainest me from doing evil, neither can any set me at liberty.

9 Remember, I pray thee, that thou hast made me as the ^m clay, and wilt thou bring me into dust again?

10 Hast thou not poured me out as milk? and turned me to curds like cheese?

11 Thou hast clothed me with skin and flesh, and joined me together with bones and sinews, 12 Thou hast given me life, and ⁿ grace: and thy ^o visitation hath preserved my spirit.

13 Though thou hast hid these things in thine heart, yet I know ^p that it is so with thee.

14 If I have sinned, then thou wilt straitly look unto me, and wilt not hold me guiltless of mine iniquity.

15 If I have done wickedly, wo unto me: if I have done righteously, I will not ^q lift up mine head, being full of confusion, because I see mine affliction.

16 But let it increase: hunt thou me as a lion: return and shew thyself ^r marvellous upon me.

17 Thou renewest thy plagues against me, and thou increasest thy wrath against me: ^s changes and armies of sorrows are against me.

18 Wherefore then hast thou brought me out of the womb? Oh that I had perished, and that none eye had seen me!

19 And that I were as I had not been, but brought from the womb to the grave!

20 Are not my days few? let him ^t cease, and leave off from me, that I may take a little comfort,

21 Before I go and shall not ^u return, even to the land of darkness and shadow of death:

^o That is, thy fatherly care and providence, whereby thou preservest me, and without the which I should perish straitway.

^p Though I be not fully able to comprehend these things, yet I must needs confess that it is so.

^q I will always walk in fear and humility, knowing that none is just before thee.

^r Job being sore assaulted in this battle between the flesh and the spirit, bursteth out into these affections, wishing rather short days than long pain.

^s That is, diversity of diseases and in great abundance: shewing that God hath infinite means to punish man.

^t He wisheth that God would leave off his affliction, considering his great misery, and the brevity of his life.

^u He speaketh thus in the person of a sinner, that is overcome with passions and with the feeling of God's judgments, and therefore cannot apprehend in that state the mercies of God and comfort of the resurrection.

16 But now thou ^{*} numberest my steps, and ^{Prov. 5.21.}
dost not delay my sins.

17 Mine iniquity is sealed up, as in a ^r bag, and thou addest unto my wickedness.

18 And surely as the mountain that falleth, cometh to nought, and the ^s rock that is removed from his place:

19 As the water breaketh the stones, when thou overflowest the things which grow in the dust of the earth, so thou destroyest the hope of man.

20 Thou prevailest always against him, so that he passeth away: he changeth his face when thou castest him away.

21 And he knoweth not if his sons shall be honourable, neither shall he understand concerning them, whether they shall be of low degree.

22 But while his ^t flesh is upon him, he shall be sorrowful, and while his soul is in him, it shall mourn.

C H A P. XV.

I Eliphaz reprehendeth Job because he ascribeth wisdom and pureness to himself. 16 He describeth the curse that falleth on the wicked, reckoning Job to be one of the number.

ture, God should not handle him so extremely: wherein Job sheweth the wickedness of the flesh, when it is not subject to the spirit.

¹ Until the time that thou hast appointed for him to die, which he desireth, as the hireling waiteth for the end of his labour to receive his wages.

^m He speaketh not here, as though he had not hope of the immortality, but as a man in extreme pain, when reason is overcome by afflictions and torments.

ⁿ Hereby he declareth that the fear of God's judgment was the cause why he desired to die.

^o That is, release my pains, and take me to mercy.

^p Meaning, unto the day of the resurrection, when he should be changed and renewed.

^q Though I be afflicted in this life, yet in the resurrection I shall feel thy mercies, and answer when thou callest me.

^r Thou layest them all together, and sufferest none of my sins unpunished.

^s He murmureth through the impatience of the flesh against God, as though he uied as great severity against him, as against the hard rocks, or waters that overflow, so that hereby all the occasion of his hope is taken away.

^t Yet while he liveth, he shall be in pain and misery.

1520. THEN answered Eliphaz the Temanite, and said,

2 Shall a wife man speak words of the wind, and fill his belly with the east wind?

3 Shall he dispute with words not comely? or with talk that is not profitable?

4 Surely thou hast cast off fear, and restrainest prayer before God.

5 For thy mouth declareth thine iniquity, seeing thou hast chosen the tongue of the crafty.

6 Thine own mouth condemneth thee, and not I, and thy lips testify against thee.

7 Art thou the first man that was born? and wast thou made before the hills?

8 Hast thou heard the secret counsel of God, and dost thou restrain wisdom to thee?

9 What knowest thou that we know not? and understandest that is not in us?

10 With us are both ancient and very aged men, far older than thy father.

11 See the consolations of God small unto thee? is this thing strange unto thee?

12 Why doth thine heart take thee away, and what do thine eyes mean, 13 That thou answerest to God at thy pleasure, and bringest such words out of thy mouth?

14 What is man, that he should be clean? and he that is born of woman, that he should be just?

15 Behold, he found no stedfastness in his saints: yea, the heavens are not clean in his sight.

16 How much more is man abominable and filthy, which drinketh iniquity like water?

17 I will tell thee, hear me, and I will declare that which I have seen:

18 Which wise men have told, as they have heard of their fathers, and have not kept it secret.

19 To whom alone the land was given, and no stranger passed through them.

20 The wicked man is continually as one that travaileth of child, and the number of years is hid from the tyrant.

21 A sound of fear is in his ears, and in his prosperity the destroyer shall come upon him.

22 He believeth not to return out of darkness: for he seeth the sword before him.

² That is, vain words, and without consolation.
³ Meaning, with matters that are of none importance, which are forgotten as soon as they are uttered, as the east wind drieth up the moisture as soon as it falleth.
⁴ He chargeth Job as though his talk caused men to cast off the fear of God, and prayer.
⁵ Thou speakest as do the mockers and contemners of God.
⁶ That is, the most ancient, and so by reason the most wise.
⁷ Art thou only wife?
⁸ He accuseth Job's pride and ingratitude, that will not be comforted by God, nor by their counsel.
⁹ Why dost thou stand in thine own conceit?
¹⁰ His purpose is to prove that Job is an unjust man, and an hypocrite, is punished for his sins, like as he did before, ch. 4. 18.
¹¹ Which hath a desire to sin, as he that is thirsty to drink.

23 He wandereth to and fro for bread where he may: he knoweth that the day of darkness is prepared at hand.

24 Affliction and anguish shall make him afraid: they shall prevail against him as a king ready to battle.

25 For he hath stretched out his hand against God, and made himself strong against the Almighty.

26 Therefore God shall run upon him, even upon his neck, and against the most thick part of his shield, 27 Because he hath covered his face with his fatness, and hath collops in his flanks.

28 Though he dwell in desolate cities, and in houses which no man inhabiteth, but are become heaps,

29 He shall not be rich, neither shall his substance continue, neither shall he prolong the perfection thereof in the earth.

30 He shall never depart out of darkness: the flame shall dry up his branches, and he shall go away with the breath of his mouth.

31 He believeth not that he erreth in vanity: therefore vanity shall be his change.

32 His branch shall not be green, but shall be cut off before his day.

33 God shall destroy him as the vine her four grape, and shall cast him off as the olive doth her flower.

34 For the congregation of the hypocrite shall be desolate, and fire shall devour the houses of bribes.

35 For they conceive mischief and bring forth vanity, and their belly hath prepared deceit.

1 Job, moved by the importunity of his friends, 7 counteth in what extremity he is, 19 and taketh God to witness of his innocency.

BUT Job answered and said, 2 I have oftentimes heard such things: miserable comforters are ye all.

3 Shall there be no end of words of wind? or what maketh thee bold so to answer?

5 But

nefs evermore to gather: which is as a beggary.
² He sheweth what weapons God useth against the wicked, which lift up themselves against him, to wit, terror of conscience and outward afflictions.
³ That is, he was so puffed up with great prosperity and abundance of all things, that he forgot God: noting, that Job in his felicity had not the true fear of God.
⁴ Though he build and repair ruinous places to get him fame, yet God shall bring all to nought, and turn his great prosperity into extreme misery.
⁵ Meaning, that his sumptuous buildings should never come to perfection.
⁶ He standeth so in his own conceit, that he will give no place to good counsel, therefore his own pride shall bring him to destruction.
⁷ As one that gathereth grapes before they be ripe.
⁸ Which were built or maintained by pillage and bribery.
⁹ And therefore all their vain devices shall turn to their own destruction.

7 But now he ^z maketh me weary: O God, thou hast made all my ^a congregation desolate,

8 And hast made me full of ^b wrinkles, which is a witness thereof, and my leanness riseth up in me, testifying the same in my face.

9 ^c His wrath hath torn me, and he hateth me, and gnasheth upon me with his teeth: mine enemy hath sharpened his eyes against me.

10 They have opened their mouths upon me, and smitten me on the ^d cheek in reproach: they gathered themselves together against me.

11 God hath delivered me to the unjust, and hath made me to turn out of the way by the ^e hands of the wicked.

12 I was in wealth, but he hath brought me to nought: he hath taken me by the neck and beaten me, and set me as a mark for himself.

13 His ^f archers compass me round about: he cutteth my reins, and doth not spare, and poureth my gall ^g upon the ground.

14 He hath broken me with one breaking upon another, and runneth upon me like a giant.

15 I have sewed a sackcloth upon my skin, and have abased mine ^h horn unto the dust.

16 My face is withered with weeping, and the shadow of death is upon mine eyes, 17 Though there be no wickedness in ⁱ mine hands, and my prayer ^k be pure.

18 O earth, cover not thou my ^l blood, and let my crying find no place.

19 For lo, now my ^m witness is in the heaven, and my record is on high.

C H A P. XVII.

Job saith that he consumeth away, and yet doth patiently abide it. 10 He exhorteth his friends to repentance, 13 shewing that he looketh but for his death.

MY breath is corrupt: my days are cut off, and the grave is ready for me.

2 There are none but ^p mockers with me, and mine eye continueth in ^q their bitterness.

3 ^r Lay down now, and put me in surety for thee, who is he that will ^s touch mine hand?

4 For thou hast hid their heart from ^t understanding: therefore shalt thou not set them up on high.

5 ^u For the eyes of his children shall fail, that speaketh flattery to his friends.

6 He hath also made me a ^v by-word of the people, and I am as a tabret ^x before them.

7 Mine eye therefore is dim for grief, and all my strength is like a shadow.

8 The righteous shall be astonished at ^y this, and the innocent shall be moved against the hypocrite.

9 But the righteous will hold his ^z way, and he whose hands are pure shall increase his strength.

10 All ^a you, therefore, turn you, and come now, and I shall not find one wise amongst you.

11 My days are past, mine enterprises are broken, and the thoughts of mine heart

12 Have changed the ^b night for the day, and the light that approached for darkness.

13 Though I hope, ^c yet the grave shall be mine house, and I shall make my bed in the dark.

14 I shall say to corruption, Thou art my ^d father, and to the worm, Thou art my mother, and my sister.

15 Where is then now mine hope? or who shall consider the thing that I hoped for?

16 ^e They shall go down into the bottom of the pit: surely it shall lie together in the dust.

^x If this were in my power, yet would I comfort you, and not do as ye do to me.

^y If they would say, Why dost thou not then comfort thyself? he answereth, that the judgments of God are more heavy than he is able to assuage either by words or silence.

^z Meaning, God.

^a That is, destroyed most of my family.

^b In token of sorrow and grief.

^c That is, God by his wrath: and in this diversity of words and high stile he expresseth how grievous the hand of God was upon him.

^d That is, have handled me most contemptuously: for so smiting on the cheek signified, 1 Kings 22. 24. Mark 14. 65.

^e They have led me whither they would.

^f His manifold afflictions.

^g I am wounded to the heart.

^h Meaning, his glory was brought low.

ⁱ Signifying, that he is not able to comprehend the cause of this his grievous punishment.

^k That is, unfeigned, and without hypocrisy.

^l Let my sin be known, if I be such a sinner as mine adversaries accuse me, and let me find no favour.

^m Though man condemn me, yet God is witness of my cause.

ⁿ Use painted words instead of true consolation:

^o Thus by his great torments he is carried away, and breaketh out into passions, and speaketh unadvisedly, as though God should treat man more gently, seeing he hath but a short time here to live.

^p Instead of comfort, being now at death's door, he had but them that mocked at him, and discouraged him.

^q I see still that they seek but to vex me.

^r He reasoneth with God as a man beside himself, to the intent that his cause might be brought to light.

^s And answer for thee?

^t That these mine afflictions are thy just judgments, though man know not the cause.

^u He that flattereth a man, and only judgeth him happy in his prosperity, shall not himself only, but in his posterity be punished.

^v God hath made all the world to speak of me, because of mine afflictions.

^x That is, as a continual sound in their ears.

^y To wit, when they see the godly punished: but in the end they shall come to understanding, and know what shall be the reward of the hypocrite.

^z That is, will not be discouraged, considering that the godly are punished, as well as the wicked.

^a Job speaketh to them three that came to comfort him:

^b That is, have brought me sorrow instead of comfort.

^c Though I should hope to come from adversity to prosperity, as your discourse pretendeth.

^d I have no more hope in father, mother, sister, or any worldly thing: for the dust and worms shall be to me instead of them.

^e All worldly hope and prosperity fail, which you say, are only signs of God's favour: but seeing that these things perish, I set mine hope in God, and in the life everlasting.

1 Bildad rebeareth the pains of the unfaithful and wicked.

THEN answered Bildad the Shuhite, and said,

2 When will ye make an end of your words? cause us to understand, and then we will speak.

3 Wherefore are we counted as beasts, and are vile in your sight?

4 Thou art as one that teareth his soul in his anger, Shall the earth be forsaken for thy sake? or the rock removed out of his place?

5 Yea, the light of the wicked shall be quenched, and the spark of his fire shall not shine.

6 The light shall be dark in his dwelling, and his candle shall be put out with him.

7 The steps of his strength shall be refrained, and his own counsel shall cast him down.

8 For he is taken in the net by his feet, and he walketh upon the snares.

9 The grin shall take him by the heel, and the thief shall come upon him.

10 A snare is laid for him in the ground, and a trap for him in the way.

11 Fearfulness shall make him afraid on every side, and shall drive him to his feet.

12 His strength shall be famine: and destruction shall be ready at his side.

13 It shall devour the inner parts of his skin, and the first-born of death shall devour his strength.

14 His hope shall be rooted out of his dwelling, and shall cause him to go to the king of fear.

15 Fear shall dwell in his house (because it is not his), and brimstone shall be scattered upon his habitation.

16 His roots shall be dried up beneath, and above shall his branch be cut down.

17 His remembrance shall perish from the earth, and he shall have no name in the street.

18 They shall drive him out of the light unto darkness, and chase him out of the world.

19 He shall neither have son nor nephew among his people, nor any posterity in his dwellings.

2 Job reproveth his friends, 15 and reciteth his miseries and grievous pains. 25 He assureth himself of the general resurrection.

BUT Job answered, and said,
 2 How long will ye vex my soul, and torment me with words?

3 Ye have now ten times reproached me, and are not ashamed: ye are impudent toward me.

4 And though I had indeed erred, mine error remaineth with me.

5 But indeed, if ye will advance yourselves against me, and rebuke me for my reproach,

6 Know now, that God hath overthrown me, and hath compassed me with his net.

7 Behold, I cry out of violence, but I have none answer: I cry, but there is no judgment.

8 He hath hedged up my way that I cannot pass, and he hath set darkness in my paths.

9 He hath spoiled me of mine honour, and taken the crown away from mine head.

10 He hath destroyed me on every side, and I am gone: and he hath removed mine hope like a tree.

11 And he hath kindled his wrath against me, and counteth me as one of his enemies.

12 His armies came together, and made their way upon me, and camped about my tabernacle.

13 He hath removed my brethren far from me, and also mine acquaintance were strangers unto me.

14 My neighbours have forsaken me, and my familiars have forgotten me.

15 They that dwell in mine house, and my maids took me for a stranger: for I was a stranger in their sight.

16 I called my servant, but he would not answer, though I prayed him with my mouth.

17 My breath was strange unto my wife, though I prayed her for the childrens sake of mine own body.

18 The wicked also despised me, and when I rose, they spake against me.

19 All my secret friends abhorred me, and they whom I loved, are turned against me.

standing causeth me to answer.

4 Knowest thou not this of old? and since
God placed man upon the earth,

5 That the rejoicing of the wicked is short, and that the joy of the hypocrites is but a moment?

6 Though ^p his excellency mount up to the heaven, and his head reach unto the clouds,

7 Yet shall he perish for ever like his dung,

8 He shall flee away as a dream, and they shall not find him, and shall pass away as a vision of the night.

9 So that the eye which had seen him, shall

10 His children shall ^q flatter the poor, and his hands shall restore his substance.

11 His bones are full of ^r the sin of his youth, ⁱ He protesteth that notwithstanding his sore passions, his religion is perfect: and that he is not a blasphemer, as they judged him.

^k I do not so justify myself before the world; but I know that I shall come before the great Judge, who shall be my deliverer and favourer.

^l Herein Job declareth plainly that he had a full hope, that both the soul and body should enjoy the presence of God in the last resurrection.

^m Though his friends thought that he was but persecuted of God for his sins, yet he declareth that there was a deeper consideration, to wit, the trial of his faith and patience, and so to be an example for others.

ⁿ God will be revenged of this hasty judgment, whereby you condemn me.

^o He declareth that two things moved him to speak: to wit, because Job seemed to touch him, and because he thought he had knowledge sufficient to confute him.

^p His purpose is to provoke Job to be a wicked man, and an hypocrite, because God punished him and changed his prosperity into adversity.

^q Whereas the father, through ambition and tyranny, oppressed the poor; the children, through poverty and misery, shall seek favour at the poor.

^r So that the thing which he hath taken away by violence, shall be restored again by force.

12 When wickedness was ^t sweet in his mouth, and he hid it under his tongue;

13 And favoured it; and would not forsake it, but kept it close in his mouth;

14 Then his meat in his bowels was turned:
the gall of asps ^{was} in the midst of him.

15 He hath devoured substance, and he shall vomit it: for God shall draw it out of his belly.

16 He shall suck the ^u gall of asps, and the viper's tongue shall slay him.

17 He shall not see the ^v rivers, nor the floods and streams of honey and butter.

18 He shall restore the labour, and shall devour no more: ^{even} according to the substance ^{shall be} his exchange, ^x and he shall enjoy it no more.

19 For he hath undone ^{many}: he hath forsaken the poor, and hath spoiled houses which he builded not.

20 Surely he shall feel no quietness in his body, neither shall he reserve of that which he desired.

21 There shall none of his ^y meat be left:
therefore none shall hope for his goods.

22 When he shall be filled with his abundance, he shall be in pain, and the hand ^z of all the wicked shall assail him.

23 He shall be about to fill his belly, but God shall send upon him his fierce wrath, ^a and shall cause to rain upon him, ^{even} upon his meat.

24 He shall flee from the iron weapons, and the bow of steel shall strike him through.

25 The arrow is drawn out, and cometh forth of the ^b body, and shineth of his gall, so fear cometh upon him.

26 ^c All darkness shall be hid in his secret places: the fire that is not ^d blown shall devour him, and that which remaineth in his tabernacle, shall be destroyed.

27 The heaven shall declare his wickedness;
and the earth shall rise up against him.

28 The ^e increase of his house shall go away:
it shall flow away in the day of his wrath.

29 This is the portion of the wicked man from ^f God, and the heritage ^{that he shall have} of God, for his ^g words.

^s Meaning, that he shall carry nothing away with him but his sin.

^t As poison that is sweet in the mouth, bringeth destruction when it cometh into the body: so all vice at the first is pleasant, but afterward God turneth it to destruction.

^u He compareth evil-gotten goods to the venom of asps, which serpent is most dangerous: noting, that Job's great riches were not truly come by, and therefore God did plague him justly for the same.

^v Though God give to all other abundance of his bles-

^w That is, these ravens and spoilers of the poor shall enjoy their theft but for a time: for after, God will take

C H A P. XXI.

7 Job declareth how the prosperity of the wicked maketh them proud, 15 inasmuch that they blaspheme God. 16 Their destruction is at hand. 23 None ought to be judged wicked for affliction, neither good for prosperity.

BUT Job answered, and said,

1 Hear diligently my words, and this shall be instead of your consolations.

2 Suffer me that I may speak, and when I have spoken, mock on.

3 Do I direct my talk to man? If it were so, how should not my spirit be troubled?

4 Mark me, and be abashed, and lay your hand upon your mouth.

5 Even when I remember, I am afraid, and fear taketh hold on my flesh.

6 Wherefore do the wicked live, and wax old, and grow in wealth?

7 Their feed is established in their sight with them, and their generation before their eyes.

8 Their houses are peaceable without fear, and the rod of God is not upon them.

9 Their bullock gendereth, and faileth not: their cow calveth, and casteth not her calf.

10 They send forth their children like sheep, and their sons dance.

11 They take the tabret and harp, and rejoice in the found of the organs.

12 They spend their days in wealth, and suddenly they go down to the grave.

13 They say also unto God, Depart from us: for we desire not the knowledge of thy ways.

14 Who is the Almighty, that we should serve him? and what profit should we have, if we should pray unto him.

15 Lo, their wealth is not in their hand: therefore let the counsel of the wicked be far from me.

16 How oft shall the candle of the wicked be put out? and their destruction come upon them? he will divide their lives in his wrath.

17 They shall be as stubble before the wind, and as chaff that the storm carrieth away.

18 God will lay up the sorrow of the father for his children: when he rewardeth him, he shall know it.

^a Your diligent marking of my words shall be to me a great consolation.

^b As though he would say, I do not talk with man, but with God, who will not answer me, and therefore my mind must needs be troubled.

^c He chargeth them as though they were not able to comprehend this his feeling of God's judgment, and exhorteth them therefore to silence.

^d Job proveth against his adversaries, that God punisheth not straightways the wicked, but oft-times giveth them long life and prosperity: so that we must not judge God just or unjust by the things that appear to our eye.

^e They have store of children, lusty and healthful, and in these points he answereth to that which Zophar alledged before.

^f Not being tormented with long sickness.

^g They desire nothing more than to be exempt from all subjection that they should bear to God: thus Job sheweth his adversaries, that if they reason only by that which is seen by common experience, the wicked that hate God are better dealt withal than they that love him.

^h It is not their own, but God only lendeth it unto them.

ⁱ God keep me from their prosperity.

^k When God recompenseth his wickedness, he shall know that his prosperity was but vanity.

20 His eyes shall see his destruction, and he shall drink of the wrath of the Almighty.

21 For what pleasure hath he in his house after him, when the number of his months is cut off?

22 Shall any teach God knowledge, who judgeth the highest things?

23 One dieth in his full strength, being in all ease and prosperity.

24 His breasts are full of milk, and his bones run full of marrow.

25 And another dieth in the bitterness of his soul, and never eateth with pleasure.

26 They shall sleep both in the dust, and the worms shall cover them.

27 Behold, I know your thoughts, and the enterprises wherewith ye do me wrong.

28 For ye say, Where is the prince's house? and where is the tabernacle of the wicked's dwelling?

29 May ye not ask them that go by the way? and ye cannot deny their signs.

30 But the wicked is kept unto the day of destruction, and they shall be brought forth to the day of wrath.

31 Who shall declare his way to his face? and who shall reward him for that he hath done?

32 Yet shall he be brought to the grave, and remain in the heap.

33 The slimy valley shall be sweet unto him, and every man shall draw after him, as before him there were innumerable.

34 How then comfort ye me in vain, seeing in your answers there remain but lyes?

C H A P. XXII.

2 Eliphaz affirmeth that Job is punished for his sins. 6 He accuseth him of unmercifulness, and that he denied God's providence. 21 He exhorteth him to repentance.

THEN Eliphaz the Temanite answered, and said,

1 May a man be profitable unto God, as he that is wise may be profitable to himself?

2 * Is it any thing unto the Almighty, that thou art righteous? or is it profitable to him, that thou makest thy ways upright? ^{Col. 35.7.}

3 Is it for fear of thee that he will accuse thee? or go with thee into judgment?

4 Is

^a Who sendeth to the wicked prosperity, and punisheth the godly.

^b Meaning, the wicked.

^c To wit, the godly.

^d As concerning their bodies: and this he speaketh according to the common judgment.

^e Thus they called Job's house in derision, concluding that it was destroyed, because he was wicked.

^f Which through long travelling have experience and tokens thereof, to wit, that the wicked do prosper, and the godly live in affliction.

^g Though the wicked flourish here, yet God will punish him in the last day.

^h Though men do flatter him, and none dare reprove him in this world, yet death is a token that God will bring him to an account.

ⁱ He shall be glad to lie in a slimy pit, who before could not be content with a royal palace.

^k Saying, that the just in this world had prosperity, and the wicked adversity.

^l Though man were just, yet God could have no profit of this his justice: and therefore when he punisheth him, he hath no regard to his justice, but to his sin.

^m Lest thou shouldst reprove or hurt him.

1520. 5 Is not thy wickedness great, and thine iniquities innumerable?

6 For thou hast taken the ^fpledge from thy brother for nought, and spoiled the cloaths of the naked.

7 To such as were weary thou hast not given water to drink, and hast withdrawn bread from the hungry.

8 But the mighty man ^shad the earth, and he that was in authority dwelt in it.

9 Thou hast cast out widows empty, and the arms of the ^hfatherless were broken.

10 Therefore snares are round about thee, and fears shall suddenly trouble thee:

11 Or darkness that thou shouldest not see, and ⁱabundance of waters shall cover thee.

12 Is not God on ^khigh in the heaven? and behold, the height of the ^lstars how high they are.

13 But thou sayest, How should God ^mknow? can he judge through the dark cloud?

14 The clouds hide him that he cannot see, and he walketh in the circle of heaven.

15 Hast thou marked the way of the world, ⁿwherein wicked men have walked?

16 Which were ^ocut down before the time, whose foundation was as a river that overflowed.

17 Which said unto God, Depart from us, and asked what the Almighty could do for them.

18 Yet he ^pfilled their houses with good things: but let the counsel of the wicked be far from me.

19 The righteous shall see them, and shall rejoice, ^qand the innocent shall laugh them to scorn.

20 Surely, ^rour substance is hid: but the fire hath devoured the remnant of ^sthem.

21 Therefore acquaint thyself, I pray thee, ^twith him, and make peace: thereby thou shalt have prosperity.

22 Receive, I pray thee, the law of his mouth, and lay up his words in thine heart.

23 If thou return to the Almighty, thou shalt ^mbe built up, and thou shalt put iniquity far from thy tabernacle.

24 Thou shalt lay up gold for ^wdust, and the gold of Ophir as the flints of the rivers.

25 Yea, the Almighty shall be thy defence, and thou shalt have plenty of silver.

^f Thou hast been cruel and without charity, and wouldest do nothing for the poor, but for thine own advantage.

^s When thou wast in power and authority, thou didst not justice but wrong.

^h Thou hast not only not shewed pity, but oppressed them.

ⁱ That is, manifold afflictions.

^k He accuseth Job of impiety and contempt of God, as though he would say, If thou pass not for men, yet consider the height of God's majesty.

^l That so much the more by that excellent work thou mayest fear God, and reverence him.

^m He reproveth Job as though he denied God's providence, and that he could not see the things that were done in this world.

ⁿ How God hath punished them from the beginning?

^o He proveth God's providence by the punishment of the wicked, whom he taketh away before they can bring their wicked purposes to pass.

^p He answereth to that which Job had said, ch. 21. 7. that the wicked have prosperity in this world: desiring that he might not be partaker of the like.

^q The just rejoice at the destruction of the wicked for two causes: first, because God sheweth himself judge of the world, and by this means continueth his honour and glory: secondly, because God sheweth that he hath care over his, in that he punisheth their enemies.

^r That is, the state and preservation of the godly is hid 26 And thou shalt then delight in the Al- 1520. mighty, and lift up thy face unto God.

27 Thou shalt make thy prayer unto him, and he shall hear thee, and thou shalt render thy vows.

28 Thou shalt also decree a thing, and he shall establish it unto thee, and the ^xlight shall shine upon thy ways.

29 ^yWhen others are cast down, then shalt thou say, I am lifted up: and God shall save the humble person.

30 The innocent shall deliver the ^zisland, and it shall be preserved by the pureness of thine hands.

C H A P. XXIII.

2 Job affirmeth, that he both knoweth and feareth the power and sentence of the Judge, 10 And that he is not punished only for his sins.

BUT Job answered and said;

2 Though my talk be this day in ^abitterness, and my plague greater than my groaning;

3 Would God yet I knew how to find him, I would enter unto his place.

4 I would plead the cause before him, and fill my mouth with arguments.

5 I would know the words that he would answer me, and would understand what he would say unto me.

6 Would he ^bplead against me with his great power? No, but he would ^cput strength in me.

7 ^dThere the righteous might reason with him, so I should be delivered for ever from my Judge.

8 ^eBehold, if I go to the east, he is not there: if to the west, yet I cannot perceive him:

9 If to the north where he worketh, yet I cannot see him: he will hide himself in the south, and I cannot behold him.

10 But he knoweth my ^fway, and trieth me, and I shall come forth like gold.

11 My foot hath followed his steps: his way have I kept, and have not declined.

12 Neither have I departed from the commandment of his lips, and I have ^gesteemed the words of his mouth more than mine appointed food.

13 Yet

under God's wings.

^a Meaning, of the wicked.

^t He exhorteth Job to repentance, and to return to God.

^u God will restore unto thee all thy substance.

^w Which shall be in abundance like dust.

^x That is, the favour of God.

^y God will deliver his when the wicked are destroyed round about them, as in the flood and in Sodom.

^z God will deliver a whole country from peril, even for the just man's sake.

^a He sheweth the just cause of his complaining, and as touching that Eliphaz had exhorted him to return to God, ch. 22. 21. he declareth that he desireth nothing more: but it seemed that God would not be found of him.

^b Using his absolute power, and saying, Because I am God, I may do what I will.

^c Of his mercy he would give me power to answer him.

^d When he of his mercy hath given strength to maintain their cause.

^e Meaning, that if he consider God's justice, he is not able to comprehend his judgments, on what side or part soever he turneth himself.

^f God hath this pre-eminence above me, that he knoweth my way: to wit, that I am innocent, and I am not able to judge of his works: he sheweth also his confidence, that God doth visit him for his profit.

^g His word is more precious unto me, than the meat wherewith the body is sustained.

Def. Chr. 13 Yet he is in one mind, and who can ^e turn him? yea, he doeth what his mind desireth.

14 For he will perform that which is decreed me, and ^b many such things are with him.

15 Therefore I am troubled at his presence, and in considering it, I am afraid of him.

16 For ^c God hath softened mine heart, and the Almighty hath troubled me.

17 For I am not cut off in ^k darkness, but he hath hid the darkness from my face.

C H A P. XXIV.

2 Job describeth the wickedness of men, and sheweth what curse belongeth to the wicked. 12 How all things are governed by God's providence. 17 And the destruction of the wicked.

HOW should not the times ^l be hid from the Almighty, seeing that they which know him, see not his ^m days?

3 Some remove the land-marks, that rob the flocks and feed thereof.

4 They lead away the *as*s of the fatherless, and take away the widow's ox to pledge.

5 They make the poor to turn out of the way, so that the poor of the earth hide themselves ⁿ together.

6 Behold, others as wild asses in the wilderness go forth to their business, and ^o rise early for a prey: the wilderness ^p giveth him and his children food.

7 They reap ^q his provision in the field, but they gather the late ^r vintage of the wicked.

8 They cause the naked to lodge without garment, and without covering in the cold.

9 They are wet with the showers of the mountains, ^s and they embrace the rock for want of a covering.

10 They pluck the fatherless ^t from the breast, and take the pledge of ^u the poor.

11 They cause him to go naked without cloathing, and take the gleaning from the hungry.

12 They that make oil ^v between their walls, and tread their wine-presses, suffer thirst.

13 Men ^w cry out of the city, and the souls of the slain ^x cry out: yet God doth ^y not charge them with folly.

^e Job confesseth that at this present he felt not God's favour, and yet was assured that he had appointed him to a good end.

^b In many points man is not able to attain to God's judgments.

^l That I should not be without fear.

^k He sheweth the cause of his fear, which is, that he being in trouble, seeth no end, neither yet knoweth the cause.

^m Thus Job speaketh in his passions, and after the judgment of the flesh: that is, that he seeth not the things that are done at times, neither yet hath a peculiar care over all, because he punisheth not the wicked, nor revengeth the godly.

ⁿ When he punisheth the wicked, and rewardeth the good.

^o And for cruelty and oppression dare not shew their faces.

^q That is, spare no diligence.

^r He and his, live by robbing and murdering.

^s Meaning, the poor man's.

^t Signifying, that one wicked man will not spoil another, but for necessity.

^u The poor are driven by the wicked into the rocks and holes, where they cannot lie dry for the rain.

^v That is, they so pillage and strip the poor widow, that she cannot have to sustain herself that she may be able to give her child suck.

^w That is, his garment, wherewith he should be covered or clad.

13 These are they that abhor the ^a light: they know not the ways thereof, nor continue in the paths thereof.

14 The murderer riseth early, and killeth the poor and the needy: and in the night he is as a thief.

15 The eye also of the ^b adulterer waiteth for the twilight, and saith, None eye shall see me, and disguiseth his face.

16 They dig through houses in the dark, which they marked for themselves in the day: they know not the light.

17 But the morning is even to them as the shadow of death: if one know them, they are in the terrors of the shadow of death.

18 He is swift upon the ^c waters: their ^d portion shall be cursed in the earth: he will not behold the way of the vineyards.

19 As the dry ground and heat consume the snow waters, so shall the grave ^e the sinners.

20 ^f The pitiful man shall forget him: the worm shall feel his sweetness: he shall be no more remembered, and the wicked shall be broken like a tree.

21 He ^g doth evil intreat the barren that doth not bear, neither doth he good to the widow.

22 He draweth also the ^h mighty by his power, and when he riseth up, none is sure of life.

23 Though men give him assurance to be in safety, yet his eyes are upon their ways.

24 They are exalted for a little, but they are gone, and are brought low as all others: they are destroyed and cut off as the top of an ear of corn.

25 But if it be not ⁱ so, where is he? or who will prove me a lyar, and make my words of no value?

C H A P. XXV.

Bildad proveth that no man is clean nor without sin before God.

THEN answered Bildad the Shuhite, and said,

2 ^{*} Power and fear is with him that maketh peace in his high places.

3 Is

^{*} In such places which are appointed for that purpose: meaning, that those that labour for the wicked, are pined for hunger.

^x For the great oppression and extortion.

^y Cry out and call for vengeance.

^z God doth not condemn the wicked, but seemeth to pass over it by his long silence.

^a That is, God's word, because they are reproved thereby.

^b By these particular vices and the licence thereunto, he would prove that God punisheth not the wicked, and rewardeth the just.

^c He fleeth to the waters for his succour.

^d They think that all the world is bent against them, and dare not go by the high-way.

^e As the dry ground is never full with waters, so will they never cease sinning till they come to the grave.

^f Though God suffer the wicked for a time, yet their end shall be most vile destruction, and in this point Job cometh to himself, and sheweth his confidence.

^g He sheweth why the wicked shall not be lamented, because he did not pity others.

^h He declareth that after that the wicked have destroyed the weakest, they will do like to the stronger, and therefore they are justly prevented by God's judgments.

ⁱ That is, that contrary to your reasoning, no man can give a perfect reason of God's judgments, let me be re-proved.

^k His purpose is to prove, that albeit God try and afflict the just, yet soon after he sendeth prosperity; and because he did not so to Job, he concludeth that he is wicked.

3 Is there any number in his armies? and upon whom shall not his light arise?
 4 And how may a man be justified with God? or how can he be clean that is born of woman?
 5 Behold, he will give no light to the moon, and the stars are unclean in his sight.
 6 How much more man, a worm, even the son of man, which is but a worm?

C H A P. XXVI.

Job sheweth that man cannot help God, and proveth it by his miracles.

BUT Job answered, and said,
 2 Whom helpest thou? him that hath no power? savest thou the arm that hath no strength?
 3 Whom counsellest thou? him that hath no wisdom? thou shewest right well as the thing is.
 4 To whom dost thou declare these words? or whose spirit cometh out of thee?
 5 The dead things are formed under the waters, and near unto them.
 6 The grave is naked before him, and there is no covering for destruction.
 7 He stretcheth out the north over the empty place, and hangeth the earth upon nothing.
 8 He bindeth the waters in his clouds, and the cloud is not broken under them.
 9 He holdeth back the face of his throne, and spreadeth his cloud upon it.
 10 He hath set bounds about the waters, until the day and night come to an end.
 11 The pillars of heaven tremble and quake at his reproof.
 12 The sea is calm by his power, and by his understanding he smiteth the pride thereof.
 13 His Spirit hath garnished the heavens, and his hand hath formed the crooked serpent.
 14 Lo, these are part of his ways: but how little a portion hear we of him? and who can understand his fearful power?

C H A P. XXVII.

3 The constancy and perfectness of Job. 13 The reward of the wicked and of the tyrants.

¹ Who can hide him from his presence?
^m That is, be just in respect of God?
ⁿ If God shew his power, the moon and stars cannot have that light which is given them, much less can man have any excellency, but of God.
^o Thou concludest nothing: for neither thou helpest me, which am destitute of all help, neither yet speakest sufficiently on God's behalf, who hath no need of thy defence.
^p But thou dost not apply it to the purpose.
^q That is, moveth thee to speak this.
^r Job beginneth to declare the force of God's power and providence in the mines and metals in the deep places of the earth.
^s There is nothing hid in the bottom of the earth, but he seeth it.
^t Meaning, the grave wherein things putrify.
^u He causeth the whole heaven to turn about the north pole.
^v That is, he hideth the heavens, which are called his throne.
^x So long as this world endureth.
^y Not that heaven hath pillars to uphold it, but he speaketh by a similitude, as though he would say, The heaven itself is not able to abide his reproach.
^z Which is a figure of stars fashioned like a serpent, because of the crookedness.
^a If these few things, which we see daily with our eyes, declare his great power and providence, how much more

MOREOVER Job proceeded and continued his parable; saying,
 2 The living God hath taken away my judgment: for the Almighty hath put my soul in bitterness.
 3 Yet so long as my breath is in me, and the Spirit of God in my nostrils, 4 My lips surely shall speak no wickedness; and my tongue shall utter no deceit.
 5 God forbid that I should justify you: until I die, I will never take away mine innocency from myself.
 6 I will keep my righteousness, and will not forsake it: mine heart shall not reprove me of my days.
 7 Mine enemy shall be as the wicked, and he that riseth against me, as the unrighteous.
 8 For what hope hath the hypocrite when he hath heaped up riches, if God take away his soul?
 9 Will God hear his cry when trouble cometh upon him?
 10 Will he set his delight on the Almighty? will he call upon God at all times?
 11 I will teach you what is in the hand of God, and I will not conceal that which is with the Almighty.
 12 Behold, all ye yourselves have seen it: why then do you thus vanish in vanity?
 13 This is the portion of a wicked man with God, and the heritage of tyrants, which they shall receive of the Almighty.
 14 If his children be in great number, the sword shall destroy them, and his posterity shall not be satisfied with bread.
 15 His remnant shall be buried in death, and his widows shall not weep.
 16 Though he should heap up silver as the dust, and prepare raiment as the clay, 17 He may prepare it, but the just shall put it on, and the innocent shall divide the silver.
 18 He buildeth his house as the moth, and as a lodge that the watchman maketh.
 19 When the rich man sleepeth, he shall not be gathered to his fathers: they opened their eyes, and he was gone.
 20 Terrors shall take him as waters, and a tempest shall carry him away by night.
 21 The east wind shall take him away, and would they appear if we were able to comprehend all his works?

^b He hath so sore afflicted me, that men cannot judge of mine uprightness: for they judge only by outward signs.
^c Howsoever men judge of me, yet will I not speak contrary to that which I have said, and so do wickedly in betraying the truth.
^d Which condemn me as a wicked man, because the hand of God is upon me.
^e I will not confess that God doth thus punish me for my sins.
^f Of my life past.
^g What advantage hath the dissembler to gain never so much, seeing he shall lose his own soul?
^h That is, what God reserveth to himself, and whereof he giveth not the knowledge to all.
ⁱ That is, these secret judgments of God, and yet do not understand them.
^k Why maintain you then this error?
^l Thus will God order the wicked and punish him, even unto his posterity.
^m None shall lament him.
ⁿ Which breedeth in another man's possession or garment, but is soon shaken out.

22 And God shall cast upon him, and not spare, though he would fain flee out of his hand.

23 Every man shall clap their hands at him, and hiss at him out of their place.

C H A P. XXVIII.

Job sheweth that the wisdom of God is unsearchable.

THE silver surely hath his vein, and the gold his place, where they take it.

2 Iron is taken out of the dust, and brass is molten out of the stone.

3 God putteth an end to darkness, and he trieth the perfection of all things : he setteth a bond of darkness, and of the shadow of death.

4 The flood breaketh out against the inhabitant, and the waters forgotten of the foot, being higher than man, are gone away.

5 Out of the same earth cometh bread, and under it, as it were, fire is turned up.

6 The stones thereof are a place of sapphires, and the dust of it is gold.

7 There is a path which no fowl has known, neither hath the kite's eye seen it.

8 The lion's whelps have not walked it, nor the lion passed thereby.

9 He putteth his hand upon the rocks, and overthroweth the mountains by the roots.

10 He breaketh rivers in the rocks, and his eye seeth every precious thing.

11 He bindeth the floods, that they do not overflow, and the thing that is hid, bringeth he to light.

12 But where is the wisdom found? and where is the place of understanding?

13 Man knoweth not the price thereof : for it is not found in the land of the living.

14 The depth saith, It is not in me : the sea also saith, It is not with me.

15 Gold shall not be given for it, neither shall silver be weighed for the price thereof.

16 It shall not be valued with the wedge of gold of Ophir, nor with the precious onyx, nor the sapphire.

17 The gold nor the crystal shall be equal unto it, nor the exchange shall be for plate of fine gold.

18 No mention shall be made of coral, nor of the gablith : for wisdom is more precious than pearls.

19 The topaz of Ethiopia shall not be equal unto it, neither shall it be valued with the wedge of pure gold.

20 Whence then cometh wisdom? and where is the place of understanding?

21 Seeing it is hid from the eyes of all the living, and is hid from the fowls of the heaven?

22 Destruction and death say, We have heard the fame thereof with our ears.

23 But God understandeth the way thereof, and he knoweth the place thereof.

24 For he beholdeth the ends of the world, and seeth all that is under heaven, 25 To make the weight of the winds, and to weigh the waters by measure.

26 When he made a decree for the rain, and a way for the lightning of the thunders, 27 Then did he see it, and counted it : he prepared it, and also considered it.

28 And unto man he said, Behold, the fear of the Lord is wisdom, and to depart from evil is understanding.

C H A P. XXIX.

1 Job complaineth of the prosperity of the time past.

7, 21 His authority, 12 justice and equity.

SO Job proceeded and continued his parable, saying,

2 Oh that I were as in times past, when God preserved me!

3 When his light shined upon mine head : and when by his light I walked through the darkness,

4 As I was in the days of my youth : when God's providence was upon my tabernacle :

5 When the Almighty was yet with me, and my children round about me :

6 When I washed my paths with butter, and when the rock poured me out rivers of oil :

7 When I went out to the gate, even to the judgment-seat : and when I caused them to prepare my seat in the street.

8 The young men saw me, and hid themselves, and the aged arose, and stood up.

9 The princes stayed talk, and laid their hand on their mouth.

10 The voice of princes was hid, and their tongue cleaved to the roof of their mouth.

11 And when the ear heard me, it blessed me : and when the eye saw me, it gave witness to me.

12 For I delivered the poor that cried, and the fatherless, and him that had none to help him.

13 The

^p His purpose is to declare that man may attain in this world to divers secrets of nature, but man is never able to comprehend the wisdom of God.

ⁱ There is nothing but it is compassed within certain limits, and hath an end, but God's wisdom.

^r Meaning, him that dwelleth thereby.

^s Which a man cannot wade through.

^t That is, corn, and underneath is brimstone or coal, which easily conceiveth fire.

^u He alludeth to the mines and secrets of nature, which are under the earth, whereinto neither fowls nor beasts can enter.

^v After that he hath declared the wisdom of God in the secrets of nature, he describeth his power.

^w Though God's power and wisdom may be understood in earthly things, yet his heavenly wisdom cannot be attained unto.

^x It is too high a thing for man to attain unto in this world.

^y It can neither be bought for gold nor precious stones, but is only the gift of God.

^z Which is thought to be a kind of precious stone.

^b Meaning, that there is no natural means, whereby man might attain to the heavenly wisdom : which he meaneth by the fowls that fly high.

^c He maketh God only the author of this wisdom, and the giver thereof.

^d He declareth that man hath so much of this heavenly wisdom, as he sheweth by fearing God, and departing from evil.

^e When I felt his favour.

^f I was free from affliction.

^g That is, seemed by evident tokens to be more present with me.

^h By these similitudes he declareth the great prosperity that he was in, so that he had no occasion to be such a sinner as they accused him.

ⁱ Being ashamed of their lightness, and afraid of my gravity.

^k Acknowledging my wisdom.

^l All that heard me, praised me.

^m Testifying, that I did good justice.

ⁿ Because his adversaries did so much charge him with wickedness, he is compelled to render account of his life.

13 ^o The blessing of him that was ready to perish, came upon me, and I caused the widow's heart to rejoice.

14 I put ^p on justice, and it covered me: my judgment was as a robe, and a crown.

15 I was the eyes to the blind, and I was the feet to the lame.

16 I was a father unto the poor, and when I knew not the cause, I sought it out diligently.

17 I brake also the jaws of the unrighteous man, and pluckt the prey out of his teeth.

18 Then I said, I shall die in my ^q nest, and I shall multiply my days as the sand.

19 For my root is ^r spread out by the water, and the dew shall lie upon my branch.

20 My glory shall renew toward me, and my bow shall be restored in mine hand.

21 Unto me men gave ear, and waited, and held their tongue at my counsel.

22 After my words they replied not, and my talk ^s dropped upon them.

23 And they waited for me, as for the rain, and they opened their mouth ^t as for the latter rain.

24 If I ^u laughed on them, they believed it not: neither did they cause the light of my countenance ^v to fall.

25 I appointed out ^x their way, and did sit as chief, and dwelt as a king in the army, and like him that comforteth the mourners.

C H A P. XXX.

1 Job complaineth that he is contemned of the most contemptible, 11, 21 because of his adversity and affliction. 23 Death is the house of all flesh.

BUT now they that are younger than I, ^y mock me: yea, they whose fathers I have refused to set with the ^z dogs of my flocks.

2 For whereto should the strength of their hands have served me, seeing age ^a perished in them?

3 For poverty and famine they were solitary, fleeing into the wilderness, which is dark, desolate, and waste.

4 They cut up [†] nettles by the bushes, and the juniper-roots was their meat.

5 They were ^b chased forth from among men: they shouted at them as at a thief:

6 Therefore they dwelt in the cliffs of rivers, in the holes of the earth and rocks.

7 They roared among the bushes, and under the thistles they gathered themselves.

8 They were the children of fools, and the children of villains, which were more vile than the earth.

9 And now am I their ^c song; and I am their talk.

10 They abhor me; and flee far from me, and spare not to spit in my face:

11 Because that God hath loosed my ^d cord, and humbled me; ^e they have loosed the bridle before me.

12 The youth rise up at my right hand: they have pusht my feet, and have trod on me as on the ^f paths of their destruction.

13 They have destroyed my paths: they took pleasure at my calamity; they had none ^g help.

14 They came as a great breach of waters; and ^h under this calamity they come on heaps.

15 Fear is turned upon me: and they pursue my soul as the wind, and mine health passeth away as a cloud.

16 Therefore my soul is now ⁱ poured out upon me, and the days of affliction have taken hold on me.

17 ^k It pierceth my bones in the night, and my sinews take no rest.

18 For the great vehemency is my garment changed, which compasseth me about as the collar of my coat.

19 ^l He hath cast me into the mire; and I am become like ashes and dust.

20 When I cry unto thee; thou dost not hear me, neither regardest me when I stand up.

22 Thou takest me up, and causest me to ride upon ⁿ the wind, and makest my [†] strength to fail.

23 Surely I know that thou wilt bring me to death, and to the house appointed for all the living.

24 Doubtless none can stretch his hand ^o unto the grave, though they cry in his destruction.

25 Did not I weep with him that was in trouble? Was not my soul in heaviness for the poor?

26 Yet when I looked for good, ^p evil came unto me: and when I waited for light, there came darkness.

C H A P. XXXI.

1 Job reciteth the innocency of his living, and number of his virtues, which declareth what ought to be the life of the faithful.

I MADE a covenant with mine eyes, why then should I think on a maid?

2 For what portion should I have of God from above? and what inheritance of the Almighty from on high?

3 Is not destruction to the wicked, and strange punishment to the workers of iniquity?

4 Doth not he behold my ways, and tell all my steps?

5 If I have walked in vanity, or if my foot hath made haste to deceit,

6 Let God weigh me in the just balance, and he shall know mine uprightnes.

7 If my step hath turned out of the way, or mine heart hath walked after mine eye, or if any blot hath cleaved to mine hands,

8 Let me sow, and let another eat: yea, let my plants be rooted out.

9 If mine heart hath been deceived by a woman, or if I have laid wait at the door of my neighbour,

10 Let my wife grind unto another man, and let other men bow down upon her:

11 For this is a wickedness, and iniquity to be condemned:

12 Yea, this is a fire that shall devour to destruction, and which shall root out all mine increase,

13 If I did contemn the judgment of my servant, and of my maid, when they did contend with me, 14 What then shall I do when God standeth up? and when he shall visit me, what shall I answer?

15 He that hath made me in the womb, hath he not made him? hath not he alone fashioned us in the womb?

16 If I restrained the poor of their desire, or have caused the eyes of the widow to fail,

17 Or have eaten my morsels alone, and the fatherless hath not eaten thereof,

18 (For from my youth he hath grown up with me as with a father, and from my mother's womb I have been a guide unto her)

19 If I have seen any perish for want of clothing, or any poor without covering:

20 If his loins have not blessed me, because he was warmed with the fleece of my sheep:

21 If I have lift up mine hand against the fatherless, when I saw that I might help him in the gate:

22 Let mine arm fall from my shoulder, and mine arm be broken from the bone.

23 For God's punishment was fearful unto me, and I could not be delivered from his highness.

24 If I made gold mine hope, or have said to the wedge of gold, Thou art my confidence:

25 If I rejoiced because my substance was great, or because mine hand had gotten much:

26 If I did behold the sun, when it shined, or the moon walking in her brightness:

27 If mine heart did flatter me in secret, or if my mouth did kiss mine hand:

28 (This also had been an iniquity to be condemned: for I had denied the God above).

29 If I rejoiced at his destruction that hated me, or was moved to joy when evil came upon him:

30 Neither have I suffered my mouth to sin, by wishing a curse unto my soul.

31 Did not the men of my tabernacle say, Who shall give us of his flesh? we cannot be satisfied.

32 The stranger did not lodge in the street, but I opened my doors unto him, that went by the way.

33 If I have hid my sin, as Adam, concealing mine iniquity in my bosom:

34 Though I could have made afraid a great multitude, yet the most contemptible of the families did fear me: so I kept silence, and went not out of the door.

35 O that I had some to hear me! behold my sign that the Almighty will witness for me: though mine adversary should write a book against me:

36 Would not I take it upon my shoulder, and bind it as a crown unto me?

37 I will tell him the number of my goings, and go unto him as to a prince.

The ^z words of Job are ended.

C H A P. XXXII.

2 Elihu reproveth them of folly. 8 Age maketh not a man wise, but the Spirit of God.

SO these three men ceased to answer Job, because he [†] esteemed himself just.

2 Then the wrath of Elihu the son of Barachel the ^a Buzite, of the family of ^b Ram, was kindled : his wrath, I say, was kindled against Job, because he justified himself ^c more than God.

3 Also his anger was kindled against his three friends, because they could not find an answer, and yet condemned Job.

4 (Now Elihu had waited till Job had spoken : for ^d they were more ancient in years than he.)

5 So when Elihu saw, that there was none answer in the mouth of the three men, his wrath was kindled.

6 Therefore Elihu, the son of Barachel the Buzite, answered and said, I am young in years, and ye are ancient : therefore I doubted, and was afraid to shew you mine opinion.

7 For I said, The ^e days shall speak, and the multitude of years shall teach wisdom.

8 Surely there is a spirit in man, ^f but the inspiration of the Almighty giveth understanding.

9 Great men are not always wise, neither do the aged always understand judgment.

10 Therefore I say, Hear me, and I will shew also mine opinion.

11 Behold, I did wait upon your words, and hearkened unto your knowledge, whilst you sought out ^g reasons.

12 Yea, when I had considered you, lo, there was none of you that reproveth Job, nor answered his words :

13 Left ye should say, We have ^h found wisdom : for God hath cast him down, and no man.

14 Yet hath ⁱ he not directed his words to me, neither will I answer ^k him by your words.

15 Then they fearing, answered no more, but left off their talk.

16 When I had waited (for they spake not, but stood still, and answered no more)

17 Then answered I in my turn, and I shewed mine opinion.

18 For I am full of ^l matter, and the spirit within me compelleth me.

19 Behold, my belly is as the wine which hath no vent, and like the new bottles that burst.

20 Therefore will I speak, that I may take breath : I will open my lips, and will answer.

21 I will not now accept the person of man, neither will I give titles to man.

22 For I may not give ⁿ titles, lest my Maker should take me away suddenly.

C H A P. XXXIII.

5 Elihu accuseth Job of ignorance. 14 He sheweth that God hath divers means to instruct man, and to draw him from sin. 19, 29 He afflicteth man, and suddenly delivereth him. 26 Man being delivered, giveth thanks to God.

WHEREFORE, Job, I pray thee, hear my talk, and hearken unto all my words.

2 Behold, now, I have opened my mouth : my tongue hath spoken in my mouth.

3 My words are in the uprightness of mine heart, and my lips shall speak pure knowledge.

4 The ^o Spirit of God hath made me, and the breath of the Almighty hath given me life.

5 If thou canst give me answer, prepare thyself, and stand before me.

6 Behold, I am according to thy wish in ^p God's stead : I am also formed of the clay.

7 Behold, my terror shall not fear thee, neither shall my hand be ^q heavy upon thee.

8 Doubtless thou hast spoken in mine ears, and I have heard the voice of thy words.

9 I am ^r clean without sin : I am innocent, and there is no iniquity in me.

10 Lo, he hath found occasion against me, and counted me for his enemy.

11 He hath put my feet in the stocks, and looketh narrowly unto all my paths.

12 Behold, in this hast thou not done right : I will answer thee, that God is greater than man.

13 Why dost thou strive against him ? for he doth not ^s give account of all his matters.

14 For God speaketh ^t once or twice, and one seeth it not.

^d That is, the three mentioned before.

^e Meaning, the ancient, which have experience.

^f It is a special gift of God that man hath understanding, and cometh neither of nature, nor by age.

^g To prove that Job's affliction came for his sins.

^h And flatter yourselves, as though you had overcome him.

ⁱ To wit, Job.

^k He useth almost the like arguments, but without taunting and reproaches.

^l I have conceived in my mind great store of reasons.

^m I will neither have regard to riches, credit, nor authority, but will speak the very truth.

ⁿ The Hebrew word signifieth, to change the name, as to call a fool a wise man : meaning, that he would not cloak the truth to flatter men.

^o I confess the power of God, and am one of his, therefore thou oughtest to hear me.

^p Because Job had wished to dispute his cause with God, ch. 16. 21. so that he might do it without fear, Elihu saith, he will reason in God's stead, whom he needeth not to fear, because he is a man made of the same matter that he is.

^q I will not handle thee so roughly as these others have done.

^r He repeateth Job's words, whereby he protested his innocency in divers places, but especially in the 13th, 16th and 30th chapters.

^s The cause of his judgments is not always declared to man.

^t Though God by sundry examples of his judgments speak unto man, yet the reason thereof is not known : yea and though God should speak, yet he is not understood.

15 In dreams and visions of the night, when 1520. sleep falleth upon men, and they sleep upon their beds,

16 Then he openeth the ears of men, even by their corrections, which he had sealed,

17 That he might cause man to turn away from his enterprize, and that he might hide the pride of man,

18 And keep back his soul from the pit, and that his life should not pass by the sword.

19 He is also stricken with sorrow upon his bed, and the grief of his bones is sore,

20 So that his life causeth him to abhor bread, and his soul dainty meat.

21 His flesh faileth that it cannot be seen, and his bones which were not seen, clatter.

22 So his soul draweth to the grave, and his life to the buriers.

23 If there be a messenger with him, or an interpreter, one of a thousand, to declare unto man his righteousness,

24 Then will he have mercy upon him, and will say, Deliver him, that he go not down in to the pit: for I have received a reconciliation.

25 Then shall his flesh be as fresh as a child's, and shall return as in the days of his youth.

26 He shall pray unto God, and he will be favourable unto him, and he shall see his face with joy: for he will render unto man his righteousness.

27 He looketh upon men, and if one say, I have sinned, and perverted righteousness, and it did not profit me,

28 He will deliver his soul from going into the pit, and his life shall see the light.

29 Lo, all these things will God work twice or thrice with a man,

30 That he may turn back his soul from the pit, to be illuminate in the light of the living.

31 Mark well, O Job, and hear me: keep silence, and I will speak.

32 If there be matter, answer me, and speak:
for I desire to justify thee.

33 If thou hast not, hear me: hold thy tongue, and I will teach thee wisdom.

Job Chapter XXXIV Verse II.

ELIHU reproving JOB.

Hartung sc.

Bef. Chr. 1520. pass forth and take away the mighty without hand.

21 For his eyes are upon the ways of man, and he seeth all his goings.

22 There is no darkness or shadow of death, that the workers of iniquity might be hid therein.

23 For he will not lay on man so much that he should enter into judgment with God.

24 He shall break the mighty without seeking, and shall set up other in their stead.

25 Therefore shall he declare their works: he shall turn the night, and they shall be destroyed.

26 He striketh them as wicked men in the places of the seers, 27 Because they have turned back from him, and would not consider all his ways.

28 So that they have caused the voice of the poor to come unto him, and he hath heard the cry of the afflicted.

29 And when he giveth quietness, who can make trouble? and when he hideth his face, who can behold him, whether it be upon nations, or upon a man only?

30 Because the hypocrite doth reign, and because the people are inared.

31 Surely it appertaineth unto God to say, I have pardoned, I will not destroy.

32 But if I see not, teach thou me: if I have done wickedly, I will do no more.

33 Will he perform the thing through thee? for thou hast reprov'd it, because that thou hast chosen, and not I: now speak what thou knowest.

34 Let men of understanding tell me, and let a wise man hearken unto me.

35 Job hath not spoken of knowledge, neither were his words according to wisdom.

36 I desire that Job may be tried unto the end, touching the answers for wicked men.

37 For he addeth rebellion unto his sin: he clappeth his hands among us, and multiplieth his words against God.

CHAP. XXXV.

6 Neither doth godliness profit, or ungodliness hurt God, but man. 13 The wicked cry unto God, and are not heard.

ELIHU spake moreover, and said, 2 Thinkest thou this right, that thou hast said, I am more righteous than God?

^d God doth not afflict man above measure, so that he should have occasion to contend with him.

^e For all his creatures are at hand to serve him, so that he needeth not to seek for any other army.

^f Make them manifest, that they are wicked.

^g Declare the things that were hid.

^h Meaning, openly in the sight of all men.

ⁱ By their cruelty and extortion.

^k When tyrants sit in the throne of justice, which under pretence of executing justice are but hypocrites, and oppress the people, it is a sign that God hath drawn back his countenance and favour from that place.

^l Only it belongeth to God to moderate his corrections, and not unto man.

^m Thus Elihu speaketh in the person of God, as it were mocking Job, because he would be wiser than God.

ⁿ Will God use thy counsel in doing his works?

^o Thus he speaketh in the person of God, as though Job should chuse and refuse affliction at his pleasure.

^p That he may speak as much as he can, that we may answer him and all the wicked that shall use such arguments.

^q He standeth stubbornly in the maintenance of his cause.

^r Job never spake these words: but because he maintain-

3 For thou hast said, What profiteth it thee, and what availeth it me, to purge me from my sin?

4 Therefore will I answer thee, and thy companions with thee.

5 Look unto the heaven, and see, and behold the clouds which are higher than thou.

6 If thou sinnest, what doest thou against him? yea, when thy sins be many, what dost thou unto him?

7 If thou be righteous, what givest thou unto him? or what receiveth he at thine hand?

8 Thy wickedness may hurt a man as thou art: and thy righteousness may profit the son of man.

9 They cause many that are oppressed to cry, which cry out for the violence of the mighty.

10 But none saith, Where is God that made me, which giveth songs in the night?

11 Which teacheth us more than the beasts of the earth, and giveth us more wisdom than the fowls of the heaven.

12 Then they cry because of the violence of the wicked, but he answereth not.

13 Surely God will not hear vanity, neither will the Almighty regard it.

14 Although thou sayest to God, Thou wilt not regard it, yet judgment is before him: trust thou in him.

15 But now because his anger hath not visited, nor called to count the evil with great extremity, 16 Therefore Job openeth his mouth in vain, and multiplieth words without knowledge.

CHAP. XXXVI.

1 Elihu sheweth the power of God, 6 and his justice, 9 And wherefore he punisheth. 13 The property of the wicked.

ELIHU also proceeded and said, 2 Suffer me a little, and I will instruct thee: for I have yet to speak on God's behalf.

3 I will fetch my knowledge afar off, and will attribute righteousness unto my Maker.

4 For truly my words shall not be false, and he that is perfect in knowledge speaketh with thee.

5 Behold, the mighty God casteth away none that is mighty and valiant of courage.

6 He ed his innocency, it seemed as though he would say, that God tormented him without just cause.

^a Such as are in the like error.

^b If thou canst not controul the clouds, wilt thou presume to instruct God?

^c Neither doth thy sin hurt God, nor thy justice profit him: for he will be glorified without thee.

^d The wicked may hurt man, and cause him to cry, who if he sought to God, which sendeth comfort, should be delivered.

^e Because they pray not in faith, as feeling God's mercies.

^f God is just, howsoever thou judgest of him.

^g For if he did punish thee as thou deservest, thou shouldst not be able to open thy mouth.

^h He sheweth that when we speak of God, we must lift up our spirits more high than our natural sense is able to reach.

ⁱ Thou shalt perceive that I am a faithful instructor, and that I speak to thee in the name of God.

^k Strong and constant, and of understanding: for these are the gifts of God, and he loveth them in man: but forasmuch as God punisheth now Job, it is a sign that these are not in him.

6 He maintaineth not the wicked, but he giveth judgment to the afflicted.

7 He withdraweth not his eyes from the righteous, but they are with kings in the throne, where he placed them for ever: thus they are exalted.

8 And if they be bound in fetters, and tied with the cords of affliction, 9 Then he will shew them their work and their sins, because they have been proud.

10 He openeth also their ear to discipline, and commandeth them that they return from iniquity.

11 * If they obey and serve him, they shall end their days in prosperity, and their years in pleasures:

12 But if they will not obey, they shall pass by the sword, and perish without knowledge.

13 But the hypocrites of heart increase the wrath: for they call not when he bindeth them.

14 Their soul dieth in youth, and their life among the whoremongers.

15 He delivereth the poor in his affliction, and openeth their ear in trouble.

16 Even so would he have taken thee out of the straight place into a broad place, and not shut up beneath: and that which resteth upon thy table, had been full of fat.

17 But thou art full of the judgment of the wicked, though judgment and equity maintain all things.

18 For God's wrath is, lest he should take thee away in thine abundance: for no multitude of gifts can deliver thee.

19 Will he regard thy riches? he regardeth not gold, nor all them that excel in strength.

20 Be not careful in the night, how he destroyeth the people out of their place.

21 Take thou heed: look not to iniquity: for thou hast chosen it rather than affliction.

22 Behold, God exalteth by his power: what teacher is like him?

23 Who hath appointed to him his way? or who can say, Thou hast done wickedly?

24 Remember that thou magnify his work, which men behold.

25 All men see it, and men behold it afar off.

26 Behold, God is excellent, and we know him not, neither can the number of his years be searched out.

27 When he restraineth the drops of water, the rain poureth down by the vapour thereof:

28 Which rain the clouds do drop, and let fall abundantly upon man.

29 Who can know the divisions of the clouds, and the thunders of his tabernacle?

30 Behold, he spreadeth his light upon it, and covereth the bottom of the sea.

31 For thereby he judgeth the people, and giveth meat abundantly.

32 He covereth the light with the clouds, and commandeth them to go against it.

33 His companion sheweth him thereof, and there is anger in rising up.

C H A P. XXXVII.

2 Elibu proveth that the unsearchable wisdom of God is manifest by his works, 4 As by the thunders, 6 The snow, 9 The whirlwind, 11 and the rain.

AT this also mine heart is astonished, and is moved out of his place.

2 Hear the sound of his voice, and the noise that goeth out of his mouth.

3 He directeth it under the whole heaven, and his light unto the ends of the world.

4 After it a noise soundeth: he thundereth with the voice of his majesty, and he will not stay them when his voice is heard.

5 God thundereth marvellously with his voice: he worketh great things, which we know not.

6 For he saith to the snow, Be thou upon the earth: likewise to the small rain, and to the great rain of his power.

7 With the force thereof he shutteth up every man, that all men may know his work.

8 Then the beasts go into the den, and remain in their places.

9 The whirlwind cometh out of the South, and the cold from the North wind.

10 At the breath of God the frost is given, and the breadth of the waters is made narrow.

11 He maketh also the clouds to labour, to water the earth, and scattereth the cloud of his light.

12 And

^d Therefore he will not preserve the wicked: but to the humble and afflicted heart he will shew grace.

^e He preferreth the godly to honour.

^f He will move their hearts to feel their sins, that they may come to him by repentance, as he did Manasseh.

^g That is, in their folly or obstination, and so shall be cause of their own destruction.

^h Which are maliciously bent against God, and flatter themselves in their vices.

ⁱ When they are in affliction, they seek not to God for succour, as Aia, 2 Chron. 16. 12. Rev. 16. 11.

^k They die of some vile death, and that before they come to age.

^l If thou hadst been obedient to God, he would have brought thee to liberty and wealth.

^m Thou art altogether after the manner of the wicked: for thou dost murmur against the justice of God.

ⁿ God doth punish thee, lest thou shouldst forget God in thy wealth, and so perish.

^o Be not thou curious in seeking the cause of God's judgments, when he destroyeth any.

^p And so murmur against God through impatience.

^q The works of God are so manifest, that a man may see them afar off, and know God by the same.

^r Our infirmity hindereth us so, that we cannot attain to the perfect knowledge of God.

^s That is, the rain cometh of those drops of water which he keepeth in the clouds.

^t Meaning of the clouds, which he calleth the tabernacle of God.

^u Upon the cloud.

^v That men cannot come to the knowledge of the springs thereof.

^w He sheweth that the rain hath double use: the one, that it declareth God's judgments, when it doth overflow any places, and the other that it maketh the land fruitful.

^x That is, one cloud to dash against another.

^y The cold vapour sheweth him: that is, the cloud of the hot exhalation, which being taken in the cold cloud mounteth up toward the place where the fire is, and so anger is engendred: that is, noise and thunder-claps.

^z At the marveling of the thunder and lightnings: whereby he declareth that the faithful are lively touched with the majesty of God, when they behold his works.

^{aa} That is, the thunder, whereby he speaketh to men to waken their dulness, and to bring them to the consideration of his works.

^{ab} Meaning, the rains and thunders.

^{ac} So that neither small rain nor great, snow, nor any thing else, cometh without God's appointment.

^{ad} By rains and thunders God causeth men to keep themselves within their houses.

^{ae} In Hebrew it is called the scattering wind, because it driveth away the clouds, and purgeth the air.

^{af} That is, is frozen up and dried.

^{ag} Gather the vapours, and move to and fro to water the earth.

^{ah} That is, the cloud that hath lightning in it.

12 And it is turned about by his government, that they may do whatsoever he commandeth them upon the whole world :

13 Whether it be for^k punishment, or for his land, or of mercy, he causeth it to come.

14 Hearken unto this, O Job: stand and consider the wondrous works of God.

15 Didst thou know when God disposed them? and caused the^l light of his cloud to shine?

16 Hast thou known^m the variety of the cloud, and the wondrous works of him that is perfect in knowledge?

17 Or how thy cloaths areⁿ warm, when he maketh the earth quiet through the South wind?

18 Hast thou stretched out the heavens, which are strong, and as a molten^o glass?

19 Tell us what we shall say unto him: for we cannot dispose our matter because of^p darkness.

20 Shall it be^q told him when I speak? or shall man speak when he shall be^r destroyed?

21 And now men see not the light^s which shineth in the clouds, but the wind passeth and cleanseth them.

22 The^t brightness cometh out of the North: the praise thereof is to God, which is terrible.

23 It is the Almighty: we cannot find him out: he is excellent in power and judgment, and abundant in justice: he^u afflicteth not.

24 Let men therefore fear him: for he will not regard any that are wise in their own conceit.

CHAP. XXXVIII.

1 God speaketh to Job, and declareth the weakness of man in the consideration of his creatures, by whose excellency the power, justice, and providence of the Creator is known.

THEN answered the Lord unto Job out of the^w whirlwind, and said,

2 Who is this that^x darkeneth the counsel by words without knowledge?

3 Gird up now thy loins like a man: I^y will demand of thee, and declare thou unto me.

4 Where wast thou when I laid the^z foundations of the earth? declare, if thou hast understanding.

^k Rain, cold, heat, tempests, and such like, are sent of God, either to punish man, or to profit the earth, or to declare his favour toward man, as ch. 36. 31.

wist not what.

^j He sheweth that he will be God's scholar, to learn of him.

4 Hear, I beseech thee, and I will speak. I will demand of thee,^k and declare thou unto me.

5 I have^l heard of thee by the hearing of the ear, but now mine eye seeth thee.

6 Therefore I abhor myself, and repent in dust and ashes.

7 ¶ Now after that the Lord had spoken these words unto Job, the Lord also said unto Eliphaz the Temanite, My wrath is kindled against thee, and against thy two friends: for ye have not spoken of me the thing that is^m right, like my servantⁿ Job.

8 Therefore take unto you now seven bul-locks, and seven rams, and go to my servant
Job, and offer up for yourselves a burnt-offering, and my servant Job shall^o pray for you:
for I will accept him, lest I should put you to shame, because ye have not spoken of me the thing which is right, like my servant Job.

9 So Eliphaz the Temanite, and Bildad the Shuhite, and Zophar the Naamathite, went and did according as the Lord had said unto them, and the Lord accepted Job.

10 ¶ Then the Lord turned the^p captivity of Job, when he prayed for his friends: also the Lord gave Job twice so much as he had before.

11 Then came unto him all his^q brethren, and all his sisters, and all they that had been of his acquaintance before, and did eat bread with him in his house, and had compassion of him, and comforted him for all the evil that the Lord had brought upon him, and every man gave him a^r piece of money, and every one an earring of gold.

† Or, lamb,

13 He had also seven sons, and three daughters.

14 And he called the name of one^t Jemi-mah, and the name of the second^u Keziah, and the name of the third^v Keren-happuch.

15 In all the land were no women found so fair as the daughters of Job, and their father gave them inheritance among their brethren.

16 And after this lived Job an hundred and forty years, and saw his sons, and his sons sons, even four generations.

17 So Job died, being old, and full of days.

^k I knew thee only before by hear-say, but now thou hast caused me to feel what thou art to me, that I may resign myself over unto thee.

^l You took in hand an evil cause, in that you condemned him by his outward afflictions, and comforted him not with my mercies.

T H E A R G U M E N T.

This book of Psalms is set forth unto us by the Holy Ghost, to be esteemed as a most precious treasure, wherein all things are contained that appertain to true felicity, as well in this life present, as in the life to come. For the riches of true knowledge and heavenly wisdom are set open for us, to take thereof most abundantly. If we would know the great and high majesty of God, here we may see the brightness thereof shine most clearly. If we would seek his incomprehensible wisdom, here is the school of the same profession. If we would comprehend his inestimable bounty, and approach near thereunto, and fill our hands with that treasure, here we may have a most lively and most comfortable taste thereof. If we would know wherein standeth our salvation, and how to attain to life everlasting, here is Christ our only Redeemer and Mediator most evidently described. The rich man may learn the true use of riches. The poor man may find full content. He that will rejoice, shall know the true joy, and how to keep measure therein. They that are afflicted and oppressed, shall see wherein standeth their comfort, and how they ought to praise God when he sendeth them deliverance. The wicked and the persecutors of the children of God shall see how the hand of God is ever against them, and though he suffer them to prosper for a while, yet he bridleth them, insomuch that they cannot touch an hair of one's head, except he permit them, and how in the end their destruction is most miserable. Briefly, here we may have most present remedies against all temptations, and troubles of mind and conscience, so that, being well practised therein, we may be assured against all dangers in this life, live in the true fear and love of God, and at length attain to that incorruptible crown of glory, which is laid up for all them that love the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ.

* Or, praises, according to the Hebrews: and were chiefly instituted to praise & give thanks to God for his benefits. They are called the Psalms or songs of David, because the most part were made by him.

P S A L M I.

Whether it was Esdras, or any other that gathered the Psalms into a book, it seemeth he did set this Psalm first in manner of a preface, to exhort all godly men to study and meditate the heavenly wisdom. For the effect hereof is, 1 That they be blessed, which give themselves wholly all their life to the holy Scriptures: 4 and that the wicked contempters of God, though they seem for a while happy, yet at length shall come to miserable destruction.

BLESSED is the man that doth not walk in the ^a counsel of the wicked, nor stand in the way of sinners, nor sit in the seat of the scornful:

^a Deut. 6. 6. Job. 1. 8. Prov. 6. 20.

2 But his delight is in the ^{*} law of the Lord, and in his ^b law doth he meditate day and night.

^{*} Jer. 7. 8.

3 For he shall be like a ^{*} tree planted by the rivers of waters, that will bring forth her fruit in due season: whose leaf shall not fade: so ^c whatsoever he shall do, shall prosper.

4 ^d The wicked are not so, but as the chaff which the wind driveth away.

5 Therefore the wicked shall not stand in the ^e judgment, nor sinners in the assembly of the righteous.

^a When a man hath once given place to evil counsel, or to his own concupiscence, he beginneth to forget himself in his sin, and so falleth into contempt of God, which contempt is called the seat of the scornful.

^b In the holy scriptures.

^c God's children are so moistened ever with his grace, that whatsoever cometh unto them tendeth to their salvation.

^d Though the wicked seem to bear the swing in this world, yet the Lord driveth them down, that they shall not rise nor stand in the company of the righteous.

6 For the Lord ^f knoweth the way of the righteous, and the way of the wicked shall perish.

P S A L M II.

1 The prophet David rejoiceth, that notwithstanding his enemies rage, yet God will continue his kingdom for ever, and advance it even to the end of the world: 10 and therefore exhorteth kings and rulers, that they would humbly submit themselves under God's yoke, because it is in vain to resist God. Herein is figured Christ's kingdom.

WHY do the ^e heathen ^{} rage, and the ^{} people murmur in vain? ^{*} Act. 4. 25.

2 The kings of the earth band themselves, and the princes are assembled together against the Lord, and against his [†] Christ.

[†] Or, anointed.

3 ^h Let us break their bands, and cast their cords from us.

4 ^{*} But he that dwelleth in the heaven shall laugh: the Lord shall have them in derision.

^{*} Prov. 1. 26.

5 ⁱ Then shall he speak unto them in his wrath, and vex them in his sore displeasure, saying,

6 Even I have set my king upon Sion mine holy mountain.

^e But tremble when they feel God's wrath.

^f Doth approve and prosper, like as not to know is to reprove and reject.

^g The conspiracy of the Gentiles, the murmuring of the Jews, and power of kings, cannot prevail against Christ.

^h Thus the wicked say, that they will cast off the yoke of God and of his Christ.

ⁱ God's plagues will declare, that in resisting his Christ, they fought against him.

7 I will declare the ^k decree: that is, the Lord hath said unto me, ^{*} Thou art my Son, this ^l day have I begotten thee.

8 Ask of me, and I shall give thee the heathen for thine inheritance, and the ^m ends of the earth for thy possession.

9 ^{*} Thou shalt crush them with a sceptre of iron, and break them in pieces like a potter's vessel.

10 [†] Be wise now therefore, ye kings: be learned, ye judges of the earth.

11 Serve the Lord in fear, and rejoice in trembling.

12 [†] Kiss the son, lest he be angry, and ye [†] perish in the way, when his wrath shall suddenly burn: blessed are all that trust in him.

P S A L M III.

1 David driven forth of his kingdom, was greatly tormented in mind for his sins against God. † And therefore calleth upon God, and waxeth bold through his promises against the great rainings and terrors of his enemies, yea, against death itself, which he saw present before his eyes. † Finally, he rejoiceth for the good success that God gave him, and all the church.

¶ A Psalm of David, when he fled from his son Abfalom.

LORD, how are mine adversaries [†] increased! how many rise against me!

2 Many say to my soul, There is no help for him in God. [†] Selah.

3 But thou, Lord, art a buckler for me: my glory, and the lifter up of mine head.

4 I did call unto the Lord with my voice, and he heard me out of his holy mountain. Selah.

5 I laid me down and slept, and rose up again: for the Lord sustained me.

6 I will not be afraid for [†] ten thousand of the people, that should beset me round about.

7 O Lord, arise: help me, my God: for thou hast smitten all mine enemies upon the cheek bone: thou hast broken the teeth of the wicked.

5 [†] Offer the sacrifices of righteousness, and trust in the Lord.

1 When David by his sins had provoked God's wrath, and now felt not only his hand against him, but also conceived the horrors of death everlasting, he desireth forgiveness ; 6 Bewailing, that if God took him away in his indignation, he should lack occasion to praise him, as he was wont to do whilst he was among men. 9 Then suddenly feeling God's mercy, he sharply rebuked his enemies which rejoiced in his affliction.

1 He complaineth of the fraud, rapine, tyranny, and all kinds of wrong, which worldly men use, assigning the cause thereof, that wicked men, being as it were drunken with worldly prosperity, and therefore setting apart all fear and reverence towards God, think they may do all things without controuling. 15 Therefore he calleth upon God to send some remedy against these desperate evils: 16 And at length comforteth himself with hope of deliverance.

WHY standest thou far off, O Lord, and hidest thee in ^a due time, even in affliction?

2 The wicked with pride doth persecute the poor: let them be taken in the crafts that they have imagined.

3 For the wicked hath ^z made boast of his own heart's desire, and the covetous blesteth himself: he contemneth the Lord.

4 The wicked is so proud that he seeketh not for God: he thinketh always, There is no God.

5 His ways alway prosper: thy judgments are high above his sight: therefore † desieth he all his enemies.

10 He croucheth and boweth: therefore heaps of the ^c poor do fall by his might.

11 He hath said in his heart, God hath forgotten, he hideth away his face, and will never see.

12 ^d Arise, O Lord God: lift up thine hand: forget not the poor.

13 Wherefore doth the wicked contemn God? he saith in his heart, Thou wilt not ^e regard.

14 Yet thou hast seen it: for thou beholdest mischief and wrong, that thou mayest ^f take it into thine hands: the poor committeth himself unto thee: for thou art the helper of the fatherless.

15 Break thou the arm of the wicked and malicious: search his wickedness, and thou shalt find ^g none.

^f So soon as we enter into affliction, we think God should help us, but that is not always his due time.

^e Therefore thou must needs punish this their blasphemy.

^f To judge between the right and the wrong.

^g For thou hast utterly destroyed him.

16 The Lord is King for ever and ever: the ^h heathen are destroyed forth of his land.

17 Lord, thou hast heard the desire of the poor: thou preparest their heart: thou bendest thine ear to them:

1 This Psalm containeth two parts. In the first, David sheweth how hard assaults of temptations be sustained, and in how great anguish of mind he was, when Saul did persecute him. 4 Then next he rejoiceth that God sent him succour in his necessity, declaring his justice as well in governing the good and the wicked men, as the whole world.

1 David, as it were overcome with sinby and new afflictions, fleeth to God as his only refuge, 3 and so at the length being encouraged through God's promises, he conceiveth most sure confidence against the extreme horrors of death.

¶ To him that excelleth. A Psalm of David.

HOW long wilt thou forget me, O Lord, ' for ever ? how long wilt thou hide thy face from me ?

2 How long shall I take^r counsel within myself, having heaviness daily in mine heart ? how long shall mine enemy be exalted above me ?

3 Behold, and hear me, O Lord, my God : lighten mine eyes that I sleep not in death :

4 Lest mine enemy say, I have^r prevailed against him : and they that afflict me, rejoice when I slide.

5 But I trust in thy^b mercy, mine heart shall rejoice in thy salvation. I will sing to the Lord, because he hath^c dealt lovingly with me.

¶ Note, that of this 14th Psalm, the 5th, 6th, and 7th verses, which are put into the common translation, and may seem unto some to be left out in this, are not in the same Psalm in the Hebrew text, but are rather put more fully to express the manners of the wicked : and are gathered out of the 5th, 14th, and 10th Psalm, the 59th of the prophet Isaiah, and the 36th Psalm, and are alledged by St. Paul, and placed together in the 3d to the Romans.

1 This Psalm is the first beginning of his gratulation, and thanksgiving in the entering into his kingdom, wherein he extollet and praiseth most highly the marvellous mercies and grace of God, who hath thus preserved and defended him. 32 Also he setteth forth the image of Christ's kingdom, that the faithful may be assured that Christ shall always conquer and overcome by the unspeakable power of his Father, though all the whole world should strive there against.

¶ To him that excelleth.

A Psalm of David the servant of the Lord, who spake unto the Lord the words of this song (in the day that the Lord delivered him from the hand of all his enemies, and from the hand of Saul) and said,

I WILL love thee dearly, O Lord, my strength.

to be ^b praised: so shall I be safe from mine enemies.

4 The ^r sorrows of death compassed me, and the floods of wickedness made me afraid.

5 The [†] sorrows of the grave have compassed me about: the snares of death overtook me.

6 But in my trouble did I call upon the Lord, and cried unto my God: he heard my voice out of his temple, and my cry did come before him, even into his ears.

7 Then the earth trembled and quaked: the foundations also of the mountains moved and shook, because he was angry.

8 Smoke went out at his nostrils, and a ^r consuming fire out of his mouth: coals were kindled thereat.

9 He bowed the heavens also and came down, and ^r darkness was under his feet.

11 He made darkness his ^r secret place, and his pavilion round about him, even darkness of waters, and clouds of the air.

12 At the brightness of his presence his clouds passed, hail-stones, and coals of fire.

13 The Lord also thundered in the heaven, and the highest gave ^r his voice, hail-stones and coals of fire.

14 Then he sent out ^r his arrows and scattered them, and he increased lightnings and destroyed them.

15 And the channels of water were seen, and the ^r foundations of the world were discovered at thy rebuking, O Lord, at the blasting of the breath of thy nostrils.

16 He hath sent down from above and taken me: he hath drawn me out of many ^b waters.

17 He hath delivered me from my ^r strong enemy, and from them which hate me: for they were ^r too strong for me.

18 They prevented me in the day of my calamity: but the Lord was my stay.

28 Surely thou wilt light my candle: the Lord my God will lighten my darkness.

29 For by thee I have ^r broken through an host, and by my God I have leaped over a wall.

30 The way of the Lord is uncorrupt: the ^r word of the Lord is tried in the fire: he is a shield to all that trust in him.

32 God girdeth me with strength, and maketh my ^r way upright.

33 He maketh my feet like hinds feet, and setteth me upon mine ^r high places.

34 He teacheth mine hands to fight: so that a bow of [†] brass is broken with mine arms.

35 Thou hast also given me the ^r shield of thy salvation, and thy right hand hath stayed me, and thy ^r loving kindness hath caused me to increase.

36 Thou hast enlarged my steps under me, and mine heels have not slid.

37 I have pursued mine enemies, and taken them, and have not turned again till I had consumed them.

38 I have wounded them, that they were not able to resist: they are fallen under my feet.

39 For thou hast girded me with strength to battle: them that rose against me, thou hast subdued under me.

40 And thou hast ^r given me the necks of mine enemies, that I might destroy them that hate me.

41 They ^r cried, but there was none to save them, even unto the Lord, but he answered them not.

Ez. 34. 23.
Job. 1. 11.
1 Pt. 2. 25.

^a My life that is solitary, left alone and forsaken of all, Psal. 35. 17. and 25. 16.

^b Christ is delivered with a more mighty deliverance by overcoming death, than if he had not tasted death at all.

^c He promiseth to exhort the Church, that they by his example might praise the Lord.

^d The poor afflicted, are comforted by this example of David or Christ.

^e Which were sacrifices of thanksgiving, which they offered by God's commandment, when they were delivered out of any great danger.

^f He doth allude still to the sacrifice.

^g Though the poor be first named, as ver. 26. yet the wealthy are not separated from the grace of Christ's kingdom.

^h In whom there is no hope that he shall recover life : so neither poor nor rich, quick nor dead, shall be rejected from his kingdom.

ⁱ Meaning, the posterity, which the Lord keepeth as a seed to the church to continue his praise among men.

^j That is, God hath fulfilled his promise.

^k He hath care over me, and ministereth unto me all things.

2 He maketh me to rest in green pasture, and leadeth me by the still waters.

3 He ^l restoreth my soul, and leadeth me in the ^m paths of righteousness for his name's sake.

4 Yea, though I should walk through the valley of the ⁿ shadow of death, I will fear no evil : for thou art with me : thy rod and thy staff, they comfort me.

5 Thou dost prepare a ^o table before me in the sight of mine adversaries : thou dost ^p anoint mine head with oil, and my cup runneth over.

6 Doubtless kindness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life, and I shall remain a long season in the ^q house of the Lord.

P S A L M XXIV.

3 Albeit the Lord God hath made and governeth all the world, yet toward his chosen people his gracious goodness doth most abundantly appear, in that among them he will have his dwelling place. Which tho' it was appointed among the children of Abraham, yet only they do enter aright into this sanctuary, which are the true worshippers of God, purged from the sinful filth of this world. 7 Finally, he magnifieth God's grace for the building of the temple, to the end he might stir up all the faithful to the true service of God.

¶ A Psalm of David.

THE earth ^{*} is the Lord's, and all that therein is : the world and they that dwell therein.

2 For he hath founded it upon the ^r seas : and established it upon the floods.

3 Who shall ascend into the mountain of the Lord, and who shall stand in his holy place ?

4 Even he that hath innocent hands, and a pure heart : which hath not lift up his mind unto vanity, nor sworn deceitfully.

5 He shall receive a blessing from the Lord, and righteousness from the God of his salvation.

6 This is the ^s generation of them that seek him, of them that seek thy face, this is Jacob. Selah.

7 ^t Lift up your heads, ye gates, and be ye lift up, ye everlasting doors, and the King of glory shall come in.

8 Who is this King of glory ? the Lord strong and mighty, even the Lord mighty in battle.

9 Lift up your heads, ye gates, and lift up yourselves,

^l He comforteth or refresheth me.

^m Plain, or straight ways.

ⁿ Though he were in danger of death as the sheep that wandereth in the dark valley without his shepherd.

^o Albeit his enemies sought to destroy him, yet God delivereth him, and dealeth most liberally with him in despite of them.

^p As was the manner of great feasts.

^q He setteth not his felicity in the pleasures of this world, but in the fear and service of God.

^r He noteth two things : the one, that the earth to man's judgment seemeth above the waters : and next, that God miraculously preserveth the earth, that it is not drowned with the waters, which naturally are above it.

^s Though circumcision separate the carnal seed of Jacob from the Gentiles, yet he that seeketh God, is the true Jacob and the very Israelite.

^t David desireth the building up of the temple, wherein the glory of God should appear, and under the figure of this temple, he also prayeth for the spiritual temple, which is eternal, because of the promise which was made to the temple, as it is written, Psal. 132. 14.

yourselfes, ye everlasting doors, and the King of glory shall come in.

10 Who is this King of glory? the Lord of hosts, he is the King of glory. Selah.

P S A L M XXV.

1 The prophet touched with the consideration of his sins, and also grieved with the cruel malice of his enemies, 6 prayeth to God most fervently to have his sins forgiven, 7 especially such as he had committed in his youth. He beginneth every verse according to the Hebrew letters, two or three except.

A Psalm of David.

U N T O thee, O Lord, lift I up my soul.

2 My God, I trust in thee: let me not be confounded: let not mine enemies rejoice over me.

3 * So all that hope in thee shall not be ashamed: but let them be confounded, that transgress without cause.

4 † Shew me thy ways, O Lord, and teach me thy paths.

5 Lead me forth in thy truth, and teach me: for thou art the God of my salvation: in thee do I trust all the day.

6 Remember, O Lord, thy tender mercies, and thy loving kindness: for they have been for ever.

7 Remember not the † sins of my youth, nor my rebellions, but according to thy kindness remember thou me, even for thy goodness sake, O Lord.

8 Gracious and righteous is the Lord: therefore will he † teach sinners in the way.

9 Them that be meek will † he guide in judgment, and teach the humble his way.

10 All the paths of the Lord are mercy and truth unto such as keep his covenant and his testimonies.

11 For thy † name's sake, O Lord, be merciful unto mine iniquity, for it is great.

12 What † man is he that feareth the Lord? him will he teach the way that he shall † chuse.

13 His soul shall dwell at † ease, and his seed shall inherit the land.

14 The † secret of the Lord is revealed to them that fear him: and his covenant to give them understanding.

15 Mine eyes are ever toward the Lord: for he will bring my feet out of the net.

16 Turn thy face unto me, and have mercy upon me: for I am desolate and poor.

† I put not my trust in any worldly thing.

† That thou wilt take away mine enemies, which are thy rods.

† Retain me in the faith of thy promise, that I swerve not on any side.

† Constantly and against all temptations.

† He confesseth that his manifold sins were the cause that his enemies did thus persecute him, desiring that the cause of the evil may be taken away, to the intent that the effect may cease.

† That is, call them to repentance.

† He will govern and comfort them that are truly humbled for their sins.

† And for none other respect.

† Meaning, the number is very small.

† He will direct such with his Spirit to follow the right way.

† He shall prosper both in spiritual and corporal things.

† His counsel contained in his word, whereby he declareth that he is the protector of the faithful.

17 The sorrows of mine heart^d are enlarged: draw me out of my troubles.

18 Look upon mine affliction and my travail, and forgive all my sins.

19 Behold, mine^e enemies, for they are many, and they hate me with cruel hatred.

20 Keep my soul, and deliver me: let me not be confounded, for I trust in thee.

21 Let^f mine uprightnes and equity preserve me: for mine hope is in thee.

22 Deliver Israel, O God, out of all his troubles.

P S A L M XXVI.

1 David oppressed with many injuries, finding no help in the world, calleth for aid from God: and assured of his integrity toward Saul, desireth God to be his judge, and to defend his innocency. 6 Finally, he maketh mention of his sacrifice, which he will offer for his deliverance, and desireth to be in the company of the faithful, in the congregation of God, whence he was banished by Saul, promising integrity of life, and open praises and thanksgivings.

A Psalm of David.

J U D G E me, O Lord, for I have walked in mine innocency: my trust hath been also in the Lord: therefore shall I not slide.

2 Prove me, O Lord, and try me: examine my^h reins, and mine heart.

3 For thyⁱ loving kindness is before mine eyes: therefore have I walked in thy truth.

4 I have not^k haunted with vain persons, neither kept company with the dissemblers.

5 I have hated the assembly of the evil, and have not companied with the wicked.

6 I will^l wash mine hands in innocency, O Lord, and compass thine altar,

7 That I may declare with the voice of thanksgiving, and set forth all thy wondrous works.

8 O Lord, I have loved the habitation of thine house, and the place where thine honour dwelleth.

9^m Gather not my soul with the sinners, nor my life with the bloody men:

10 In whose hand isⁿ wickedness, and their right hand is full of bribes.

11 But I will walk in mine innocency: redeem me, therefore, and be merciful unto me.

12 My foot standeth in^o uprightnes: I will praise thee, O Lord, in the congregations.

PSALM

^d My grief is increased because of mine enemies cruelty.

^e The greater that his afflictions were, and the more that his enemies increased, the more near felt he God's help.

^f Forasmuch as I have behaved myself uprightly toward mine enemies, let them know that thou art the defender of my just cause.

^g He fleeth to God to be the judge of his just cause, seeing there is no equity among men.

^h My very affections, and inward motions of the heart.

ⁱ He sheweth what stayed him, that he did not recompense evil for evil.

^k He declareth that they cannot walk in simplicity before God, that delight in the company of the ungodly.

^l I will serve thee with a pure affection, and with the godly that sacrifice unto thee.

^m Destroy me not in the overthrow of the wicked.

ⁿ Whose cruel hands do execute the malicious devices of their hearts.

^o I am preserved from mine enemies by the power of God, and therefore will praise him openly.

P S A L M XXVII.

1 David maketh this Psalm, being delivered from great perils, as appeareth by the praises and thanksgivings annexed: 6 Wherein we may see the constant faith of David against the assaults of all his enemies, 7 and also the end wherefore he desireth to live and to be delivered, only to worship God in his congregation.

A Psalm of David. ^a

THE Lord is my ^p light and my salvation, whom shall I fear? the Lord is the strength of my life, of whom shall I be afraid?

2 When the wicked, even mine enemies and my foes, came upon me to eat my flesh, they stumbled and fell.

3 Though an host pitched against me, mine heart should not be afraid: though war be raised against me, I will trust ^q in this.

4 ^r One thing have I desired of the Lord, that I will require, even that I may dwell in the house of the Lord all the days of my life, to behold the beauty of the Lord, and to visit his temple.

5 For in the time of trouble he shall hide me in his tabernacle: in the secret place of his pavilion shall he hide me, and set me up upon a rock.

6 ^s And now shall he lift up my head above mine enemies round about me: therefore will I offer in his tabernacle sacrifices of joy: I will sing and praise the Lord.

7 Harken unto my voice, O Lord, when I cry: have mercy also upon me, and hear me.

8 When thou saidst, ^t Seek ye my face, mine heart answered unto thee, O Lord, I will seek thy face.

9 Hide not therefore thy face from me, nor cast thy servant away in displeasure: thou hast been my succour: leave me not, neither forsake me, O God of my salvation.

10 ^u Though my father and my mother should forsake me, yet the Lord will gather me up.

11 Teach me thy way, O Lord, and lead me in a right path, because of mine enemies.

12 Give me not unto the ^v lust of mine adversaries: for there are false witnesses risen up against me, and such as speak cruelly.

13 I should have fainted, except I had believed to see the goodness of the Lord ^w in the land of the living.

14 ^x Hope in the Lord: be strong, and he shall comfort thine heart, and trust in the Lord.

^p Because he was assured of good success in all his dangers, and that his salvation was surely laid up in God, he feared not the tyranny of his enemies.

^q That God will deliver me, and give my faith the victory.

^r The loss of country, wife, and all worldly commodities, grieve me not in respect of this one thing, that I may not praise thy name in the midst of the congregation.

^s David assured himself by the spirit of prophecy, that he should overcome his enemies, and serve God in his tabernacle.

^t He groundeth upon God's promise, and sheweth, that he is most willing to obey his commandment.

^u He magnifieth God's love toward his, which far passeth the most tender love of parents towards their children.

^v But either pacify their wrath, or bridle their rage.

^w In this present life before I die, as Isa. 38. 11.

^x He exhorteth himself to depend on the Lord, seeing he never failed in his promises.

^y He counteth himself as a dead man, till God shew

P S A L M XXVIII.

1 Being in great fear and heaviness of heart to see God dishonoured by the wicked, he desireth to be rid of them, 4 and crieth for vengeance against them, and at length assureth himself that God hath heard his prayer: 9 Unto whose tuition he commendeth all the faithful.

A Psalm of David.

UNTO thee, O Lord, do I cry: O my strength, be not deaf toward me, lest, if thou answer me not, I be ^a like them that go down into the pit.

2 Hear the voice of my petitions, when I cry unto thee, when I hold up mine hands toward thine ^b holy oracle.

3 ^c Draw me not away with the wicked, and with the workers of iniquity: which speak friendly to their neighbours, when malice is in their hearts.

4 ^d Regard them according to their deeds, and according to the wickedness of their inventions: recompense them after the work of their hands: render them their reward.

5 For they regard not the works of the Lord, nor the operation of his hands: therefore ^e break them down, and build them not up.

6 ^f Praised be the Lord, for he hath heard the voice of my petitions.

7 The Lord is my strength and my shield, mine heart trusted in him, and I was helped: therefore mine heart shall rejoice, and with my song will I praise him.

8 The Lord is ^g their strength, and he is the strength of the deliverance of his anointed.

9 Save thy people, and bless thine inheritance: feed them also, and exalt them for ever.

P S A L M XXIX.

1 The prophet exhorteth the princes and rulers of the world, (which for the most part think there is no God) 3 at the least to fear him for the thunders and tempests, for fear whereof all creatures tremble. 11 And though thereby God threateneth sinners, yet is he always merciful to his, and moveth them thereby to praise his name.

A Psalm of David.

GIVE unto the Lord, ye ^h sons of the mighty, give unto the Lord glory and strength.

2 Give unto the Lord glory due unto his name: worship the Lord in his glorious sanctuary.

3 The ⁱ voice of the Lord is upon the waters: 6 F the his favour toward him, and grant him his petition.

^b He used this outward means to help the weakness of his faith: for in that place was the ark, and there God promised to shew the tokens of his favour.

^c Destroy not the good with the bad.

^d He thus prayeth in respect of God's glory, and not for his own cause, being assured that God would punish the persecutors of his church.

^e Let them be utterly destroyed, as Mal. 1. 4.

^f Because he felt the assurance of God's help in his heart, his mouth was opened to sing his praises.

^g Meaning, his soldiers, who were as means by whom God declared his power.

^h He exhorteth the proud tyrants to humble themselves under God's hand, and not to be inferior to brute beasts and dumb creatures.

ⁱ The thunder-claps that are heard out of the clouds ought to make the wicked to tremble for fear of God's anger.

the God of glory maketh it to thunder: the Lord is upon the great waters.

4 The voice of the Lord is mighty: the voice of the Lord is glorious.

5 The voice of the Lord breaketh the cedars: yea, the Lord breaketh the cedars of Lebanon.

6 He maketh them also to leap like a calf: Lebanon also and Shirion like a young unicorn.

7 The voice of the Lord divideth the flames of fire.

8 The voice of the Lord maketh the wilderness to tremble: the Lord maketh the wilderness of Kadeth to tremble.

9 The voice of the Lord maketh the hinds to calve, and discovereth the forests, therefore in his temple doth every man speak of his glory.

10 The Lord sitteth upon the flood, and the Lord doth remain king for ever.

11 The Lord shall give strength unto his people: the Lord shall bless his people with peace.

P S A L M XXX.

1 When David was delivered from great danger, he rendered thanks to God, exhorting others to do the like; and to learn by his example, that God is rather merciful than severe and rigorous towards his children: 7 And also that the fall from prosperity to adversity is sudden. 8 This done, he returneth to prayer, promising to praise God for ever.

A Psalm, or song of the dedication of the house of David.

I WILL magnify thee, O Lord: for thou hast exalted me, and hast not made my foes to rejoice over me.

2 O Lord my God, I cried unto thee, and thou hast restored me.

3 O Lord, thou hast brought my soul out of the grave: thou hast revived me from them that go down into the pit.

4 Sing praises unto the Lord, ye his saints, and give thanks before the remembrance of his holiness.

5 For he endureth but a while in his anger: but in his favour is life: weeping may abide at evening, but joy cometh in the morning.

6 And in my prosperity I said, I shall never be moved:

7 For thou, Lord, of thy goodness hadst made my mountain to stand strong: but thou didst hide thy face, and I was troubled.

^a That is, the thunderbolt breaketh the most strong trees, and shall men think their power to be able to resist God?
^b Called also Hermon.
^c It causeth the lightnings to shoot and glide.
^d In places most desolate, whereas it seemeth there is no presence of God.
^e For fear maketh them to cast their calves.
^f Maketh the trees bare, or pierceth the most secret places.
^g Though the wicked are nothing moved with these sights, yet the faithful praise God.

^o Before his tabernacle.
^p I put too much confidence in my quiet state, as Jer.

8 Then cried I unto thee, O Lord, and prayed to my Lord.

9 What profit is there in my blood, when I go down to the pit? shall the dust give thanks unto thee? or shall it declare thy truth?

10 Hear, O Lord, and have mercy upon me: Lord, be thou mine helper.

11 Thou hast turned my mourning into joy: thou hast loosed my sack, and girded me with gladness.

12 Therefore shall my tongue praise thee, and not cease: O Lord my God, I will give thanks unto thee for ever.

P S A L M XXXI.

1 David, delivered from some great danger, first rehearseth what meditation he had by the power of faith, when death was before his eyes, his enemy being ready to take him. 15 Then he affirmeth, that the favour of God is always ready to those that fear him. 20 Finally, he exhorteth all the faithful to trust in God, and to love him, because he preserveth and strengtheneth them, as they may see by this example.

To him that excelleth. A Psalm of David.

IN thee, O Lord, have I put my trust: let me never be confounded: deliver me in thy righteousness.

2 Bow down thine ear to me: make haste to deliver me: be unto me a strong rock, and an house of defence to save me.

3 For thou art my rock and my fortress: therefore for thy name's sake direct me and guide me.

4 Draw me out of the net that they have laid privily for me: for thou art my strength.

5 Into thine hand I commend my spirit: for thou hast redeemed me, O Lord God of truth.

6 I have hated them that give themselves to deceitful vanities: for I trust in the Lord.

7 I will be glad and rejoice in thy mercy: for thou hast seen my trouble: thou hast known my soul in adversities,

8 And thou hast not shut me up in the hand of the enemy, but hast set my feet at large.

9 Have mercy upon me, O Lord: for I am in trouble: mine eye, my soul and my belly, are consumed with grief.

10 For my life is wasted with heaviness, and my years with mourning: my strength faileth for my pain: and my bones are consumed.

11 I was

31. 18. 2 Chron. 32. 24, 25.
^a I thought thou hadst established me in Zion most surely.
^b After that thou hadst withdrawn thine help, I felt my misery.
^c David meaneth that the dead are not profitable to the congregation of the Lord here on earth: therefore he would live to praise his name, which is the end of man's creation.
^d Because thou hast preserved me, that my tongue should praise thee, I will not be unmindful of my duty.
^e For then God declareth himself just, when he preserveth his according as he hath promised.
^f Preserve me from the crafty counsels and subtil practices of mine enemies.
^g He desireth God not only to take care for him in this life, but that his soul may be saved after this life.
^h This affection ought to be in all God's children, to hate whatsoever thing is not grounded upon a sure trust in God, as deceitful and vain.
ⁱ Largeness signifieth comfort, as straitness sorrow and peril.
^k Meaning, that his sorrow and torment had continued a great while.

11 I was a ¹ reproach among all mine enemies, but especially among my neighbours: and a fear to my acquaintance, ^m who seeing me in the street, fled from me.

12 I am forgotten, as a dead man out of mind: I am like a broken vessel.

13 For I have heard the railingⁿ of great men: fear was on every side, while they conspired together against me, and consulted to take my life.

14 But I trusted in thee, O Lord: I said, ^o Thou art my God.

15 My ^p times are in thine hand: deliver me from the hand of mine enemies, and from them that persecute me.

16 Make thy face to shine upon thy servant, and save me through thy mercy.

17 Let me not be confounded, O Lord: for I have called upon thee: let the wicked be put to confusion, and ^a to silence in the grave.

18 Let the lying lips be made dumb, which cruelly, proudly, and spitefully speak against the righteous.

19 How great is thy goodness, which thou ^r hast laid up for them that fear thee! and done to them that trust in thee, even before the sons of men!

20 Thou dost hide them [†] ^s privily in thy presence from the pride of men: thou keepest them secretly in thy tabernacle from the ^r strife of tongues.

21 Blessed be the Lord: for he hath shewed his marvellous kindness toward me in a ^r strong city.

22 Though I said in mine ^u haste, I am cast out of thy sight, yet thou heardest the voice of my prayer when I cried unto thee.

23 Love ye the Lord, all his [‡] saints: for the Lord preserveth the faithful, and rewardeth abundantly the proud doer.

24 All ye that trust in the Lord, be ^w strong, and he shall establish your heart.

P S A L M XXXII.

1 David, punished with grievous sickness for his sins, counteth them blessed to whom God doth not impute their transgressions: 5 and after that he had confessed his sins, and obtained pardon, 6 he exhorteth the wicked men to live godly, 11 and the good to rejoice.

¶ A Psalm of David, to give ^x instruction.

BLESSED is he whose wickedness is ^y forgiven, and whose sin is covered.

2 Blessed is the man, unto whom the Lord imputeth not iniquity, and in whose spirit there is no guile.

3 When I held my ^z tongue, my bones consumed, or when I ^a roared all the day,

4 (For thine hand is heavy upon me, day and night: and my moisture is turned into the drought of summer. Selah.)

5 Then I ^b acknowledged my sin unto thee, neither hid I mine iniquity: for I thought, I will confess against myself my wickedness unto the Lord, and thou forgavest the punishment of my sin. Selah.

6 Therefore shall every one that is godly make his prayer unto thee in ^c a time when thou mayest be found: surely, in the flood of great waters ^d they shall not come near him.

7 Thou art my secret place: thou preservest me from trouble: thou compassest me about with joyful deliverance. Selah.

8 I will ^e instruct thee, and teach thee in the way that thou shalt go, and I will guide thee with mine eye.

9 Be ye not like a horse, or like a mule, which understand not: ^f whose mouths thou dost bind with bit and bridle, lest they come near thee.

10 Many sorrows shall come to the wicked: but he that trusteth in the Lord, mercy shall compass him.

11 Be glad, ye righteous, and ^g rejoice in the Lord: and be joyful, all ye that are upright in heart.

P S A L M XXXIII.

1 He exhorteth good men to praise God, for that he hath not only created all things, and by his providence governeth the same, but also is faithful in his promises. 10 He understandeth man's heart, and scattereth the counsel of the wicked. 16 So that no man can be preserved by any creature or man's strength: but they that put their confidence in his mercy, shall be preserved from all adversities.

REJOICE in the Lord, O ye righteous, for it ^h becometh upright men to be thankful.

2 Praise the Lord with harp: sing unto him with viol and ⁱ instrument of ten strings.

3 Sing unto him a new song: sing cheerfully with a loud voice.

4 For

¹ Mine enemies had drawn all men to their part against me, even my chief friends.

^m They were afraid to shew me any token of friendship.

ⁿ They that were in authority, condemned me as a wicked doer.

^o I had this testimony of conscience, that thou wouldest defend mine innocency.

^p Whatsoever changes come, thou governeest them by thy providence.

^q Let death destroy them, to the intent that they may hurt no more.

^r The treasures of God's mercy are always laid up in store for his children, albeit at all times they do not enjoy them.

^s That is, in a place where they shall have comfort, and be hid safely from the enemies pride.

^t Meaning, there was no city so strong to preserve him, as the defence of God's favour.

^u And so by rashness and infidelity deserved to have been forsaken.

^w Be constant in your vocation, and God will confirm you with heavenly strength.

^x Concerning the free remission of sins, which is the chiefest point of our faith.

^c When necessity causeth him to seek to thee for help, Isa. 55. 6.

^d To wit, the waters and great dangers.

^e David promiseth to make the rest of God's children partakers of the benefits which he felt, and that he will diligently look and take care to direct them in the way of salvation.

^f If men can rule brute beasts, think they that God will not bridle and tame their rage?

^g He sheweth that peace and joy of conscience in the Holy Ghost, is the fruit of faith.

^h It is the duty of the godly to set forth the praises of God, for his mercy and power shewed toward them.

ⁱ To sing on instruments, was a part of the ceremonial service of the temple, which doth no more appertain unto us, than the sacrifices, censings, and lights.

4 For the ^a word of the Lord is righteous, and all his ^b works are faithful.

5 He ^c loveth righteousness and judgment, the earth is full of the goodness of the Lord.

6 By the word of the Lord were the heavens made, and all the host of them by the breath of his mouth.

7 He ^d gathereth the waters of the sea together as upon an heap, and layeth up the depths in his treasures.

8 Let all the earth fear the Lord: let all them that dwell in the world fear him.

9 For he spake, and it was done: he commanded, and it ^e stood.

10 The Lord breaketh the ^f counsel of the heathen, and bringeth to nought the devices of the people.

11 The counsel of the Lord shall stand for ever, and the thoughts of his heart throughout all ages.

12 Blessed is that nation, whose ^g God is the Lord: even the people that he hath chosen for his inheritance.

13 The Lord ^h looketh down from heaven, and beholdeth all the children of men.

14 From the habitation of his dwelling he beholdeth all them that dwell in the earth.

15 He ⁱ fashioneth their hearts every one, and understandeth all their works.

16 The ^j king is not saved by the multitude of an host, neither is the mighty man delivered by great strength.

17 An horse is a vain help, and shall not deliver any by his great strength.

18 Behold, ^k the eye of the Lord is upon them that fear him, and upon them that trust in his mercy,

1 After David had escaped Achish, according as it is written in 1 Sam. 21. 11. whom in this title he calleth Achish (which was a general name to all the kings of the Philistines) he praiseth God for his deliverance: 3 Provoking all others by his example to trust in God, to fear and serve him, 7 who defendeth the godly with his angels, 16 and utterly destroyeth the wicked in their sins.

A Psalm of David, when he changed his behaviour before Achish, who drove him away, and he departed.

I WILL ^a always give thanks unto the Lord: his praise shall be in my mouth continually.

2 My soul shall glory in the Lord: the ^b humble shall hear it, and be glad.

3 Praise ye the Lord with me, and let us magnify his name together.

4 I sought the Lord, and he heard me: yea, he delivered me out of all my ^c fear.

5 They ^d shall look unto him, and run to him: and their faces shall not be ashamed, saying,

6 This poor man cried, and the Lord heard him, and saved him out of all his troubles.

7 The ^e angel of the Lord pitcheth round about them that fear him, and delivereth them.

8 Taste ye, and see how gracious the Lord is: blessed is the man that trusteth in him.

9 Fear the Lord, ye his saints: for nothing wanteth to them that fear him.

10 The ^f lions do lack, and suffer hunger: but they which seek the Lord, shall ^g want nothing that is good.

11 Come, children, hearken unto me: I will teach you the ^h fear of the Lord.

12 ⁱ What man is he that desireth life, and loveth long days for to ^j see good?

13 Keep thy tongue from evil, and thy lips, that they speak no guile.

14 Eschew evil, and do good: seek peace, and follow after it.

15 The eyes of the Lord are upon the righteous, and his ears are open unto their cry.

16 But the ^k face of the Lord is against them that do evil, to cut off their remembrance from the earth.

17 The righteous cry, and the Lord heareth them, and delivereth them out of all their troubles.

18 The Lord is near unto them that are of a ^l contrite heart, and will save such as be afflicted in spirit.

19 Great are the troubles of the righteous, but the Lord delivereth him out of them all.

20 ^m He keepeth all his bones: not one of them is broken:

21 But

^a That is, counsel or commandment in governing the world.

^b That is, the effect and execution.

^c Howsoever the world judgeth of God's works, yet he doth all things according to justice and mercy.

^d By the creation of the heavens and beautiful ornament, with the gathering also of the waters, he setteth forth the power of God, that all creatures might fear him.

^e No counsel can prevail against God, but he defeateth it, and it shall have evil success.

^f He sheweth that all our felicity standeth in this, that the Lord is our God.

^g He proveth, that all things are governed by God's providence, and not by fortune.

^h Therefore he knoweth their wicked enterprises.

ⁱ If kings and the mighty of the world cannot be saved by worldly means, but only by God's providence, what have others to trust in that have not like means?

^j God sheweth that toward his or his mercy, which man by no means is able to compass.

^k Thus he speaketh in the name of the whole church, which only depend on God's providence.

^l He promiseth never to become unmindful of God's great benefit for his deliverance.

^m They that are beaten down with the experience of their own evils.

ⁿ Which I conceived for the danger wherein I was.

^o They shall be bold to flee to thee for succour, when they shall see thy mercies toward me.

^p Though God's power be sufficient to govern us, yet for man's infirmity he appointeth his angels to watch over us.

^q The godly, by their patient obedience, profit more than they which ravin and spoil.

^r If they abide the last trial.

^s That is, the true religion and worship of God.

^t Seeing all men naturally desire felicity, he wondereth why they cast themselves willingly into misery.

^u The anger of God doth not only destroy the wicked, but also abolisheth their name for ever.

^v When they seemed to be swallowed up with affliction, then God is at hand to deliver them.

^w And as Christ saith, all the hairs of his head.

21 But malice shall slay the wicked: and they that hate the righteous shall perish.

22 The Lord^k redeemeth the souls of his servants: and none that trust in him shall perish.

1 So long as Saul was enemy to David, all that had any authority under him, to flatter their king (as is the course of the world) did also most cruelly persecute David, against whom he prayeth God to plead and to avenge his cause, 8 That they may be taken in their nets and snares which they laid for him, that his innocency may be declared, 27 And that the innocent which taketh part with him, may rejoice and praise the name of the Lord, that thus delivereth his servant: 28 And so he promiseth to speak forth the justice of the Lord, and to magnify his name all the days of his life.

¶ A Psalm of David.

PLEAD thou my^l cause, O Lord, with them that strive with me: fight thou against them that fight against me.

2^m Lay hand upon the shield and buckler, and stand up for mine help.

3 Bring out also the spear, and stop the way against them that persecute me: say unto myⁿ soul, I am thy salvation.

4 Let them be confounded and put to shame, that seek after my soul: let them be turned back, and brought to confusion, that imagine my hurt.

5 Let them be as chaff before the wind, and let the angel of the^o Lord scatter them.

6 Let their way be dark and slippery: and let the angel of the Lord persecute them.

7 For^p without cause they have hid the pit and their net for me: without cause they have digged a pit for my soul.

8 Let destruction come upon^q him at unawares, and let his net that he hath laid privily, take him: let him fall into^r the same destruction.

9 Then my soul shall be joyful in the Lord: it shall rejoice in his salvation.

10 All my^s bones shall say, Lord, Who is like unto thee, which deliverest the poor from him that is too strong for him! yea, the poor and him that is in misery from him that spoileth him!

11^t Cruel witnesses did rise up: they asked of things that I knew not.

12 They rewarded me evil for good, to^u have spoiled my soul.

13 Yet I, when they were sick, I was clothed with a sack: I humbled my soul with fasting, and my^v prayer was turned upon my bosom.

14 I behaved myself as to my friend, or as to my brother: I humbled myself, mourning as one that bewaileth his mother.

15 But in mine^x adversity they rejoiced, and gathered themselves together: the abjects assembled themselves against me: and I knew not: they tare^y me, and ceased not.

16 With the false scoffers at^z banquets, gnashing their teeth against me.

17 Lord, how long wilt thou behold this? deliver my soul from their tumult, even my desolate soul from the lions.

18 So will I give thee thanks in a great congregation: I will praise thee among much people.

19 Let not them that are mine enemies, unjustly rejoice over me, neither let them^a wink with the eye, that hate me without a cause.

20 For they speak not as friends: but they imagine deceitful words against the[†] quiet of the land.

21 And they gaped upon me with their mouths; saying, Aha, aha, ^b our eye hath seen.

22 Thou hast seen it, O Lord: keep not silence: be not far from me, O Lord.

23 Arise and wake to my judgment, even to my cause, my God; and my Lord.

24 Judge me, O Lord my God, according to thy^c righteousness; and let them not rejoice over me.

25 Let them not say in their hearts; ^d O our soul, rejoice: neither let them say, We have devoured him.

26 Let them be confounded, and put to shame together, that rejoice at mine hurt: let them be clothed^e with confusion and shame that lift up themselves against me.

27 But let them be joyful and glad^f that love my righteousness: yea, let them say always, Let the Lord be magnified; which loveth the^h prosperity of his servant.

28 And my tongue shall utter thy righteousness, and thy praise every day.

†Or, clefts of the earth meaning, himself and others in their misery.

^k For when they seem to be overcome with great danger and death itself, then God sheweth himself their Redeemer.

^m He desireth God to undertake his cause against them that did persecute him and slander him.

ⁿ Albeit God can with his breath destroy all his enemies, yet the Holy Ghost attributeth unto him these outward weapons to assure us of his present power.

^o Assure me against these temptations, that thou art the author of my salvation.

^p Smite them with the spirit of giddiness, that their enterprises may be foolish, and they receive just reward.

P S A L M XXXVI.

1 The prophet, grievously vexed by the wicked, doth complain of their malicious wickedness. 6 Then he turneth to consider the unspeakable goodness of God toward all creatures, 9 but specially toward his children, that by the faith thereof he may be comforted and assured of his deliverance by this ordinary course of God's work, 13 who in the end destroyeth the wicked, and saveth the just.

¶ To him that excelleth.

A Psalm of David.

Wickedness saith to the wicked man, ¹ even in mine heart, that there is no fear of God before his eyes.

2 For he ² flattereth himself in his own eyes, while his iniquity is found worthy to be hated.

3 The words of his mouth are iniquity and deceit: he hath left off to understand and to do good.

4 He ³ imagineth mischief upon his bed: he setteth himself upon a way that is not good, and doth not abhor evil.

5 Thy ⁴ mercy, O Lord, reacheth unto the heavens, and thy faithfulness unto the clouds.

6 Thy righteousness is like ⁵ † the mighty mountains: thy judgments are like a great ⁶ deep: thou, Lord, dost save man and beast.

7 How excellent is thy mercy, O God! therefore the children of men trust under the shadow of thy wings.

8 They shall be ⁷ satisfied with the fatness of thine house, and thou shalt give them drink out of the river of thy pleasures.

9 For with thee is the well of life, and in thy light shall we see light.

10 Extend thy loving kindness unto them that ⁸ know thee, and thy righteousness unto them that are upright in heart.

11 Let not the ⁹ foot of pride come against me, and let not the hand of the wicked men move me.

12 ¹⁰ There they are fallen that work iniquity: they are cast down, and shall not be able to rise.

P S A L M XXXVII.

1 This Psalm containeth exhortation and consolation for the weak, that are grieved at the prosperity of the wicked, and the affliction of the godly. 7 For how prosperously soever the wicked do live for the ¹ I see evidently by his deeds, that sin pusheth forward the reprobate from wickedness to wickedness, albeit he goeth about to cover his impiety.

² Though all other deride his vile sin, yet he himself seeth it not.

³ The reprobates mock at wholesome doctrine, and put not difference between good and evil.

By describing at large the nature of the reprobate, he admonisheth the godly to beware of these vices.

⁴ Though wickedness seemeth to overflow all the world, yet by thine heavenly providence thou governest heaven and earth.

⁵ The depth of thy providence governeth all things, and disposeth them, albeit the wicked seem to overwhelm the world.

⁶ Only God's children have enough of all things both concerning this life, and the life to come.

⁷ He sheweth who are God's children, to wit, they that know him, and lead their lives uprightly.

⁸ Let not the proud advance himself against me, neither the power of the wicked drive me away.

⁹ That is, in their pride wherein they flatter themselves.

¹⁰ He admonisheth us neither to vex ourselves for the prosperous estate of the wicked, neither to desire to be like them to make our state the better.

time, he doth affirm their felicity to be vain and transitory, because they are not in the favour of God, but in the end they are destroyed as his enemies, 11 And how miserably soever the righteous seemeth to live in the world, yet his end is peace, and he is in the favour of God, he is delivered from the wicked, and preserved.

¶ A Psalm of David.

FRET not thyself because of the wicked men, neither be envious for the evil doers.

2 For they shall soon be ¹ cut down like grass, and shall wither as the green herb.

3 ² Trust thou in the Lord, and do good: dwell in the land, and thou shalt be fed assuredly.

4 And delight thyself in the Lord, and he shall give thee thine heart's desire.

5 ³ Commit thy way unto the Lord, and trust in him, and he shall bring it to pass.

6 And he shall bring forth thy righteousness as the light, and thy ⁴ judgment as the noon day.

7 Wait patiently upon the Lord, and hope in him: fret not thyself for him ⁵ which prospereth in his way: nor for the man that bringeth his enterprises to pass.

8 Cease from anger, and leave off wrath: fret not thyself ⁶ also to do evil.

9 For evil doers shall be cut off, and they that wait upon the Lord, they shall inherit the land.

10 ⁷ Therefore yet a little while, and the wicked shall not appear, and thou shalt look after his place, and he shall not be found.

11 But ⁸ meek men shall possess the earth, and shall have their delight in the multitude of peace. Mat. 12. 43.

12 ⁹ The wicked practiseth against the just, and gnasheth his teeth against him.

13 But the Lord shall laugh him to scorn: for he seeth that his day is coming.

14 The wicked have drawn their sword, and have bent their bow, to cast down the poor and needy, and to slay such as be of upright conversation.

15 But their sword shall enter into their own heart, and their bows shall be broken.

16 ¹⁰ A small thing unto the just man is better than great riches to the wicked and mighty.

17 For the arms of the wicked shall be broken: but the Lord upholdeth the just men.

18 The Lord ¹¹ knoweth the days of upright men, and their inheritance shall be perpetual.

9 They

¹ For God's judgment cutteth down their state in a moment.

² To trust in God, and do according to his will, are sure tokens that his providence will never fail us.

³ Be not led by thine own wisdom, but obey God, and he will finish his work in thee.

⁴ As the hope of the day-light causeth us not to be offended with the darkness of the night: so ought we patiently to trust that God will clear our cause, and restore us to our right.

⁵ When God suffereth the wicked to prosper, it seemeth to the flesh that he favoureth their doings, Job 21. 7, &c.

⁶ Meaning, except he moderate his affections, he shall be led to do as they do.

⁷ He correcteth the impatience of our nature, which cannot abide till the fulness of God's time be come.

⁹ For they are daily fed, as with manna from heaven, and have sufficient, when the wicked have never enough, but ever hunger.

¹⁰ God knoweth what dangers hang over his, and by what means to deliver them.

19 They shall not be confounded in the perilous time, and in the days of famine they shall have ^f enough.

20 But the wicked shall perish, and the enemies of the Lord shall be consumed as the ^e fat of lambs: even with the smoke shall they consume away.

21 The wicked borroweth and payeth not again: but the righteous is merciful and ^h giveth.

22 For such as be blessed of God shall inherit the land, and they that be cursed of him shall be cut off.

23 ⁱ The paths of man are directed by the Lord: for he loveth his way.

24 Though he ^k fall, he shall not be cast off, for the Lord putteth under his hand.

25 I have been young, and am old: yet I saw never the righteous forsaken, nor his ^l seed begging bread.

26 But he is ever merciful and lendeth, and his seed enjoyeth the blessing.

27 Flee from evil and do good, and dwell for ever.

28 For the Lord loveth judgment, and forsaketh not his saints: they shall be preserved for evermore: but the seed of the wicked shall be cut off.

29 The righteous men shall inherit the land, and dwell therein ^m for ever.

30 The ⁿ mouth of the righteous will speak of wisdom, and his tongue will talk of judgment.

31 For the law of his God is in his heart, and his steps shall not slide.

32 The wicked watcheth the righteous, and seeketh to slay him.

33 But the Lord will not leave him in his hand, nor condemn him when he is ^o judged.

34 Wait thou on the Lord, and keep his way, and he shall exalt thee, that thou shalt inherit the land: when the wicked men shall perish, thou shalt see.

35 I have seen the wicked strong, and spreading himself like a green bay tree:

36 Yet he ^p passed away, and lo, he was gone, and I sought him, but he could not be found.

37 ^q Mark the upright man, and behold the just: for the end of that man is peace.

38 But the transgressors shall be destroyed together, and the end of the wicked shall be cut off.

39 But the ^r salvation of the righteous men shall be of the Lord: he shall be their strength in the time of trouble.

40 For the Lord shall help them, and deliver them: he shall deliver them from the wicked, and shall save them, because they trust in him.

P S A L M XXXVIII.

1 David lying sick of some grievous disease, acknowledgeth himself to be chastised of the Lord for his sins, and therefore prayeth God to turn away his wrath. 5 He uttereth the greatness of his grief by many words and circumstances, as wounded with the arrows of God's ire, forsaken of his friends, evil intreated of his enemies. 22 But in the end, with firm confidence he commendeth his cause to God, and hopeth for speedy help at his hand.

¶ A Psalm of David for ^r remembrance.

O Lord, rebuke me not in thine ^t anger, neither chastise me in thy wrath.

2 For thine ^u arrows have light upon me, and thine hand lieth upon me.

3 There is nothing found in my flesh, because of thine anger: neither is there rest in my bones, because of my ^v sin.

4 For ^x mine iniquities are gone over mine head, and as a weighty burden they are too heavy for me.

5 My wounds are putrified, and corrupt, because of ^y my foolishness.

6 I am bowed, and crooked very fore: I go ^z mourning all the day.

7 For my reins are full of burning, and there is nothing found in my flesh.

8 I am weakened and sore broken: I ^z roar for the very grief of mine heart.

9 Lord, I pour my whole desire before thee, and my sighing is not hid from thee.

10 Mine heart ^z panteth: my strength faileth me, and the light of mine eyes, even ^z they are not mine own.

11 My lovers and my friends stand aside from my plague, and my ^b kinsmen stand afar off.

12 They also that seek after my life, lay snares, and they that go about to do me evil, talk wicked things, and imagine deceit continually.

13 But I as ^c a deaf man heard not, and am as a dumb man which openeth not his mouth.

14 Thus

† Or, black as one that is disfigured and consumed with sickness.

† Heb. runneth about, or is tossed to and fro: meaning, that he was destitute of all help and counsel.

^f For God will give them contented minds, and that which shall be necessary.

^e They shall vanish away suddenly: for they are fed for the day of slaughter.

^h God so furnisheth him with his blessing, that he is able to help others.

ⁱ God prospereth the faithful, because they walk in his ways with an upright conscience.

^k When God doth exercise his faith with divers temptations.

^l Though the just man die, yet God's blessings are extended to his posterity; and though God suffer some just man to lack temporal benefits, yet he recompenseth him with spiritual treasures.

^m They shall continually be preserved under God's wings, and have at least inward rest.

ⁿ These three points are required of the faithful, that their talk be godly, that God's law be in their heart, and that their life be upright.

^o For though it be sometime so expedient both for God's glory and their salvation, yet he will approve their cause, and revenge their wrong.

^p So that the prosperity of the wicked is but as a cloud, which vanisheth away in a moment.

^q He exhorteth the faithful to mark diligently the examples both of God's mercies, and also of his judgments.

^r He sheweth that the patient hope of the godly is never in vain, but in the end hath good success, though for a time God prove them by sundry temptations.

^s To put himself and others in mind of God's chastisement for sin.

^t He desireth not to be exempted from God's rod, but that he would so moderate his hand, that he might be able to bear it.

^u Thy sickness, wherewith thou hast visited me.

^v David acknowledgeth God to be just in his punishments, because his sin had deserved much more.

^w He confesseth his sins, God's justice, and maketh prayer his refuge.

^y That rather gave place to mine own lusts, than to the will of God.

^z This example warneth us never to despair, be the torment never so great: but always to cry unto God with sure trust for deliverance.

^a My sight faileth me for very sorrow.

^b Partly for fear, and partly for pride, they denied all duty and friendship.

^c For I can have no audience before men, and therefore patiently wait for the help of God.

14 Thus am I as a man that heareth not, and in whose mouth are no reproofs.

15 For on thee, O Lord, do I wait : thou wilt hear me, my Lord, my God.

16 For I said, Hear me, lest they rejoice over me, for when my foot slippeth, they extol themselves against me.

17 Surely I am ready to halt, and my sorrow is ever before him.

18 When I declare my pain, and am sorry for my sin,

19 Then mine enemies are alive and are mighty, and they that hate me wrongfully are many.

20 They also that reward evil for good are mine adversaries, because I follow goodnefs.

21 Forsake me not, O Lord : be not thou far from me, my God.

22 Haste thee to help me, O my Lord, my salvation.

1 David uttereth with what great grief and bitterness of mind he was driven to these outrageous complaints of his infirmities. 2 For he confesseth that when he had determined silence, he broke forth yet into words that he would not, through the greatness of his grief. 4 Then he rehearseth certain requests which taste of the infirmity of man, 8 And mixeth with them many prayers : but all do shew a mind wonderfully troubled, that it may plainly appear how he did strive mightily against death and desperation.

A Psalm of David.

I THOUGHT, ² I will take heed to my ways, that I sin not with my tongue : I will keep my mouth bridled while the wicked is in my sight.

2 I was dumb and spake nothing : I kept silence even from good, ¹ and my sorrow was more stirred.

3 Mine heart was hot within me, and while I was musing the fire kindled, and ² I spake with my tongue, saying,

4 Lord, let me know mine end, and the measure of my days, what it is : let me know how long I have to live.

5 Behold, thou hast made my days as an hand-breadth, and mine age as nothing in respect of thee : surely, every man in his best state is altogether vanity. Selah.

¹ That is, if they see that thou succour me not in time, they will mock and triumph as though thou hadst forsaken me.

² I am without hope to recover my strength.

³ In my greatest misery they most rejoice.

⁴ He had rather have the hatred of all the world, than to fail in any part of his duty to Godward.

⁵ Which are the author of my salvation : and this declareth that he prayed with sure hope of deliverance.

⁶ This was one of the chief singers, 1 Chron. 16. 41.

⁷ Albeit he had appointed with himself patiently to have served God's leisure, yet the vehemency of his pain caused him to break his purpose.

⁸ Though when the wicked ruled, he thought to have kept silence, yet his zeal caused him to change his mind.

⁹ He confesseth that he grudged against God, considering the greatness of his sorrows, and the shortness of his life.

¹⁰ Yet David offended in that, that he reasoned with God, though that he were too severe toward his weak creature.

¹¹ Make me not a mocking-stock to the wicked, wrap me not up with the wicked, when they are put to shame.

6 Doubtless, man walketh in a shadow, and disquieteth himself in vain : he heapeth up riches, and cannot tell who shall gather them.

7 And now, Lord, what wait I for ? mine hope is even in thee.

8 Deliver me from all my transgressions, and make me not a rebuke unto the foolish.

9 I should have been dumb, and not have opened my mouth, because ¹ thou didst it.

10 Take thy plague away from me : for I am consumed by the stroke of thine hand.

11 When thou with rebukes dost chastise man for iniquity, thou as a moth ² makest his beauty to consume : surely every man is vanity. Selah.

12 Hear my prayer, O Lord, and hearken unto my cry : keep not silence at my tears, for for I am a stranger with thee, and a sojourner, as all my fathers were.

13 Stay thine anger from me, that I may recover my strength, ³ before I go hence, and be not.

¶ To him that excelleth.

A Psalm of David.

BLESSED is he that ^b judgeth wisely of the poor: the Lord shall deliver him in the time of trouble.

2 The Lord will keep him, and preserve him

^z Thou hast opened mine ears to understand the spiritual meaning of the sacrifices: and here David esteemeth the ceremonies of the law nothing in respect of the spiritual service.

^a When thou hadst opened mine ears and heart, I was ready to obey thee, being assured that I was written in the book of thine elect for this end.

^b In the church assembled in the sanctuary.

^c David here numbereth three degrees of our salvation: God's mercy, whereby he pitieth us: his righteousness, which signifieth his continual protection: and his truth, whereby appeareth his constant favour: so that hereof proceedeth our salvation.

^d As touching the judgment of the flesh, I was utterly destitute of all counsel: yet faith inwardly moved my heart to pray.

^e He desireth that God's mercy may contend for him against the rage of his enemies.

^f Let the same shame and confusion light upon them, which they intended to have brought upon me.

^g As the faithful always praise God for his benefits: so the wicked mock God's children in their afflictions.

^h Not condemning him as accursed, whom God doth visit, knowing that there are divers causes why God layeth his hand upon us: yea, and afterward he restoreth us.

ⁱ When for sorrow or grief of mind he calleth himself alive: he shall be blessed upon the earth, and thou wilt not deliver him unto the will of his enemies.

3 The Lord will strengthen him upon the ¹ bed of sorrow: thou hast turned all his ^k bed in his sickness.

4 Therefore I said, Lord have mercy upon me: heal my soul, for I have sinned against thee.

5 Mine enemies ^l speak evil of me, saying, When shall he die, and his name perish?

6 And if he come to see me, he speaketh ^m lyes, but his heart heapeth iniquity within him, and when he cometh forth, he telleth it.

7 All they that hate me, whisper together against me: even against me do they imagine mine hurt.

8 ⁿ A mischief is light upon him, and he that lieth; shall no more rise.

9 Yea, my [†] familiar friend, whom I trusted; which did eat of my bread, ^o hath lifted up the heel against me. [†] Heb. the man of my peace.

10 Therefore, O Lord, have mercy upon me, and raise me up: so I shall reward them.

11 By this I know that thou favourest me, because mine enemy doth not triumph against me.

12 And as for me, thou upholdest me ^p in mine integrity, and dost set me before thy ^q face for ever.

13 Blessed be the Lord God of Israel world without end. So be it, even so be it.

P S A L M XLII.

¹ The prophet grievously complaineth that being letted by his persecutors, he could not be present in the congregation of God's people; protesting that although he was separated in body from them, yet his heart was thitherward affectioned. ⁷ And last of all, he sheweth that he was not so far overcome with these sorrows and thoughts, ⁸ but that he continually put his confidence in the Lord.

¶ To him that excelleth. A Psalm to give instruction, ^s committed to the sons of Korah.

AS the hart brayeth for the rivers of water, so ^c panteth my soul after thee, O God.

2 My soul thirsteth for God, even for the living God: when shall I come and appear before the presence of God?

3 ^u My tears have been my meat day and night, while they daily say unto me, Where is thy God?

4 When I remembered ^w these things, I 6 H poured upon his bed.

^k Thou hast restored him in his sick bed, and sent him comfort.

^l That is, curse me, and cannot have their cruel hate quenched but with my shameful death.

^m For pretending to comfort me, he conspireth my death in his heart, and braggeth thereof.

ⁿ The enemies thought by his sharp punishments, that God was become his mortal enemy.

^o As David felt this falshood, and as it was chiefly accomplished in Christ, John 13. 18. so shall his members continually prove the same.

^p Meaning, either in prosperity of life, or in the true fear of God, against all temptations.

^q Shewing me evident signs of thy fatherly providence.

^r By this repetition he stirreth up the faithful to praise God.

^s As a treasure to be kept of them, which were of the number of the Levites.

^t By these similitudes of thirst and panting, he sheweth his fervent desire to serve God in his temple.

^u As others take pleasure in eating and drinking, so he was altogether given to weeping.

^w That is, how I led the people to serve thee in thy tabernacle, and now seeing my contrary state I die for sorrow.

poured out my very heart, because I had gone with the multitude, and led them into the house of God with the voice of singing and praise, as a multitude that keepeth a feast.

5 Why art thou cast down, my soul, and unquiet within me? ^a wait on God: for I will yet give him thanks for the help of his presence.

6 My God, my soul is cast down within me, ^b because I remember thee, from the land of Jordan, and Hermonin, and from the mount Misar.

7 One ^c deep calleth another deep by the noise of the water-spouts: all thy waves and thy floods are gone over me.

8 The Lord ^d will grant his loving kindness in the day, and in the night shall I sing of him, even a prayer unto the God of my life.

9 I will say unto God, which is my rock, Why hast thou forgotten me? why go I mourning when the enemy oppresseth me?

10 My bones are cut asunder, while mine enemies reproach me, saying daily unto me, Where is thy God?

11 Why art thou cast down, my soul? and why art thou disquieted within me? wait on God: for I will yet give him thanks: he is my present help, and my God.

P S A L M XLIII.

1 He prayeth to be delivered from them which conspire against him, that he might joyfully praise God in his holy congregation.

JUDGE me, O God, and defend my cause against the unmerciful people: deliver me from the deceitful and wicked man.

2 For thou art the God of my strength: why hast thou put me away? why go I so mourning when the enemy oppresseth me?

3 Send thy light and thy truth: let them lead me: let them bring me unto thine holy mountain and to thy tabernacles.

4 Then ^e will I go unto the altar of God, even unto the God of my joy and gladness: and upon the harp will I give thanks unto thee, O God, my God.

5 Why art thou cast down, my soul? and why art thou disquieted within me? ^f wait on God: for I will yet give him thanks, he is my present help, and my God.

^a Though he sustained grievous assaults of the flesh, to call him into despair, yet his faith, grounded on God's accustomed mercies, getteth the victory.

^b That is, when I remember thee in this land of my banishment among the mountains.

^c Afflictions came so thick upon me, that I felt myself as overwhelmed: whereby he sheweth there is no end of our misery, till God be pacified, and send remedy.

^d He assurcth himself of God's help in time to come.

^e That is, I am most grievously tormented.

^f This repetition doth declare that David did not overcome at once: to teach us to be constant, forasmuch as God will certainly deliver his.

^g He desireth God to undertake his cause against his enemies, but chiefly that he would restore him to the tabernacle.

^h That is, the cruel company of mine enemies.

ⁱ To wit, thy favour, which appeareth by the performance of thy promises.

^j He promiseth to offer a solemn sacrifice of thanksgiving in token of his great deliverance.

^k Whereby he admonisheth the faithful not to relent, but constantly to wait on the Lord, though their troubles be long and great.

TO him that excelleth. A Psalm to give instruction, committed to the sons of Korah.

WE have heard with our ears, O God: our fathers have told us the works that thou hast done in their days, in the old time:

2 How thou hast driven out the heathen with thine hand, and planted them: how thou hast destroyed the people, and caused them to grow.

3 For they inherited not the land by their own sword, neither did their own arm save them: but thy right hand, and thine arm, and the light of thy countenance, because thou didst favour them.

4 Thou art my king, O God: send help unto Jacob.

5 Through thee have we thrust back our adversaries: by thy name have we trodden down them that rose up against us.

6 For I do not trust in my bow, neither can my sword save me.

7 But thou hast saved us from our adversaries, and hast put them to confusion that hate us.

8 Therefore will we praise God continually, and will confess thy name for ever. Selah.

9 But now thou art far off, and puttest us to confusion, and goest not forth with our armies.

10 Thou makest us to turn back from the adversary, and they which hate us, spoil for themselves.

11 Thou givest us as sheep to be eaten, and dost scatter us among the nations.

12 Thou sellest thy people without gain, and dost not increase their price.

13 Thou makest us a reproach to our neighbours, a jest and a laughing-stock to them that are round about us.

14 Thou

^k That is, the Canaanites.

^l To wit, our fathers.

^m Of Canaan.

ⁿ That is, our fathers.

^o God's free mercy and love is the only fountain and beginning of the church, Deut. 4. 37.

^p Because thou art our king, therefore deliver thy people from their misery.

^q Because they and their forefathers made both one church, they apply that to themselves, which before they did attribute to their fathers.

^r As they confessed before that their strength came of God, so now they acknowledge that this affliction came by his just judgment.

^s Knowing God to be the author of this calamity, they murmur not, but seek remedy at his hands, who wounded them.

^t As slaves which are sold for a low price; neither lookest thou for him that offereth most, but takest the first chap-man.

14 Thou makest us a proverb among the nations, and a nodding of the head among the people.

15 My ^u confusion is daily before me, and the shame of my face hath covered me.

16 For the voice of the slanderer and rebuker, for the enemy and ^w avenger.

17 All this is come upon us, yet do we not ^x forget thee, neither deal we falsely concerning thy covenant.

18 Our heart is not turned back, neither our steps gone out of thy paths.

19 Albeit thou hast smitten us down into the place of † dragons, and covered us with the shadow of death.

20 If we have forgotten the name of God, and holden up our hands to ^y a strange god, 21 Shall not God ^z search this out? for he knoweth the secrets of the heart.

22 Surely for thy sake ^a are we slain continually, and are counted as sheep for the slaughter.

23 Up, why sleepest thou, O Lord? awake, be not far off for ever.

24 Wherefore hidest thou thy face? and forgettest our misery and our affliction?

25 For our soul is ^b beaten down unto the dust: our belly cleaveth unto the ground.

26 Rise up for our succour, and redeem us for thy ^c mercies sake.

1 When David was rebuked by the prophet Nathan, for his great offences, he did not only acknowledge the same to God with protestation of his natural corruption and iniquity, but also left a memorial thereof to his posterity. 7 Therefore, first, he desired God to forgive his sins, 10 and to renew in him his holy Spirit, 13 With promises that he will not be unmindful of those great graces. 18 Finally, fearing, lest God would punish the whole church for his fault, he requireth that he would rather increase his graces towards the same.

¶ To him that excelleth.

A Psalm of David, when the prophet Nathan came unto him after he had gone in to Bathsheba.

HAVE mercy upon me, O God, ^b according to thy loving kindness: according to the multitude of thy compassions put away mine iniquities.

2 Wash me ⁱ thoroughly from mine iniquity, and cleanse me from my sin.

3 For I ^k know mine iniquities, and my sin is ever before me.

4 Against thee, against thee only have I sinned, and done evil in thy sight, that thou mayest be just when thou ⁱ speakest, and pure when thou judgest.

5 Behold, I was born in iniquity, and in sin hath my mother conceived me.

6 Behold, thou ^m lovest truth in the inward affections: therefore hast thou taught me wisdom in the secret of mine heart.

7 Purge me with ^{*} hyssop, and I shall be clean: wash me, and I shall be whiter than snow. * Lev. 14.6.

8 Make me to hear ⁿ joy and gladness, that the ^o bones which thou hast broken may rejoice.

9 Hide thy face from my sins, and put away all mine iniquities.

10 ^p Create in me a clean heart, O God, and renew a right spirit within me.

11 Cast me not away from thy presence, and take not thine holy Spirit from me.

12 Restore to me the joy of thy salvation, and establish me with thy ^q free Spirit.

13 Then shall I teach thy ^r ways unto the wicked, and sinners shall be converted unto thee.

^o When thou givest sentence against sinners, they must needs confess thee to be just, and themselves sinners.

^p He confesseth that God, who loveth pureness of heart, may justly destroy man, who of nature is a sinner, much more him whom he hath instructed in his heavenly wisdom.

^q He meaneth God's comfortable mercies towards repentant sinners.

^r By the bones he understandeth all strength of soul and body, which by cares and mourning are consumed.

^s He confesseth that when God's Spirit is cold in us, to have it again revived, is as a new creation.

^t Which may assure me that I am drawn out of the slavery of sin.

^u He promiseth to endeavour, that others by his example may turn to God.

14 Deliver me from ^s blood, O God, which art the God of my salvation, and my tongue shall sing joyfully of thy righteousness.

15 ^t Open thou my lips, O Lord, and my mouth shall shew forth thy praise.

16 For thou desirest no sacrifice, though I would give it: thou delightest not in burnt offering.

17 The sacrifices of God are a ^u rite spirit: a contrite and a broken heart, and thou wilt not despise.

18 Be favourable unto ^w Sion for thy good pleasure: build the walls of Jerusalem.

1 David describeth the arrogant tyranny of his adversary Doeg: who by false surmises caused Abimelech with the rest of the priests to be slain. 5 David prophesieth his destruction, 6 and encourageth the faithful to put their confidence in God, whose judgments are most sharp against his adversaries. 9 And finally, he rendereth thanks to God for his deliverance. In this Psalm is lively set forth the kingdom of Antichrist.

¶ To him that excelleth.

A Psalm of David to give instruction. When Doeg the Edomite came and shewed Saul, and said to him, David is come to the house of Ahimelech.

WHY boasteth thou thyself in thy wickedness, O ^v man of power? the loving kindness of God endureth daily.

2 Thy tongue imagineth ^z mischief, and is like a sharp razor that cutteth deceitfully.

3 Thou dost love evil more than good, and [†] lyes more than to speak the [†] truth. Selah.

^u Which is a wounding of the heart, proceeding of faith, which seeketh unto God for mercy.

^w He prayeth for the whole church, because through his sin it was in danger of God's judgment.

^{*} That is, just and lawful, applied to their right end, which is the exercise of faith and repentance.

^y O Doeg, which hast credit with the tyrant Saul, and hast power to murder the saints of God?

^z Thy malice moveth thee by crafty flatteries and lyes, to accuse and destroy the innocents.

^a Though God forbear for a time, yet at length he will recompense thy falshood.

^b Albeit thou seem to be never so sure settled.

^c For the eyes of the reprobate are shut up at God's judgments.

^d With joyful reverence, seeing that he taketh their part against the wicked.

8 But I shall be like a green olive-tree in the house of God: for I trusted in the mercy of God for ever and ever.

9 I will always praise thee, for that thou hast done ^t this, and I will [†] hope in thy name, because [†] it is good before thy saints.

¶ To him that excelleth on Neginoth.

A Psalm of David to give instruction.

HEAR my prayer, O God, and hide not thyself from my supplication.

2 Hearken unto me, and answer me: I mourn in my prayer, and make a noise.

3 For the voice of the enemy, and for the vexation of the wicked, because they have brought iniquity upon me, and furiously hate me.

4 Mine heart trembleth within me, and the terrors of death are fallen upon me.

5 Fear and trembling are come upon me, and an horrible fear hath covered me.

6 And I said, Oh that I had wings like a dove: then would I flee away and rest.

7 Behold, I would take my flight far off, and lodge in the wilderness. Selah.

8 He would make haste for my deliverance from the stormy wind and tempest.

9 Destroy, O Lord, and divide their tongues: for I have seen cruelty and strife in the city.

10 Day and night they go about it upon the walls thereof: both iniquity and mischief are in the midst of it.

11 Wickedness is in the midst thereof: deceit and guile depart not from her streets.

12 Surely mine enemy did not defame me: for I could have borne it: neither did mine adversary exalt himself against me: for I would have hid me from him, 13 But it was thou, O man, even my companion, my guide, and my familiar:

14 Which delighted in consulting together, and went into the house of God as companions.

15 Let death seize upon them: let them go down quick into the grave: for wickedness is in their dwellings, even in the midst of them.

16 But I will call unto God, and the Lord will save me.

17 Evening and morning, and at noon will I pray, and make a noise, and he will hear my voice.

18 He hath delivered my soul in peace from the battle that was against me: for many were with me.

19 God shall hear and afflict them, even he that reigneth of old. Selah: because they have no changes, therefore they fear not God.

20 He laid his hand upon such as be at peace with him, and he brake his covenant.

21 The words of his mouth were softer than butter, yet war was in his heart: his words were more gentle than oil, yet they were swords.

22 Cast thy burden upon the Lord, and he shall nourish thee: he will not suffer the righteous to fall for ever.

^y There is nothing that doth more strengthen our faith than the remembrance of God's succour in times past.

^z This chiefly is referred to Christ, who liveth eternally not only in himself, but also in his members.

^a For the stability of thy kingdom standeth in thy mercy and truth.

^b Though Satan tempted him to murmur against God, yet he bridled his affections, and resting upon God's promise, beareth his cross patiently.

^c It appeareth by the oft repetition of this word, that the prophet abode manifold temptations, but by resting on God, and by patience he overcame them all.

* 1 Chron. 16. 41.

A Psalm of David.

YET my soul keepeth silence unto God: of him cometh my salvation.

2 Yet he is my strength and my salvation, and my defence: therefore I shall not much be moved.

3 How long will ye imagine mischief against a man? ye shall be all slain: ye shall be as a bowed wall, or as a wall shaken.

4 Yet they consult to cast him down from his dignity: their delight is in lyes, they bless with their mouths, but curse with their hearts. Selah.

5 Yet, my soul, keep thou silence unto God: for mine hope is in him.

6 Yet is he my strength, and my salvation, and my defence: therefore I shall not be moved.

7 In God is my salvation and my glory, the rock of my strength: in God is my trust.

8 Trust in him alway, ye people: pour out your hearts before him: for God is our hope. Selah.

9 Yet the children of men are vanity, the chief men are lyars: to lay them upon a balance, they are altogether lighter than vanity.

10 Trust not in oppression nor in robbery: be not vain: if riches increase, set not your heart thereon.

11 God spake once or twice, I have heard it, that power belongeth unto God.

12 And to thee, O Lord, mercy: for thou rewardest every one according to his work.

4 Deliver me, O my God, out of the hand of the wicked: and out of the hand of the evil and cruel man.

5 For thou art mine hope, O Lord God, even my trust from my youth.

6 Upon thee have I been stayed from the womb: thou art he that took me out of my mother's bowels: my praise shall be always of thee.

7 I am become as it were a monster unto many: but thou art my sure trust.

8 Let my mouth be filled with thy praise, and with thy glory every day.

9 Cast me not off in the time of age: forsake me not when my strength faileth.

10 For mine enemies speak of me, and they that lay wait for my soul, take their counsel together, 11 Saying, God hath forsaken him: pursue and take him, for there is none to deliver him.

12 Go not far from me, O God: my God, haste thee to help me.

13 Let them be confounded and consumed that are against my soul: let them be covered with reproof and confusion that seek mine hurt.

14 But I will wait continually, and will praise thee more and more.

15 My mouth shall daily rehearse thy righteousness, and thy salvation: for I know not the number.

16 I will go forward in the strength of the Lord God, and will make mention of thy righteousness, even of thine only.

17 O God, thou hast taught me from my youth even until now: therefore will I tell of thy wondrous works.

18 Yea, even unto mine old age and grey head, O God: forsake me not, until I have declared thine arm unto this generation, and thy power to all them that shall come.

19 And thy righteousness, O God, I will exalt on high: for thou hast done great things: O God, who is like unto thee!

20 Which hast shewed me great troubles and adversities, but thou wilt return and revive me, and wilt come again, and take me up from the depth of the earth.

21 Thou wilt increase mine honour, and return and comfort me.

22 Therefore will I praise thee for thy faithfulness, O God, upon instrument and viol: unto thee will I sing upon the harp, O holy One of Israel.

23 My lips will rejoice when I sing unto thee, and my soul which thou hast delivered.

24 My tongue also shall talk of thy righteousness daily: for they are confounded and brought unto shame, that seek mine hurt.

PSALM

¹ Under the temporal promise of the land of Canaan, he comprehendeth the promise of life everlasting to the faithful and their posterity.

² Which might put him in remembrance of his deliverance.

³ He teacheth us to be earnest in prayer, though God seem to stay: for at his time he will hear us.

He was assured that the more they raged, the nearer they were to destruction, and he the nearer to his deliverance.

Hereby we are taught not to mock at others in their misery, lest the same fall on our own necks.

Because he had felt God's help before, he groundeth on experience, and boldly seeketh unto him for succour.

He prayeth to God with full assurance of faith, that he will deliver him from his adversaries.

⁵ By declaring thyself true of promise.

⁶ Thou hast infinite means, and all creatures are at thy commandment: therefore shew some sign, whereby I shall be delivered.

That is, from Absalom, Ahithophel and that conspiracy.

⁷ He strengtheneth his faith by the experience of God's benefits, who did not only preserve him in his mother's belly, but took him thence, and ever since hath preserved him.

⁸ All the world wondereth at me, because of my misery, as well they in authority, as the common people, yet being assured of thy favour, I remained steadfast.

⁹ Thou that didst help me in my youth, when I had more strength, help me now so much the more in mine old age and weakness.

¹⁰ Thus the wicked both blaspheme God, and triumph against his saints, as though he had forsaken them, if he suffer them to fall into their hands.

¹¹ In calling him his God, he putteth back the false reports of the adversaries, that said, God hath forsaken him.

¹² Because thy benefits toward me are innumerable, I cannot but continually meditate and rehearse them.

¹³ I will remain steadfast, being upholden with the power of God.

¹⁴ He desireth that as he hath begun, he would so continue his benefits, that his liberality may have perfect praise.

¹⁵ The just performance of thy promise.

¹⁶ His faith breaketh through all temptations, and by this exclamation he praiseth the power of God.

¹⁷ As he confesseth that God is the only author of his deliverance: so he acknowledgeth that these evils were sent unto him by God's providence.

¹⁸ He confesseth that his long tarriance was well recompensed, when God performed his promise.

¹⁹ For there is no true prailing of God, except it come from the heart: and therefore he promiseth to delight in nothing but wherein God may be glorified.

P S A L M LXXII.

¹ He prayeth for the prosperous estate of the kingdom of Solomon, who was the figure of Christ: ⁴ Under whom shall be righteousness, peace, and felicity, ¹⁰ unto whom all kings and nations shall do homage, ¹⁷ whose name and power shall endure for ever, and in whom all nations shall be blessed.

¶ A Psalm of ^h Solomon.

GIVE thy ⁱ judgments to the king, O God, and thy righteousness to the king's ^k son.

² Then shall he judge thy people in righteousness, and thy poor with equity.

³ The ^l mountains and the hills shall bring peace to the people by justice.

⁴ He shall judge the ^m poor of the people: he shall save the children of the needy, and shall subdue the oppressor.

⁵ They shall ⁿ fear thee as long as the sun and moon endureth, from generation to generation.

⁶ He shall come ^o down like the rain upon the mowen grass, and as the showers that water the earth.

⁷ In his days shall the righteous flourish, and abundance of peace shall be so long as the moon endureth.

⁸ His dominion shall be also from ^p sea to sea, and from the river unto the ends of the land.

⁹ They that dwell in the wilderness, shall kneel before him, and the enemies shall lick the dust.

¹⁰ The kings of ^q Tarshish and of the isles shall bring presents: the kings of ^r Sheba and Seba shall bring gifts.

¹¹ Yea, all kings shall worship him: all nations shall serve him.

¹² For he shall deliver the poor when he crieth: the needy also, and him that hath no helper.

¹³ He shall be merciful to the poor and needy, and shall preserve the souls of the poor.

¹⁴ He shall redeem their souls from deceit and violence, and ^s dear shall their blood be in his sight.

¹⁵ Yea, he shall live, and unto him shall they give of the ^t gold of Sheba: and they shall also pray for him continually, and daily bless him.

¹⁶ An handful of corn shall be sown in the earth, even in the top of the mountains, and the fruit thereof shall shake like the trees of Lebanon: and the children shall flourish out of the city like the grass of the earth.

¹⁷ His name shall be for ever: his name shall endure as long as the sun: all nations shall bless ^x him, and be blessed in him.

¹⁸ Blessed be the Lord God, even the God of Israel, which doeth only ^y wondrous things.

¹⁹ And blessed be his glorious name for ever: and let all the earth be filled with his glory. So be it, even so be it.

Here end the ^z prayers of David the son of Jesse.

P S A L M LXXIII.

¹ The prophet teacheth by his example, that neither the worldly prosperity of the ungodly, ¹⁴ nor the affliction of the good, ought to discourage God's children: but rather ought to move us to consider our father's providence, and to cause us to reverence God's judgments, ¹⁹ so far as the wicked vanish away, ²⁴ and the godly enter into life everlasting, ²⁸ in hope whereof he resigneth himself into God's hands.

¶ A Psalm committed to Asaph.

YET ^a God is good to Israel: even to the pure in heart.

² As for me, my feet were almost gone: my steps had well near slipt.

³ For I fretted at the foolish, when I saw the prosperity of the wicked.

⁴ For there are ^b no bands in their death, yet they are lusty and strong.

⁵ They are not in trouble as other men, neither are they plagued with other men.

⁶ Therefore pride is as a chain unto them, and cruelty covereth them as a garment.

⁷ Their eyes stand out for fatness: † they have more than heart can wish.

⁸ They are licentious, and speak wickedly of their oppression: they talk presumptuously.

⁹ They ^d set their mouth against heaven, and their tongue walketh through the earth.

¹⁰ Therefore his ^e people turn hither: for waters of a full cup are wrung out to them.

¹¹ And they ^f say, How doth God know it? is there knowledge in the most High?

¹² Lo, these are the wicked, yet prosper they alway, and increase in riches.

6 M

13 Cer-

^h Composed by David as touching the reign of his son Solomon.

ⁱ Endue the king with the spirit of wisdom and justice, that he reign not as do the worldly tyrants.

^k To wit, to his posterity.

^l When justice reigneth, even the places most barren shall be enriched with thy blessings.

^m He sheweth wherefore the sword is committed to kings: to wit, to defend the innocent, and suppress the wicked.

ⁿ The people shall embrace thy true religion, when thou givest a king that ruleth according to thy word.

^o As this is true in all godly kings, so is it chiefly verified in Christ, who with his heavenly dew maketh his church ever to flourish.

^p That is, from the Red Sea to the sea called Syriacum, and from Euphrates forward, meaning, that Christ's kingdom should be large and universal.

^q Of Cilicia, and of all other countries beyond the sea, which he meaneth by the isles.

^r That is, of Arabia, that rich country, whereof Sheba was a part bordering upon Ethiopia.

^s Though tyrants pass not to shed blood, yet this godly king shall preserve his subjects from all kind of wrong.

^t God will both prosper his life, and also make the people most willing to obey him.

^u Under such a king shall be most great plenty, both of fruit and also of the increase of mankind.

^x They shall pray to God for his continuance, and know that God doth prosper them for his sake.

^y He confesseth that except God miraculously preserve his people, that neither the king nor the kingdom can continue.

^z Concerning his son Solomon.

^a As it were between hope and despair he bursteth forth into this affection, being assured that God would continue his favour toward such as were godly indeed, and not hypocrites.

^b The wicked in this life live at pleasure, and are not drawn to death like prisoners: that is, by sickness, which is death's messenger.

^c They glory in their pride as some do in their chains, and in cruelty as some do in apparel.

^d They blaspheme God, and fear not his power, and rail upon men, because they esteem themselves above all others.

^e Not only the reprobate, but also the people of God oftentimes fall back, seeing the prosperous estate of the wicked, and are overwhelmed with sorrows, thinking that God considereth not aright the state of the godly.

^f Thus the flesh moveth even the godly to dispute with God touching their poor estate, and the prosperity of the wicked.

1 Certainly I have cleansed mine heart in 2 I washed mine hands in innocency.
 3 I daily have I been punished, and
 4 If I give place to this wicked thought, I offend against 5 I will judge thus, Behold, the 6 I have trespassed.
 7 Then thought I to know this, for it was 8 too painful for me,
 9 Until I went into the sanctuary of God:
 10 I understood I their end.
 11 Surely thou hast set them in slippery places,
 12 and casteth them down into desolation.
 13 How suddenly are they destroyed, perished,
 14 and horribly consumed,
 15 As a dream when one awaketh! O Lord, 16 when thou raisest us up, thou shalt make their 17 image despised.
 18 Certainly mine heart was vexed, and I was 19 pricked in my reins:
 20 So foolish was I and ignorant: I was a 21 fool before thee.
 22 Yet I was always with thee: thou hast
 23 hidden me by thy right hand.
 24 Thou wilt guide me by thy counsel, and 25 afterward receive me to glory.
 26 Whom have I in heaven but thee? and I
 27 have desired none in the earth with thee.
 28 My flesh faileth and mine heart also: but 29 God is the strength of mine heart, and my portion 30 for ever.
 31 For lo, they that withdraw themselves
 32 from thee shall perish: thou destroyest all them
 33 that go a whoring from thee.
 34 As for me, it is good for me to draw 35 near to God: therefore I have put my trust in 36 the Lord God, that I may declare all thy works.

P S A L M LXXIV.

1 The faithful complain of the destruction of the church
 2 and true religion, 2 under the name of Zion, and 3 the temple destroyed: 11 and trusting in the 4 might and free mercies of God, 20 by his covenant, 21 they require help and succour for the glory of 22 God's holy name, for the salvation of his poor af-23 flicted servants, 23 and the confusion of his 24 great enemies.

1 Asaph to give instruction, committed to Asaph.
 O GOD, why hast thou put us away for ever? why is thy wrath kindled against the sheep of thy pasture?

2 If I give place to this wicked thought, I offend against the providence, seeing thou disposest all things most wisely, and pretervest thy children in their greatest dangers.
 3 Until I entered into thy school, and learned by thy word and Holy Spirit, that thou orderest all things wisely and justly.
 4 By thy fearful judgment.
 5 When thou openedst our eyes to consider thy heavenly felicity, we condemn all their vain pomp.
 6 For the more that man goeth about by his own reason to seek out God's judgments, the more doth he declare himself a fool.
 7 By faith I was assured that thy providence did watch always over me, to preserve me.
 8 He taught neither help nor comfort of any save of God only.
 9 He teacheth us to deny ourselves, to have God our whole sufficiency, and only contentment.
 10 That is, forsake thee to seek others.
 11 Though all the world shrink from God, yet he promisseth to trust in him, and to magnify his work.
 12 The church of God being oppressed by the tyranny either of the Babylonians or of Antiochus, prayeth to God, in whose hand this yoke was laid upon them for their sins, 13 Which inheritance thou hast measured out thyself as a prey to the wicked.

2 Think upon thy congregation, which thou thou hast possessed of old, and on the rod of thine inheritance, which thou hast redeemed, and on this mount Zion wherein thou hast dwelt.
 3 Lift up thy strokes, that thou mayest for ever destroy every enemy that doeth evil to the sanctuary.
 4 Thine adversaries roar in the midst of thy congregation, and set up their banners for signs.
 5 He that lifted the axes upon the thick trees, was renowned, as one that brought a thing to perfection:
 6 But now they break down the carved work hereof with axes and hammers.
 7 They have cast thy sanctuary into the fire, and rased it to the ground, and have defiled the dwelling-place of thy name.
 8 They said in their hearts, Let us destroy them altogether: they have burnt all the synagogues of God in the land.
 9 We see not our signs: there is not one prophet more, nor any with us that knoweth how long.
 10 O God, how long shall the adversary reproach thee? shall the enemy blaspheme thy name for ever?
 11 Why withdrawest thou thine hand, even thy right hand? draw it out of thy bosom, and consume them.
 12 Even God is my King of old, working salvation in the midst of the earth.
 13 Thou didst divide the sea by thy power:
 thou brakest the heads of the dragons in the waters.
 14 Thou brakest the head of Leviathan in pieces, and gavest him to be meat for the people in the wilderness.
 15 Thou brakest up the fountain and river:
 thou driedst up mighty rivers.
 16 The day is thine, and the night is thine:
 thou hast prepared the light and the sun.
 17 Thou hast set all the borders of the earth:
 thou hast made summer and winter.
 18 Remember this, that the enemy hath reproached the Lord, and the foolish people hath blasphemed thy name.
 19 Give not the soul of thy turtle dove unto the beast, and forget not the congregation of thy poor for ever.
 20 Consider thy covenant: for the dark places

2 They have destroyed thy true religion, and spread their banners in sign of defiance.
 3 He commendeth the temple for the costly matter, the excellent workmanship and beauty thereof, which notwithstanding the enemies did destroy.
 4 They encouraged one another to cruelty, that not only God's people might be destroyed, but also his religion utterly in all places suppressed.
 5 They lament that they have no prophet among them to shew them how long their misery should endure.
 6 They join their deliverance with God's glory and power, knowing that the punishment of the enemy should be their deliverance.
 7 Meaning, in the sight of all the world.
 8 To wit, Pharaoh's army.
 9 Which was a great monster of the sea, or whale, meaning Pharaoh.
 10 His destruction did rejoice them, as meat refresheth the body.
 11 Seeing that God by his providence governeth and disdisposeth all things, he gathereth that he will take care chiefly for his children.
 12 He meaneth the church of God, which is exposed as a prey to the wicked.
 13 That is, all places where thy word shineth not, there reigneth tyranny and ambition.

places of the earth are full of the habitations of the cruel.

21 Oh let not the oppressed return ashamed, but let the poor and needy praise thy name.

22 Arise, O God: maintain thine own cause: remember thy daily reproach by the foolish man.

23 Forget not the voice of thine enemies: for the tumult of them that rise against thee, † ascendeth continually.

P S A L M LXXV.

1 The faithful do praise the name of the Lord, 2 who shall come to judge at the time appointed, 8 when the wicked shall be put into confusion, and drink of the cup of his wrath. 10 Their pride shall be abated, and the righteous shall be exalted to honour.

¶ To him that excelleth. ^h Destroy not. A Psalm or song, committed to Asaph.

WE will praise thee, O God, we will praise thee, for thy name is near: therefore¹ they will declare thy wondrous works.

2 ^k When I shall take a convenient time, I will judge righteously.

3 The earth and all the inhabitants thereof are dissolved: but I will establish the pillars¹ of it. Selah.

4 I said unto the foolish, Be not so foolish: and to the wicked, Lift not up the horn.

5 Lift not up your^m horn on high, neither speak with a stiff neck.

6 For to come to preferment is neither from the east, nor from the west, nor from the south.

7 But God is the judge: he maketh low, and he maketh high.

8 For in the hand of the Lord is aⁿ cup, and the wine is red: it is full mixt, and he poureth out of the same: surely all the wicked of the earth shall wring out and drink the dregs thereof.

9 But I will declare for ever, and sing praises unto the God of Jacob.

10 All the horns of the wicked also will I break: but the horns of the^o righteous shall be exalted.

ⁱ He declareth how the faithful shall ever have just occasion to praise God, forasmuch as in their need they shall feel his power at hand to help them.

^k When I see my time (saith God) to help your miseries, I will come and set all things in good order.

^l Though all things be brought to ruin, yet I can restore and preserve them.

^m The prophet warneth the wicked that they would not set themselves against God's people, seeing that God at his time destroyeth them that rule wickedly.

ⁿ God's wrath is compared to a cup of strong and delicate wine, wherewith the wicked are made so drunk, that by drinking till they come to the very dregs, they are utterly destroyed.

^o The godly shall better prosper by their innocent simplicity, than the wicked shall by all their craft and subtilty.

4 Thou art more bright and puissant than^r the mountains of prey.

5 The stout-hearted are spoiled: they have slept their sleep, and all the men of strength have not^s found their hands.

6 At thy rebuke, O God of Jacob, both the chariot and horse are cast asleep.

7 Thou, even thou art to be feared, and who shall stand in thy^t sight, when thou art angry!

8 Thou didst cause thy judgments to be heard from heaven: therefore the earth feared, and was still.

9 When thou, O God, didst arise to judgment, to^u help all the meek of the earth. Selah.

10 Surely the^x rage of man shall turn to thy praise: the remnant of the rage shalt thou restrain.

11 Vow and perform unto the Lord your God, all ye that be^y round about him, let them bring presents unto him that ought to be feared.

10 And I said, This is my ^g death : yet I remembered the years of the right hand of the most High.

11 I remembered the works of the Lord : certainly I remembered thy wonders of old.

12 I did also meditate on all thy works, and did devise of thine acts, saying,

1 He sheweth how God of his mercy chose his church of the posterity of Abraham, 8 reproaching the stubborn rebellion of their fathers ; that the children might not only understand, 11 that God of his free mercy made his covenant with their ancestors, 17 but also seeing them so malicious and perverse, might be ashamed, and so turn wholly to God. 1 A Psalm to give ⁿ instruction; committed to Asaph.

HEAR my ^o doctrine, O my people: incline your ears unto the words of my mouth.

2 I will open my mouth in a parable: I will declare high sentences of old,

3 Which we have heard and known, and our ^p fathers have told us.

4 We will not hide them from their children, but to the generation to come we will shew the praises of the Lord, his power also, and his wonderful works that he hath done:

5 How he established a ^q testimony in Jacob, and ordained a law in Israel, when he commanded our fathers, that they should teach their children:

6 That the ^r posterity might know it, and the children which should be born, should stand up, and declare it to their children:

7 That they might ^s set their hope on God, and not forget the works of God, but keep his commandments:

8 And not to be as their ^t fathers, a disobedient and rebellious generation: a generation that set not their heart aright, and whose spirit was not faithful unto God.

9 The children of ^u Ephraim being armed, and shooting with the bow, turned back in the day of battle.

10 They kept not the covenant of God, but refused to walk in his law.

11 And forgot his acts, and his wonderful works that he had shewed them.

12 He did marvellous things in the sight of their ^v fathers in the land of Egypt, even in the field of Zoan.

13 * He divided the sea, and led them ^w through: he made also the waters to stand as an heap. * Exod. 15. 21.

14 * In the day-time also he led them with a cloud, and all the night with a light of fire. * Exod. 14. 24.

15 * He clave the rocks in the wilderness, and gave them drink as of the great depths. * Exod. 17. 6.

16 * He brought floods also out of the stony rock, so that he made the waters to descend like the rivers. * Num. 20. 11.

17 And they ^x sinned still against him, and provoked the Highest in the wilderness.

^p Which were the people of God.

^q By the testimony and law, he meaneth the law written, which they were commanded to teach their children, Deut. 6. 7.

^r He sheweth wherein the children should be like their fathers, that is, in maintaining God's pure religion.

^s He sheweth wherein the use of this doctrine standeth: in faith, in the meditation of God's benefits, and in obedience.

^t Though these fathers were the seed of Abraham, and the chosen people, yet he sheweth by their rebellion, provocation, falshood and hypocrisy, that the children ought not to follow their examples.

^u By Ephraim he meaneth also the rest of the tribes, because they were most in number: whose punishment declareth that they were unfaithful to God, and by their multitude and authority had corrupted all others.

^v He proveth that not only the posterity, but also their forefathers were wicked and rebellious to God.

^w Their wicked malice could be overcome by no benefits, which were great and many.

^x Then to require more than is necessary, and to separate God's power from his will, is to tempt God.

19 * They spake against God also, saying, Can God ^z prepare a table in the wilderness?
 20 * Behold, he smote the rock, that the water gushed out, and the streams overflowed: can he give bread also? or prepare flesh for his people?
 21 Therefore the Lord heard, and was angry, and the * fire was kindled in Jacob, and also wrath came upon Israel.
 22 Because they believed not in God, and ^a trusted not in his help.
 23 Yet he had commanded the ^b clouds above, and had opened the doors of heaven.
 24 And had rained down MAN upon them for to eat, and had given them of the wheat of heaven.
 25 * Man did eat the bread of angels, he sent them meat enough.
 26 He caused the ^c east wind to pass in the heaven, and through his power he brought in the south wind.
 27 He rained flesh also upon them as dust, and feathered fowl as the sand of the sea.
 28 And he made it fall in the midst of their camp, even round about their habitations.
 29 So they did eat and were well filled: for he gave them their desire.
 30 They were not turned from their ^d lust, but the meat was yet in their mouths,
 31 When the wrath of God came even upon them, and slew the ^e strongest of them, and smote down the chosen men in Israel.
 32 For all this, they ^f sinned still, and believed not his wondrous works.
 33 Therefore their days did he consume in vanity, and their years hastily.
 34 And when he ^g slew them, they sought him, and they returned, and sought God early.
 35 And they remembered that God was their strength, and the most high God their redeemer.
 36 But they flattered him with their mouth, and dissembled with him with their tongue.
 37 For their ^h heart was not upright with him: neither were they faithful in his covenant.
 38 Yet he, being merciful, ⁱ forgave their iniquity, and destroyed them not, but oft-times called back his anger, and did not stir up all his wrath,
 39 For he remembered that they were flesh: yea, a wind that passeth and cometh not again.

40 How oft did they provoke him in the wilderness? and grieve him in the desert?
 41 Yea, they ^k returned and tempted God, and ^l limited the holy one of Israel.
 42 They ^m remembered not his hand, nor the day when he delivered them from the enemy,
 43 Nor him that set his signs in Egypt, and his wonders in the field of Zoan, 44 And turned their rivers into blood, and their floods that they could not drink.
 45 He sent ⁿ a swarm of flies among them, which devoured them, and frogs, which destroyed them.
 46 He ^o gave also their fruits unto the caterpillar, and their labour unto the grasshopper.
 47 He destroyed their vines with hail, and their wild fig-trees with the hail-stone.
 48 He gave their cattle also to the hail, and their flocks to the thunderbolts.
 49 He cast upon them the fierceness of his anger, indignation and wrath, and vexation, by the sending out of ^p evil angels.
 50 He made a way to his anger: he spared not their soul from death, but gave their life to the pestilence, 51 And smote all the first-born in Egypt, even the ^q beginning of their strength in the tabernacles of ^r Ham.
 52 But he made his people to go out like sheep, and led them in the wilderness like a flock.
 53 Yea, he carried them out safely, and they ^s feared not, and the sea covered their enemies.
 54 And he brought them unto the borders of his ^t sanctuary: even to this mountain, which his right hand purchased.
 55 * He cast out the heathen also before them, and caused them to fall to the lot of his inheritance, and made the tribes of Israel to dwell in their tabernacles. * Josh. 11. 6. and 13. 6.
 56 Yet they tempted and provoked the most high God, and kept not his testimonies, 57 But turned back, and dealt ^u falsely, like their fathers: they turned like a deceitful bow.
 58 And they ^v provoked him to anger with their high places, and moved him to wrath with their graven images.
 59 God heard this, and was wroth, and greatly abhorred Israel,

60 So

^z Thus when we give place to sin, we are moved to doubt of God's power, except he will always be ready to serve our lust.
^a That is, in his fatherly providence, whereby he careth for his, and provideth sufficiently.
^b So that they had that which was necessary and sufficient: but their lust made them to covet that which they knew God had denied them.
^c God used the means of the wind to teach them that all elements were at his commandment, and that no distance of place could let his working.
^d Such is the nature of concupiscence, that the more it hath, the more it lusteth.
^e Though other were not spared, yet chiefly they suffered which trusted in their strength against God.
^f Thus sin by continuance maketh men insensible, so that by no plagues they can be amended.
^g Such was their hypocrisy, that they sought unto God for fear of punishment, though in their heart they loved him not.
^h Whatsoever cometh not from the pure fountain of the heart, is hypocrisy.
ⁱ Because he would ever have some remnant of a church to praise his name in earth, he suffered not their sins to overcome his mercy.

^k That is, they tempted him oftentimes.
^l As they all do that measure the power of God by their capacity.
^m The forgetfulness of God's benefits is the root of rebellion and all vice.
ⁿ This word signifieth a confused mixture of flies and venomous worms. Some take it for all sorts of serpents: some for all wild beasts.
^o He repeateth not here all the miracles that God did in Egypt, but certain which might be sufficient to convince the people of malice and ingratitude.
^p So called, either of the effect, that is, of punishing the wicked: or else, because they were wicked spirits whom God permitted to vex men.
^q The first-born are so called, as Gen. 49. 3.
^r That is, Egypt: for it was called Mizraim, or Egypt, of Mizraim, that was the son of Ham.
^s That is, they had no occasion to fear, forasmuch as God destroyed their enemies, and delivered them safely.
^t Meaning, Canaan, which God had consecrated to himself, and appointed to his people.
^u Nothing more displeaseth God in the children, than when they continue in that wickedness which their fathers had begun.
^v By serving God otherwise than he had appointed.

60 So that he^x forsook the habitation of Shiloh, even the tabernacle where he dwelt among men, 61 And delivered his^r power into captivity, and his beauty into the enemies hand.

62 And he gave up his people to the sword, and was angry with his inheritance.

63 The fire^z devoured their chosen men, and their maids were not^a praised.

64 Their priests fell by the sword, and their^b widows lamented not.

65 But the Lord awaked as one out of sleep, and as a strong man that after his^c wine crieth out, 66 And smote his enemies in the hinder parts, and put them to a perpetual shame.

67 Yet he refused the tabernacle of^d Joseph, and chose not the tribe of Ephraim:

68 But chose the tribe of Judah, and Mount Zion which he loved.

69 And he^e built his sanctuary as an high place, like the earth, which he stablished for ever.

70 He chose David also his servant, and took him from the sheep-folds:

71 Even from behind the ewes with young, brought he him to feed his people in Jacob, and his inheritance in Israel.

72 So^f he fed them according to the simplicity of his heart, and guided them by the discretion of his hands.

O God, the^g heathen are come into thine inheritance: thine holy temple have they defiled, and made Jerusalem heaps of stones.

¶ A Psalm to give instruction, of Ethan the Ezrahite.

I WILL ° sing the mercies of the Lord for ever: with my mouth will I declare thy truth from generation to generation.

2 For I ^p said, Mercy shall be set up for ever: thy truth shalt thou ^q establish in the very heavens.

3 ^r I have made a covenant with my chosen: I have sworn to David my servant:

4 Thy seed shall I establish for ever, and set up thy throne from generation to generation. Selah.

5 O Lord, even the ^s heavens shall praise thy wondrous work: yea, thy truth in the ^t congregation of the faints.

6 For who is equal to the Lord in the heaven? and who is like the Lord among the ^u sons of the gods?

7 God is very terrible in the assembly of the ^v faints, and to be revered above all that are about him.

8 O Lord God of hosts, who is like unto thee, which art a mighty Lord, and thy truth is about thee?

9 ^x Thou rulest the raging of the sea: when the waves thereof arise, thou stillest them.

10 Thou hast beaten down Rahab as a man slain: thou hast scattered thine enemies with thy mighty arm.

11 The heavens are thine, the earth also is thine: thou hast laid the foundation of the world, and all that therein is.

12 Thou hast created the north and the south: ^y Tabor and Hermon shall rejoice in thy name.

13 Thou hast a mighty arm: strong is thine hand, and high is thy right hand.

14 ^z Righteousness and equity are the stablishment of thy throne: mercy and truth go before thy face.

15 Blessed is the people that can rejoice in thee: they shall walk in the light of thy ^a countenance, O Lord.

LORD, thou hast been our^b habitation from generation to generation.

2 Before the^s mountains were made, and before thou hadst formed the earth, and the world, even from everlasting to everlasting, thou art our God.

3 Thou^d turnest man to destruction: again thou sayest, Return, ye sons of Adam.

^r By this he meaneth, the horrible dissipation and rending of the kingdom, which was under Jeroboam: or else by the Spirit of prophecy Ethan speaketh of those great miseries which came soon afterward to pass at the captivity of Babylon.

^s He sheweth that the kingdom fell before it came to perfection, or was ripe.

^t The prophet, in joining prayer with his complaint, sheweth that his faith never failed.

^u Seeing man's life is short, and thou hast created man to bestow thy benefits upon him, except thou haste to help, death will prevent thee.

^v He meaneth, that God's enemies did not only slander him behind his back: but also mocked him to his face, and, as it were, cast their injuries in his bosom.

1 He prayeth unto God against the violence and arrogancy of tyrants, 10 warning them of God's judgments. 12 Then doth he comfort the afflicted by the good issue of their afflictions, as he felt in himself, and did see in others, and by the ruin of the wicked, 23 whom the Lord will destroy.

O Lord God^a the avenger, O God the avenger, shew thyself^b clearly.

2 Exalt thyself, O Judge of the world, and render a reward to the proud.

3 Lord, how long shall the wicked, how long shall the wicked^c triumph?

4 They prate and speak fiercely: all the workers of iniquity vaunt themselves.

5 They^d smite down thy people, O Lord, and trouble thine heritage.

6 They slay the widow and the stranger, and murder the fatherless.

7^e Yet they say, the Lord shall not see: neither will the God of Jacob regard it.

8 Understand, ye unwise among the people: and ye fools, when will ye be wise?

9 He that^f planted the ear, shall he not hear? or he that formed the eye, shall he not see?

10 Or he that^g chastiseth the nations, shall he not correct? he that teacheth man knowledge, shall he not know?

11 The Lord knoweth the thoughts of man, that they are vanity.

12 Blessed is the man whom thou^h chastifest, O Lord, and teachest him in thy law, 13 That thou mayest give him rest from the days of evil, while the pit is digged for the wicked.

14 Surely the Lord will not fail his people, neither will he forsake his inheritance.

15 Forⁱ judgment shall return to justice, and all the upright in heart shall follow after it.

16 Who will rise up with me against the wicked? or who will take my part against the workers of iniquity?

17 If the Lord had not^j holpen me, my soul had almost dwelt in silence.

18 When I said, ^k My foot slideth, thy mercy, O Lord, stayed me.

19 In the multitude of my^l thoughts in mine heart, thy comforts have rejoiced my soul.

^a Whose office it is to take vengeance on the wicked.

^c That is, brag of their cruelty and oppression: or esteem themselves above all other.

^d Seeing the church was then so sore oppressed, it ought not to seem strange to us, if we see it so now, and therefore must call to God to take our cause in hand.

^e He sheweth, that they are desperate in malice, forasmuch as they feared not God, but gave themselves wholly to do wickedly.

^f He sheweth that it is impossible but God should hear, see, and understand their wickedness.

^g If God punish whole nations for their sins, it is mercifully for any one man, or else a few, to think that God will spare them.

^h God hath care over his, and chastiseth them for their wealth, that they should not perish for ever with the wicked.

ⁱ God will restore the state and government of things to their right use, and then the godly shall follow him cheerfully.

^j He complaineth of them which would not help him to resist the enemies: yet was assured that God's help would not fail.

20 Hath the thorn of iniquity^m fellowship with thee, which forgeth wrong for a law?

21 They gather them together against the soul of the righteous, and condemn the innocent blood.

11 Wherefore I swore in my wrath, saying, Surely they shall not enter into my^{aa} rest.

P S A L M XCVI.

1 An exhortation both to the Jews and Gentiles to praise God for his mercy. And this specially ought to be referred to the kingdom of Christ.

SING

^b When I thought there was no way but death.

^c In my trouble and distress I ever found thy present help.

^d Though the wicked judges pretend justice in oppressing the church, yet they have not that authority of God.

^e It is a great token of God's judgment, when the purpose of the wicked is broken, but most, when they are destroyed in their own malice.

^f He sheweth that God's service standeth not in dead ceremonies, but chiefly in the sacrifice of praise and thanksgiving.

^g Even the angels (who in respect of men are thought as gods) are nothing in his sight: much less the idols which man's brain inventeth.

^h All things are governed by his providence.

ⁱ By these three words he signifieth one thing: meaning, that they must wholly give themselves to serve God.

^j That is, the flock whom he governeth with his own hand. He sheweth wherein they are God's flock: that is, if they hear his voice.

^k By the contemning of God's word.

^l They were without judgment and reason.

^m That is, into the land of Canaan, where he promised them rest.

SING^o unto the Lord a new song: sing unto the Lord, all the earth.

2 Sing unto the Lord, and praise his name: declare his salvation from day to day.

3 Declare his glory among all nations, and his wonders among all people.

4 For the Lord is^p great and much to be praised: he is to be feared above all gods.

5 For all the gods of the people are[†] idols: but the Lord^q made the heavens.

6^r Strength and glory are before him: power and beauty are in his sanctuary.

7 Give unto the Lord, ye families of the people: give unto the Lord glory and^s power.

8 Give unto the Lord the glory of his name: bring^t an offering, and enter into his courts.

9 Worship the Lord in the glorious sanctuary: tremble before him, all the earth.

10 Say among the^u nations, The Lord reigneth: surely the world shall be stable, and not move, and he shall judge the people^w in righteousness.

11 Let the heavens rejoice, and let the earth be glad: let the sea roar, and all that therein is.

12 Let the field be joyful, and ail that is in it: let all the^x trees of the wood then rejoice, 13 Before the Lord: for he cometh, for he cometh to judge the earth: he will judge the world with righteousness, and the people in his truth.

P S A L M XCVII.

1 The prophet exhorteth all to rejoice for the coming of the kingdom of Christ, 7 dreadful to the rebels and idolaters. 8 And joyful to the just, whom he exhorteth to innocency, 12 to rejoicing and thanksgiving.

THE^v Lord reigneth: let the earth rejoice: let the^z multitude of the isles be glad.

2^a Clouds and darkness are round about him: righteousness and judgment are the foundation of his throne.

3 There shall go a fire before him, and burn up his enemies round about.

4 His lightnings gave light unto the world: the earth saw it and was^b afraid.

5 The mountains melted like wax at the presence of the Lord, at the presence of the Lord of the whole earth.

^o The prophet sheweth that the time shall come, that all nations shall have occasion to praise the Lord for the revealing of his gospel.

^p Seeing he will reveal himself to all nations contrary to their own expectation, they ought all to worship him contrary to their own imaginations, and only as he hath appointed.

^q Then the idols, or whatsoever made not the heavens, are not God.

^r God cannot be known, but by his strength and glory: the signs whereof appear in his sanctuary.

^s As by experience ye see that it is only due unto him.

^t By offering yourselves wholly unto God, declare that you worship him only.

^u He prophesieth that the Gentiles shall be partakers with the Jews of God's promise.

^w He shall regenerate them anew with his Spirit, and restore them to the image of God.

^x If the insensible creatures shall have cause to rejoice when God appeareth much more we, from whom he hath taken malediction and sin.

^y He sheweth that where God reigneth, there is all felicity and spiritual joy.

^z For the gospel shall not be only preached in Judea, but through all isles and countries.

^a He is thus described to keep his enemies in fear, which

6 The heavens declare his righteousness, and all the people see his glory.

7^c Confounded be all they that serve graven images, and that glory in idols: worship him^d, all ye gods.

8 Zion heard of it, and was glad: and the^e daughters of Judah rejoiced, because of thy judgments, O Lord.

9 For thou, Lord, art most high above all the earth: thou art much exalted above all gods.

10 Ye that^f love the Lord, hate evil: he preserveth the souls of his saints: he will deliver them from the hand of the wicked.

11^g Light is sown for the righteous, and joy for the upright in heart.

12 Rejoice, ye righteous, in the Lord: and give thanks for his holy^h remembrance.

P S A L M XCVIII.

1 An earnest exhortation to all creatures to praise the Lord for his power, mercy and fidelity in his promise by Christ, 10 by whom he hath communicated his salvation to all nations.

¶ A Psalm.

SINGⁱ unto the Lord a new song: for he hath done marvellous things: ^{*} his right^j hand and his holy^k arm hath gotten him the victory. Isa. lix. 16.

2 The Lord declared his^l salvation: his righteousness hath he revealed in the sight of the nations.

3 He hath^m remembered his mercy and his truth toward the house of Israel: all the ends of the earth have seen the salvation of our God.

4 All the earth, sing ye loud unto the Lord: cry out and rejoice, and sing praises.

5 Sing praise to the Lord upon the harp, even upon the harp with a singing voice.

6 Withⁿ shawms and sound of trumpets, sing loud before the Lord the king.

7 Let the sea roar, and all that therein is, the world, and they that dwell therein.

8 Let the floods clap their hands, and let the mountains rejoice together.

9 Before the Lord: for he is come to judge the earth: with righteousness shall he judge the world, and the people with equity.

PSALM

commonly contemn God's power.

^b This fear bringeth not the wicked to true obedience, but maketh them to run away from God.

^c He signifieth that God's judgments are in a readiness to destroy the idolaters.

^d Let all that which is esteemed in the world fall down before him.

^e The Jews shall have occasion to rejoice that the Gentiles are made partakers with them of God's favour.

^f He requireth two things of his children; the one, that they detest vice; the other, that they put their trust in God for their deliverance.

^g Though God's deliverance appear not suddenly, yet it is sown and laid up in store for them.

^h Be mindful of his benefits, and only trust in his defence.

ⁱ That is, some song newly made in token of their wonderful deliverance by Christ.

^k He preserveth his church miraculously.

^m God was moved by no other means to gather his church of the Jews and Gentiles, but because he would perform his promise.

ⁿ By this repetition and earnest exhortation to give praises with instruments, and also of the dumb creatures, he signifieth, that the world is never able to praise God sufficiently for their deliverance.

P S A L M XCIX.

1 He commendeth the power, equity and excellency of the kingdom of God by Christ over the Jews and Gentiles, 5 and provoketh them to magnify the same, and to serve the Lord, 6 following the example of the ancient fathers, Moses, Aaron, Samuel, who calling upon God, were heard in their prayers.

THE Lord reigneth, let the^o people tremble: he sitteth between the^e cherubims, let the earth be moved.

2 The Lord is great in Zion, and he is high above all the people.

3 They shall^o praise thy great and fearful name (for it is holy.)

4 And the king's power that loveth judgment: for thou hast prepared equity: thou hast executed judgment and justice in Jacob.

5 Exalt the Lord our God, and fall down before his^s footstool: for he is holy.

6 Moses and Aaron were among his priests, and Samuel among such as call upon his name: these called upon the Lord, and he heard them.

7 He spake unto them in the cloudy pillar: they kept his testimonies, and the law that he gave them.

8 Thou heardest them, O Lord our God: thou wast a favourable God unto them, though thou didst take vengeance for^s their inventions.

9 Exalt the Lord our God, and fall down before his holy mountain: for the Lord our God is holy.

P S A L M C.

1 He exhorteth all to serve the Lord, 3 who hath chosen us and preserved us, 4 and to enter into his assemblies to praise his name.

¶ A Psalm of praise.

SING ye loud unto the Lord, all the earth.

2 Serve the Lord with gladness: come before him with joyfulness.

3 Know ye that even the Lord is God: he hath^s made us, and not we ourselves: we are his people, and the sheep of his pasture.

4 Enter into his gates with praise, and into his courts with rejoicing: praise him and bless his name.

5 For the Lord is good: his mercy is^s everlasting, and his truth is from generation to generation.

^o When God delivereth his church, all the enemies shall have cause to tremble.

^s Though the wicked rage against God, yet the godly shall praise his name and mighty power.

^e That is, before his temple, or ark, where he promised to hear when they worshipped him, as now he promiseth his spiritual presence, wheresoever his church is assembled.

^s Under these three he comprehendeth the whole people of Israel, with whom God made his promise.

^s For the more liberally that God dealeth with his people, the more doth he punish them that abuse his benefits.

^s He prophesieth that God's benefit in calling the Gentiles shall be so great, that they shall have wonderful occasion to praise his mercy, and rejoice.

^e He chiefly meaneth, touching the spiritual regeneration, whereby we are his sheep and people.

^s He sheweth that God will not be worshipped, but by that means which he hath appointed.

^s He declareth, that we ought never to be weary in praising him, seeing his mercies toward us last for ever.

^s David considereth what manner of king he would be when God should place him in the throne, promising openly that he would be merciful and just.

P S A L M CI.

1 David describeth what government he will observe in his house and kingdom. 5 He will punish and correct by rooting forth the wicked, 6 and cherishing the godly persons.

¶ A Psalm of David.

I Will sing mercy and judgment: unto thee, O Lord, will I sing.

2 I will do wisely in the perfect way, ^z till thou comest to me: I will walk in the uprightness of mine heart in the midst of mine house.

3 I will set no wicked thing before mine eyes: I hate^s the work of them that fall away: it shall not cleave unto me.

4 A froward heart shall depart from me: I will know none evil.

5 Him that privily^b slandereth his neighbour, will I destroy: him that hath a proud look and high heart, I cannot suffer.

6 Mine eyes shall be unto the^c faithful of the land, that they may dwell with me: he that walketh in a perfect way, he shall serve me.

7 There shall no deceitful person dwell within mine house: he that telleth lyes shall not remain in my sight.

8 Betimes will I destroy all the wicked of the land, that I may cut off all the workers of iniquity from the city of the Lord.

P S A L M CII.

1 It seemeth that this prayer was appointed to the faithful to pray in the captivity of Babylon. 16 A consolation for the building of the church. 18 Whereof followeth the praise of God to be published to all posterity. 22 The conversion of the Gentiles, 28 and the stability of the church.

¶ A prayer^e of the afflicted, when he shall be in distress, and pour forth his meditation before the Lord.

O Lord, hear my prayer, and let my^f cry come unto thee.

2 Hide not thy face from me in the time of my trouble: incline thine ears unto me: when I call, make haste to hear me.

3 For my days are^g consumed like smok, and my bones are burnt like an hearth.

4 Mine heart is smitten and withereth like grass, because I forgot^h to eat my bread.

5 For the voice of my groaning, my bones do cleave to my skin. 6 I

^z Though as yet thou deferrest to place me in the kingly dignity, yet will I give myself to wisdom and uprightness, being a private man.

^b He sheweth that magistrates do not their duties, except they be enemies to all vice.

^c In promising to punish these vices, which are most pernicious in them that are about kings, he declareth that he will punish all.

^e He sheweth what is the true use of the sword: to punish the wicked, and to maintain the good.

^g Magistrates must immediately punish vice, lest it grow to farther inconvenience: and if heathen magistrates are bound to do this, how much more they that have the charge of the church of God?

^h Whereby is signified, that albeit we be in never so great miseries, yet there is ever place left for prayer.

^f He declareth, that in our prayer we must lively feel that which we desire, and stedfastly believe to obtain.

^g These excessive kinds of speech shew how much the affliction of the church ought to wound the hearts of the godly.

^h My sorrows were so great, that I passed not for mine ordinary food.

6 I am like a ⁱ pelican of the wilderness: I am like an owl of the deserts.

7 I watch, and am as a sparrow alone upon the house-top.

8 Mine enemies revile me daily, and they that rage against me, have ^k sworn against me.

9 Surely, I have ^l eaten ashes as bread, and mingled my drink with weeping:

10 Because of thine ^m indignation, and thy wrath: for thou hast heaved me up, and cast me down.

11 My days are like a shadow that fadeth, and I am withered like grass.

12 But thou, O Lord, dost ⁿ remain for ever, and thy remembrance from generation to generation.

13 Thou wilt arise and have mercy upon Zion: for the time to have mercy thereon, for the ^o appointed time is come.

14 For thy servants delight in the ^p stones thereof, and have pity on the dust thereof.

15 Then the heathen shall fear the name of the Lord, and all the kings of the earth thy glory,

16 When the Lord shall build up Zion, and shall appear ^q in his glory, 17 And shall turn unto the prayer of the desolate, and not despise their prayer.

18 This shall be written for the generation to come: and the people, which shall be ^r created, shall praise the Lord.

19 For he hath looked down from the height of his sanctuary: out of the heaven did the Lord behold the earth,

20 That he might hear the mourning ^s of the prisoner, and deliver the ^t children of death:

21 That they may declare the name of the Lord in Zion, and his praise in Jerusalem, 22 When the people shall be gathered ^u together, and the kingdoms to serve the Lord.

23 He ^v abated my strength in the way, and shortened my days.

24 And I said, O my God, take me not away in the midst of my days: thy years endure from generation to generation.

25 Thou hast aforetime laid the foundation of the earth, and the heavens are the work of thine hands.

26 ^w They shall perish, but thou shalt endure:

even they shall all wax old, as doth a garment: as doth a vesture shalt thou change them, and they shall be changed.

27 But thou art the same, and thy years shall not fail.

28 The children of thy servants shall continue, and their seed shall stand ^x fast in thy sight.

P S A L M CIII.

He provoketh all to praise the Lord, which hath pardoned his sins, delivered him from destruction, and given him sufficient of all good things: 10 Then, he addeth the tender mercies of God, which he sheweth like a most tender father toward his children. 14 The frailty of man's life. 20 An exhortation to men and angels to praise the Lord.

¶ A Psalm of David.

MY soul, ^y praise thou the Lord, and all that is within me, praise his holy name.

2 My soul, praise thou the Lord, and forget not all his benefits:

3 Which ^z forgiveth all thine iniquity, and healeth all thine infirmities:

4 Which redeemeth thy life from the ^a grave, and crowneth thee with mercy and compassions:

5 Which satisfieth thy mouth with good things: and thy ^b youth is renewed like the eagle's.

6 The Lord executeth righteousness and judgment to all that are oppressed.

7 He made his ways known unto ^c Moses, and his works unto the children of Israel.

8 The Lord is full of compassion and mercy, slow to anger, and of great kindness.

9 He will not alway ^d chide, neither keep his anger for ever.

10 He hath not ^e dealt with us after our sins, nor rewarded us according to our iniquities.

11 For as high as the heaven is above the earth, so great is his mercy toward them that fear him.

12 As far as ^f the East is from the West, so far hath he removed our sins from us.

13 As a father hath compassion on his children, so hath the Lord compassion on them that fear him.

14 For he knoweth wherefore we be made: he remembereth that we are but dust.

6 Q

15 The

ⁱ Ever mourning and solitary, casting out fearful cries.

^k Have conspired my death.

^l I have not risen out of my mourning, to take my refection.

^m He sheweth, that the afflictions did not only thus move him; but chiefly the feeling of God's displeasure.

ⁿ Howsoever we be frail; yet thy promise is sure, and the remembrance thereof shall confirm us for ever.

^o That is, the seventy years, which by the prophet Jeremiah thou didst appoint, Jer. 29. 12.

^p The more that the church is in misery and desolation, the more ought the faithful to love and pity it.

^q That is, when he shall have drawn his church out of the darkness of death.

^r The deliverance of the church is a most excellent benefit, and therefore he compareth it to a new creation: for in their banishment the body of the church seemed to have been dead, which by deliverance was as it were created anew.

^s Who now in their banishment could look for nothing but death.

^t He sheweth that God's name is never more praised, than when religion flourisheth, and the church increaseth: which thing is chiefly accomplished under the kingdom of Christ.

^u The church lament that they see not the time of Christ, which was promised, but have but few years and short days.

^w If heaven and earth perish, much more man shall perish: but the church, by reason of God's promise, endureth for ever.

^x Seeing thou hast chosen thy church out of the world, and joined it to thee, it cannot but continue for ever: for thou art everlasting.

^y He wakeneth his dulness to praise God, shewing, that both understanding and affections, mind and heart, are too little to set forth his praise.

^z This is the beginning and chiefest of all benefits: remission of sin.

^a For before that we have remission of our sins, we are as dead men in the grave.

^b As the eagle, when her beak over groweth, sucketh blood, and so is renewed in strength, even so God miraculously giveth strength to his church above all man's expectation.

^c As to his chief minister, and next to his people.

^d He sheweth first his severe judgment, but so soon as the sinner is humbled, he receiveth him to mercy.

^e We have proved by continual experience, that his mercy hath ever prevailed against our offences.

^f As great as the world is, so full is it of signs of God's mercies toward his faithful, when he hath removed their sins.

15 The days of ^b man are as grafs: as a flower of the field, so flourisheth he.

16 For the wind goeth over it, and it is gone, and the place thereof shall know it no more.

17 But the loving kindness of the Lord endureth for ever and ever upon them that fear him, and his ^b righteousness upon childrens children.

18 Unto them that keep his ⁱ covenant, and think upon his commandments to do them.

19 The Lord hath prepared his throne in heaven, and his kingdom ruleth over all.

20 Praise the Lord, ye ^k his angels, that excel in strength, that do his commandment in obeying the voice of his word.

21 Praise the Lord, all ye his hosts, ye his servants that do his pleasure.

22 Praise the Lord, all ye his works, in all places of his dominion: my soul, praise thou the Lord.

P S A L M CIV.

1 An excellent Psalm to praise God for the creation of the world, and the governance of the same by his marvellous providence, 35 wherein the prophet prayeth against the wicked, who are occasions that God diminished his blessings.

MY soul, praise thou the Lord: O Lord my God, thou art exceeding great, thou art ⁱ cloathed with glory and honour.

2 Which covereth himself with light as with a garment, and spreadeth the heavens like a curtain.

3 Which layeth the beams of his chambers in the waters, and maketh the clouds his chariot, and walketh upon the wings of the wind.

4 Which ^a maketh the spirits his messengers, and a flaming fire his ministers.

5 He set the earth upon her foundations, so that it shall never move.

6 Thou coverest it with the ^a deep as with a garment: the ^o waters would stand above the mountains.

7 But at thy rebuke they flee: at the voice of thy thunder they haste away.

8 And the mountains ascend, and the vallies descend to the place which thou hast established for them.

9 But thou hast set them a bound, which they shall not pass: they shall not return to cover the earth.

^f He declareth, that man hath nothing in himself to move God to mercy, but only the confession of his infirmity and misery.

^b His just and faithful keeping of his promise.

ⁱ To whom he giveth grace to fear him, and to obey his word.

^k In that that we, who naturally are slow to praise God, exhort the angels, who willingly do it, we stir up ourselves to consider our duty, and awake out of our sluggishness.

^a The prophet sheweth, that we need not to enter into the heavens to seek God, forasmuch as all the order of nature, with the propriety and placing of the elements, are most lively mirrors to see his majesty in.

^o As the prophet here sheweth, that all visible powers are ready to serve God: so the apostle to the Hebrews 1. 7. beholdeth in this glass how the very angels also are obedient to his commandment.

^a Thou makest the sea to be an ornament unto the earth.

^o If by thy power thou didst not bridle the rage of the waters, it were not possible but the whole world should be destroyed.

^f If God provide for the very beasts, much more will he extend his provident care to man.

^a There is no part of the world so barren, where most 10 He sendeth the springs into the vallies which run between the mountains.

11 They shall give drink to all the ^p beasts of the field, and the wild asses shall quench their thirst.

12 By these ^a springs shall the fowls of the heaven dwell, and sing among the branches.

13 He watereth the mountains from his ^r chambers, and the earth is filled with the fruit of thy works.

14 He causeth grafs to grow for the cattle, and herb for the use of ^s man, that he may bring forth bread out of the earth:

15 And wine that maketh glad the heart of man, and oil to make the face to shine, and bread that strengtheneth man's heart.

16 The high trees are satisfied, even the cedars of Lebanon which he hath planted, 17 That the birds may make their nests there: the stork dwelleth in the fir-trees.

18 The high mountains are for the [†] goats: the rocks are a refuge for the conies. [†] Or, does, roes, and such like.

19 He appointed the ^t moon for certain seasons: ^u the sun knoweth his going down.

20 Thou makest darkness, and it is night, wherein all the beasts of the forest creep forth.

21 The lions roar after their prey, and seek their meat ^v at God.

22 When the sun riseth, they retire, and couch in their dens.

23 ^w Then goeth man forth to his work, and to his labour until the evening.

24 O Lord, how ^y manifold are thy works! in wisdom thou hast made them all: the earth is full of thy riches.

25 So is this sea great and wide: for therein are things creeping innumerable, both small beasts and great.

26 There go the ships, yea that [†] Leviathan, [†] Or, whale, which thou hast made to play therein.

27 ^z All these wait upon thee, that thou mayest give them food in due season.

28 Thou givest it to them, and they gather it: thou openest thine hand, and they are filled with good things.

29 But if thou ^a hide thy face, they are troubled: if thou take away their breath, they die and return to their dust.

30 Again, if thou ^b send forth thy Spirit, they are created, and thou renewest the face of the earth.

31 Gloevident signs of God's blessings appear not.

^r From the clouds.

^s He describeth God's provident care over man, who doth not only provide necessary things for him, as herbs and other meat: but also things to rejoice and comfort him, as wine, and oil, or ointments.

^t As to separate the night from the day, and to note days, months, and years.

^u That is, by his course, either far or near, it noteth summer, winter, and other seasons.

^v That is, they only find meat according to God's providence, who careth even for the brute beasts.

^w To wit, when the day springeth: for the light is as it were a shield to defend man against the tyranny and fierceness of beasts.

^x He confesseth, that no tongue is able to express God's words, nor mind to comprehend them.

^y God is a most nourishing father, who provideth for all creatures their daily food.

^z As by thy presence all things have life: so if thou withdraw thy blessings, they all perish.

^a As the death of creatures sheweth that we are nothing of ourselves: so their generation declareth, that we receive all things of our Creator.

31 Glory be to the Lord for ever, let the Lord rejoice in his works.

32 He looketh on the earth and it trembleth: he toucheth the mountains, ^c and they smoke.

33 I will sing unto the Lord all my life: I will praise my God, while I live.

34 Let my words be acceptable unto him: I will rejoice in the Lord.

35 Let the sinners be ^d consumed out of the earth, and the wicked till there be no more: O my soul, praise thou the Lord. Praise ye the Lord.

P S A L M CV.

1 He praiseth the singular grace of God, who hath of all the people of the world chosen a peculiar people to himself, and having chosen them, never ceaseth to do them good, even for his promise sake.

PRAISE the Lord, and call upon his name: ^e declare his works among the people.

2 Sing unto him, sing praise unto him, and talk of all his wondrous works.

3 Rejoice in his holy name, let the heart of them that seek the Lord, rejoice.

4 Seek the Lord and his ^f strength: seek his face continually.

5 Remember his ^g marvellous works, that he hath done, his wonders, and the ^h judgments of his mouth,

6 Ye seed of Abraham his servant, ye children of Jacob, which are his elect.

7 He is the Lord our God: his judgments are through all the earth.

8 He hath alway remembered his covenant and promise, that he made to a thousand generations,

9 Even that which he made with ⁱ Abraham, and his oath unto Isaac:

10 And since hath confirmed it to Jacob for a law, and to Israel for an everlasting covenant, 11 Saying, ^k Unto thee will I give the land of Canaan, the lot of your inheritance.

12 Albeit, they were few in number, yea, very few, and strangers in the land,

13 And walked about from nation to nation, from one kingdom to another people,

14 Yet suffered he no man to do them wrong, but reprov'd ^l kings for their sakes, saying,

15 Touch not mine ^m anointed, and do my ⁿ prophets no harm.

16 Moreover, he called a famine upon the land, and utterly brake the ^o staff of bread.

^c God's merciful face giveth strength to the earth, but his severe countenance burneth the mountains.

^d Who infect the world; and so cause God that he cannot rejoice in his works.

^e Forasmuch as the Israelites were exempted from the common condemnation of the world, and were elected to be God's people, the prophet willeth them to shew themselves mindful by thanksgiving.

^f By the strength and face, he meaneth the ark, where God declared his power and his presence.

^g Which he hath wrought in the deliverance of his people.

^h Because his power was thereby as lively declared, as if he should have declared it by mouth.

ⁱ The promise which God made to Abraham to be his God, and the God of his seed after him, he renewed and repeated it again to his seed after him.

^k He sheweth, that they should not enjoy the land of Canaan by any other means, but by reason of his covenant made with their fathers.

^l That is, the king of Egypt, and the king of Gerar, Gen. 12. 17. & 20. 3.

^m Those whom I have sanctified to be my people.

17 But he sent a man before them: Joseph was sold for a slave.

18 They held his feet in the stocks, and he was laid in irons,

19 Until ^p his appointed time came, and the counsel of the Lord had tried him.

20 The king sent and loosed him: even the ruler of the people delivered him.

21 He made him lord of his house, and ruler of all his substance,

22 That he should bind his ^q princes unto his will, and teach his ancients wisdom.

23 Then Israel came to Egypt, and Jacob was a stranger in the land of Ham.

24 And he increased his people exceedingly, and made them stronger than their oppressors.

25 ^r He turned their heart to hate his people, and to deal craftily with his servants.

26 Then sent he Moses his servant, and Aaron whom he had chosen.

27 They shewed among them the message of his signs, and wonders in the land of Ham.

28 He sent darkness, and made it dark: and they were not ^s disobedient unto his commission.

29 ^{} He turned their waters into blood, and ^{} Exod. 7. 20. slew their fish.

30 ^{*} Their land brought forth frogs, even in ^{*} Exod. 8. 6. their king's chambers.

31 He ^t spake, and there came swarms of flies, and lice in all their quarters.

32 He gave them ^u hail for rain, and flames of fire in their land.

33 He smote their vines also and their fig-trees, and brake down the trees in their coasts.

34 ^{*} He spake, and the grasshoppers came, and caterpillars innumerable,

35 And did eat up all the grass in their land, and devoured the fruit of their ground.

36 ^{*} He smote also the first-born in their land, even the beginning of all their strength. ^{*} Exod. 12. 29.

37 He brought them forth also with silver and gold, and there was ^x none feeble among their tribes.

38 Egypt was ^y glad at their departing: for the fear of them had fallen upon them.

39 He spread a cloud to be a covering, and fire to give light in the night.

40 They ^z asked, and he brought quails, and he filled them with the bread of heaven.

41 He opened the rock, and the waters flowed out, and ran in the dry places like a river.

^s Meaning, Moses and Aaron.

^t So that this vermin came not by fortune, but as God had appointed, and his prophet Moses spake.

^u It was strange to see rain in Egypt, much more it was fearful to see hail.

^v He sheweth, that all creatures are armed against man, when God is his enemy: as at his commandment the grasshoppers destroyed the land.

^x When the enemies felt God's plagues, his children by his providence were exempted.

^y For God's plagues caused them rather to depart with the Israelites, than with their lives.

^z Not for necessity, but for satisfying of their lust.

42 For he remembered his holy promise to Abraham his servant.

43 And he brought forth his people with joy, and his chosen with gladness.

44 And gave them the lands of the heathen, and they took the labours of the people in possession.

45 That they might keep his statutes, and observe his laws. Praise ye the Lord.

P S A L M CVI.

1 The people dispersed under Antiochus, do magnify the goodness of God among the just and repentant: 4 Desiring to be brought again into the land by God's merciful visitation. 8 And after the manifold marvels of God wrought in their deliverance from Egypt, and the great ingratitude of the people rehearsed, 47 they do pray and desire to be gathered from among the heathen, to the intent they may praise the name of the God of Israel.

☉ Praise ye the Lord.

PRAISE ye the Lord, because he is good: for his mercy endureth for ever.

2 Who can express the noble acts of the Lord, or shew forth all his praise?

3 Blessed are they that keep judgment, and do righteousness at all times.

4 Remember me, O Lord, with the favour of thy people: visit me with thy salvation.

5 That I may see the felicity of thy chosen, and rejoice in the joy of thy people, and glory with thine inheritance.

6 We have sinned with our fathers: we have committed iniquity, and done wickedly.

7 Our fathers understood not thy wonders in Egypt, neither remembered they the multitude of thy mercies, but rebelled at the sea, even at the Red Sea.

8 Nevertheless, he saved them for his name's sake, that he might make his power to be known.

9 And he rebuked the Red Sea, and it was dried up, and he led them in the deep, as in the wilderness.

10 And he saved them from the adversaries hand, and delivered them from the hand of the enemy.

11 * And the waters covered their oppressors: not one of them was left.

12 Then believed they his words, and sang praise unto him.

13 But incontinently they forgot his works: they waited not for his counsel, 14 But lusted with concupiscence in the wilderness, and tempted God in the desert.

15 Then he gave them their desire, but he sent leanness into their soul.

16 They envied Moses also in the tents, and Aaron the holy one of the Lord.

17 Therefore the earth opened and swallowed up Dathan, and covered the company of Abiram.

18 And the fire was kindled in their assembly: the flame burnt up the wicked.

19 They made a calf in Horeb, and worshipped the molten image.

20 Thus they turned their glory into the similitude of a bullock that eateth grass.

21 They forgot God their Saviour, which had done great things in Egypt, 22 Wonderous works in the land of Ham, and fearful things by the Red Sea.

23 Therefore he minded to destroy them, had not Moses his chosen stood in the breach before him to turn away his wrath, lest he should destroy them.

24 Also they contemned that pleasant land, and believed not his word:

25 But murmured in their tents, and hearkened not unto the voice of the Lord.

26 Therefore he lifted up his hand against them, to destroy them in the wilderness, 27 And to destroy their seed among the nations, and to scatter them throughout the countries.

28 They joined themselves also unto Baal-peor, and did eat the offerings of the dead.

29 Thus they provoked him unto anger with their inventions, and the plague brake in upon them.

30 But Phinehas stood up, and executed judgment, and the plague was stayed.

31 * And it was imputed unto him for righteousness, from generation to generation for ever.

32 They angered him also at the waters of Meribah, so that Moses was punished for their sakes.

33 Because they vexed his Spirit, so that he spake unadvisedly with his lips.

34 Neither destroyed they the people, as the Lord had commanded them.

35 But

* Which he confirmeth to the posterity, in whom after a sort the dead live and enjoy the promises.

☉ When the Egyptians lamented and were destroyed.

☉ That is the end why God preserveth his church, because they should worship, and call upon him in this world.

☉ The prophet exhorteth the people to praise God for his benefits past, that thereby their minds may be strengthened against all present troubles and despair.

☉ He sheweth, that it is not enough to praise God with mouth, except the whole heart agree thereunto, and all our life be thereunto framed.

☉ Let the good will that thou bearest to thy people, extend unto me, that thereby I may be received into the number of thine.

☉ By earnest confession, as well of their own, as of their fathers sins, they shew that they had hope that God according to his promise would pity them.

☉ The ineffimable goodness of God appeareth in this, that he would change the order of nature, rather than his people should not be delivered, although they were wicked.

☉ The wonderful works of God caused them to believe for a time, and to praise him.

☉ They would prevent his wisdom and providence.

☉ The abundance that God gave them, profited not, but made them pine away, because God cursed it.

☉ By the greatness of the punishment, the heinous offence may be considered: for they that rise against God's ministers, rebel against him.

☉ He sheweth, that all idolaters renounce God to be their glory, when instead of him they worship any creature, much more wood, stone, metal, or calves.

☉ If Moses by his intercession had not obtained God's favour against their rebellions.

☉ That is, Canaan, which was as it were an earnest penny of the heavenly inheritance.

☉ That is, he sware. Sometimes also it meaneth to punish.

☉ Which was the idol of the Moabites.

☉ Sacrifices offered to the dead idols.

☉ Signifying, that whatsoever man inventeth of himself to serve God by, is detestable, and provoketh his anger.

☉ When all others neglected God's glory, he in his zeal killed the adulterers; and prevented God's wrath.

☉ This act declared his lively faith, and for his faith's sake was accepted.

☉ If so notable a prophet of God escape not punishment, though others provoked him to sin, how much more shall they be subject to God's judgment, which cause God's children to sin?

35 But were mingled among the heathen, and learned their works,

36 And served their idols, which were their ruin.

37 Yea, they offered their sons and their daughters unto devils,

38 And shed innocent blood, even the blood of their sons and of their daughters, whom they offered unto the idols of Canaan, and the land was defiled with blood.

39 Thus were they stained with their own works, and went a whoring with their own inventions.

40 Therefore was the wrath of the Lord kindled against his people, and he abhorred his own inheritance.

41 And he gave them into the hand of the heathen: and they that hated them, were lords over them.

42 Their enemies also oppressed them, and they were humbled under their hand.

43 Many a time did he deliver them, but they provoked him by their counsels: therefore they were brought down by their iniquity.

44 Yet he saw when they were in affliction, and he heard their cry.

45 And he remembered his covenant toward them, and repented according to the multitude of his mercies:

46 And gave them favour in the sight of all them that led them captives.

47 Save us, O Lord our God, and gather us from among the heathen, that we may praise thine holy name, and glory in thy praise.

48 Blessed be the Lord God of Israel for ever and ever, and let all the people say, So be it. Praise ye the Lord.

P S A L M CVII.

1 The prophet exhorteth all those that are redeemed by the Lord, and gathered unto him, to give thanks, 9 for this merciful providence of God governing all things at his good pleasure, 20 sending good and evil, prosperity and adversity, to bring men unto him, 42 therefore as the righteous thereat rejoice, so shall the wicked have their mouths stopped.

PRAISE ^d the Lord, because he is good: for his mercy endureth for ever.

2 Let them, ^e which have been redeemed of the Lord, shew how he hath delivered them from the hand of the oppressor,

3 And gathered them out of the lands, from the East, and from the West, from the North, and from the [†] South.

4 When they wandered in the desert and wilderness out of the way, and found no city to dwell in.

5 ^f Both hungry and thirsty, their soul fainted in them.

6 Then they cried unto the Lord in their trouble, and he delivered them from their distress,

7 And led them forth by the right way, that they might go to a city of habitation.

8 Let them therefore confess before the Lord his loving kindness, and his wonderful works before the sons of men.

9 For he satisfied the thirsty soul, and filled the hungry soul with goodness.

10 They that dwell in darkness and in the shadow of death, being bound in misery and iron, 11 Because they ^g rebelled against the words of the Lord, and despised the counsel of the Most High.

12 When he humbled their heart with heaviness, then they fell down and there was no helper.

13 Then they ^h cried unto the Lord in their trouble, and he delivered them from their distress.

14 He brought them out of darkness, and out of the shadow of death, and brake their bands asunder.

15 Let them therefore confess before the Lord his loving kindness, and his wonderful works before the sons of men.

16 For he hath broken the ⁱ gates of brass, and burst the bars of iron asunder.

17 ^k Fools by reason of their transgression, and because of their iniquities are afflicted.

18 Their soul abhorreth all meat, and they are brought to death's door.

19 Then they cry unto the Lord in their trouble, and he delivereth them from their distress.

20 ^l He sendeth his word and healeth them, and delivereth them from their ^m graves.

21 Let them therefore confess before the Lord his loving kindness, and his wonderful works before the sons of men.

^v He sheweth how monstrous a thing idolatry is, which can win us to things abhorring to nature, whereas God's word cannot obtain most small things.

^z Then true chastity is, to cleave wholly and only unto God.

^a The prophet sheweth, that neither by menaces nor promises, we can come to God, except we be altogether newly reformed, and that his mercy over-cover and hide our malice.

^b Not that God is changeable in himself, but that then he seemeth to us to repent, when he altereth his punishments and forgiveth us.

^c Gather thy church which is dispersed, and give us constancy under the cross, that with one consent we may all praise thee.

^d This notable sentence was in the beginning used, as the foot or tenor of the song which was oftentimes repeated.

^e As this was true in the Jews, so is there none of God's elect that feel not his help in their necessity.

^f He sheweth, that there is no affliction so grievous, out of the which God will not deliver his; and also exhorteth them that are delivered, to be mindful of so great a benefit.

^z Then the true way to obey God, is to follow his express commandment: also hereby all are exhorted to descend into themselves, forasmuch as none are punished but for their sins.

^h He sheweth, that the cause why God doth punish us extremely is, because we can be brought unto him by no other means.

ⁱ Where there seemeth to man's judgment no recovery, but all things are brought to despair, then God chiefly sheweth his mighty power.

^k They that have no fear of God, by his sharp rods are brought to call upon him, and so find mercy.

^l By healing them he declareth his good will toward them.

^m Meaning, their diseases, which had almost brought them to the grave, and corruption.

ⁿ Praise and confession of God's benefits are the true sacrifices of the godly.

^o He sheweth by the sea what care God hath over man, for in that, that he delivereth them from the great dangers of the sea, he delivereth them as it were from a thousand deaths.

24 They see the works of the Lord, and his wonders in the deep.

25 For he commandeth and raiseth the stormy wind, and it lifteth up the waves thereof.

26 They mount up to the heaven, and descend to the deep, so that their soul melteth for trouble.

27 They are tossed to and fro, and stagger like a drunken man, and all their cunning is gone.

28 Then they cry unto the Lord in their trouble, and he bringeth them out of their distress.

29 He turneth the storm to calm, so that the waves thereof are still.

30 When they are quieted, they are glad, and he bringeth them unto the haven where they would be.

31 Let them therefore confess before the Lord his loving kindness, and his wonderful works before the sons of men:

32 And let them exalt him in the congregation of the people, and praise him in the assembly of the elders.

33 He turneth the floods into a wilderness, and the springs of water into drines, 34 And a fruitful land into barrenness, for the wickedness of them that dwell therein.

35 Again, he turneth the wilderness into pools of water, and the dry land into water springs.

36 And there he placeth the hungry, and they build a city to dwell in,

37 And sow the fields, and plant vineyards, which bring forth fruitful increase.

38 For he blesteth them, and they multiply exceedingly, and he diminisheth not their cattle.

39 Again, men are diminished, and brought low by oppression, evil and sorrow.

40 He poureth contempt upon princes, and causeth them to err in desert places out of the way.

41 Yet he raiseth up the poor out of misery, and maketh him families like a flock of sheep.

42 The righteous shall see it and rejoice, and all iniquity shall stop her mouth.

43 Who is wise, that he may observe these things? for they shall understand the loving kindness of the Lord.

1 This Psalm is composed of two other Psalms before, the seven and fiftieth, and the sixtieth. The manner here contained, is, 1 That David giveth himself with heart and voice to praise the Lord, 7 and assureth himself of the promise of God concerning his kingdom over Israel, and his power against other nations: 11 Who though he seem to forsake

1 Their fear and danger is so great.
2 When their art and means fail them, they are compelled to confess, that only God's providence doth preserve them.
3 Though before every drop seemed to fight one against another, yet at his commandment they are as still as though they were frozen.
4 This great benefit ought not only to be considered particularly, but magnified in all places and assemblies.
5 For the love that he beareth to his church, he changeth the order of nature for their commodity.
6 Continual increase and yearly.
7 As God by his providence doth exalt men, so doth he humble them by afflictions to know themselves.
8 For their wickedness and tyranny he causeth the people and self to condemn them.
9 They, whose earth is lightened by God's Spirit, shall be made to see God's judgments against the wicked and un-

A Psalm or song of David.

O God, mine heart is prepared, so is my tongue: I will sing and give praise.

2 Awake, viol and harp: I will awake early.

3 I will praise thee, O Lord, among the people, and I will sing unto thee among the nations.

4 For thy mercy is great above the heavens, and thy truth unto the clouds.

5 Exalt thyself, O God, above the heavens, and let thy glory be upon all the earth.

6 That thy beloved may be delivered: help with thy right hand, and hear me.

7 God hath spoken in his holiness: therefore I will rejoice, I will divide Shechem, and measure the valley of Succoth.

8 Gilead shall be mine, and Manasseh shall be mine: Ephraim also shall be the strength of mine head: Judah is my law-giver.

9 Moab shall be my wash-pot: over Edom will I cast out my shoe: upon Palestina will I triumph.

10 Who will lead me into the strong city? who will bring me unto Edom?

11 Wilt not thou, O God, which hast forsaken us, and didst not go forth, O God, with our armies?

12 Give us help against trouble: for vain is the help of man.

13 Through God we shall do valiantly: for he shall tread down our enemies.

12 Let there be none to extend mercy unto him: neither let there be any to shew mercy upon his fatherless children.

13 Let his posterity be destroyed, and in the generation following let their name be put out.

14ⁿ Let the iniquity of his fathers be had in remembrance with the Lord: and let not the sin of his mother be done away.

15^o But let them always be before the Lord, that he may cut off their memorial from the earth.

16 Because^p he remembered not to shew mercy, but persecuted the afflicted and poor man, and the sorrowful hearted to slay him.

17 As he loved cursing, ^q so shall it come unto him: and as he loved not blessing, so shall it be far from him.

18 As he cloathed himself with cursing, like a raiment, so shall it come into his bowels like water, and like oil into his bones.

23 I depart like the shadow that declineth, and am shaken off as the ^t grasshopper.

24 My knees are weak through fasting, and my flesh hath ^u lost all fatness.

25 I became also a rebuke unto them: they that looked upon me shaked their heads.

26 Help me, O Lord my God: ^v save me according to thy mercy, 27 And they shall know, that this is thine hand, and that thou, Lord, hast done it.

28^w Though they ^x curse, yet thou wilt bless: they shall arise and be confounded, but thy servant shall rejoice.

29 Let mine adversaries be cloathed with shame, and let them cover themselves with their confusion, as with a cloak.

ⁱ Whether it were Doeg or Saul, or some familiar friend that had betrayed him, he prayeth not of private affection, but moved by God's Spirit, that God would take vengeance upon him.

^k As to the elect all things turn to their profit: so to the reprobate, even those things that are good turn to their damnation.

^l This was chiefly accomplished in Judas, Acts 1. 20.

^m He declareth, that the curse of God lieth upon the extortioners, who thinking to enrich their children by their unlawful gotten goods, are by God's just judgment deprived of all.

ⁿ Thus punisheth the Lord to the third and fourth generation the wickedness of the parents in their wicked children.

^o He sheweth, that God accustometh to plague them after a strange sort, that shew themselves cruel toward others.

^p Thus giveth the Lord to every man the things wherein he delighteth, that the reprobate cannot accuse God of wrong, when they are given up to their lusts and reprobate minds.

^q For being destitute of man's help, he fully trusted in the Lord, that he would deliver him.

^r As thou art named merciful, gracious, and long-suffering, so shew thyself in effect.

^z Jesus Christ, in Matt. 22. 44. giveth the interpretation hereof, and sheweth, that this cannot properly be applied unto David, but to himself.

^a And thence it shall stretch through all the world: and this power chiefly standeth in the preaching of his word.

^b By thy word, thy people shall be assembled into thy church, whose increase shall be so abundant and wonderful as the drop of the dew.

^d No power shall be able to resist him.

^e Under this similitude of a captain that is so greedy to destroy his enemies, that he will not scarce drink by the way, he sheweth how God will destroy his enemies.

^f The prophet declareth, that he will praise God both privately and openly, and that from the heart, as he that consecrateth himself wholly and only unto God.

2 The works of the Lord are great, and ought to be sought out of all them that love them.

3 His work is beautiful and glorious, and his righteousness endureth for ever.

4 He hath made his wonderful works to be had in remembrance: the Lord is merciful and full of compassion.

5 He hath given a portion unto them that fear him: he will ever be mindful of his covenant.

6 He hath shewed to his people the power of his works, in giving unto them the heritage of the heathen.

7 The works of his hands are truth and judgment: all his statutes are true.

8 They are established for ever and ever, and are done in truth and equity.

9 He sent redemption unto his people: he hath commanded his covenant for ever: holy and fearful is his name.

10 The beginning of wisdom is the fear of the Lord: all they that observe them, have good understanding: his praise endureth for ever.

3 Riches and treasures shall be in his house, and his righteousness endureth for ever.

4 Unto the righteous ariseth light in darkness: he is merciful and full of compassion, and righteous.

5 A good man is merciful and lendeth, and will measure his affairs by judgment.

6 Surely he shall never be moved: but the righteous shall be had in everlasting remembrance.

7 He will not be afraid of evil things: for his heart is fixed, and believeth in the Lord.

8 His heart is established: therefore he will not fear, until he see his desire upon his enemies.

He sheweth, that God's works are a sufficient cause wherefore we should praise him, but chiefly his benefits toward his church.

God hath given to his people all that was necessary for them, and will do still even for his covenant's sake, and in this sense the Hebrew word is taken, Prov. 30. 8. and 31. 15.

As God promised to take care of his church, so in effect doth he declare himself just and true in the government of the same.

They only are wise that fear God, and none have understanding, but they that obey his word.

To wit, his commandments, as ver. 7.

He meaneth, that reverent fear which is in the children of God, which causeth them to delight only in the word of God.

The godly shall have abundance, and contentment, because their heart is satisfied in God only.

The faithful in all their adversities know that all shall go well with them, for God will be merciful and just.

He sheweth, what is the fruit of mercy, to lend freely, and not for gain, and so to measure his doings, that he may be able to help where need requireth, and not to bestow all on himself.

The godly pinch not niggardly, but distribute liberally.

shall gnath with his teeth, and consume away: the desire of the wicked shall perish.

5 What ailed thee, O sea, that thou fleddest? O Jordan, why wast thou turned back?

6 Ye mountains, why leaped ye like rams, and ye hills as lambs?

7 The earth trembled at the presence of the Lord, at the presence of the God of Jacob.

8 Which

as the necessity of the poor requireth, and as his power is able.

His power and prosperous estate.

The blessings of God upon his children shall cause the wicked to die for envy.

By this often repetition he stirreth up our cold dulness to praise God, seeing his works are so wonderful, and that we are created for the same cause.

If God's glory shine through all the world, and therefore of all ought to be praised, what great condemnation were it to his people, among whom chiefly it shineth, if they should not earnestly extol his name?

By preferring the poor to high honour, and giving the barren children, he sheweth that God worketh not only in his church by ordinary means, but also by miracles.

That is, from them that were of a strange language.

The whole people were witnesses of his holy majesty, in adopting them, and of his mighty power in delivering them.

Seeing that these dead creatures felt God's power, and after a sort saw it, much more his people ought to consider it, and glorify him for the same.

Ought then his people to be insensible, when they see his power and majesty?

P S A L M CXV.

1 A prayer of the faithful oppressed by idolatrous tyrants, against whom they desire that God would succour them; 9 trusting most constantly that God will preserve them in this their need, seeing that he hath adopted and received them to his favour, 18 promising finally, that they will not be unmindful of so great a benefit, if it would please God to hear their prayer, and deliver them by his omnipotent power.

NOT ^d unto us, O Lord, not unto us, but unto thy name give the glory, for thy loving mercy, and for thy truth's sake.

2 Wherefore shall the heathen say, ^e Where is now their God?

3 But our God is in heaven: he doth whatsoever he ^f will.

4 Their idols are ^g silver and gold, even the work of men's hands.

5 They have a mouth and speak not: they have eyes and see not.

6 They have ears and hear not: they have noses and smell not.

7 They have ^h hands and touch not: they have feet and walk not: neither make they a sound with their throat.

8 They that make them are ⁱ like unto them: so are all that trust in them.

9 O Israel, trust thou in the Lord: for he is their help and their shield.

10 ^k O house of Aaron, trust ye in the Lord: for he is their help and their shield.

11 Ye that fear the Lord, trust in the Lord: for he is their helper and their shield.

12 The Lord hath been mindful of us: he will bless, he ^l will bless the house of Israel, he will bless the house of Aaron.

13 He will bless them that fear the Lord, both small and great.

14 The Lord will increase his ^m graces toward you, even toward you and toward your children.

15 Ye are children of the Lord, which ⁿ made the heaven and the earth.

16 The ^o heavens, even the heavens are thy Lord's: but he hath given the earth to the sons of men.

17 The dead praise not the Lord, neither any that ^p go down into the place of silence.

^c That is, caused miraculously water to come out of the rock in most abundance, Exod. 17. 6.

^d Because God promised to deliver them, not for their sakes, but for his name, Isa. 48. 11. therefore they ground their prayer upon this promise.

^e When the wicked see that God accomplisheth not his promise, as they imagine, they think there is no God.

^f No impediments can lett his work, but he useth even the impediments to serve his will.

^g Seeing, that neither the matter nor the form can commend the idols, it followeth, that there is nothing why they should be esteemed.

^h He sheweth what great vanity it is to ask help of them which not only have no help in them, but lack sense and reason.

ⁱ As much without sense as blocks and stones.

^k For they were appointed by God as instructors and teachers of faith and religion for others to follow.

^l That is, he will continue his graces toward his people.

^m And therefore doth still govern and continue all things therein.

ⁿ And they declare enough his sufficiency, so that the world serveth him nothing, but to shew his fatherly care toward men.

^o Though the dead set forth God's glory, yet he meaneth

2 For he hath inclined his ear unto me, when I did call upon him ^q in my days.

3 When the snares of death compassed me about, and the griefs of the grave caught me: when I found trouble and sorrow:

5 The Lord is ^r merciful and righteous, and our God is full of compassion.

6 The Lord preserveth the simple: I was in misery, and he saved me.

7 Return unto thy rest, O ^s my soul: for the Lord hath been beneficial unto thee.

8 Because thou hast delivered my soul from death, mine eyes from tears, and my feet from falling.

9 I shall ^t walk before the Lord in the land of the living.

10 ^u I believed, therefore did I speak: for I was sore troubled.

11 I said in my ^v fear, All men are lyars.

12 What shall I render unto the Lord for all his benefits toward me?

13 I will ^w take the cup of salvation, and call upon the name of the Lord.

14 I will pay my vows unto the Lord, even now in the presence of all his people.

15 Precious in the sight of the Lord is the ^x death of his saints.

16 Behold, Lord: for I am thy servant, I am thy servant, and the son of thine handmaid: thou hast broken my bonds.

here, that they praise him not in his church and congregation.

^p He granteth, that no pleasure is so great as to feel God's help in our necessity, neither that any thing more stirreth up our love toward him.

^q That is, in convenient time to seek help, which was when he was in distress.

^r He sheweth forth the fruit of his love, in calling upon him, confessing him to be just and merciful, and to help them that are destitute of aid and counsel.

^s Which was unquieted before, now rest upon the Lord, for he hath been beneficial towards thee.

^t The Lord will preserve me, and save my life.

^u I felt all these things, and therefore was moved by faith to counsel them, 2 Cor. 4. 13.

^v In my great distress I thought God would not regard man, which is but lyes and vanity, yet I overcame this temptation, and felt the contrary.

^w In the law they used to make a banquet, when they gave solemn thanks to God, and to take the cup and drink in sign of thanksgiving.

^x I perceive that God hath a care over his, so that he both disposeth their death, and taketh an account.

^y I will thank him for his benefits: for that is a just payment, to confess that we owe all to God.

1 David rejected of Saul and of the people, at the time appointed obtained the kingdom. 4 For the which, he bideth all them, that fear the Lord, to be thankful. And under his person, in all this was Christ lively set forth, who should be of his people rejected.

PRAISE ye the Lord, because he is good: for his mercy endureth for ever.

2 Let Israel now say, that his mercy endureth for ever.

10 With my whole heart have I fought thee: let me not wander from thy commandments.

11 I have ^y hid thy promise in mine heart, that I might not sin against thee.

12 Blessed art thou, O Lord: teach me thy statutes.

13 With my lips have I declared all the judgments of thy mouth.

14 I have had as great ^z delight in the way of thy testimonies, as in all riches.

G I M E L.

17 Be beneficial unto thy servant, that I may ^a live and keep thy word.

18 Open mine eyes, that I may see the wonders of thy law.

19 I am ^b a stranger upon earth: hide not thy commandments from me.

20 Mine heart breaketh for the desire to thy judgments always.

21 Thou ^c hast destroyed the proud: cursed are they that do err from thy commandments.

22 Remove from me shame and contempt: for I have kept thy testimonies.

23 ^d Princes also did sit, and speak against me: but thy servant did meditate in thy statutes.

24 Also thy testimonies are my delight, and my counsellors.

D A L E T H.

25 My soul cleaveth to the ^e dust: quicken me according to thy word.

26 I have ^f declared my ways, and thou hearest me: teach me thy statutes.

28 My soul melteth for heaviness: raise me up according unto thy ^g word.

29 Take from me the ^h way of lying, and grant me graciously thy law.

30 I have chosen the way of truth, and thy judgments have I laid before me.

31 I have cleaved to thy testimonies, O Lord: confound me not.

32 I will run the way of thy commandments, when ⁱ thou shalt enlarge my heart.

34 Give me understanding, and I will keep thy law: yea, I will keep it with my whole ^l heart.

35 Direct me in the path of thy commandments: for therein is my delight.

36 Incline mine heart unto thy testimonies, and not to ^m covetousness.

37 Turn away mine ⁿ eyes from regarding vanity, and quicken me in thy way.

38 Stablish thy promise to thy servant, because he feareth thee.

39 Take away ^o my rebuke that I fear: for thy judgments are good.

40 Behold, I desire thy commandments: ^p quicken me in thy righteousness.

V A V.

41 And let thy ^q loving kindness come unto me, O Lord, and thy salvation according to thy promise.

42 So shall I ^r make answer unto my blasphemers: for I trust in thy word.

43 And take not the word of truth utterly out of my mouth: for I wait for thy judgments.

44 So shall I always keep thy law for ever and ever.

45 And I will ^s walk at liberty: for I seek thy precepts.

46 I will speak also of thy testimonies before ^t kings, and will not be ashamed.

47 And

^t For true religion standeth in serving God without hypocry.

^u That is, thy precepts, which contain perfect righteousness.

^w He refuseth not to be tried by temptations, but he feareth to faint, if God succour not his infirmity in time.

^x Because youth is most given to licentiousness, he chiefly warneth them to frame their lives betimes to God's word.

^y If God's word be graven in our hearts, we shall be more able to resist the assaults of Satan: and therefore the prophet desireth God to instruct him daily more and more therein.

^z The prophet doth not boast of his virtues, but setteth forth an example for others to follow God's word, and leave worldly vanities.

^a He sheweth that we ought not to desire to live, but to serve God; and that we cannot serve him aright, except he open our eyes and minds.

^b Seeing man's life in this world is but a passage, what should become of him, if thy word were not his guide?

^c In all ages thou hast plagued all such which maliciously and contemptuously depart from thy truth.

^d When the powers of the world gave false sentence against me, thy word was a guide and counsellor to teach me what to do, and comfort me.

^e That is, it is almost brought to the grave, and without thy word I cannot live.

^f I have confessed mine offences, and now depend wholly on thee.

^g If God did not maintain us by his word, our life would drop away like water.

^h Instruct me in thy word, whereby my mind may be purged from vanity, and taught to obey thy will.

ⁱ By this he sheweth, that we can neither chuse good, cleave to God's word, nor run forward in his way, except he make our hearts large to receive his grace, and willing to obey.

^k He sheweth that he cannot follow on to the end, except God teach him oft-times, and lead him forward.

^l Not only in outward conversation, but also with inward affection.

^m Hereby meaning all other vices, because that covetousness is the root of all evil.

ⁿ Meaning, all his senses.

^o Let me not fall to thy dishonour, but let mine heart still delight in thy gracious word.

^p Give me strength to continue in thy word even to the end.

^q He sheweth that God's mercy and love is the first cause of our salvation.

^r By trusting in God's word, he assureth himself to be able to confute the slanders of his adversaries.

^s They that simply walk after God's word, have no lets to entangle them: whereas they that do contrary, are ever in nets and snares.

^t He sheweth that the children of God ought not to suffer their Father's glory to be obscured by the vain pomp of princes.

47 And my delight shall be in thy commandments, which I have loved.

48 Mine hands also will I lift up unto thy commandments, which I have loved, and I will meditate in thy statutes.

Z A I N.

49 Remember ^a the promise made to thy servant, wherein thou hast caused me to trust.

50 It is my comfort in trouble: for thy promise hath quickened me.

51 The ^b proud have had me exceedingly in derision: yet have I not declined from thy law.

52 I remembered thy ^c judgments of old, O Lord, and have been comforted.

53 ^d Fear is come upon me for the wicked that forsake thy law.

54 Thy statutes have been my songs in the house of my ^e pilgrimage.

55 I have remembered thy name, O Lord, in the ^f night, and have kept thy law.

56 ^g This I had because I kept thy precepts.

C H E T H.

57 O Lord, that art my ^h portion, I have determined to keep thy words.

58 I made my supplication in thy presence with my whole heart: be merciful unto me according to thy promise.

59 I have considered my ⁱ ways, and turned my feet into thy testimonies.

60 I made haste and delayed not to keep thy commandments.

61 The bands of the wicked have ^j robbed me: but I have not forgotten thy law.

62 At midnight will I rise to give thanks unto thee, because of thy righteous judgments.

63 I am ^k a companion of all them that fear thee, and keep thy precepts.

64 The earth, O Lord, is full of thy mercy: ^l teach me thy statutes.

T E T H.

65 O Lord, thou hast dealt ^m graciously with thy servant according unto thy word.

66 Teach me good judgment and knowledge, for I have believed thy commandments.

67 Before I was ⁿ afflicted, I went astray: but now I keep thy word.

68 Thou art good and gracious: teach me thy statutes.

^a Though he feel God's hand still to lie upon him, yet he resteth on his promise, and comforteth himself therein.

^b Meaning, the wicked which contemn God's word, and tread his religion under foot.

^c That is, the examples whereby thou declarest thyself to be judge of the world.

^d That is, a vehement zeal to thy glory, and indignation against the wicked.

^e In the course of this life and sorrowful exile.

^f Even when others sleep.

^g That is, all these benefits.

^h I am persuaded that to keep thy law is an heritage and great gain for me.

ⁱ He sheweth, that none can embrace the word of God, except he consider his own imperfections and ways.

^j They have gone about to draw me into their company.

^k Not only in mutual consent, but also with aid and succour.

^m Having proved by experience that God was true in his promise, he desireth that he would increase in his knowledge and judgment.

ⁿ So Jeremiah saith, that before the Lord touched him, he was like a calf untamed, so that the use of God's rods is to call us home to God.

69 The proud have imagined a lye against me: but I will keep thy precepts with my whole heart.

70 ^o Their heart is fat as grease: but my delight is in thy law.

71 It is ^p good for me that I have been afflicted, that I may learn thy statutes.

72 The law of thy mouth is better unto me than thousands of gold and silver.

J O D.

73 Thine hands have ^q made me and fashioned me, give me understanding therefore, that I may learn thy commandments, 74 So they that ^r fear thee, seeing me, shall rejoice, because I have trusted in thy word.

75 I know, O Lord, that thy judgments are right, and that thou hast afflicted me ^s justly.

76 I pray thee, that thy mercy may comfort me, according to thy promise unto thy servant.

77 Let thy tender mercies come unto me, that I may ^t live: for thy law is my delight.

78 Let the proud be ashamed: for they have dealt wickedly and falsely with me: but I meditate in thy precepts.

79 Let such as fear thee ^u turn unto me, and they that know thy ^v testimonies.

80 Let mine heart be upright in thy statutes, that I be not ashamed.

C A P H.

81 My soul ^w fainteth for thy salvation: yet I wait for thy word.

82 Mine eyes fail for thy promise, saying, When wilt thou comfort me?

83 For I am like a ^x bottle in the smoak: yet do I not forget thy statutes.

84 How many are the ^y days of thy servant? When wilt thou execute judgment on them that persecute me?

85 The proud have ^z digged pits for me, which is not after thy law.

86 All thy commandments are true: they persecute me falsely: ^{aa} help me.

87 They had almost consumed ^{ab} me upon the earth: but I forsook not thy precepts.

88 Quicken me according to thy loving kindness: so shall I keep the testimony of thy mouth.

89 O

^o Their heart is indurate and hardened, puffed up with prosperity and vain estimation of themselves.

^p He confesseth, that before that he was chastened, he was rebellious, as man by nature is.

^q Because God leaveth not his work that he had begun, he desireth a new grace, that is, that he would continue his mercies.

^r When God sheweth his grace toward any, he testifieth to others that he faileth not them that trust in him.

^s He declareth, that when he felt not God's mercies, he was as dead.

^t That is, be comforted by mine example.

^u He sheweth, that there can be no true fear of God without the knowledge of his word.

^v Though my strength fail me, yet my soul groaneth, and sigheth, resting still in thy word.

^w Like a skin-bottle or bladder, that is parched in the smoak.

^x How long wilt thou afflict thy servant?

^y They have not only oppressed me violently, but also craftily conspired against me.

^z He assureth himself, that God will deliver his, and destroy such as unjustly persecute them.

^{aa} Finding no help in earth, he listeth up his eyes to heaven.

L A M E D.

89 O Lord, thy word endureth for ever in ^r heaven.

90 Thy truth is from generation to generation: thou hast laid the foundation of the earth, and it abideth.

91 They ^a continue even to this day by thine ordinances: for all are thy servants.

92 Except thy law had ^b been my delight, I should now have perished in mine affliction.

93 I will never forget thy precepts: for by them thou hast quickened me.

94 I am ^c thine, save me: for I have sought thy precepts.

95 The wicked have waited for me to destroy me: but I will consider thy testimonies.

96 I ^b have seen an end of all perfection: but thy commandment is exceeding large.

M E M.

97 Oh how love I thy law! ^e it is my meditation continually.

98 By thy commandments thou hast made me wiser than mine enemies: for they are ever with me.

99 I have had more ^d understanding than all my teachers: for thy testimonies are my meditation.

100 I understood more than the ancient, because I kept thy precepts.

101 I have refrained my feet from every evil way, that I might keep thy word.

102 I have not declined from thy judgments: for ^e thou didst teach me.

103 How sweet are thy promises unto my mouth! yea, more than honey unto my mouth.

104 By thy precepts I have gotten understanding: therefore I hate all the ways of falsehood.

N U N.

105 Thy word is a ^f lantern unto my feet, and a light unto my path.

106 I have ^g sworn, and will perform it, that I will keep thy righteous judgments.

107 I am very sore afflicted: O Lord, quicken me according to thy word.

108 O Lord, I beseech thee, accept the ^h free offerings of my mouth, and teach me thy judgments.

^r Because none should esteem God's word according to the changes of things in this world, he sheweth that it abideth in heaven, and therefore is immutable.

^a Seeing the earth and all creatures remain in that estate, wherein thou hast created them, much more thy truth remaineth constant and unchangeable.

^b He proveth by effect, that he is God's child, because he seeketh to understand his word.

^c There is nothing so perfect in earth but it hath an end, only God's word lasteth for ever.

^e He sheweth that we cannot love God's word except we exercise ourselves therein, and practise it.

^d Whosoever doth submit himself only to God's word, shall not only be safe against the practices of his enemies, but also learn more wisdom than they that profess it, and are men of experience.

^e So then of ourselves we can do nothing, but when God doth inwardly instruct us with his Spirit, we feel his graces sweeter than honey.

^f Of ourselves we are but darkness and cannot see, except we be lightened with God's word.

^g So all the faithful ought to bind themselves to God by a solemn oath and promise, to stir up their zeal to embrace God's word.

^h That is, my prayers and thanksgiving, which sacrifice Hosea calleth, the calves of the lips, Hosea 14. 3.

109 My ⁱ soul is continually in mine hand: yet do I not forget thy law.

110 The wicked have laid a snare for me: but I swerved not from thy precepts.

111 Thy testimonies have I taken as an ^k heritage for ever: for they are the joy of mine heart.

112 I have applied mine heart to fulfil thy statutes alway, even to the end.

S A M E C H.

113 I hate ^l vain inventions: but thy law do I love.

114 Thou art my refuge and shield, and I trust in thy word.

115 ^m Away from me, ye wicked: for I will keep the commandments of my God.

116 Stablish me according to thy promise, that I may live, and disappoint me not of mine hope.

117 ⁿ Stay thou me, and I shall be safe, and I will delight continually in thy statutes.

118 Thou hast trodden down all them that depart from thy statutes: for their ^o deceit is vain.

119 Thou hast taken away all the wicked of the earth like ^p dross: therefore I love thy testimonies.

120 My flesh ^q trembleth for fear of thee, and I am afraid of thy judgments.

A I N.

121 I have executed judgment and justice: leave me not to mine oppressors.

122 ^r Answer for thy servant in that which is good, and let not the proud oppress me.

123 Mine eyes have failed in waiting for thy salvation, and for thy just promise.

124 Deal with thy ^s servant according to thy mercy, and teach me thy statutes.

125 I am thy servant: grant me therefore understanding, that I may know thy testimonies.

126 It is ^t time for thee, Lord, to work: for they have destroyed thy law.

127 Therefore love I thy commandments above gold, yea above most fine gold.

128 Therefore I esteem all thy precepts most just, and hate all false ^u ways.

ⁱ That is, I am in continual danger of my life.

^k I esteemed no worldly things, but made thy word mine inheritance.

^l Whosoever will embrace God's word aright, must abhor all fancies and imaginations both of himself and others.

^m And hinder me not to keep the law of the Lord.

ⁿ He desireth God's continual assistance, lest he should faint in this race which he had begun.

^o The crafty practices of them that contemn thy law, shall be brought to nought.

^p Which infected thy people, as dross doth the metal.

^q Thy judgments do not only teach me obedience, but cause me to fear, considering mine own weakness, which fear causeth repentance.

^r Put thyself between mine enemies and me, as if thou were my pledge.

^s He boasteth that he is God's servant, but hereby putteth God in mind, that as he made him by his grace, so he would continue his favour toward him.

^t The prophet sheweth, that when the wicked have brought all things to confusion, and God's word to utter contempt, then it is God's time to help and send remedy.

^u That is, whatsoever dissenteth from the purity of thy word.

P E.

129 Thy testimonies are wonderful: therefore doth my soul keep them.

130 The entrance into thy ^s words sheweth light, and giveth understanding to the simple.

131 I opened my mouth and ^r panted, because I loved thy commandments.

132 Look upon me and be merciful unto me, as thou usest to do unto those that love thy name.

133 Direct my steps in thy word, and let none iniquity have dominion over me.

134 Deliver me from the oppression of men, and I will keep thy precepts.

135 Shew the light of thy countenance upon thy servant, and teach me thy statutes.

136 Mine eyes ^e gush out with rivers of water, because they keep not thy law.

T S A D D I.

137 Righteous art thou, O Lord, and just are thy judgments.

138 Thou hast commanded ^a justice by thy testimonies and truth especially.

139 ^e My zeal hath even consumed me: because mine enemies have forgotten thy words.

140 Thy word is proved ^b most pure, and thy servant loveth it.

141 I am ^c small and despised: yet do I not forget thy precepts.

142 Thy righteousness is an everlasting righteousness, and thy law is truth.

143 Trouble and anguish are come upon me: yet are thy commandments my delight.

144 The righteousness of thy testimonies is everlasting: grant me understanding, and I shall ^d live.

K O P H.

145 I have ^e cried with my whole heart: hear me, O Lord, and I will keep thy statutes.

146 I called upon thee: save me, and I will keep thy testimonies.

147 I prevented the morning light, and cried: for I waited on thy word.

148 Mine eyes ^f prevent the night watches, to meditate in thy word.

149 Hear my voice according to thy loving kindness: O Lord, quicken me according to thy ^g judgment.

^e Containing, high and secret mysteries, so that I am moved with admiration and reverence.

^s The simple idiots that submit themselves to God, have their eyes opened, and their minds illuminated so soon as they begin to read God's word.

^r My zeal toward thy word was so great.

^b He sheweth what ought to be the zeal of God's children, when they see his word contemned.

^c We cannot confess God to be righteous, except we live uprightly and truly, as he hath commanded.

^d Gold hath need to be fined, but thy word is perfection itself.

^e This is the true trial, to praise God in adversity.

^f So that the life of man without the knowledge of God is death.

^g He sheweth that all his affections and whole heart were bent to God-ward for to have help in dangers.

^h He was more earnest in the study of God's word, than they that kept the watch were in their charge.

ⁱ He sheweth the nature of the wicked to be, to persecute against their conscience.

^j His faith is grounded upon God's word, that he would ever be at hand when his children be oppressed.

150 They draw near that follow after ^k malice, and are far from thy law.

151 Thou art near, O Lord: for all thy commandments are true.

152 I have known long since ^h by thy testimonies, that thou hast established them for ever.

R E S H.

153 Behold mine affliction, and deliver me: for I have not forgotten thy law.

154 Plead my cause, and deliver me: quicken me according to thy ⁱ word.

155 Salvation is far from the wicked, because they seek not thy statutes.

156 Great are thy tender mercies, O Lord: quicken me according to thy ^k judgments.

157 My persecutors and my oppressors are many: yet do I not swerve from thy testimonies.

158 I saw the transgressors and was ^l grieved, because they kept not thy word.

159 Consider, O Lord, how I ^m love thy precepts: quicken me according to thy loving kindness.

160 The ⁿ beginning of thy word is truth, and all the judgments of thy righteousness endure for ever.

S C H I N.

161 Princes have ^o persecuted me without cause, but mine heart stood in awe of thy words.

162 I rejoice at thy word, as one that findeth a great spoil.

163 I hate falsehood and abhor it, but thy law do I love.

164 ^p Seven times a day do I praise thee, because of thy righteous judgments.

165 They ^q that love thy law, shall have great prosperity, and they shall have no hurt.

166 Lord, I have ^r trusted in thy salvation, and have done thy commandments.

167 My soul hath kept thy testimonies: for I love them exceedingly.

168 I have kept thy precepts and thy testimonies: ^s for all my ways are before thee.

ⁱ For without God's promise there is no hope of deliverance.

^k According to thy promise made in thy law, which because the wicked lack, they can have no hope of salvation.

^h My zeal consumed me, when I saw their malice and contempt of thy glory.

^b It is a sure sign of our adoption, when we love the law of God.

^c Since thou first promisedst, even to the end, all thy sayings are true.

^e The threatenings and persecutions of princes could not cause me to shrink to confess thee, whom I more fear than men.

^s That is often and sundry times.

^r For their conscience assureth them, that they please thee, whereas they that love not thee have the contrary.

^l He sheweth that we must first have faith before we can work and please God.

^m I had no respect unto men, but set thee always before mine eyes as the judge of my doings.

ⁿ As thou hast promised to be the schoolmaster unto all them that depend upon thee.

171 My lips shall speak praise, when thou hast taught me thy statutes.

172 My tongue shall intreat of thy word : for all thy commandments are righteous.

173 Let thine hand help me : for I have chosen thy precepts.

174 I have longed for thy salvation, O Lord, and thy law is my delight.

175 Let my soul live, and it shall praise thee, and thy judgments shall help me.

176 I have gone astray like a lost sheep : seek thy servant, for I do not forget thy commandments.

1 The prayer of David, being vexed by the false reports of Saul's flatterers : 5 And therefore he lamenteth his long abode among those infidels, 7 who were given to all kind of wickedness and contention.

¶ A Song of degrees.

I Called unto the Lord in my trouble, and he heard me.

2 Deliver my soul, O Lord, from lying lips, and from a deceitful tongue.

3 What doth thy deceitful tongue bring unto thee ? or what doth it avail thee ?

4 It is as the sharp arrows of a mighty man, and as the coals of juniper.

5 Wo is to me that I remain in Meshech, and dwell in the tents of Kedar.

6 My soul hath too long dwelt with him that hateth peace.

7 I seek peace, and when I speak thereof, they are bent to war.

1 This Psalm teacheth that the faithful ought only to look for help at God, 7 who only doth maintain, preserve, and prosper his church.

¶ A Song of degrees.

I WILL lift up mine eyes † unto the mountains, from whence mine help shall come.

2 Mine help cometh from the Lord, which hath made the heaven and the earth.

3 He will not suffer thy foot to slip : for he that keepeth thee will not slumber.

4 Behold, he that keepeth Israel will neither slumber nor sleep.

† Or, above the mountains, meaning, that there is nothing to high in this world where it be can trust, but only in God.

^u The word signifieth, to pour forth continually.

^x All his prayer and desire is, to profit in the word of God.

^y That is, thy provident care over me, and wherewith thou wilt judge mine enemies.

^z Being chased to and fro by mine enemies, and having no place to rest in.

^a That is, of lifting up the tune, and rising in singing.

^b Albeit the children of God ought to rejoice when they suffer for righteousness sake, yet it is a great grief to the flesh to bear evil for well doing.

^c He assured himself that God would turn their craft to their own destruction.

^d He sheweth, that there is nothing so sharp to pierce, nor so hot to set on fire as a slanderous tongue.

^e These were people of Arabia, which came of Japhet, Gen. 20. 2.

^f That is, of the Ishmaelites.

^g He declareth what he meaneth by Meshech and Kedar : to wit, the Israelites which had degenerated from their godly fathers, and hated and contended against the faithful.

^h He accuseth man's ingratitude, which cannot depend on God's power.

ⁱ He sheweth that God's providence not only watcheth over his church in general, but also over every member thereof.

5 The Lord is thy keeper : the Lord is thy shadow at thy right hand.

6 The sun shall not smite thee by day, nor the moon by night.

7 The Lord shall preserve thee from all evil : he shall keep thy soul.

3 Jerusalem is builded as a city, that is compact together in itself :

4 Whereunto the tribes, even the tribes of the Lord go up according to the testimony to Israel, to praise the name of the Lord.

5 For there are thrones set for judgment, even the thrones of the house of David.

6 Pray for the peace of Jerusalem : let them prosper that love thee.

¶ A Song of degrees.

I LIFT up mine eyes to thee that dwellest in the heavens.

2 Behold, as the eyes of servants look unto the hand of their masters, and as the eyes of a maiden unto the hand of her mistress : so our eyes wait upon the Lord our God until he have mercy upon us.

^q In whose house God placed the throne of justice, and made it a figure of Christ's kingdom.

^r The favour of God prosper thee within and without.

^s Not only for mine own sake, but for all the faithful.

^t He compareth the condition of the godly to servants that are destitute of all help, assuring, that when all other helps fail, God is ever at hand and like himself.

^u He declareth, that when the faithful are so full that they can no more endure the oppressions and scornings of the wicked, there is always help above, if with hungry desires they call for it.

1 The people of God escaping a great peril, do acknowledge themselves to be delivered, not by their own force, but by the power of God. 4 They declare the greatness of the peril, 6 and praise the name of God.

¶ A Song of degrees, or Psalm of David.

IF the Lord had not^r been on our side, (may Israel now say)

2 If the Lord had not been on our side, when men rose up against us,

4 Then the^r waters had drowned us, and the stream had gone over our soul.

5 Then had the swelling waters gone over our soul.

6 Praised be the Lord, which hath not given us as a prey unto their teeth.

2 As the mountains are about Jerusalem: so is the Lord about his people from henceforth and for ever.

3 For the^r rod of the wicked shall not rest on the lot of the righteous, lest the righteous put forth their hand unto wickedness.

1 This Psalm was made after the return of the people from Babylon, and sheweth that the means of their deliverance was wonderful after the seventy years of captivity forespoken by Jeremy, chap. 25. 12. and 29. 10.

¶ A Song of degrees, or Psalm of David.

WHEN the Lord brought again the captivity of Zion, we were like them that dream.

2 Then was our mouth^r filled with laughter and our tongue with joy: then said they among the^r heathen, The Lord hath done great things for them.

3 The Lord hath done great things for us, whereof we rejoice.

4 O Lord, bring again our captivity, as the^r rivers in the south.

P S A L M CXXVII.

1 He sheweth that the whole estate of the world, both domestical and political, standeth by God's mere providence and blessing, 3 and that to have children well nurtured, is an especial grace and gift of God.

¶ A Song of degrees, or Psalm of Solomon.

EXCEPT the Lord^r build the house, they labour in vain that build it: except the Lord keep the^r city, the keeper watcheth in vain.

2 It is in vain for^r you to rise early, and to lie down late, and eat the bread^m of sorrow: but he will surely give^r rest to his beloved.

3 Behold, children are the inheritance of the Lord, and the fruit of the womb his reward.

4 As are the arrows in the hand of the strong man: so are the^r children of youth.

P S A L M CXXVIII.

1 He sheweth that blessedness appertaineth not to all universally, but to them only that fear the Lord, and walk in his ways.

¶ A Song of degrees.

Blessed is every one that feareth the Lord, and walketh in his^r ways.

2 When thou eatest the labours of thine hands,

3 It is no more impossible to God to deliver his people, than to cause the rivers to run in the wilderness and barren places.

4 That is, seed, which was scarce and dear: meaning, that they which trusted in God's promise to return, had their desire.

5 That is, govern and dispose all things pertaining to the family.

6 The public estate of the commonwealth.

7 Which watch and ward, and are also magistrates and rulers of the city.

8 Either that which is gotten by hard labour, or eaten with grief of mind.

9 Not exempting them from labour, but making their labours comfortable, and as it were a rest.

10 That is, endued with strength and virtues from God, for these are signs of God's blessings, and not the number.

11 Such children shall be able to stop their adversaries' mouths, when their godly life is maliciously accused before judges.

12 God approveth not our life, except it be reformed according to his word.

1 He sheweth that God was ready to help at need, and that there was no other way to be saved, but by his only means.

2 So unable were we to resist.

3 He useth most proper similitudes to express the great danger that the church was in, and out of the which God miraculously delivered them.

4 For the wicked did not only furiously rage against the faithful, but craftily imagined to destroy them.

5 Though the world be subject to mutations, yet the people of God shall stand sure, and be defended by God's providence.

6 Though God suffer his to be under the cross, lest they should embrace wickedness, yet this cross shall not so rest upon them that it should drive them from hope.

7 He desireth God to purge his church from hypocrites, and such as have no zeal of the truth.

8 Their deliverance was as a thing incredible, and therefore took away all excuse of ingratitude.

9 He sheweth how the godly ought to rejoice, when God gathereth his church, or delivereth it.

10 If the infidels confess God's wonderful works, the faithful can never shew themselves sufficiently thankful.

hands, thou shalt be blessed, and it shall be well with thee.

3 Thy wife shall be as the fruitful vine on the sides of thine house, and thy children like the olive-plants round about thy table.

4 Lo, for surely thus shall the man be blessed that feareth the Lord.

5 The Lord out of Zion shall bless thee, and thou shalt see the wealth of Jerusalem all the days of thy life.

6 Yea, thou shalt see thy children's children, and peace upon Israel.

P S A L M CXXIX.

1 He admonisheth the church to rejoice though it be afflicted: 4 For by the righteous Lord it shall be delivered, 6 and the enemies, for all their glorious shew, shall suddenly be destroyed.

¶ A Song of degrees.

THEY have oftentimes afflicted me from my youth (may Israel now say.)

2 They have oftentimes afflicted me from my youth: but they could not prevail against me.

3 The plowers plowed upon my back, and made long furrows.

4 But the righteous Lord hath cut the cords of the wicked.

5 They that hate Zion shall be all ashamed and turn backward.

6 They shall be as the grass on the house-tops, which withereth afore it cometh forth:

7 Whereof the mower filleth not his hand, neither the gleaner his lap:

8 Neither they, which go by, say, The blessing of the Lord be upon you, or, We bless you in the name of the Lord.

P S A L M CXXX.

1 The people of God from their bottomless misery do cry unto God, and are heard. 3 They confess their sins, and flee unto God's mercy.

¶ A Song of degrees.

OUT of the deep places have I called unto thee, O Lord.

2 Lord, hear my voice: let thine ears attend to the voice of my prayers.

3 If thou, O Lord, straightly markest iniquities, O Lord, who shall stand?

^r The world esteemeth them happy, which live in wealth and idleness, but the Holy Ghost approveth them best that live of the mean profit of their labours.

^s Because God's favour appeareth in no outward thing, more than in increase of children, he promiseth to enrich the faithful with this gift.

^t Because of the spiritual blessing which God hath made to his church, these temporal things shall be granted.

^u For except God blessed his church publicly, this private blessing were nothing.

^v The church now afflicted ought to remember, how her condition hath ever been such from the beginning, to be molested most grievously by the wicked: yet in time it hath ever been delivered.

^x Because God is righteous, he cannot but plague his adversaries, and deliver his, as oxen out of the plough.

^y The enemies that lift themselves most high, and as it were approach near to the sun, are consumed with heat of God's wrath, because they are not grounded in godly humility.

^z That is, the wicked shall perish, and none shall pass for them.

^a Being in great distress and sorrow.

^b He declareth, that we cannot be just before God, but by forgiveness of sins.

4 But mercy is with thee, that thou mayest be feared.

5 I have waited on the Lord: my soul hath waited, and I have trusted in his word.

6 My soul waiteth on the Lord more than the morning watch watcheth for the morning.

7 Let Israel wait on the Lord: for with the Lord is mercy, and with him is great redemption.

8 And he shall redeem Israel from all his iniquities.

1 David charged with ambition and greedy desire to reign, protesteth his humility and modesty before God, and teacheth all men what they should do.

¶ A Song of degrees, or Psalm of David.

LORD, mine heart is not haughty, neither are mine eyes lofty, neither have I walked in great matters, and hid from me.

1 The faithful, grounding on God's promise made unto David, desire that he would establish the same, both as touching his posterity, and the building of the temple, to pray there as was fore-spoken, Deut. 12. 5.

¶ A Song of degrees.

LORD, remember David with all his affliction:

2 Who swore unto the Lord, and vowed unto the mighty God of Jacob, saying,

3 I will not enter into the tabernacle of mine house, nor come upon my pallet or bed,

4 Nor suffer mine eyes to sleep, nor mine eye-lids to slumber,

5 Until I find out a place for the Lord, an habitation for the mighty God of Jacob.

6 Lo, we heard of it in Ephrath, and found it in the fields of the forest.

7 We will enter into his tabernacles, and worship before his footstool.

^c Because of nature thou art merciful: therefore the faithful reverence thee.

^d He sheweth to whom the mercy of God doth appertain, to Israel: that is, to the church, and not to the reprobate.

^e He setteth forth his great humility, as an example to all rulers and governors.

^f Which pass the measure and limits of his vocation.

^g He was void of ambition and wicked desires.

^h That is, with how great difficulty he came to the kingdom, and with how great zeal and care he went about to build thy temple.

ⁱ Because the chief charge of the king was to set forth God's glory, he sheweth that he could take no rest, neither would go about any worldly thing, were it never so necessary, before he had executed his office.

^k That is, the ark, which was a sign of God's presence.

^l The common report was, that the ark should remain in Ephrath: that is, in Bethlehem, a plentiful place: but after we perceived that thou wouldst place it in Jerusalem, which was barren as a forest, and compassed about only with hills.

^m That is, Jerusalem, because that afterward his ark should remove to no other place.

ⁿ Let the effect of thy grace both appear in the priests, and in the people.

10 For thy ^o servant David's sake, refuse not the face of thine anointed.

11 The Lord hath sworn in truth unto David, and he will not shrink from it, saying, Of the fruit of thy body will I set upon thy throne.

12 If thy sons keep my covenant, and my testimonies, that I shall teach them, their sons also shall sit upon thy throne for ^r ever.

13 For the Lord hath chosen Zion, and loved to dwell in it, saying,

This Psalm was composed when the kingdom of David flourished. 1 Wherein he describeth the wonderful providence of God, as well in governing man, as in preserving all the rest of his creatures. 17 He praiseth God for his justice and mercy, 18 but especially for his loving kindness toward those that call upon him, that fear him, and love him, 21 for the which he promiseth to praise him for ever.

¶ A Psalm of David, of praise.

6 Which made ^t heaven and earth, the sea, and all that therein is: which keepeth his fidelity for ever:

7 Which executeth justice ^u for the oppressed: which giveth bread to the hungry: the Lord looseth the prisoners.

8 The Lord giveth sight to the blind: the Lord raiseth up the crooked: the Lord ^v loveth the righteous.

9 The Lord keepeth the ^w strangers: he relieveth the fatherless and widow: but he overthroweth the way of the wicked.

10 The Lord shall ^x reign for ever: O Zion, thy God endureth from generation to generation. Praise ye the Lord.

wicked, and mercifully examineth his by the cross, giving them strength, and delivering them.

ⁿ Which only appertaineth to the faithful: and this virtue is contrary to infidelity, doubting, impatience, and murmuring.

^o For they will ask or wish for nothing, but according to his will, 1 John 5. 14.

^p That is, all men shall be bound to praise him.

^q He stirreth up himself and all his affections to praise God.

^r That God may have the whole praise: wherein he forbiddeth all vain confidence, shewing that of nature we are more inclined to put our trust in creatures, than in God the Creator.

^s As their vain opinions, whereby they flattered themselves, and so imagined wicked enterprises.

^t He encourageth the godly to trust only in the Lord, both for that his power is able to deliver them from all dangers, and for his promise sake his will is most ready to do it.

^u Whose faith and patience for a while he trieth; but at length he punisheth the adversaries, that he may be known to be judge of the world.

^v Though he visit them by affliction, hunger, imprisonment, and such like, yet his fatherly love and pity never faileth them, yea rather to his these are signs of his love.

^w Meaning, all them that are destitute of worldly means and succour.

^x He assureth the church that God reigneth for ever, for the preservation of the same.

P S A L M CXLVII.

1 The prophet praiseth the bounty, wisdom, power, justice, and providence of God upon all his creatures, 2 but specially upon his church, which he gathereth together after their dispersion, 19 declaring his word and judgments so unto them, as he hath done to no other people.

PRAISE ye the Lord, for it is good to sing unto our God: for it is a ^a pleasant thing, and praise is comely.

² The Lord doth build up ^b Jerusalem, and gather together the dispersed of Israel.

³ He healeth those that are ^c broken in heart, and bindeth up their sores.

⁴ He ^d counteth the number of the stars, and calleth them all by their names.

⁵ Great is our Lord, and great is his power: his wisdom is infinite.

⁶ The Lord relieveth the meek, and abaseth the wicked to the ^e ground.

⁷ Sing unto the Lord with praise: sing upon the harp unto our God,

⁸ Which ^f covereth the heaven with clouds, and prepareth rain for the earth, and maketh the grass to grow upon the mountains:

⁹ Which giveth to beasts their food, and to the young ravens that ^g cry.

¹⁰ He hath no pleasure in the ^h strength of an horse, neither delighteth he in the legs of man.

¹¹ But the Lord delighteth in them that fear him, and attend upon his mercy.

¹² Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem: praise thy God, O Zion.

¹³ For he hath made the bars of thy gates ⁱ strong, and hath blessed thy children within thee.

¹⁴ He setteth peace in thy borders, and satisfieth thee with the ^j flour of wheat.

¹⁵ He sendeth forth his ^k commandment upon earth, and his word runneth very ^l swiftly.

¹⁶ He giveth snow like wool, and scattereth the hoary frost like ashes.

¹⁷ He casteth forth his ice like morsels: who can abide the cold thereof?

¹⁸ He sendeth his word and melteth them: he causeth his wind to blow, and the waters flow.

^a He sheweth wherein we ought to exercise ourselves continually, and to take our pastime: to wit, in praising God.

^b Because the Lord is the founder of the church, it cannot be destroyed, though the members thereof be dispersed, and seem, as it were, for a time to be cut off.

^c With affliction, or sorrow for sin.

^d Though it seem to man incredible, that God should assemble his church, being so dispersed: yet nothing can be too hard to him that can number and name all the stars.

^e For the more high that the wicked climb, the greater is their fall in the end.

^f He sheweth the examples of God's mighty power, goodness, and wisdom, that we can never want mozt just occasion to praise God.

^g For their crying is as it were a confession of their need, which cannot be relieved, but by God only: then if God shew himself mindful of the most contemptible fowls, can he suffer them to die with famine, whom he hath assured of life everlasting?

^h Though to use lawful means is both profitable and pleaseth God, yet to put our trust in them is to defraud God of his honour.

ⁱ He doth not only furnish his church with all things necessary, but preserveth also the same, and maketh it strong against all outward force.

^j His secret working in all creatures is as a commandment to keep them in order, and to give them moving and force.

^k For immediately and without resisting all things obe,

¹⁹ He sheweth his ^m word unto Jacob, his statutes and his judgments unto Israel.

²⁰ He hath not dealt so with every nation, neither have they ⁿ known his judgments. Praise ye the Lord.

P S A L M CXLVIII.

1 He provoketh all creatures to praise the Lord in heaven and earth, and in all places, 14 specially his church, for the power that he hath given to the same, after that he hath chosen them, and joined them unto him.

¶ Praise ye the Lord.

PRAISE ye the Lord from the heaven: praise ye him in the high places.

² Praise ye him, all ye ^o his angels: praise him, all his army.

³ Praise ye him, ^p sun and moon: praise ye him, all bright stars.

⁴ Praise ye him, ^q heavens of heavens, and ^r waters that be above the heavens.

⁵ Let them praise the name of the Lord: for he commanded, and they were created,

⁶ And he hath established them for ever and ever: he hath made an ordinance, which shall not pass.

⁷ Praise ye the Lord from the earth, ye ^s dragons and all depths:

⁸ ^t Fire and hail, snow and vapours, stormy wind, which execute his word:

⁹ Mountains and all hills, fruitful trees and all cedars:

¹⁰ Beasts and all cattle, creeping things and feathered fowls:

¹¹ ^u Kings of the earth and all people, princes and all judges of the world.

¹² Young men and maidens, also old men and children:

¹³ Let them praise the name of the Lord: for his name only is to be exalted, and his praise above the earth and the heavens.

¹⁴ For he hath exalted the ^v horn of his people, which is a praise for all his saints, even for the ^w children of Israel, a people that is near unto him. Praise ye the Lord.

PSALM

him.

^m As before he called God's secret working in all his creatures, his word; so he meaneth here by his word, the doctrine of life everlasting, which he hath left to his church, as a most precious treasure.

ⁿ The cause of this difference is God's free mercy, which hath elected his in his Son Christ Jesus to salvation: and his just judgment, whereby he hath appointed the reprobate to eternal damnation.

^o Because they are members of the same body, he setteth them before our eyes, which are most willing hereunto, and and by their prompt obedience teach us to do our duty.

^p In that God's glory shineth in these insensible creatures, this their beauty is as a continual praising of God.

^q Not that there are divers heavens, but because of the spheres and of the situation of the fixed stars and planets, he comprehendeth by this word the whole heaven.

^r That is, the rain, which is in the middle region of the air, which he here comprehendeth under the name of the heavens.

^s Meaning the great and monstrous fishes, as whales, and such like.

^t Which come not by chance or fortune, but by God's appointed ordinance.

^u For the greater gifts that any hath received, and the more high that one is preferred, the more bound is he to praise God for the same: but neither high nor low condition or degree can be exempted from this duty.

^v That is, the dignity, power, and glory of his church.

^w By reason of his covenant made with Abraham.

P S A L M CXLIX.

1 An exhortation to the church to praise the Lord, for his victory and conquest that he giveth his saints against all man's power.

¶ Praise ye the Lord.

SING ye unto the Lord a new song: let his praise be heard in the congregation of saints.

2 Let Israel rejoice in him that made him, and let the children of Zion rejoice in their king.

3 Let them praise his name with the flute: let them sing praises unto him with the timbrel and harp.

4 For the Lord hath pleasure in his people: he will make the meek glorious by deliverance.

5 Let the saints be joyful with glory: let them sing loud upon their beds.

6 Let the high acts of God be in their mouth, and a two-edged sword in their hands,

7 To execute vengeance upon the heathen, and corrections among the people:

^y For his rare and manifold benefits bestowed on his church.

^z In that that they were preferred before all other nations, it was as a new creation, and therefore, Psalm 95. 7. they were called the sheep of God's hands.

^a For God, as he is the Creator of the soul and body, so will he that both two serve him, and that his people be continually subject unto him, as to their most lawful King.

^b He alludeth to that continual rest and quietness which they should have, if they would suffer God to rule them.

^c This is chiefly accomplished in the kingdom of Christ, when God's people for just causes execute God's judgments against his enemies: and it giveth no liberty to any to revenge their private injuries.

^d Not only the people, but the kings that were their ene-

8 To bind their kings in chains, and their nobles with fetters of iron,

9 That they may execute upon them the judgment that is written: this honour shall be to all his saints. Praise ye the Lord.

P S A L M CL.

1 An exhortation to praise the Lord without ceasing, by all manner of ways, for all his mighty and wonderful works.

¶ Praise ye the Lord.

PRAISE ye God in his sanctuary: praise ye him in the firmament of his power.

2 Praise ye him in his mighty acts: praise ye him according to his excellent greatness.

3 Praise ye him in the sound of the trumpet: praise ye him upon the viol and the harp.

4 Praise ye him with timbrel and flute: praise ye him with virginals and organs.

5 Praise ye him with sounding cymbals: praise ye him with high sounding cymbals.

6 Let every thing that hath breath praise the Lord. Praise ye the Lord.

mies, should be destroyed.

^e Hereby God bindeth the hands and minds of all his, to enterprise no further than he appointeth.

^f That is, in the heavens.

^g For his wonderful power appeareth in the firmament, which in Hebrew is called a stretching out, or spreading abroad, wherein the mighty work of God shineth.

^h Exhorting the people only to rejoice in praising God, he maketh mention of those instruments which by God's commandment were appointed in the old law, but under Christ the use thereof is abolished in the church.

ⁱ He sheweth, that all the order of nature is bound to this duty, and much more God's children, who ought never to cease to praise him, till they be gathered into that kingdom which he hath prepared for his, where they shall sing everlasting praise.

The * PROVERBS of SOLOMON.

THE ARGUMENT.

The wonderful love of God toward his church is declared in this book: forasmuch as the sum and effect of the whole scripture is here set forth in these brief sentences, which partly contain doctrine, and partly manners, and also exhortations to both: whereof the nine first chapters are as a preface full of grave sentences and deep mysteries, to allure the hearts of men to the diligent reading of the parables that follow: which are left as a most precious jewel to the church, of those three thousand parables mentioned, 1 Kings 4. 32. and were gathered and committed to writing by Solomon's servants, and indited by him.

* This word Proverb, or Parable, signifieth a grave and notable sentence, worthy to be kept in memory: and is sometimes taken in the evil part for a mock or scold.

CHAP. I.

1 The power and use of the word of God. 7 Of the fear of God, and knowledge of his word. 10 We may not consent to the enticings of sinners. 20 Wisdom complaineth that she is contemned. 24 The punishment of them that contemn her.

THE Parables of Solomon the son of David, king of Israel.

2 To know wisdom and instruction, to understand the words of knowledge,

3 To receive instruction to do wisely, by justice and judgment and equity,

4 To give unto the simple, sharpness of wit, and to the child knowledge and discretion.

5 A wise man shall hear, and increase in learning, and a man of understanding shall attain unto wise counsels,

6 To understand a parable, and the interpretation, the words of the wise, and their dark sayings.

7 ¶ * The fear of the Lord is the beginning of knowledge: but fools despise wisdom and instruction.

6 Y

8 My

^a That is, what we ought to know and follow, and what we ought to refuse.

^b Meaning, the word of God, wherein is the only true knowledge.

^c To learn to submit ourselves to the correction of those that are wise.

^d By living justly, and rendering to every man that which appertaineth unto him.

^e To such as have no discretion to rule themselves

^f As he sheweth that these parables containing the effect of religion, as touching manners and doctrine, do appertain to the simple people: so doth he declare that the same is also necessary for them that are wise and learned.

8 My son, hear thy father's instruction, and forsake not thy mother's teaching.

9 For they shall be a comely ornament unto thine head, and as chains for thy neck.

10 ¶ My son, if sinners do entice thee, consent thou not.

11 If they say, Come with us, we will lay wait for blood, and lie privily for the innocent without a cause:

12 We will swallow them up alive like a grave even whole, as those that go down into the pit.

13 We shall find also precious riches, and fill our houses with spoil.

14 Cast in thy lot among us: we will all have one purse:

15 My son, walk not thou in the way with them: refrain thy foot from their path.

16 For their feet run to evil, and make haste to shed blood.

17 Certainly, as without cause the net is spread before the eyes of all that have wing:

18 So they lay wait for blood, and lie privily for their lives.

19 Such are the ways of every one that is greedy of gain: he would take away the life of the owners thereof.

20 ¶ Wisdom crieth without: she uttereth her voice in the streets.

21 She calleth in the high street, among the press in the entering of the gates, and uttereth her words in the city, saying,

22 O ye foolish, how long will ye love foolishness? and the scornful take their pleasure in scorning? and the fools hate knowledge?

23 (Turn you at my correction: lo, I will pour out my mind unto you, and make you understand my words)

24 Because I have called, and ye refused: I have stretched out mine hand, and none would regard,

25 But ye have despised all my counsel, and would none of my correction,

26 I will also laugh at your destruction, and mock when your fear cometh:

27 When your fear cometh like sudden desolation, and your destruction shall come like a whirlwind: when affliction and anguish shall come upon you:

28 Then shall they call upon me, but I will not answer: they shall seek me early, but they shall not find me.

29 Because they hated knowledge, and did not chuse the fear of the Lord.

30 They would none of my counsel, but despised all my correction.

31 Therefore shall they eat of the fruit of their own way, and be filled with their own devices.

32 For ease slayeth the foolish, and the prosperity of fools destroyeth them.

33 But he that obeyeth me, shall dwell safely, and be quiet from fear of evil.

C H A P. II.

1 Wisdom exhorteth to obey her. 5 She teacheth the fear of God. 6 She is given of God. 10 She preserveth from wickedness.

MY son, if thou wilt receive my words, and hide my commandments within thee,

2 And cause thine ears to hearken unto wisdom, and incline thine heart to understanding,

3 (For if thou callest after knowledge, and criest for understanding:

4 If thou seekest her as silver, and searchest for her as for treasures,

5 Then shalt thou understand the fear of the Lord, and find the knowledge of God.

6 For the Lord giveth wisdom, out of his mouth cometh knowledge and understanding.

7 He preserveth the state of the righteous: 1 Or, which be is a shield to them that walk uprightly,

8 That they may keep the ways of judgment: and he preserveth the way of his saints)

9 Then shalt thou understand righteousness, and judgment, and equity, and every good path.

10 ¶ When wisdom entereth into thine heart, and knowledge delighteth thy soul,

11 Then shall counsel preserve thee, and understanding shall keep thee,

12 And deliver thee from the evil way, and from the man that speaketh froward things,

13 And from them that leave the ways of righteousness to walk in the ways of darkness:

14 Which rejoice in doing evil, and delight in the frowardness of the wicked, 15 Whose ways are crooked, and they are lewd in their paths.

16 And it shall deliver thee from the strange woman, even from the stranger, which flattereth with her words.

17 Which

⁶ He speaketh this in the name of God, which is the universal Father of all creatures; or in the name of the pastor of the church, who is as a father.

⁷ That is, of the church, wherein the faithful are begotten by the incorruptible seed of God's word.

⁸ To wit, the wicked which have not the fear of God.

⁹ He speaketh not only of the shedding of blood with hand, but of all crafty practices which tend to the detriment of our neighbour.

¹⁰ As the grave is never satiate, so the avarice of the wicked and their cruelty hath no end.

¹¹ He sheweth whereby the wicked are allured to join together, because they have every one part of the spoil of the innocent.

¹² That is, having nothing at all to do with them.

¹³ He sheweth that there is no cause to move these wicked to spoil the innocent, but their avarice and cruelty.

¹⁴ Whereby he concludeth that the covetous man is a murderer.

¹⁵ This wisdom is the eternal word of God.

¹⁶ So that none can pretend ignorance.

¹⁷ Wisdom reproveth three kinds of men, the foolish or simple, which are of ignorance; and the mockers, that cannot suffer to be taught; and the fools, which are drowned in worldly lusts, and hate the knowledge of godliness.

¹⁸ This is spoken according to our capacity, signifying, that the wicked which mock and jest at God's word, shall have the just reward of their mocking.

¹⁹ That is, your destruction, which thing you feared.

²⁰ Because they sought not with an affection to God, but for ease of their own grief.

²¹ Shewing that without faith and obedience we cannot call upon God aright.

²² They shall feel what commodity their wicked life shall give them.

²³ That is, the prosperity, and sensuality wherein they delight.

²⁴ That is, keep them in thine heart.

²⁵ If thou give thyself to the true knowledge of God without hypocrisy.

²⁶ Meaning, that we must seek the knowledge of God with care and diligence.

²⁷ Shewing, that no labour must be spared.

²⁸ This (saith he) is the true wisdom, to know and fear God.

²⁹ The word of God shall teach thee and counsel thee how to govern thyself.

³⁰ That is, the word of God, which is the only light, to follow their own fancies, which are darkness.

³¹ When they see any given to evil as they are.

³² Meaning, that wisdom which is the word of God, shall preserve us from all vices: naming this vice of whoredom, whereunto man is most prone.

17 Which forsaketh the ^k guide of her youth, and forgetteth the ^l covenant of her God.

18 Surely her ^m house tendeth to death, and her paths unto ⁿ the dead.

19 All they that go unto her, return not again, neither take they hold of the ways of life.

20 Therefore walk thou in the way of good men, and keep the ways of the righteous.

21 For the just shall dwell in the ^o land, and the upright men shall remain in it.

22 But the wicked shall be cut off from the earth, and the transgressors shall be rooted out of it.

C H A P. III.

1 The word of God giveth life. 5 Trust in God.
7 Fear him. 9 Honour him. 11 Suffer his correction. 22 To them that follow the word of God, all things shall succeed well.

3 Let not ^q mercy and truth forsake thee: bind them on thy ^r neck, and write them upon the table of ^s thine heart.

4 So shalt thou find favour and good understanding in the sight of God and man.

5 ¶ Trust in the Lord with all thine heart, and lean not unto thine own wisdom.

6 In all thy ways acknowledge him, and he shall direct thy ways.

7 ¶ Be not wise in thine own eyes: but fear the Lord, and depart from evil.

8 So health shall be unto thy ^t navel, and marrow unto thy bones.

9 ^u Honour the Lord with thy riches, and with the first fruits of all thine increase.

10 So shall thy barns be filled with abundance, and thy presses shall ^v burst with new wine.

20 By his knowledge the depths are broken up, and the clouds drop down the dew.

21 My son, let not these things depart from thine eyes, but observe wisdom and counsel.

24 If thou sleepest, thou shalt not be afraid: and when thou sleepest, thy sleep shall be sweet.

25 Thou shalt not fear for any sudden fear, neither for the ^a destruction of the wicked when it cometh.

26 For the Lord shall be for thine assurance, and shall preserve thy foot from taking.

27 ¶ With-hold not the good from ^b the owners thereof, though there be power in thine hand to do it.

28 Say not unto thy neighbour, Go, and come again, and to-morrow will I give thee, if thou now have it.

29 ¶ Intend none hurt against thy neighbour, seeing he doth dwell ^c without fear by thee.

30 ¶ Strive not with a man causeless, when he hath done thee no harm.

31 ¶ Be not ^d envious for the wicked man, neither chuse any of his ways.

32 For the froward is abomination unto the Lord: but his ^e secret is with the righteous.

33 The curse of the Lord is in the house of the wicked: but he blesteth the habitation of the righteous.

CHAP. IV.

1 Wisdom and her fruits ought to be feared. 17 The way of the wicked must be refused. 20 By the word of God the heart, eyes, and course of life may be guided.

HEAR, O ye children, the instruction of a father, and give ear to learn understanding.

2 For I do give you a good doctrine: therefore forsake ye not my law.

3 For I was my father's son, tender and dear in the sight of my mother.

4 When he taught me, and said unto me, Let thine heart hold fast my words: keep my commandments, and thou shalt live.

5 Get wisdom: get understanding: forget not, neither decline from the words of my mouth.

6 Forsake her not, and she shall keep thee: love her, and she shall preserve thee.

7 Wisdom is the beginning: get wisdom therefore: and above all thy possession get understanding.

8 Exalt her, and she shall exalt thee: she shall bring thee to honour, if thou embrace her.

9 She shall give a comely ornament unto thine head, for she shall give thee a crown of glory.

10 Hear, my son, and receive my words, and the years of thy life shall be many.

11 I have taught thee in the way of wisdom, and led thee in the paths of righteousness.

12 When thou goest, thy gate shall not be strait, and when thou runnest thou shalt not fall.

13 Take hold of instruction, and leave not: keep her, for she is thy life.

14 Enter not into the way of the wicked, and walk not in the way of evil men.

15 Avoid it, and go not by it: turn from it, and pass by.

16 For they cannot sleep, except they have done evil: and their sleep departeth, except they cause sin to fall.

17 For they eat the bread of wickedness, and drink the wine of violence.

18 But the way of the righteous shineth as the light that shineth more and more unto the perfect day.

19 The way of the wicked is as the darkness: they know not wherein they shall fall.

20 My son, hearken unto my words, incline thine ear unto my sayings, 21 Let them not depart from thine eyes, but keep them in the midst of thine heart.

He speaketh this in the person of a preacher or minister, which is as a father unto the people, read ch. 1. 2.

Hebrew it is only: for though she had three others, yet so tenderly she loved Solomon, that he was unto her as her only son.

Meaning, David his father.

He sheweth that we must first begin at God's word, if so be we will that other things prosper with us; contrary to the judgment of the world, which make it their last study, or else care not for it at all.

Solomon declareth, what care his father had to bring him up in the true fear of God: for this was David's provision.

They shall walk at liberty, without offence.

Meaning, that to do evil, is more proper and natural to the wicked, than to sleep, eat, or drink.

Goten by wicked means and cruel oppression.

Signifying, that the godly increase daily in knowledge and perfection, till they come to full perfection, which is, when they shall be joined to their head in the heavens.

22 For they are life unto those that find them, and health unto all their flesh.

23 Keep thine heart with all diligence: for thereout cometh life.

24 Put away from thee a froward mouth, and put wicked lips far from thee.

25 Let thine eyes behold the right, and let thine eyelids direct thy way before thee.

26 Ponder the path of thy feet, and let all thy ways be ordered aright.

27 Turn not to the right hand, nor to the left, but remove thy foot from evil.

CHAP. V.

3 Wickedness forbidden, 9 and prodigality. 15 He willet a man to live on his labours, and to help others. 18 To love his wife. 22 The wicked taken in their own wickedness.

MY son, hearken unto my wisdom, and incline thine ear unto my knowledge, † Or, understanding.

2 That thou mayest regard counsel, and thy lips observe knowledge.

3 For the lips of a strange woman drop as an honeycomb, and her mouth is more soft than oil.

4 But the end of her is bitter as wormwood, and sharp as a two-edged sword.

5 Her feet go down to death, and her steps take hold on hell.

6 She weigheth not the way of life: her paths are moveable: thou canst not know them.

7 Hear ye me now therefore, O children, and depart not from the words of my mouth.

8 Keep thy way far from her, and come not near the door of her house,

9 Lest thou give thine honour unto others, and thy years to the cruel:

10 Lest the stranger should be filled with thy strength, and thy labours be in the house of a stranger,

11 And thou mourn at thine end (when thou hast consumed thy flesh and thy body)

12 And say, How have I hated instruction, and mine heart despised correction!

13 And have not obeyed the voice of them that taught me, nor inclined mine ear to them that instructed me!

14 I was almost brought into all evil in the midst of the congregation and assembly.

15 Drink the water of thy cistern, and of the rivers out of the midst of thine own well.

16 Let thy fountains flow forth, and the rivers of waters in the streets.

17 But

That is, they shall have health of body: under which all other blessings promised in the law are contained.

For as the heart is either pure or corrupt, so is the whole course of man's life.

Keep a measure in all thy doings.

That is, an harlot which giveth herself to another than to her husband.

By oil and honey, he meaneth flattering and crafty enticements.

All her doings lead to destruction.

She hath ever new means to allure to wickedness.

That is, thy strength and goods to her that will have no pity upon thee: as is read of Samson, and the prodigal son.

The goods gotten by thy travail.

Although I was faithfully instructed in the truth, yet had I almost fallen to utter shame and destruction, notwithstanding my good bringing up in the assembly of the godly.

He teacheth us sobriety, exhorting us to live of our own labours, and to be beneficial to the godly that want.

17 But let them be thine, even^c thine only, and not the strangers with thee.

18 Let thy^d fountain be blessed, and rejoice with the wife of thy^e youth.

19 Let her be as the loving hind and pleasant roe: let her breasts satisfy thee at all times, and delight in her love continually.

20 For why shouldst thou † delight, my son, in a strange woman, or embrace the bosom of a stranger?

21 For the ways of man are before the^f eyes of the Lord, and he pondereth all his paths.

22 His own iniquities shall take the wicked himself, and he shall be holden with the cords of his own sin.

23 He shall^g die for fault of instruction, and shall go astray through his great folly.

C H A P. VI.

1 Instruction for sureties. 6 The slothful and sluggish are stirred to work. 12 He describeth the nature of the wicked. 16 The things that God hateth. 20 To observe the word of God. 24 To flee adultery.

MY son, if thou be surety for thy neighbour, and hast stricken hands with the stranger,

2 Thou art^h snared with the words of thy mouth: thou art even taken with the words of thine own mouth.

3 Do this, now my son, and deliver thyself: seeing thou art come into the hand of thy neighbour, go and humble thyself, and solicit thy friends.

4 Give no sleep to thine eyes, nor slumber to thine eyelids.

5 Deliver thyself as a doe from the hand of the hunter, and as a bird from the hand of the fowler.

6 ¶ Go to theⁱ pismire, O sluggard: behold her ways, and be wise.

7 For she having no guide, governor, nor ruler,

8 Prepareth her meat in the summer, and gathereth her food in harvest.

9 How long wilt thou sleep, O sluggard? when wilt thou arise out of thy sleep?

^{*Ch. 24. 33.} 10 * Yet a little sleep, a little slumber, ^k a little folding of the hands to sleep.

11 Therefore thy poverty cometh as one that^l travelleth by the way, and thy necessity like^m an armed man.

12 The unthrifty man, and theⁿ wicked man, walketh with a froward mouth.

13 He maketh a sign with his eyes: he † sig-^{† Heb. speaketh} nifieth with his feet: he^o instructeth with his fingers,

14 Lewd things are in his heart: he imagineth evil at all times, and raiseth up contentions, 15 Therefore shall his destruction come speedily: he shall be destroyed suddenly without recovery.

16 ¶ These six things doth the Lord hate: yea, his soul abhorreth seven:

17 The haughty eyes, a lying tongue, and the hands that shed innocent blood,

18 An heart that imagineth wicked enterprises, ^p feet that be swift in running to mischief, 19 A false witness that speaketh lyes, and him that raiseth up contentions among † bre-^{† Or, neighbour} thren.

20 ¶ My son, keep thy father's commandment, and forsake not thy mother's instruction.

21 Bind them alway upon^q thine heart, and tie them about thy neck.

22 It shall lead thee when thou walkest: it shall watch for thee when thou sleepest, and when thou wakest, it shall talk with thee.

23 For the^r commandment is a lantern, and instruction a light: and^s corrections for instruction are the way of life, 24 To keep thee from the wicked woman, and from the flattery of the tongue of a strange woman.

25 Desire not her beauty in thine heart, neither let her take thee with her^t eyelids.

26 For because of the whorish woman, a man is brought to a morsel of bread, and a woman will hunt for the precious life of a man.

27 ^u Can a man take fire in his bosom, and his cloaths not be burnt?

28 Or, can a man go upon coals, and his feet not be burnt?

29 So he that goeth in to his neighbour's wife, shall not be innocent, whosoever toucheth her.

30 Men do not^v despise a thief, when he stealeth, to satisfy his^x soul, because he is hungry.

31 But if he be found, he shall restore sevenfold, or he shall give all the substance of his house.

32 But he that committeth adultery with a woman, he † is destitute of understanding: he<sup>† H. b. fail-eth in heart.</sup> that doth it, destroyeth his own soul.

^c Distribute them not to the wicked and infidels, but reserve them for thyself, thy family, and them that are of the household of faith.

^d Thy children shall come of thee in great abundance: shewing, that God blesteth marriage, and curseth whoredom.

^e Which thou didst marry in thy youth.

^f He declareth that except man do join to his wife both in heart and outward conversation, that he shall not escape the judgments of God.

^g Because he will not give ear to God's word, and be admonished.

^h He forbiddeth us not to become surety one for another, according to the rule of charity, but that we consider for whom and after what sort, so that the creditor may not be defrauded.

ⁱ If the word of God cannot instruct thee, yet learn at the little pismire to labour for thyself, and not to burthen others.

^k He expresseth lively the nature of the sluggards, which, though they sleep never so long, yet have never enough, but ever seek occasion thereunto.

^l That is, suddenly, and when thou lookest not for it.

^m It shall come in such sort, as thou art not able to resist it.

ⁿ He sheweth to what inconvenience the idle persons and sluggards come, by calling them unthrifty, or the men of Belial, and slanderous.

^o Thus all his gesture tendeth to wickedness.

^p Meaning, the raging affections, which carry a man away in such sort, that he cannot tell what he doth.

^q Read ch. 3. 3.

^r By the commandment, he meaneth the word of God, and by the instruction, the preaching and declaration of the same, which is committed to the church.

^s And reprehensions when the word is preached bring us to life.

^t With her wanton looks and gesture.

^u Meaning, that she will never cease till she have brought thee to beggary, and then seek thy destruction.

^v He reproveth not theft, but sheweth that it is not so abominable as whoredom, forasmuch as theft might be redeemed: but adultery was a perpetual infamy, and death by the law of God.

^x Meaning, for very necessity.

pride, and arrogancy, and the evil way : and a mouth that speaketh lewd things, I do hate.

14 I have counsel and wisdom : I am understanding, and I have strength.

15 By me ^p kings reign, and princes decree justice.

16 By me princes rule, and the nobles, and all the judges of the earth.

17 I love them that love me : and they that seek me ^q early shall find me.

18 Riches and honour are with me : even ^r durable riches and righteousness.

19 My fruit is better than gold, even than fine gold, and my revenues better than fine silver.

20 I cause to walk in the way of righteousness, and in the midst of the paths of ^s judgment, 21 That I may cause them that love me to inherit substance, and I will fill their treasures.

22 The Lord hath possessed me in the beginning of his way : I was ^t before his works of old.

23 I was set up from everlasting, from the beginning, and before the earth.

24 When there were no depths, was I begotten, when there were no fountains abounding with water.

25 Before the mountains were settled : and before the hills, was I begotten.

26 He had not yet made the earth, nor the open places, nor the height of the dust in the world.

27 When he prepared the heavens, I was ^u there, when he set the compass upon the deep :

28 When he established the clouds above, when he confirmed the fountains of the deep :

29 When he gave his decree to the sea, that the water should not pass his commandment, when he appointed the foundations of the earth,

30 Then was I with him as a ^x nourisher, and I was daily his delight, rejoicing alway before him, 31 And took my ^y solace in the compass of ^z his earth : and my delight is with the children of men.

32 Therefore now hearken, O children, unto me : for blessed are they that keep my ways.

33 Hear instruction, and be ye wise, and refuse it not : blessed is the man that heareth me, watching daily at my gates, and giving attendance at the posts of my doors.

34 For he that findeth me, findeth life, and shall obtain favour of the Lord.

35 But he that sinneth against me, hurteth his own soul : and all that hate me, love death.

C H A P. IX.

1 Wisdom calleth all to her feast. 7 The scorner will not be corrected. 10 The fear of God. 13 The conditions of the harlot.

WISDOM hath built her ^a house, and hewn out her ^b seven pillars.

2 She hath killed her victuals, drawn her wine, and ^c prepared her table.

3 She hath sent forth her ^d maidens, and crieth upon the highest places of the city, saying,

4 Who is ^e simple, let him come hither, and to him that is destitute of wisdom, she saith,

5 Come, and eat of my ^f meat, and drink of the wine that I have drawn.

6 Forsake your way, ye foolish, and ye shall live : and walk in the way of understanding.

7 He that reproveth a scorner, purchaseth to himself shame : and he that rebuketh the wicked, getteth himself a ^g blot.

8 Rebuke not a ^h scorner, lest he hate thee : but rebuke a wise man, and he will love thee.

9 Give admonition to the wise, and he will be wiser : teach a righteous man, and he will increase in learning.

10 The beginning of wisdom is the fear of the Lord, and the knowledge of holy things is ⁱ understanding.

11 For thy days shall be multiplied by me, and the years of thy life shall be augmented.

^p Whereby he declareth, that honours, dignity, or riches, come not of man's wisdom or industry, but by the providence of God.

^q That is, study the word of God diligently, and with a desire to profit.

^r Signifying, that he chiefly meaneth the spiritual treasures and heavenly riches.

^s For there can be no true justice or judgment, which is not directed by this wisdom.

^t He declareth hereby the divinity and eternity of this wisdom, which he magnifieth and praiseth through this book : meaning thereby the eternal Son of God, Jesus Christ our Saviour, whom St. John calleth, the word that was in the beginning, John 1. 1.

^u He declareth the eternity of the Son of God, which is meant by this word Wisdom, who was before all time, and ever present with the Father.

^x Some read, a chief worker : signifying, that this wisdom, even Christ Jesus, was equal with God his Father, and created, preserveth, and still worketh with him, as John 5. 17.

^y whereby is declared, that the work of the creation was no pain, but a solace unto the wisdom of God.

^z By earth he meaneth man, which is the work of God, in whom wisdom took pleasure : inasmuch as for man's sake, the divine Wisdom took man's nature, and dwelt among us, and filled us with unspeakable treasures, and this is that solace and pastime whereof is here spoken.

^a Christ hath prepared him a church.

^b That is, many chief states and principal parts of his church, as were the patriarchs, prophets; apostles, pastors, and doctors.

^c He compareth wisdom with great princes, that keep open house, for all that come.

^d Meaning, true preachers, which are not infected with man's wisdom.

^e He that knoweth his own ignorance, and is void of malice.

^f By the meat and drink is meant, the word of God, and the ministrations of the sacraments, whereby God nourisheth his servants in his house, which is the church.

^g For the wicked will contemn him, and labour to defame him.

^h Meaning, them that are incorrigible, which Christ calleth dogs and swine : or he speaketh this in comparison, not that the wicked should not be rebuked, but he sheweth their malice, and the small hope of profit.

ⁱ He sheweth that true understanding is, to know the will of God in his word, which is meant by holy things.

^k Thou shalt have the chief profit and commodity thereof.

^l By the foolish woman, some understand the wicked preachers, to him that is destitute of wisdom, she faith also,

17 Stolen waters are sweet, and hid bread is pleasant :

18 But he knoweth not that the dead are there, and that her guests are in the depth of hell.

C H A P. X.

In this chapter, and all that follow unto the thirtieth, the wise man exhorteth by divers sentences, which he calleth parables, to follow virtue and flee vice: and sheweth also what profit cometh of wisdom, and what hinderance proceedeth of foolishness.

The Parables of Solomon.

A Wife * son maketh a glad father : but a foolish son is an heaviness to his mother.

2 The treasures of ² wickedness profit nothing : but righteousness delivereth from death.

3 The Lord will ² not famish the soul of the righteous : but he casteth away the substance of the wicked.

4 A † slothful hand maketh poor : but the hand of the diligent maketh rich.

5 He that gathereth in summer, is the son of wisdom : but he that sleepeth in harvest is the son of confusion.

6 Blessings are upon the head of the righteous : but iniquity shall cover the mouth of the ⁶ wicked.

7 The memorial of the just shall be blessed : but the name of the wicked shall ² rot.

8 The wise in heart will receive commandments : but the foolish in † talk shall be beaten.

9 He that walketh uprightly, walketh † boldly : but he that perverteth his ways shall be known.

10 He that ² winketh with the eye worketh sorrow, and he that is ² foolish in talk shall be beaten.

11 The mouth of a righteous man is a well-spring of life : but iniquity covereth the mouth of the wicked.

12 Hatred stirreth up contentions : * but love covereth all trespasses.

13 In the lips of him that hath understanding, wisdom is found : and ² a rod shall be for the back of him that is destitute of wisdom.

14 Wise men lay up knowledge : but the mouth of the fool is a present destruction.

15 The rich man's goods are his ² strong city : but the fear of the needy is their poverty.

16 The labour of the righteous tendeth to life : but the revenues of the wicked to sin.

17 He that regardeth instruction is in the way of life : but he that refuseth correction, goeth out of the way.

18 He that dissembleth hatred with lying lips, and he that inventeth slander, is a fool.

19 In many words there cannot want iniquity : but he that refraineth his lips is wise.

20 The tongue of a just man is as fined silver : but the heart of the wicked is little worth.

21 The lips of the righteous do ² feed many : but fools shall die for want of wisdom.

22 The blessing of the Lord it maketh rich, and he doth add no ² sorrows with it.

23 It is as a pastime to a fool to do wickedly : but wisdom is understanding to a man.

24 That which the wicked feareth shall come upon him : but God will grant the desire of the righteous.

25 As the whirlwind passeth, so is the wicked no more : but the righteous is as an everlasting foundation.

26 As vinegar is to the teeth, and as smoke to the eyes, so is the slothful to them that ² send him.

27 The fear of the Lord increaseth the days : but the years of the wicked shall be ² diminished.

28 The patient abiding of the righteous shall be gladness : but the hope of the wicked shall perish.

29 The way of the Lord is strength to the upright man : but fear shall be for the workers of iniquity.

30 The righteous shall ² never be removed : but the wicked shall not dwell in the land.

31 The mouth of the just shall be fruitful in wisdom : but the tongue of the froward shall be cut out.

32 The lips of the righteous know what is acceptable : but the mouth of the wicked speaketh froward things.

False ² balances are an abomination unto the Lord : but a perfect † weight pleaseth him. † Heb. stee.

2 When pride cometh, then cometh ² shame : but with the lowly is wisdom.

3 The uprightness of the just shall guide them : but the frowardness of the transgressors shall destroy them.

4 * Riches avail not in the day of wrath : but righteousness delivereth from death. † Ezck. 7. 19.

5 The righteousness of the upright shall direct his way : but the wicked shall fall in his own wickedness.

6 The righteousness of the just shall deliver them :

preachers, who counterfeit the word of God, as appeareth ver. 16. which were the words of the true preachers, as ver. 4. but their doctrine is but as stolen waters, meaning that they are but men's traditions, which are more pleasant to the flesh than the word of God: and therefore they themselves boast thereof.

² That is, wickedly gotten.

² Though he suffer the just to wait for a time, yet he will send him comfort in due season.

² When their wickedness shall be discovered, they shall be as dumb, and not know what to say.

² Shall be vile and abhorred both of God and man, contrary to their own expectation, which think to make their name immortal.

² He that beareth a fair countenance, and imagineth mischief in his heart, as chap. 6. 13.

² For the corruption of his heart is known by his talk.

² That is, God will find him out to punish him.

² And so maketh him bold to do evil, whereas poverty bridleth the poor from many evil things.

² For they speak truth, and edify many by exhortations, admonitions, and counsel.

² Meaning, that all worldly things bring care and sorrow; whereas they that feel the blessings of God, have none.

² He is but a trouble and grief to him that fettereth him about any business.

² The time of their prosperity shall be short because of their great fall, though they seem to live long.

² They enjoy in this life, by faith and hope, their everlasting life.

² Under this word he condemneth all false weights, measures and deceit.

² When man forgetteth himself, and thinketh to be exalted above his vocation, then God bringeth him to confusion.

them: but the transgressors shall be taken in their own wickedness.

7 When a wicked man dieth, his hope perisheth, and the hope of the unjust shall perish.

8 The righteous escapeth out of trouble, and the wicked shall come in his ^cstead.

9 An ^d hypocrite with his mouth hurteth his neighbour: but the righteous shall be delivered by knowledge.

10 In the prosperity of the righteous, the city ^erejoiceth: and when the wicked perish, there is joy.

† Or, prosperity. 11 By the † blessing of the righteous the city is exalted: but it is subverted by the mouth of the wicked.

12 He that despiseth his neighbour, is destitute of wisdom: but a man of understanding will ^fkeep silence.

13 He that goeth about as a slanderer, discovereth a secret: but he that is of a faithful heart, concealeth a matter.

14 Where no counsel is, the people fall: but where many ^gcounsellors are, there is health.

15 He shall be sore vexed, that is surety for a ^hstranger; and he ⁱthat hateth suretyship; is sure.

† Or, modest. 16 A † gracious woman attaineth honour, and the strong men attain riches.

† Or, neighbour. 17 He that is merciful ^krewardeth his own soul: but he that troubleth his own † flesh is cruel.

18 The wicked worketh a deceitful work: but he that soweth righteousness shall receive a sure reward.

19 As righteousness leadeth to life: so he that followeth evil seeketh his own death.

20 They that are of a froward heart, are abomination to the Lord: but they that are upright in their way, are his delight.

21 ^lThough hand join in hand, the wicked shall not be unpunished: but the seed of the righteous shall escape.

† Or, is of uncomely behaviour. 22 As a jewel of gold in a swine's snout: so is a fair woman which † lacketh discretion.

23 The desire of the righteous is only good: but the hope of the wicked ^mis indignation.

24 There is that scattereth, ⁿand is more increased: but he that spareth more ^othan is right, surely cometh to poverty.

† Heb. the soul of blessing shall be made fat. 25 The † liberal person shall have plenty: and he that watereth, shall also have rain.

26 He that withdraweth the corn, the people will curse him: but blessing shall be upon the head of him that ^pselleth corn.

27 He that seeketh good things, getteth favour: but he that seeketh evil, it shall come to him.

28 He that trusteth in his riches; shall fall: but the righteous shall flourish as a leaf.

29 He that troubleth his own ^qhouse, shall inherit the wind, and the fool shall be ^rservant to the wise in heart.

30 The fruit of the righteous is as a tree of life, and he that ^swinneth souls is wise.

31 Behold, the righteous shall be ^trecompensed in the earth: how much more the wicked and the sinner!

C H A P. XII.

HE that loveth instruction, loveth knowledge: but he that hateth correction is a fool.

2 A good man getteth favour of the Lord: but the man of wicked imaginations will he condemn.

3 A man cannot be established by wickedness: but the ^uroot of the righteous shall not be moved.

4 A † virtuous woman is the crown of her husband: but she that maketh him ashamed, is as corruption in his bones. † Heb. strong or painful.

5 The thoughts of the just are right: but the counsels of the wicked are deceitful.

6 The talking of the wicked is to lie in wait for blood: but the mouth of the righteous will ^vdeliver them.

7 God overthroweth the wicked, and they are not: but the house of the righteous shall stand.

8 A man shall be commended for his wisdom: but the froward of heart shall be de-: ited.

9 He that is despised, ^xand is his own servant, is better than he that boasteth himself and lacketh bread.

10 A righteous man ^yregardeth the life of his beast: but the mercies of the wicked are cruel.

11 * He that tilleth his land, shall be satisfied with bread: but he that followeth the idle, is destitute of † understanding. * Ch. 28. 19.

12 The wicked desireth the ^znet of evils: but the ^aroot of the righteous giveth fruit. † Or, defence.

13 The evil man is snared by the wickedness of his lips, but the just shall come out of adversity.

14 A man shall be satiate with good things by the fruit of his mouth, and the recompence of a man's hands shall God give unto him.

17 He that speaketh truth will shew righteousness: but a false witness useth deceit.

18 There is that speaketh words like the prickings of a sword: but the tongue of wise men is health.

19 The lips of truth shall be stable for ever: but a lying tongue varieth incontinently.

20 Deceit is in the heart of them that imagine evil: but to the counsellors of peace shall be joy.

21 There shall none iniquity come to the just: but the wicked are full of evil.

22 The lying lips are an abomination to the Lord: but they that deal truly are his delight.

23 A wise man concealeth knowledge: but the heart of the fools publisheth foolishness.

24 The hand of the diligent shall bear rule: but the idle shall be under tribute.

25 Heaviness in the heart of man doth bring it down: but a good word rejoiceth it.

26 The righteous is more excellent than his neighbour: but the way of the wicked will deceive them.

27 The deceitful man roasteth not that he took in hunting: but the riches of the diligent man are precious.

28 Life is in the way of righteousness, and in that path-way there is no death.

CHAPTER XIII.

A Wife son will obey the instruction of his father; but a scorner will hear no rebuke.

2 A man shall eat good things by the fruit of his mouth: but the soul of the trespassers shall suffer violence.

3 He that keepeth his mouth, keepeth his life: but he that openeth his lips, destruction shall be to him.

4 The sluggard lusteth, but his soul hath nought: but the soul of the diligent shall have plenty.

5 A righteous man hateth lying words: but the wicked causeth slander and shame.

6 Righteousness preserveth the upright of life: but wickedness overthroweth the sinner.

7 There is that maketh himself rich, and hath nothing: and that maketh himself poor, having great riches.

19 A desire accomplished delighteth the soul: but it is an abomination to fools to depart from evil.

20 He that walketh with the wise, shall be wise: but a companion of fools shall be afflicted.

21 Affliction followeth finners: but unto the righteous God will recompense good.

22 The good man shall give inheritance unto his childrens children: and the riches of the sinner is laid up for the just.

23 Much food is in the field of the poor: but the field is destroyed without discretion.

24 He that spareth his rod, hateth his son: but he that loveth him, chasteneth him betimes. ^{* Ch. 23. 13. Eccles. 30. 11.}

25 The righteous eateth to the contentment of his mind: but the belly of the wicked shall want.

CHAPTER XIV.

A Wise woman buildeth her house: but the foolish destroyeth it with her own hands.

2 He that walketh in his righteousness, feareth the Lord: but he that is lewd in his ways, despiseth him. ^{* Job 12. 4.}

3 In the mouth of the foolish is the rod of pride: but the lips of the wise preserve them.

4 Where no oxen are, there the crib is empty: but much increase cometh by the strength of the ox.

5 A faithful witness will not lye: but a false record will speak lyes.

6 A scorner seeketh wisdom, and findeth it not:

^a Meaning, the word of God, whereby he is admonished of his duty.

^b Bringeth many inconveniences both to himself and to others.

^c As he is partaker of their wickedness and beareth with their vices, so shall he be punished alike as they are.

^d Read Job 27. 16, 17.

^e God blesteth the labour of the poor; and consumeth their goods which are negligent, because they think they have enough.

^f That is, taketh pains to profit her family, and to do that which concerneth her duty in her house.

^g That is, in uprightness of heart, and without hypocrisy.

^h His proud tongue shall cause him to be punished.

ⁱ By the ox is meant labour, and by the crib the barn: meaning, without labour there is no profit.

^k For the maintenance of his own ambition, and not for God's glory, as Simon Magus.

not: but knowledge is easy to him that will understand

7 Depart from the foolish man, when thou perceivest not in him the lips of knowledge.

8 The wisdom of the prudent is to understand his way: but the foolishness of the fools is deceit.

9 The fool maketh a mock ^y of sin: but among the righteous there is favour.

10 The heart knoweth the ^z bitterness of his soul, and the stranger shall not meddle with his joy.

11 The house of the wicked shall be destroyed: but the tabernacle of the righteous shall flourish.

* Ch. 16. 25. 12 * There is a way that seeketh right to a man, but the issues thereof are the ways of death.

13 Even in laughing the heart is sorrowful, ^a and the end of that mirth is heaviness.

14 The heart that declineth ^b shall be satiate with his own ways: but a good man shall depart from him.

15 The foolish will believe every thing: but the prudent will consider his steps.

16 A wise man feareth, and departeth from evil: but a fool rageth, and is careless.

17 He that is hasty to anger, committeth folly, and a [†] busy-body is hated.

† Heb. the son of imagination.

18 The foolish do inherit folly: but the prudent are crowned with knowledge.

19 The evil shall bow before the good, and the wicked ^c at the gates of the righteous.

20 The poor is hated even of his own neighbour: but the friends of the rich are many.

21 The sinner despiseth his neighbour: but he that hath mercy on the poor, is blessed.

22 Do not they err that imagine evil? but to them that think on good things, shall be mercy and truth.

23 In all labour there is abundance: but the talk of the lips bringeth only want.

24 The crown of the wise is their riches, and the folly of fools is foolishness.

25 A faithful witness delivereth souls: but a deceiver speaketh lies.

26 In the fear of the Lord is an assured strength, and his children shall have hope.

27 The fear of the Lord is as a well-spring of life, to avoid the snares of death.

28 In the multitude of the ^d people is the honour of a king, and for the want of people cometh the destruction of the prince.

29 He that is slow to wrath, is of great wisdom: but he that is of an hasty mind exalteth folly.

† Or, body.

30 A sound heart is the life of [†] the flesh: but envy is the rotting of the bones.

* Ca. 17. 5.

31 * He that oppresseth the poor, reproveth him that made him: but he honoureth him that hath mercy on the poor.

^y Dost not know the grievousness thereof, nor God's judgments against the same.

^z As a man's conscience is witness of his own grief: so another cannot feel the joy and comfort, which a man feel-eth in himself.

^a He sheweth that the allurements unto sin seemeth sweet, but the end thereof is destruction.

^b He that forsaketh God, shall be punished, and wax weary of his sins, wherein he delighteth.

^c If this come not daily to pass, we must consider that it is because of our sins, which let God's working.

^d That is, the strength of a king standeth in many people.

32 The wicked shall be cast away for his malice: but the righteous hath hope in his death.

33 Wisdom resteth in the heart of him that hath understanding, and is known ^e in the midst of fools.

34 Justice exalteth a nation, but [†] sin is a shame for the people.

35 The pleasure of a king is in a wise servant: but his wrath shall be toward him that is lewd.

† Or, and the mercy of the people is a sacrifice for sin.

2 The tongue of the wise useth knowledge aright: but the mouth of ^{*} fools babbleth out foolishness. * Ver. 28.

3 The eyes of the Lord in every place behold the evil and the good.

4 A wholesome tongue is as a tree of life: but the frowardness thereof is the breaking of the mind.

5 A fool despiseth his father's instruction: but he that regardeth correction, is prudent.

6 The house of the righteous hath much treasure: but in the revenues of the wicked is ^f trouble.

7 The lips of the wise do spread abroad knowledge: but the heart of the foolish dost not so.

8 The ^g sacrifice of the wicked is abomination to the Lord: but the prayer of the righteous is acceptable unto him.

9 The way of the wicked is an abomination unto the Lord: but he loveth him that followeth righteousness.

10 Instruction is evil to him that ^h forsaketh the way, and he that hateth correction shall die.

11 ⁱ Hell and destruction are before the Lord: how much more the hearts of the sons of men!

12 A scorner loveth not him that rebuketh him, neither will he go unto the wise.

13 * A joyful heart maketh a cheerful countenance: but by the sorrow of the heart the mind is heavy. * Ch. 17. 22.

14 The heart of him that hath understanding seeketh knowledge: but the mouth of the fool is fed with foolishness.

15 All the days of the afflicted are evil: but a good [†] conscience is a continual feast. † Heb. heart.

18 * An angry man stirreth up strife: but he that is slow to wrath, appeaseth strife. * Ch. 17. 22.

19 The way of a slothful man is as an hedge of ^k thorns: but the way of the righteous is plain.

20 A

^e Forasmuch as they are convicted thereby, and put to silence.

^f For though they have much, yet it is full of trouble and care.

^g That thing is abominable before God, which the wicked think to be most excellent, and whereby they think most to be accepted.

^h He that swerveth from the word of God, cannot abide to be admonished.

ⁱ There is nothing so deep, or secret, that can be hid from the eyes of God, much less men's thoughts.

^k That is, he ever findeth some let or stay, and dare not go forward.

20 * A wife son rejoiceth a father: but a foolish man despiseth his mother.

21 Foolishness is joy to him that is destitute of understanding: but a man of understanding talketh uprightly.

22 Without counsel thoughts come to nought: but in the multitude of counsellors there is steadfastness.

23 A joy cometh to a man by the answer of his mouth: and how good is a word^e in due season!

24 The way of life is on high to the prudent, to avoid from hell beneath.

25 The Lord will destroy the house of the proud men: but he will establish the borders of the widow.

26 The thoughts of the wicked are abomination to the Lord: but the pure have^e pleasant words.

27 He that is greedy of gain, troubleth his own house: but he that hateth gifts, shall live.

28 The heart of the righteous studieth to answer: but the wicked man's mouth babbleth evil things.

29 The Lord is far off from the wicked: but he heareth the prayer of the righteous.

30 The light of the eyes rejoiceth the heart, and a good name maketh the bones fat.

31 The ear that hearkeneth to the^o correction of life, shall lodge among the wise.

32 He that refuseth instruction despiseth his own soul: but he that obeyeth correction getteth understanding.

33 The fear of the Lord is the instruction of wisdom: and before honour goeth^p humility.

THE^s preparations of the heart are in man: but the answer of the tongue is of the Lord.

2 All the ways of a man are^r clean in his own eyes: but the Lord pondereth the spirits.

3 † Commit thy works unto the Lord, and thy thoughts shall be directed.

4 The Lord hath made all things for his own sake: yea, even the wicked for the day of^e evil.

5 All that are proud in heart, are an abomination to the Lord: though^{*} hand join in hand, he shall not be unpunished.

6 By^r mercy and truth iniquity shall be forgiven, and by the fear of the Lord they depart from evil.

7 When the ways of a man please the Lord, he will make also his enemies at peace with him.

8 * Better is a little with righteousness, than great revenues without equity.

9 The heart of man^u purposeth his way, but the Lord doth direct his steps.

10 A divine sentence shall be in the lips of the king: his mouth shall not transgress in judgment.

11 * A true weight and balance are of the Lord: all the weights of the bag are his^v work.

12 It is an abomination to kings to commit wickedness: for the throne is established^x by justice.

13 Righteous lips are the delight of kings, and the king loveth him that speaketh right things.

14 The wrath of a king is as^y messengers of death: but a wise man will pacify it.

15 In the light of the king's countenance is life: and his favour is^z as a cloud of the latter rain.

16 * How much better is it to get wisdom than gold! and to get understanding, is more to be desired than silver.

17 The path of the righteous is to decline from evil: and he keepeth his soul, that keepeth his way.

18 Pride goeth before destruction, and an high mind before the fall.

19 Better it is to be of humble mind with the lowly, than to divide the spoils with the proud.

20 He that is wise in his business, shall find good: and he^{*} that trusteth in the Lord, he is blessed.

21 The wise in heart shall be called prudent: and^a the sweetness of the lips shall increase doctrine.

22 Understanding is a well-spring of life unto them that have it: and the^b instruction of fools is folly.

23 The heart of the wise guideth his mouth wisely, and addeth doctrine to his lips.

24 Fair words are as a honeycomb, sweetness to the soul, and health to the bones.

25 * There is a way that seemeth right unto man, but the issues thereof are the ways of death.

28 A froward person soweth strife: and a tale-teller maketh division among princes.

29 A wicked man deceiveth his neighbour, and leadeth him into the way that is not good.

30^d He shutteth his eyes to devise wickedness: he moveth his lips, and bringeth evil to pass.

^e If we will that our talk be comfortable, we must wait for time and season.

^f That is, wholesome and profitable to the hearers.

^g That suffereth himself to be admonished by God's word, which bringeth life: and so amendeth.

^h Meaning, that God exalteth none, but them that are truly humbled.

ⁱ He derideth the presumption of man, who dare attribute to himself any thing, as to prepare his heart, or such like, seeing that he is not able to speak a word, except God give it him.

^j He sheweth hereby, that man flattereth himself in his doings, calling that virtue which God termeth vice.

^k So that the justice of God shall appear to his glory, even in the destruction of the wicked.

^l Their upright and repenting life shall be a token that their sins are forgiven.

^u He sheweth the folly of man, which thinketh that his ways are in his own hand, and yet is not able to remove one foot, except God give force.

^v If they be true and just, they are God's work, and he delighteth therein: but otherwise, if they be false, they are the work of the devil, and to their condemnation that use them.

12 * Before destruction the heart of a man is haughty, and before glory goeth lowliness.
 13 He that answereth a matter before he hear it, it is folly and shame unto him.
 14 The spirit of a man will sustain his infirmity: but a wounded spirit, who can bear it?
 15 A wife heart getteth knowledge, and the ear of the wife seeketh learning.
 16 A man's gift^e enlargeth him, and leadeth him before great men.
 17 * He that is first in his own cause, is just: then cometh his neighbour, and maketh inquiry of him.
 18 The lot^f causeth contentions to cease, and maketh a partition among the mighty.
 19 A brother offended is harder to win than a strong city, and their contentions are like the bars of a palace.
 20 With the fruit of a man's mouth shall his belly be satisfied, and with the increase of his lips shall he be filled.
 21 Death and life are in the power of the tongue, and they that love it, shall eat the fruit thereof.
 22 He that findeth a wife, findeth a good thing, and receiveth favour of the Lord.
 23 The poor speaketh with prayers: but the rich answereth roughly.
 24 A man that hath friends, ought to shew himself friendly: for a friend is nearer^l than a brother.

C H A P. XIX.

BETTER * is the poor that walketh in his uprightnes, than he that abuseth his lips, and is a fool.
 2 For without knowledge the mind is not good, and he that hasteth with his feet sinneth.
 3 The foolishness of a man perverteth his way, and his heart fretteth against the Lord.
 4 Riches gather many friends: but the poor is separated from his neighbour.
 5 A false witness shall not be unpunished: and he that speaketh lyes shall not escape.
 6 Many reverence the face of the prince, and every man is friend to him that giveth gifts.
 7 All the brethren of the poor do hate him: how much more will his friends depart from him? though he be instant^m with words, yet they will not.
 8 He that possesseth understanding, loveth his own soul, and keepeth wisdom to find goodness.
 9 A false witness shall not be unpunished: and he that speaketh lyes, shall perish.

10 Pleasure is not comely for a fool, much less for a servant to have rule over princes.

 13 * A foolish son is the calamity of his father, and the contentions of a wife are like a continual dropping.
 14 Houle and riches are the inheritance of the fathers: but a prudent wife cometh of the Lord.
 15 Slothfulness causeth to fall asleep, and a deceitful person shall be famished.
 16 He that keepeth the commandment, keepeth his own soul: but he that despiseth his ways shall die.
 17 He that hath mercy upon the poor, lendeth unto the Lord: and the Lord will recompense him that which he hath given.
 18 Chasten thy son while there is hope, and let not thy soul spare for his murmuring.
 19 A man of much anger shall suffer punishment: and though thou deliver him, yet will his anger come again.
 20 Hear counsel, and receive instruction, that thou mayest be wise in thy latter end.
 21 Many devices are in a man's heart: but the counsel of the Lord shall stand.
 22 That that is to be desired of a man, is his goodness, and a poor man is better than a liar.
 23 The fear of the Lord leadeth to life: and he that is filled therewith, shall continue, and shall not be visited with evil.
 24 * The slothful hideth his hand in his bosom, and will not put it to his mouth again.
 25 * Smite a scorner, and the foolish will beware: and reprove the prudent, and he will understand knowledge.
 26 He that denieth his father, or chaiceth away his mother, is a lewd and shameful child.
 27 My son, hear no more the instruction that causeth to err from the words of knowledge.
 28 A wicked witness mocketh at judgment, and the mouth of the wicked swalloweth up iniquity.

ECCLESIASTES, or the PREACHER.

THE ARGUMENT.

Solomon, as a Preacher, and one that desired to instruct all in the way of salvation, describeth the deceivable vanities of this world: that man should not be addicted to any thing under the sun, but rather inflamed with the desire of the heavenly life: therefore he confuteth their opinions, which set their felicity either in knowledge, or in pleasures, or in dignity and riches, shewing that man's true felicity consisteth in that, that he is united with God, and shall enjoy his presence: so that all other things must be rejected, save inasmuch as they further us to attain to this heavenly treasure, which is sure and permanent, and cannot be found in any other save in God alone.

CHAP. I.

2 All things in this world are full of vanity, and of no endurance. 13 All man's wisdom is but folly and grief.

THE words of the ^a Preacher, the son of David, king in Jerusalem.

2 ^b Vanity of vanities, saith the Preacher: vanity of vanities, all is vanity.

3 What remaineth unto man in all ^c his travail, which he suffereth under the sun?

4 One generation passeth, and another generation succeedeth: but the earth remaineth for ^d ever.

5 The sun riseth, and the sun goeth down, and draweth to his place, where he riseth.

6 The ^e wind goeth toward the south, and compasseth toward the north: the wind goeth round about, and returneth by his circuits.

7 All the rivers go into the sea, yet the sea is not full: for the rivers go unto the place, ^f whence they return and go.

8 All things are full of labour: man cannot utter it: the eye is not satisfied with seeing, nor the ear filled with hearing.

9 ^g What is it that hath been? That that shall be: and what is it that hath been done? That which shall be done: and there is no new thing under the sun.

10 Is there any thing whereof one may say, Behold this, it is new? it hath been already in the old time that was before us.

11 There is no memory of the former, neither shall there be a remembrance of the latter that shall be, with them that shall come after.

12 ¶ ^h I, the Preacher, have been king over Israel in Jerusalem,

13 And I have given mine heart to search and find out wisdom by all things that are done under the heaven: (this sore travail hath God given to the sons of men, ⁱ to humble them thereby)

14 I have considered all the works that are done under the sun, and behold, all is vanity and vexation of spirit.

15 That which is ^k crooked, none can make straight: and that which faileth cannot be numbered.

16 I thought in mine heart; and said, Behold, I am become great, and excel in wisdom all them that have been before me in Jerusalem: and mine heart hath seen much wisdom and knowledge.

17 I have given mine heart to know wisdom and knowledge, ^l madness and foolishness: I knew also that this is a vexation of the spirit.

18 For in the multitude of wisdom is much ^m grief: and he that increaseth knowledge, increaseth sorrow.

CHAP. II.

Pleasures, sumptuous buildings, riches and possessions are but vanity. 15 The wise and the fool have both one end touching the bodily death.

I Said in mine heart, Go to now, I will prove ⁿ thee with joy: therefore take thou pleasure in pleasant things: and behold, this also is vanity.

2 I said of laughter, Thou art mad: and of joy, What is this that thou doest?

3 I sought in my heart ^o to give myself to wine, and to lead mine heart in ^o wisdom, and to take hold of folly, till I might see where is that goodness of the children of men, which they ^p enjoy under the sun the whole number of ^q the days of their life: † Heb. draw myself to wine.

4 I

^a Solomon is here called a Preacher, or one that assemblith the people, because he teacheth the true knowledge of God, and how men ought to pass their life in this transitory world.

^b He condemneth the opinions of all men that set felicity in any thing but in God alone, seeing that in this world all things are as vanity and nothing.

^c Solomon doth not condemn man's labour or diligence, but sheweth that there is no full contentment in any thing under the heaven, nor in any creature, forasmuch as all things are transitory.

^d One man dieth after another, and the earth remaineth longest, even to the last day, which yet is subject to corruption.

^e By the sun, wind and rivers, he sheweth, that the greatest labour and longest hath an end, and therefore there can be no felicity in this world.

^f The sea which compasseth all the earth, filleth the veins thereof, the which pour out springs and rivers into the sea again.

^g He speaketh of times and seasons, and things done in them, which, as they have been in times past, so come they to pass again.

^h He proveth that if any could have attained to felicity in this world by labour and study, he chiefly should have obtained it, because he had gifts and aids of God thereunto above all other.

ⁱ Man of nature hath a desire to know, and yet is not able to come to the perfection of knowledge, which is the punishment of sin, to humble man, and to teach him to depend only upon God.

^k Man is not able by all his diligence to cause things to go otherwise than they do: neither can he number the faults that are committed, much less remedy them.

^l That is, vain things which served unto pleasure wherein was no commodity, but grief and trouble of conscience. ^m Wisdom and knowledge cannot be come by without great pain of body and mind: for when a man hath attained to the highest, yet is his mind never fully content: therefore in this world is no true felicity.

ⁿ Solomon maketh this discourse with himself, as though he would try whether there were contentment in ease and pleasures.

^o Albeit I gave myself to pleasures, yet I thought to keep wisdom, and the fear of God in mine heart, and govern mine affairs by the same. † Heb. do.

4 I have made my great works: I have built me houses: I have planted me vineyards.

5 I have made me gardens and † orchards, and planted in them trees of all fruit.

6 I have made me cisterns of water, to water therewith the woods that grow with trees,

7 I have gotten servants and maids: and had children ^{born} in the ^{house}: also I had great possession of beeves and sheep above all that were before me in Jerusalem.

8 I have gathered unto me also silver and gold, and the chief treasures of kings and provinces: I have provided me men-singers and women-singers, and the ^{delights} of the sons of men, ^{as a woman} taken captive, and women taken captives.

9 And I was great, and increased above all that were before me in Jerusalem: also my wisdom ^{remained} with me.

10 And whatsoever mine eyes desired, I withheld it not from them: I withdrew not mine heart from any joy: for mine heart rejoiced in all my labour: and this was my ^{portion} of all my travail.

11 Then I looked on all my works that mine hands had wrought, and on the travail that I had laboured to do: and behold, all ^{is} vanity, and vexation of the spirit: and there is no profit under the sun.

12 ¶ And I turned to behold ^{wisdom}, and madness, and folly: (for who is the man that † will come after the king in things which men now have done?)

13 Then I saw that there is profit in wisdom, more than in folly: as the light is more excellent than darkness.

14 * For the wise man's ^{eyes} are in his head, but the fool walketh in darkness: yet I know also that the same ^{condition} falleth to them all.

15 Then I thought in mine heart, It befalleth unto me as it befalleth to the fool, why therefore do I then labour to be more wise? And I said in mine heart, that this also is vanity.

16 For there shall be no remembrance of the wise, nor of the fool ^{for ever}: for that that now is, in the days to come shall all be forgotten. And ^{how} dieth the wise man, as doth the fool?

17 Therefore I hated life: for the work that is wrought under the sun is grievous unto me: for all is vanity, and vexation of the spirit.

18 I hated also all my labour, wherein I had travailed under the sun, which I shall leave to the man that shall be after me.

19 And who knoweth whether he shall be wise or foolish? yet shall he have rule over all my labour wherein I have travailed, and where-

⁵ For all this, God did not take his gift of wisdom from me.

⁶ This was the fruit of all my labour, a certain pleasure mixt with care, which he calleth vanity in the next verse.

⁷ I bethought with myself whether it were better to follow wisdom, or mine own affections and pleasures, which he calleth madness.

⁸ He foreseeth things, which the fool cannot for lack of wisdom.

⁹ For both die and are forgotten, as ver. 16. or they both alike have prosperity or adversity.

¹⁰ Meaning in this world.

in I have shewed myself wise under the sun. This is also vanity.

20 Therefore I went about to make mine heart ^{abhor} all the labour wherein I had travailed under the sun, 21 For there is a man whose travail is in wisdom, and in knowledge, and in equity: yet to a man that hath not travailed herein, shall he ^{give} his portion: this also is vanity and a great grief.

22 For what hath man of all his travail and grief of his heart, wherein he hath travailed under the sun?

23 For all his days are sorrows, and his travail grief: his heart also taketh not rest in the night: which also is vanity.

24 There is no profit to man, but that he eat, and drink, and ^{delight} his soul with the profit of his labour: I saw also this, that it was of the hand of God.

25 For who could eat, and who could haste to ^{outward} things more than I?

26 Surely to a man that is good in his sight, God giveth wisdom, and knowledge, and joy: but to the sinner he giveth pain, to gather, and to heap, to give to him that is good before God: this is also vanity and vexation of the spirit.

C H A P. III.

1 All things have their time. 14 The works of God are perfect, and cause us to fear him. 17 God shall judge both the just and the unjust.

17 I thought in mine heart, God will judge the just and the wicked: for time is there for every purpose, and for every work.

18 I considered in my heart the state of the children of men, that God had purged them: yet to see to, they are in themselves as beasts.

19 For the condition of the children of men, and the condition of beasts are even as one condition unto them. As the one dieth, so dieth the other: for they have all one breath, and there is no excellency of man above the beast: for all is vanity.

20 All go to one place, and all was of the dust, and all shall return to the dust:

21 Who knoweth whether the spirit of man ascend upward, and the spirit of the beast descend downward to the earth?

22 Therefore I see that there is nothing better than that a man should rejoice in his affairs, because that is his portion. For who shall bring him to see what shall be after him?

C H A P. IV.

1 The innocents are oppressed. 4 Men's labours are full of abuse and vanity. 9 Man's society is necessary. 13 A young man poor and wise, is to be preferred to an old king that is a fool.

SO I turned and considered all the oppressions that are wrought under the sun, and behold, the tears of the oppressed, and none comforteth them: and lo, the strength is of the hand

^e God hath given man a desire and affection to seek out the things of this world, and to labour therein.

^b Read ch. 2. 24. and these places declare, that we should do all things with sobriety, and to the fear of God, forasmuch as he giveth not his gifts to the intent that they should be abused.

ⁱ That is, man shall never be able to let God's work, but as he hath determined, so it shall come to pass.

^k God only causeth that which is past to return.

^l Meaning, with God, howsoever man neglect his duty.

^m And made them pure in their first creation.

ⁿ Man is not able by his reason and judgment to put difference between man and beast, as touching those things whereunto both are subject: for the eye cannot judge any otherwise of a man being dead, than of a beast which is dead: yet by the word of God and faith, we easily know the diversity, as ver. 21.

^o Meaning, that reason cannot comprehend that which faith believeth herein.

^p By the often repetition of this sentence, as ch. 2. 24. and ch. 3. 12, 22. ch. 5. 27. and ch. 8. 15. he declareth, that man, by reason, can comprehend nothing better in this life, than to use the gifts of God soberly, and comfortably: for to know farther is a special gift of God revealed by his Spirit.

of them that oppress them, and none comforteth them.

2 Wherefore I praised the dead which now are dead, above the living which are yet alive.

3 And I count him better than them both, which hath not yet been: for he hath not seen the evil works which are wrought under the sun.

4 Also I beheld all travail, and all perfection of works, that this is the envy of a man against his neighbour: this also is vanity and vexation of spirit.

5 The fool holdeth his hands, and eateth up his own flesh.

6 Better is an handful with quietness, than two handfuls with labour and vexation of spirit.

7 Again I returned, and saw vanity under the sun.

8 There is one alone, and there is not a second, which hath neither son nor brother, yet is there no end of all his travail, neither can his eye be satisfied with riches: neither doth he think, For whom do I travail, and defraud my soul of pleasure? this also is vanity, and this is an evil travail.

9 Two are better than one: for they have better wages for their labour.

10 For if they fall, the one will lift up his fellow: but wo unto him that is alone: for he falleth, and there is not a second to lift him up.

11 Also, if two sleep together, then shall they have heat: but to one how should there be heat?

12 And if one overcome him, two shall stand against him: and a threefold cord is not easily broken.

13 Better is a poor and wise child, than an old and foolish king, which will no more be admonished.

14 For out of the prison he cometh forth to reign: when as he that is born in his kingdom is made poor.

15 Behold all the living which walk under the sun, with the second child, which shall stand up in his place.

16 There is no end of all the people, nor of all that were before them, and they that come after shall not rejoice in him: surely this is also vanity and vexation of spirit.

17 Take heed to thy foot when thou enterest into the house of God, and be more

7 E near

^q He maketh here another discourse with himself, concerning the tyranny of them that oppress the poor.

^r Because they are no more subject to their oppressors.

^s He speaketh according to the judgment of the flesh, which cannot abide to feel, or see troubles.

^t The more perfect that the work is, the more is it envied of the wicked.

^u For idleness he is compelled to destroy himself.

^w Forasmuch as when man is alone, he can neither help himself, nor others, he sheweth, that all men ought to live in mutual society, to the intent they may be profitable one to another, and that their things may increase.

^x By this proverb he declareth how necessary it is that men should live in society.

^y That is, from a poor and base estate, or out of trouble and prison, as Joseph did, Gen. 41. 14.

^z Meaning, that is born a king.

^a Which follow and flatter the king's son, or him that shall succeed, to enter into credit with them in hope of gain.

^b They never cease by all means to creep into favour: but when they obtain not their greedy desires, they think themselves abused, as others have been in time past, and care no more for him.

^c That is, with what affection thou comest to hear the word of God.

near to hear than to give the sacrifice of ^d fools : for they know not what they do.

C H A P. V.

1 Not to speak lightly, chiefly in God's matters. 9 The covetous can never have enough. 11 The labourer's sleep is sweet. 14 Man, when he dieth, taketh nothing with him. 18 To live joyfully, and with a contented mind, is the gift of God.

BE not ^e rash with thy mouth, nor let thine heart be hasty to utter a thing before God : for God is in the heavens, and thou art on the earth : therefore let thy words be ^f few.

2 For as a dream cometh by the multitude of business : so the voice of a fool is in the multitude of words.

3 * When thou hast vowed a vow to God, defer not to pay it : for he delighteth not in fools : pay therefore that thou hast ^g vowed.

4 It is better that thou shouldest not vow, than that thou shouldest vow and not pay it.

5 Suffer not thy mouth to make thy ^h flesh to sin : neither say before the ⁱ angel, that this is ignorance : wherefore shall God be angry by thy voice, and destroy the work of thine hands ?

6 For in the multitude of dreams and vanities are also many words : but fear thou God.

7 If in a country thou seest the oppression of the poor, and the defrauding of judgment and justice, be not astonished at the matter : for he that is ^k higher than the highest, regardeth, and there be higher than they.

8 And the ^l abundance of the earth is over all : the king ^m also consisteth by the field that is tilled.

9 He that loveth silver shall not be satisfied with silver, and he that loveth riches, shall be without the fruit thereof : this also is vanity.

10 When goods increase, they are increased that eat them : and what cometh to the owners thereof, but the beholding thereof with their eyes ?

11 The sleep of him that travaileth is sweet, whether he eat little or much : but the ⁿ satiety of the rich will not suffer him to sleep.

12 There is an evil sickness that I have seen under the sun, to wit, riches ^o reserved to the owners thereof for their evil.

13 And these riches perish by evil travail, and he begetteth a son, and in his ^p hand is nothing.

14 * As he came forth of his mother's belly, he shall return naked to go as he came, and shall bear away nothing of his labour, which he hath caused to pass by his hand.

15 And this also is an evil sickness, that in all points as he came, so shall he go : and what profit hath he that hath travailed for the ^q wind ?

16 Also all his days he eateth in ^r darkness with much grief, and in his sorrow and anger.

17 Behold then, what I have seen good, that is comely to ^s eat, and to drink, and to take pleasure in all his labour, wherein he travaileth under the sun, the whole number of the days of his life which God giveth him : for this is his portion.

18 Also to every man to whom God hath given riches and treasures, and giveth him power to eat thereof, and to take his part, and to enjoy his labour : this is the gift of God.

19 Surely he will not much remember the days of his ^t life, because God answereth to the joy of his heart.

C H A P. VI.

The miserable estate of him to whom God hath given riches, and not the grace to use them.

THERE is an evil which I saw under the sun, and it is much among men :

2 A man to whom God hath given riches, and treasures, and honour, and he wanteth nothing for his soul of all that it desireth : but ^u God giveth him not power to eat thereof, but a strange man shall eat it up : this is vanity, and this is an evil sickness.

3 If a man beget an hundred children, and live many years, and the days of his years be multiplied, and his soul be not ^v satisfied with good things, and he be not ^w buried, I say, that an untimely fruit is better than he.

4 For ^x he cometh into vanity, and goeth into darkness : and his name shall be covered with darkness.

5 Also he hath not seen the sun, nor known it : therefore this hath more rest than the other.

6 And if he hath lived a thousand years twice told, and had seen no good, shall not all go to one place ?

7 All the labour of man is for his mouth : yet the ^y soul is not filled.

8 For what hath the wise man more than the fool ? what hath the poor that ^z knoweth how to walk before the living ?

9 The ^a sight of the eye is better than to walk in the lusts : this also is vanity and vexation of spirit.

10 What

^d Meaning, of the wicked, which thinketh to please God with ceremonies, and have neither faith nor repentance.

^e Either in vowing or in praying, meaning, that we should use all reverence to Godward.

^f He heareth thee not for thy many words sake, or often repetitions, but considereth thy faith and fervent mind.

^g He speaketh of vows which are approved by God's word, and serve to his glory.

^h Cause not thyself to sin by vowing rashly, as they do which make a vow to live unmarried, and such like.

ⁱ That is, before God's messenger, when he shall examine thy doing : as though thy ignorance should be a just excuse.

^k Meaning, that God will redress these things, and therefore we must depend upon him.

^l The revenues of the earth are to be preferred above all things which appertain to this life.

^m Kings and princes cannot maintain their estate without tillage, which thing commendeth the excellency of tillage.

ⁿ That is, his great abundance of riches, or the surfeiting which cometh by his great feeding.

^o When covetous men heap up riches, which turn to their destruction.

^p He doth not enjoy his father's riches.

^q Meaning, in vain, and without profit.

^r In afflictions and grief of mind.

^s Read chap. 3. 22.

^t He will take no great thought for the pains that he hath endured in time past.

^u He sheweth that it is the plague of God, when the rich man hath not a liberal heart to use his riches.

^v If he can never have enough.

^w As we see oftentimes, that the covetous man either falleth into crimes that deserve death, or is murdered, or drowned, or hangeth himself, or such like : and so lacketh the honour of burial, which is the last office of humanity.

^x Meaning, the untimely fruit, whose life did neither profit or hurt any.

^y His desire and affection.

^z That knoweth to use his goods well in the judgment of men.

^a To be content with that which God hath given, is better than to follow the desires that never can be satisfied.

10 What is that that hath been? the name thereof is now named: and it is known that it is man: and he cannot strive with him that is stronger than he.

C H A P. VII.

Divers precepts to follow that which is good, and to avoid the contrary.

SURELY there be many things that increase vanity: and what availeth it a man?

2 For who knoweth what is good for man in the life and in the number of the days of the life of his vanity, seeing he maketh them as a

^a shadow? For who can shew unto man what shall be after him under the sun?

3 ^b A good name is better than a good ointment, and the day of ^c death than the day that one is born.

4 It is better to go to the house of mourning, than to go to the house of feasting, because this is the end of all men: and the living shall lay it to his heart.

5 Anger is better than laughter: for by a sad look the heart is made better.

6 The heart of the wise is in the house of mourning: but the heart of fools is in the house of mirth.

7 Better it is to hear the rebuke of a wise man, than that a man should hear the song of fools.

8 For like the noise of the ^d thorns under the pot, so is the laughter of the fool: this also is vanity.

9 Surely, oppression maketh a wise man ^e mad: and the reward destroyeth the heart.

10 The ^f end of a thing is better than the beginning thereof, and the patient in spirit is better than the proud in spirit.

11 Be not thou of an hasty spirit to be angry: for anger resteth in the bosom of fools.

12 Say not thou, Why is it that the former days were better than these? for thou dost not inquire ^g wisely of this thing.

13 Wisdom is good with an ^h inheritance, and excellent to them that see the sun.

14 For men shall rest in the shadow of wisdom, and in the shadow of silver: but the excellency of the knowledge of wisdom giveth life to the possessors thereof.

15 Behold the work of God: for who can ⁱ make ^j strait that which he hath made crooked?

16 In the day of wealth be of good comfort, and in the day of affliction ^k consider: God also hath made this contrary to that, to the intent that man should find ^l nothing after him.

^c Meaning, God, who will make him to feel that he is mortal.

^d There is no state wherein man can live to have perfect quietness in this life.

^e He speaketh thus after the judgment of the flesh, which thinketh death to be the end of all evils: or else, because that this corporal death is the entering into life everlasting.

^f Where we may see the hand of God, and learn to examine our lives.

^g Which crackle for a while, and profit nothing.

^h A man that is esteemed wise, when he falleth to oppression, becometh like a beast.

ⁱ He noteth their lightness, which enterprize a thing, and suddenly leave it off again.

^j Murmur not against God when he fendeth adversities for man's sins.

^k He answereth to them that esteem not wisdom, except riches be joined therewith, shewing that both are the gifts of God, but that wisdom is far more excellent, and may be without riches.

17 I have seen all things in the days of my vanity: there is a just man that perisheth in his ^m justice, and there is a wicked man that continueth long in his malice.

18 Be not thou just ⁿ overmuch, neither make thyself over-wise: wherefore shouldest thou be desolate?

19 Be not thou wicked ^o overmuch, neither be thou foolish: wherefore shouldest thou perish not in thy time?

20 It is good that thou lay hold ^p on this: but yet withdraw not thine hand from ^q that: for he that feareth God shall come forth of them all.

21 Wisdom shall strengthen the wise man, more than ten mighty princes that are in the city.

22 ^r Surely there is no man just in the earth, that doeth just, and sinneth not.

23 Give not thine ^s heart also to all the words that men speak, lest thou do hear thy servant cursing thee.

24 For oftentimes also thine heart knoweth that thou likewise hast ^t cursed others.

25 All this have I proved by wisdom: I thought I will be wise, but it went far from me.

26 It is far off, what may ^u it be? and it is a profound deepness, who can find it?

27 I have compassed about, both I and mine heart, to know and to inquire, and to search wisdom and reason, and to know the wickedness of folly, and the foolishness of madness,

28 And I find more bitter than death the woman whose heart is as nets and snares, and her hands as bands: he that is good before God shall be delivered from her, but the sinner shall be taken by her.

29 Behold, saith the Preacher, this have I found, seeking one by one to find ^v the count:

30 And yet my soul seeketh, but I find it not: I have found one man of a thousand: but a woman among them all have I not found.

31 Only so, this have I found, that God hath made man righteous: but they have sought many ^w inventions.

C H A P. VIII.

1 To obey princes and magistrates. 17 The works of God pass man's knowledge.

WH O is as the wise man? and who knoweth the interpretation of a thing? the wisdom of a man doth make his ^x face to shine: and the ^y strength of his face shall be changed.

2 I

^m Consider wherefore God doth send it, and what may comfort thee.

ⁿ That man should be able to controul nothing in his works.

^o Meaning, that cruel tyrants put the godly to death, and let the wicked go free.

^p Boast not too much of thine own justice and wisdom.

^q Tarry not long when thou art admonished to come out of the way of wickedness.

^r To wit, on these admonitions that go before.

^s Consider what desolation and destruction shall come, if thou do not obey them.

^t Credit them not, neither care for them.

^u Meaning, wisdom.

^v That is, to come to a conclusion.

^w And so are cause of their own destruction.

^x That is, doth get him favour and prosperity.

^y Whereas before he was proud and arrogant, he shall become humble and meek.

2 I advise thee to take heed to the ^a mouth of the king, and to the word of the oath of God.

3 Haste not to go forth of his sight: stand not in an evil thing: for he will do whatsoever pleaseth him.

4 Where the word of the king is, there is power, and who shall say unto him, What dost thou?

5 He that keepeth the commandment, shall know none evil thing, and the heart of the wise shall know the ^c time and judgment.

6 For to every purpose there is a time and judgment, because the ^d misery of man is great upon him.

7 For he knoweth not that which shall be: for who can tell him when it shall be?

8 Man is not lord ^e over the spirit to retain the spirit, neither hath he power in the day of death, nor deliverance in the battle, neither shall wickedness deliver the possessors thereof.

9 All this have I seen, and have given mine heart to every work which is wrought under the sun, and I saw a time that man ruleth over man to his own ^f hurt.

10 And likewise I saw the wicked buried, and ^g they returned, and they that came from the holy ^h place were yet forgotten in the city where they had done right: this also is vanity.

11 Because sentence against an evil work is not ⁱ executed speedily, therefore the heart of the children of men is fully set in them to do evil.

12 Though a sinner do evil an hundred times, and God prolongeth his days, yet I know that it shall be well with them that fear the Lord, and do reverence before him.

13 But it shall not be well to the wicked, neither shall he prolong his days: he shall be like a shadow, because he feareth not before God.

14 There is a vanity which is done upon the earth, that there be righteous men to whom it cometh according to ^k the work of the wicked: and there be wicked men to whom it cometh according to the work of the just: I thought also that this is vanity.

15 And I praised joy: for there is no goodness to man; under the sun, save to ^l eat and to drink, and to rejoice: for this is adjoined to his labour, the days of his life that God hath given him under the sun.

16 Then I applied mine heart to know wisdom, and to behold the business that is done on earth, that neither day nor night the eyes of man take sleep.

17 Then I beheld the whole work of God, that man cannot find out the work that is wrought under the sun: for the which man laboureth to seek it, and cannot find it: yea, and though the wise man think to know it, he cannot find it.

CHAP. IX.

1 By no outward thing can man know whom God loveth, or hateth. 12 No man knoweth his end. 16 Wisdom excelleth strength.

I Have surely given mine heart to all this, and to declare all this, that the just and the wise, and their works are in the hand of God: and no man knoweth either love or ^m hatred of all that is before them.

2 All things come alike to all: and the same condition is to the just and to the wicked, to the good and to the pure, and to the polluted, and to him that sacrificeth not: as is the good, ⁿ so is the sinner: he that sweareth, as he that feareth an oath.

3 This is evil among all that is done under the sun, that there is one ^o condition to all, and also the heart of the sons of men is full of evil, and manneis is in their hearts while they live, and after that they go to the dead.

4 Surely, whosoever is joined to all the living, there is hope: for it is better to a ^p living dog, than to a dead lion.

5 For the living know that they shall die, but the dead know nothing at all: neither have they any more a reward: for their remembrance is forgotten:

6 Also their love, and their hatred, and their envy is now perished, and they have no more portion for ever, in all that is done under the sun.

7 Go, eat thy bread with joy, and drink thy wine with a chearful heart: for God now ^q accepteth thy works.

8 At all times let thy garments be ^r white, and let not oil be lacking upon thine head.

9 [†] Rejoice with the wife whom thou hast loved all the days of the life of thy vanity, which God hath given thee under the sun all the days of thy vanity: for this is thy portion in the life, and in the travail wherein thou labourest under the sun.

10 All that thine hand shall find to do, do it with all thy power: for there is neither work nor invention, nor knowledge, nor wisdom in the grave whither thou goest.

11 I returned, and I saw under the sun that the race is not to the swift, nor the battle to the strong, nor yet bread to the wise, nor also riches to men of understanding, neither yet favour to men

^a That is, that thou obey the king, and keep the oath that thou hast made for the same cause.

^b Withdraw not thyself lightly from the obedience of thy prince.

^c That is, when time is to obey, and how far he should obey.

^d Man of himself is miserable, and therefore ought to do nothing to increase the same, but to work all things by wisdom and counsel.

^e Man hath no power to save his own life, and therefore must not rashly cast himself into danger.

^f As cometh oft-times to tyrants, and wicked rulers.

^g That is, others as wicked as they.

^h They that feared God, and worshipped him according as he had appointed.

ⁱ Where justice is delayed, there sin reigneth,

^j Which are punished, as though they were wicked, as chap. 10.

² Meaning, what things he ought to chuse or refuse: or man knoweth not by these outward things, that is, by prosperity or adversity, whom God doth favour or hate: for he sendeth them as well to the wicked as to the godly.

³ In outward things, as riches and poverty, sickness and health, there is no difference between the godly and the wicked: but the difference is, that the godly are assured, by faith, of God's favour and assistance.

⁵ They flatter themselves to be in God's favour, because they have all things in abundance.

⁶ Rejoice, be merry, and spare for no cost: thus speak the wicked belly-gods.

men of knowledge: but time and^r chance cometh to them all.

12 For neither doth man know^a his time: but as the fishes, which are taken in an evil net, and as the birds that are caught in the snare, so are the children of men snared in the evil time, when it falleth upon them suddenly.

13 I have also seen this wisdom under the sun, and it is great unto me:

14 A little city and few men in it, and a great king came against it, and compassed it, and builded forts against it:

15 And there was found therein a poor and wife man, and he delivered the city by his wisdom: but none remembered this poor man.

16 Then said I, Better is wisdom than strength: yet the wisdom of the poor is despised, and his words are not heard.

17 The words of the wise are more heard in quietness, than the cry of him that ruleth among fools.

18 Better is wisdom than weapons of war: but one sinner destroyeth much good.

C H A P. X.

1 The difference of foolishness and wisdom. 11 A slanderer is like a serpent that cannot be charmed.
16 Of foolish kings and drunken princes, 17 and of good kings and princes.

DEAD flies cause to stink, and putrify the ointment of the apothecary: so doth a little folly him that is in estimation for wisdom, and for glory.

2 The heart of a^r wise man is at his right hand: but the heart of a fool is at his left hand.

3 And also when the fool goeth by the way, his heart faileth, and he^u telleth unto all that he is a fool.

4 If the^w spirit of him that ruleth, rise up against thee, leave not thy place: for gentleness pacifieth great sins.

5 There is an evil that I have seen under the sun, as an^x error that proceedeth from the face of him that ruleth.

6 Folly is set in great excellency, and the^y rich set in the low place.

7 I have seen servants on horses, and princes walking as servants on the ground.

8 * He that diggeth a pit shall fall into it, and he that breaketh a hedge, a serpent shall bite him.

12 The words of the mouth of a wise man have grace: but the lips of a fool devour himself.

16 Wo to thee, O land, when thy king is a^b child, and thy princes^c eat in the morning.

17 Blessed art thou, O land, when thy king is the son^d of nobles, and thy princes eat in time for strength and not for drunkenness.

18 By slothfulness the roof of the house goeth to decay, and by the idleness of the hands the house droppeth through.

19 They prepare bread for laughter, and wine comforteth the living, but silver answereth to all.

20 Curse not the king, no not in thy thought, neither curse the rich in thy bed-chamber; for the^e fowl of the heaven shall carry the voice, that which hath wings, shall declare the matter.

4 He that observeth theⁱ wind, shall not sow, and he that regardeth the clouds, shall not reap.

5 As thou knowest not which is the way of the spirit, nor how the bones do grow in the womb of her that is with child: so thou knowest not the work of God that worketh all.

6 In the morning sow thy seed, and in the evening let not thine hand^k rest: for thou knowest not whether shall prosper, this or^l that, or whether both shall be alike good.

THE ARGUMENT.

God, according to his promise, Deut. 18. 15. that he would never leave his church destitute of a prophet, hath from time to time accomplished the same: whose office was not only to declare to the people the things to come, whereof they had a special revelation, but also to interpret and declare the law, and to apply particularly ticularly the doctrine contained briefly therein, to the utility and profit of those to whom they thought it chiefly to appertain, and as the time and state of things required. And principally in the declaration of the law, they had respect to three things, which were the ground of their doctrine: First, to the doctrine contained briefly in the two tables: secondly, to the promises and threatenings of the law: and thirdly, to the covenant of grace and reconciliation, grounded upon our Saviour Jesus Christ, who is the end of the law; whereunto they neither added nor diminished, but faithfully expounded the sense and meaning thereof. And according as God gave them understanding of things, they applied the promises particularly for the comfort of the church and the members thereof, and also denounced the menaces against the enemies of the same: not for any care or regard to the enemies, but to assure the church of their safeguard by the destruction of their enemies. And as touching the doctrine of reconciliation, they have more clearly intreated it than Moses, and set forth more lively Jesus Christ, in whom the covenant of reconciliation was made. In all these things, Isaiah did excel all the prophets, and was most diligent to set out the same, with most vehement admonitions, reprehensions, and consolations: ever applying the doctrine as he saw that the disease of the people required. He declareth also many notable prophecies which he had received of God, as touching the promise of the Messiah, his office, and his kingdom. Also of the favour of God toward his church, the vocation of the Gentiles, and their union with the Jews, which are as most principal points contained in this book, and a gathering of his sermons that he had preached: which after certain days that they had stood upon the temple-door (for the manner of the prophets was to set up the sum of their doctrine for certain days, that the people might the better mark it, as Isa. 8. 1. and Hab. 2. 2.) the priests took it down, and reserved it among their registers: and so, by God's providence, these books were preserved as a monument to the church for ever. As touching his person and time, he was of the king's stock (for Amos his father was brother to Azariah king of Judah, as the best writers agree) and prophesied for more than sixty four years, from the time of Uzziab unto the reign of Manasseh, whose father-in-law he was (as the Hebrews write) and of whom he was put to death. And in reading of the prophets, this one thing among others is to be observed, that they speak of things to come as though they were now past, because of the certainty thereof, and that they could not but come to pass, because God had ordained them in his secret counsel, and so revealed them to his prophets.

15 And when you shall stretch out your hands, I will hide mine eyes from you: and though ye make many prayers, I will not hear: for your hands are full of blood.

16 Wash you, make you clean: take away the evil of your works from before mine eyes: cease to do evil, 17 Learn to do well: seek judgment, relieve the oppressed, judge the fatherless, and defend the widow.

18 Come now, and let us reason together, saith the Lord: though your sins were as crimson, they shall be made white as snow: though they were red like scarlet, they shall be as wool:

19 If ye consent and obey, ye shall eat the good things of the land.

20 But if ye refuse and be rebellious, ye shall be devoured with the sword: for the mouth of the Lord hath spoken it.

21 How is the faithful city become an harlot! it was full of judgment, and justice lodged therein, but now they are murderers.

22 Thy silver is become dross: thy wine is mixed with water.

23 Thy princes are rebellious and companions of thieves: every one loveth gifts, and followeth after rewards: they judge not the fatherless, neither doth the widow's cause come before them.

24 Therefore saith the Lord God of hosts, the mighty one of Israel, Ah, I will ease me of mine adversaries, and avenge me of mine enemies.

25 Then I will turn mine hand upon thee, and burn out thy dross, till it be pure, and take away all thy tin.

26 And I will restore thy judges as at the first, and thy counsellors as at the beginning: afterward shalt thou be called a city of righteousness, and a faithful city.

27 Zion shall be redeemed in judgment, and they that return in her, in justice.

28 And the destruction of the transgressors and of the sinners shall be together: and they that forsake the Lord shall be consumed.

29 For they shall be confounded for the oaks which ye have desired, and ye shall be ashamed of the gardens that ye have chosen.

30 For ye shall be as an oak; whose leaf fadeth: and as a garden that hath no water.

31 And the strong shall be as tow, and the maker thereof as a spark: and they shall both burn together, and none shall quench them.

2 The church shall be restored by Christ, and the Gentiles called. 6 The punishment of the rebellious and obstinate.

THE word that Isaiah the son of Amos, saw upon Judah and Jerusalem.

2 It shall be in the last days, that the mountain of the house of the Lord shall be prepared in the top of the mountains, and shall be exalted above the hills, and all nations shall flow unto it. * Mich. 4.

3 And many people shall go, and say, Come, and let us go up to the mountain of the Lord, and to the house of the God of Jacob, and he will teach us his ways, and we will walk in his paths: for the law shall go forth of Zion, and the word of the Lord from Jerusalem. * Mich. 4.

4 And he shall judge among the nations, and rebuke many people: they shall break their

¹ Though God commended these sacrifices for a time, as aids and exercises of their faith: yet because the people had not faith nor repentance, God detesteth them, as Psalm 50. 13. Jer. 6. 20. Amos 5. 22. Micah 6. 7.

² Without faith and repentance.

³ Your sacrifices offered in the new moons and feasts: he condemneth hereby hypocrites, which think to please God with ceremonies, and they themselves are void of faith and mercy.

⁴ He sheweth, that where men be given to avarice, deceit, cruelty, and extortion, which is meant by blood, there God will shew his anger, and not accept them, though they seem never so holy, as ch. 59. 3.

⁵ By this outward washing, he meaneth the spiritual: exhorting the Jews to repent and amend their lives.

⁶ This kind of reasoning by the second table, the scriptures use in many places against the hypocrites, who pretend much holiness and religion in word, but when their charity and love toward their brethren should appear, they declare that they have neither faith nor religion.

⁷ To know if I do accuse you without a cause.

⁸ Let sinners should pretend any rigour on God's part, he only willeth them to be pure in heart, and he will forgive all their sins, were they never so many or great.

⁹ He sheweth, that whatsoever adversity a man endureth, it ought to be attributed to his own incredulity and disobedience.

¹⁰ That is, Jerusalem, which had promised fidelity unto me, as a wife to her husband.

¹¹ Given to covetousness and extortion, which he signified before by blood, ver. 15.

¹² Whatsoever was pure in thee before, is now corrupt, though thou have an outward shew.

¹³ That is, they maintain the wicked and the extortioners, and not only do not punish them, but are themselves such.

¹⁴ When God will shew himself merciful to his church, he calleth himself, The Holy one of Israel: but when he hath to do with his enemies, he is called Mighty, as against whom no power is able to resist.

¹⁵ I will take vengeance of mine adversaries the Jews, and so satisfy my desire by punishing them. Which thing yet he doth with a grief, because of his covenant.

¹⁶ Lest the faithful among them should be overcome with this threatening, he addeth this consolation.

¹⁷ It is only the work of God to purify the heart of man, which thing he doth because of his promise made concerning the salvation of his church.

¹⁸ By justice is meant, God's faithful promise, which is the cause of the deliverance of his church.

¹⁹ The wicked shall not be partakers of God's promise, Psalm 92. 9.

²⁰ That is, the trees and pleasant places, where ye commit idolatry, which was forbidden, Deut. 16. 22.

²¹ The false god, wherein ye put your confidence, shall be consumed as easily as a piece of tow.

²² The decree and ordinance of God, touching the restoration of the church, which is chiefly meant of the time of Christ.

²³ In an evident place to be seen and discerned.

²⁴ When the kingdom of Christ shall be enlarged by the preaching of the doctrine. Here also is declared the zeal of the children of God, when they are called.

²⁵ Alluding to mount Zion, where the visible church then was.

²⁶ Meaning, the whole doctrine of salvation.

²⁷ This was accomplished when the gospel was first preached in Jerusalem, and from thence went through all the world.

²⁸ The Lord, which is Christ, shall have all power given him.

²⁹ They that may acknowledge their sins and turn to him.

³⁰ He sheweth the fruit of the peace which the gospel should bring: to wit, that men should do good one to another, whereas before they were enemies.

their swords also into mattocks, and their spears to scythes: nation shall not lift up a sword against nation, neither shall they learn to fight any more.

5 O house of Jacob, come ye, and let us walk in the light of the Lord.

6 Surely thou hast forsaken thy people, the house of Jacob, because they are full of the east manners, and are sorcerers as the Philistines, and abound with strange children.

7 Their land also was full of silver and gold, and there was no end of their treasures: and their land was full of horses, and their chariots were infinite.

8 Their land also was full of idols: they worshipped the work of their own hands, which their own fingers have made:

9 And a man bowed himself, and a man humbled himself: therefore spare them not.

10 Enter into the rock, and hide thee in the dust from before the fear of the Lord, and from the glory of his Majesty.

11 The high look of man shall be humbled, and the loftiness of men shall be abased, and the Lord only shall be exalted in that day.

12 For the day of the Lord of hosts is upon all the proud and haughty, and upon all that is exalted: and it shall be made low.

13 Even upon all the cedars of Lebanon, that are high and exalted, and upon all the oaks of Bashan:

14 And upon all the high mountains, and upon all the hills that are lifted up:

15 And upon every high tower, and upon every strong wall:

16 And upon all the ships of Tarshish, and upon all pleasant pictures.

17 And the haughtiness of men shall be brought low, and the loftiness of men shall be abased, and the Lord shall only be exalted in that day.

18 And the idols shall he utterly destroy.

19 Then they shall go into the holes of the rocks, and into the caves of the earth, from before the fear of the Lord, and from the glory of his Majesty, when he shall arise to destroy the earth.

20 At that day man shall cast away his silver idols and his golden idols (which they had made themselves to worship them) to the moles and to the bats,

21 To go into the holes of the rocks, and unto the tops of the ragged rocks, from before the fear of the Lord, and from the glory of his Majesty, when he shall arise to destroy the earth.

22 Cease you from the man whose breath is in his nostrils: for wherein is he to be esteemed?

C H A P. III.

1 For the sin of the people God will take away the wise men, and give them foolish princes. 14 The covetousness of the governors. 16 The pride of the women.

FOR lo, the Lord God of hosts will take away from Jerusalem and from Judah the stay and the strength: even all the stay of bread, and all the stay of water:

2 The strong man, and the man of war, the judge and the prophet, the prudent and the aged:

3 The captain of fifty, and the honourable, and the counsellor, and the cunning artificer, and the eloquent man.

4 And I will appoint children to be their princes, and babes shall rule over them.

5 The people shall be oppressed one of another: and every one by his neighbour: the children shall presume against the ancient, and the vile against the honourable.

6 When every one shall take hold of his brother of the house of his father, and say, Thou hast cloathing: thou shalt be our prince, and let this fall be under thine hand:

7 In that day he shall swear, saying, I cannot be an helper: for there is no bread in mine house, nor cloathing: therefore make me no prince of the people.

8 Doubtless Jerusalem is fallen, and Judah is fallen down, because their tongue and works are against the Lord, to provoke the eyes of his glory.

9 The trial of their countenance testifieth against them: yea, they declare their sins as Sodom: they hide them not. Wo be unto their souls: for they have rewarded evil unto themselves.

10 Say ye, Surely it shall be well with the just: for they shall eat the fruit of their works.

11 Wo be to the wicked, it shall be evil with him: for the reward of his hands shall be given him.

in strong holds and in their rich merchandize, which brought in vain pleasures, wherewith men's minds became effeminate.

^m They shall cast them into most vile and filthy places, when they perceive that they are not able to help them.

ⁿ Cast off your vain confidence of man, whose life is so frail, that if his nose be stopped, he is dead; and consider that you have to do with God:

^o Because they trusted in their abundance and prosperity; he sheweth that they should be taken from them.

^p The temporal governor; and the minister.

^q By these he meaneth, that God would take away every thing that was in any estimation, and wherein they had any occasion to vaunt themselves.

^r Not only in age, but in wit, manners, knowledge and strength.

^s For lack of good regiment and order.

^t He sheweth that this plague shall be so horrible, that contrary to the common manner of men, which by nature are ambitious, none shall be found able or willing to be their governor.

^u Fear shall rather cause him to forswear himself, than to take such a dangerous charge upon him.

^w When God shall examine their deeds whereupon they now set an impudent face, he shall find the mark of their impiety in their forehead.

^x Be ye that are godly; assured, that God will defend you in the midst of these troubles.

^a He speaketh not against the use of weapons and lawful war, but sheweth how the hearts of the godly shall be affected one toward another: which peace and love doth begin and grow in this life, but shall be perfected when we are joined with our head Christ Jesus.

^b Seeing the Gentiles will be so ready, make you haste, and shew them the way to worship God.

^c The prophet seeing the small hope that the Jews would convert, complaineth to God, as though he had utterly forsaken them for their sins.

^d Full of the corruptions that reigned chiefly in the East parts.

^e They altogether give themselves to the fashions of other nations.

^f The prophet first condemned their superstition and idolatry: next, their covetousness; and thirdly, their vain trust in worldly means.

^g He noteth the nature of the idolaters, which are never satisfied in their superstitions.

^h Thus the prophet spake, being inflamed with the zeal of God's glory, and that he might awe them with God's judgments.

12 Children are extortioners of my people, and women have rule over them: O my people, they that lead thee cause thee to err, and destroy the way of thy paths.

13 The Lord standeth up to plead, yea, he standeth to judge the people.

14 The Lord shall enter into judgment with the ancients of his people, and the princes thereof: for ye have eaten up the vineyard: the spoil of the poor is in your houses.

15 What have ye to do that ye beat my people to pieces, and grind the faces of the poor, saith the Lord, even the Lord of hosts?

16 The Lord also saith, Because the daughters of Zion are haughty, and walk with stretched-out necks, and with wandering eyes, walking and mincing as they go, and making a tinkling with their feet, 17 Therefore shall the Lord make the heads of the daughters of Zion bald, and the Lord shall discover their secret parts.

18 In that day shall the Lord take away the ornament of the slippers, and the cauls, and the round tires,

19 The sweet balls, and the bracelets, and the bonnets,

20 The tires of the head, and the sops, and the head-bands, and the tablets, and the car-rings,

21 The rings, and the mufflers,

22 The costly apparel, and the veils, and the wimples, and the crispin pins,

23 And the glasses, and the fine linen, and the hoods, and the lawns,

24 And instead of sweet savour, there shall be stink: and instead of a girdle, a rent: and instead of dressing of the hair, baldness: and instead of a stomacher, a girding of sackcloth: and burning instead of beauty.

25 Thy men shall fall by the sword, and thy strength in the battle.

26 Then shall her gates mourn and lament, and she being desolate, shall sit upon the ground.

CHAP. IV.

1 The small remnant of men after the destruction of Jerusalem. 2 The graces of God upon them that remain.

¹ Because the wicked people were more addicted to their princes than to the commandments of God, he sheweth that he would give them such princes, by whom they should have no help, but that should be manifest tokens of his wrath, because they should be fools and effeminate.

² Meaning, that the rulers and governors had destroyed his church, and not preserved it according to their duty.

³ That is, ye shew all cruelty against them.

⁴ He menaceth the people, because of the arrogancy and pride of their women, which gave themselves to all wantonness and dissolution.

⁵ Which declared their pride.

⁶ As a sign that they were not chaste.

⁷ Which shewed their wantonness.

⁸ They delighted then in slippers that did creak, or had little plates sewed upon them, which tinkled as they went.

⁹ In rehearsing all these things particularly, he sheweth the lightness and vanity of such as cannot be content with comely apparel according to their degree.

¹⁰ Meaning, that God will not only punish the women, but their husbands, which have suffered this dissoluteness, and also the commonweal, which hath not remedied it.

¹¹ When God shall execute this vengeance, there shall not be one man found to be the head to many women; and they, contrary to womanly shamesfacedness, shall seek unto men, and offer themselves to any condition.

¹² Be thou our husband, and let us be called thy wives.

¹³ For so they thought it to be without an head and husband.

¹⁴ He comforteth the church in this desolation, which

AND in that day shall seven women take hold of one man, saying, We will eat our own bread, and we will wear our own garments: only let us be called by thy name, and take away our reproach.

2 In that day shall the bud of the Lord be beautiful and glorious, and the fruit of the earth shall be excellent and pleasant for them that are escaped of Israel.

3 Then he that shall be left in Zion, and he that shall remain in Jerusalem, shall be called Holy, and every one shall be written among the living in Jerusalem.

4 When the Lord shall wash the filthiness of the daughters of Zion, and purge the blood of Jerusalem out of the midst thereof by the spirit of judgment, and by the spirit of burning.

5 And the Lord shall create upon every place of mount Zion, and upon the assemblies thereof, a cloud and smoak by day, and the shining of a flaming fire by night: for upon all the glory shall be a defence,

6 And a covering shall be for a shadow in the day for the heat, and a place of refuge and a covert for the storm, and for the rain.

CHAP. V.

3 Under the similitude of the vine he describeth the state of the people. 8 Of their avarice. 11 Their drunkenness. 13 Of their captivity.

NOW will I sing to my Beloved a song of my beloved to his vineyard. * My beloved had a vineyard in a very fruitful hill.

* Jer. 2. 21
Matt. 21. 33

2 And he hedged it, and gathered out the stones of it, and he planted it with the best plants, and he built a tower in the midst thereof, and made a wine-press therein: then he looked that it should bring forth grapes: but it brought forth wild grapes.

3 Now therefore, O inhabitants of Jerusalem, and men of Judah, judge, I pray you, between me and my vineyard.

4 What could I have done any more to my vineyard that I have not done unto it? why have I looked that it should bring forth grapes, and it bringeth forth wild grapes?

5 And now I will tell you what I will do to my vineyard: I will take away the hedge there-shall spring up like a bud, signifying that God's graces should be as plentiful toward the faithful, as though they sprang out of the earth, as chap. 45. 8. Some by the bud of the Lord, mean Christ.

² He alludeth to the book of life, whereof read Exod. 32. 32. meaning, God's secret counsel, wherein his elect are predestinated to life everlasting.

³ That is, the cruelty, extortion, avarice, and all wickedness.

⁴ When things shall be redressed that were amiss.

⁵ He alludeth to the pillar of the cloud, Exod. 13. 21. meaning, that God's favour and protection should appear in every place.

⁶ The faithful are called the glory of God, because his image, and tokens of his grace shine in them.

⁷ God promiseth to be the defence of his church against all troubles and dangers.

⁸ The prophet by this song doth set before the people's eyes their ingratitude and God's mercies.

⁹ That is, to God.

¹⁰ Meaning, that he had planted his church in a place most plentiful and abundant.

¹¹ He spared no diligence nor cost.

¹² In the seventh verse he declareth what they were.

¹³ He maketh them judges in their own cause, forasmuch as it was evident that they were the cause of their own ruin.

¹⁴ I will take no more care for it: meaning, that he would take from them his word and ministers, and all other comforts, and send them contrary plagues.

of, and it shall be eaten up: I will break the wall thereof, and it shall be trodden down:

6 And I will lay it waste: it shall not be cut, nor digged, but briars and thorns shall grow up: I will also command the clouds that they rain no rain upon it.

7 ¶ Surely the vineyard of the Lord of hosts is the house of Israel, and the men of Judah are his pleasant plant, and he looked for judgment, but behold oppression: for righteousness, and behold a crying.

8 Wo unto them that join house to house, and lay field to field, till there be no place, that ye may be placed by yourselves in the midst of the earth.

9 This is in mine ears, saith the Lord of hosts, Surely many houses shall be desolate, even great and fair without inhabitant.

10 For ten acres of vines shall yield one bath, and the seed of an omer shall yield an ephah.

11 ¶ Wo unto them that rise up early to follow drunkenness: and to them that continue until night, till the wine do inflame them.

12 And the harp and viol, timbrel and pipe, and wine are in their feasts: but they regard not the work of the Lord, neither consider the work of his hands.

13 Therefore my people is gone into captivity, because they had no knowledge, and the glory thereof are men famished, and the multitude thereof is dried up with thirst.

14 Therefore hell hath enlarged itself: and hath opened his mouth without measure, and their glory, and their multitude, and their pomp, and he that rejoiceth among them, shall descend into it.

15 And man shall be brought down, and man shall be humbled, even the eyes of the proud shall be humbled.

16 And the Lord of hosts shall be exalted in judgment, and the holy God shall be sanctified in justice.

17 Then shall the lambs feed after their manner, and the strangers shall eat the desolate places of the fat.

18 ¶ Wo unto them that draw iniquity with cords of vanity, and sin as with cart-ropes:

19 Which say, Let him make speed: let him hasten his work, that we may see it: and let the counsel of the holy One of Israel draw near and come, that we may know it.

^b Judgment and righteousness are true fruits of the fear of God, and therefore in the cruel oppressors there is no religion.

^c Of them that are oppressed.

^d To wit, for the poor to dwell in.

^e I have heard the complaint and cry of the poor.

^f Which containeth about ten pottles: so that every acre should but yield one pottle.

^g Which containeth an hundred pottles.

^h An ephah containeth ten pottles, and is in dry things, as much as a bath is in liquors.

ⁱ That spare no pain nor diligence to follow their lusts.

^k Which are never weary of their rioting and excessive pleasures: but use all means to provoke to the same.

^l They regard not the providence of God over them, nor for what end he hath created them.

^m That is, shall certainly go: for so the prophet used to speak, as though the thing which shall come to pass, were done already.

ⁿ Because they would not obey the word of God.

^o Meaning, the grave shall swallow up them that shall die for hunger and thirst, and yet for all this great destruction it shall never be satiate.

^p God comforteth the poor lambs of his church, which had been strangers in other countries, promising that they 20 Wo unto them that speak good of evil, and evil of good: which put darkness for light, and light for darkness: that put bitter for sweet, and sweet for sour.

21 Wo unto them that are wise in their own eyes, and prudent in their own sight.

22 Wo unto them that are mighty to drink wine, and to them that are strong to pour in strong drink:

23 Which justify the wicked for a reward, and take away the righteousness of the righteous from him.

24 Therefore as the flame of fire devoureth the stubble, and as the chaff is consumed of the flame: so their root shall be as rottenness, and their bud shall rise up like dust, because they have cast off the law of the Lord of hosts, and contemned the word of the holy One of Israel.

25 Therefore is the wrath of the Lord kindled against his people, and he hath stretched out his hand upon them, and hath smitten them that the mountains did tremble: and their carcases were torn in the midst of the streets, and for all this his wrath was not turned away, but his hand was stretched out still.

26 And he will lift up a sign unto the nations afar, and will hiss unto them from the end of the earth: and behold, they shall come hastily with speed.

27 None shall faint nor fall among them: none shall slumber nor sleep, neither shall the girdle of his loins be loosed, nor the latchet of his shoes be broken:

28 Whose arrows shall be sharp, and all his bows bent: his horse-hoofs shall be thought like flint, and his wheels like a whirlwind.

29 His roaring shall be like a lion, and he shall roar like lions whelps: they shall roar, and lay hold of the prey: they shall take it away, and none shall deliver it.

30 And in that day they shall roar upon them, as the roaring of the sea: and if they look unto the earth, behold, darkness and sorrow, and the light shall be darkened in their sky.

⁶ Then flew one of the seraphims unto me with an hot coal in his hand, ^q which he had taken from the ^r altar with the tongs:

⁷ And he touched my mouth, and said, Lo, this hath touched thy lips, and thine iniquity shall be taken away, and thy ^s sin shall be purged.

¹¹ Then said I, Lord, ^u how long? And he answered, Until the cities be wasted without inhabitant, and the houses without man: and the land be utterly desolate, ¹² And the Lord have removed men far away, and ^v there be a great desolation in the midst of the land.

¹⁴ Christ is promised.

AND in the days of ^{} Ahaz, the son of Jo- ^{ 2 Kings}atham, the son of Uzziah king of Judah, ^{16. 5.} Rezin the king of [†] Aram ^{*} came up, and Pekah the son of Remaliah king of Israel, to Jerusalem, to fight against it: but he could not overcome it.

² And it was told the house of ^y David, saying, Aram is joined with ^z Ephraim: therefore his heart was ^a moved, and the heart of his people, as the trees of the forest are moved by the wind.

³ ¶ Then said the Lord unto Isaiah, Go forth now to meet Ahaz (thou and ^b Shear-jashub) at the end of the conduit of the upper pool, in the path of the fuller's field,

⁴ And say unto him, Take heed, and be still: fear not, neither be faint-hearted for the two tails of these smoking ^c firebrands, for the furious wrath of Rezin, and of Aram, and of Remaliah's son:

⁵ Because Aram hath taken wicked counsel against thee, and Ephraim and Remaliah's son, saying,

^l Which thing declared the prompt obedience of the angels to execute God's commandment.

^m This oft repetition signifieth, that the holy angels cannot satisfy themselves in praising God: to teach us, that in all our lives we should give ourselves to the continual praise of God.

ⁿ His glory doth not only appear in the heavens, but through all the world, and therefore all creatures are bound to praise him.

^o Which things were to confirm the prophet, that it was not the voice of man: and by the smok was signified the blindness that should come upon the Jews.

^p He speaketh this for two causes: the one, because he that was a mortal creature, and therefore had more need to glorify God than the angels, did it not: and the other, because the more near that man approacheth to God, the more doth he know his own sin and corruption.

Acts 28. 26. Rom. 11. 8.

^t As he was moved with the zeal of God's glory, so was he touched with a charitable affection toward the people.

^u Meaning, the tenth part: or, as some write, it was revealed to Isaiah, for the confirmation of his prophesy, that ten kings should come before their captivity, as were from Uzziah to Zedekiah.

^v For the fewness they shall seem to be eaten up: yet they shall after flourish as a tree, which in winter loseth his leaves and seemeth to be dead, yet in summer is fresh and green.

^w To wit, the second time: for in the first battle Ahaz was overcome.

^x Meaning the king's house.

^y That is, Israel, because that tribe was the greatest, Gen. 48. 19.

^z For fear.

^a That is to say, the rest shall return: which name Isaiah gave his son, to signify that the rest of the people should return out of their captivity.

^b Which have but a little smok and shall quickly be quenched.

^c Which was an Israelite, and as seemeth an enemy to the house of David.

^d Counting from the five and twentieth year of the reign of Uzziah, at what time Amos prophesied this thing, and now Isaiah confirmeth, that the Israelites should be led into perpetual captivity, which thing came to pass within twenty years after that Isaiah did this message.

ISAIAH'S VISION.

G. Burder Sculp.

the head of Samaria is Remaliah's son. If ye believe not, surely ye shall not be established.

10 ¶ And the Lord spake again unto Ahaz, saying,

11 Ask ^f a sign for thee of the Lord thy God : ask it either in the depth beneath, or in the height above.

12 But Ahaz said, I will not ask, neither will I ^s tempt the Lord.

13 Then he said, Hear ye now, O house of David, is it a small thing for you to grieve ^b men, that ye will also grieve my God ?

14 Therefore the Lord ⁱ himself will give you a sign. Behold, the virgin shall conceive and bear a son, and she shall call his name [†] Immanuel.

15 ^k Butter and honey shall he eat, till he have knowledge to refuse the evil, and to chuse the good.

16 For afore the ^l child shall have knowledge to eschew the evil, and to chuse the good, the land that thou abhorrest shall be forsaken of both her kings.

17 The Lord shall bring upon thee, and upon thy people, and upon thy father's house, the days that have not come, from the day that ^m Ephraim departed from Judah, even the king of ⁿ Asshur.

18 And in that day shall the Lord hiss for the ^o fly that is at the uttermost part of the floods of Egypt, and for the bee which is in the land of Asshur, 19 And they shall come and shall light all in the desolate vallies, and in the holes of the rocks, and upon all thorny places, and upon all bushy ^a places.

20 In that day shall the Lord shave with a razor that is hired, even by them beyond the river, by the king of Asshur, the head and the hair of the ^a feet, and it shall consume the beard.

21 And in the same day shall a man ^r nourish a young cow and two sheep.

22 And for the ^s abundance of milk that they shall give, he shall eat butter : for butter and honey shall every one eat which is left within the land.

23 And at the same day every place, wherein shall be a thousand vines, shall be at a thousand pieces of silver : so it shall be for the briers, and for the thorns.

24 With arrows and with ^t bow shall one come thither, because all the land shall be briers and thorns.

25 But on ^u all the mountains which shall be digged with the mattock, there shall not come thither the fear of briers and thorns : but they shall be for the sending out of bullocks, and for the treading of sheep.

2 Then I took unto me ^y faithful witnesses to record, Uriah the priest, and Zechariah the son of Jeberechiah.

3 After, I came unto the ^z prophets, which conceived and bare a son. Then said the Lord to me, Call his name [†] Maher-shalhash-baz.

4 For before the ^a child shall have knowledge to cry, My father, and my mother, ^b he shall take away the riches of Damascus, and the spoil of Samaria, before the king of Asshur.

5 ¶ And the Lord spake yet again unto me, saying,

6 Because this people hath refused the waters of ^c Shiloah that ran softly, and rejoice with Rezin, the son of Remaliah,

7 Now therefore, behold, the Lord bringeth up upon them the waters of ^d the river mighty and great, even the king of Asshur with all his glory, and he shall come up upon all their rivers, and go over all their banks:

8 And shall break into Judah; and shall overflow and pass through, and shall come up to the ^e neck, and the stretching out of his wings shall fill the breadth of thy land, O ^f Immanuel.

9 Gather together on heaps, O ye ^g people and,

† Or, God with us, which name can agree to none but to him that is both God and man.

† Or, make speed to the spoil : or haste to the prey.

^f For the confirmation of this thing, that thine enemies shall be destroyed and thou preserved.

^g Not to believe God's word without a sign, is to tempt God; but to refuse a sign when God offereth it for the aid and help of our infirmity, is to rebel against him.

^h You think you have to do with men when ye contemn God's messengers : but it is God against whom you bend yourselves.

ⁱ Forasmuch as thou art unworthy, the Lord for his own promise sake will give a sign, which shall be, that Christ the Saviour of his church, and the effect of all signs and miracles, shall be revealed.

^k Meaning, that Christ is not only God, but man also, because he shall be nourished as other men, until the age of discretion.

^l Not meaning Christ, but any child : for before a child can come to the years of discretion, the kings of Samaria and Syria shall be destroyed.

^m Since the time that the twelve tribes rebelled under Rehoboam.

ⁿ In whom thou hast put thy trust.

^o Meaning, the Egyptians : for by reason the country is hot and moist, it is full of flies, as Assyria is full of bees.

^p Signifying, that no place shall be free from them.

^q That is, that which is from the belly downward : meaning, that he would destroy both great and small.

^r He that before had a great number of cattle shall be content with one cow and two sheep.

^s The number of men shall be so small, that a few beasts shall be able to nourish all abundantly.

^t As they that go to seek wild beasts among the bushes.

^u The mountains, contrary to their wont, shall be tilled by such as shall flee to them for succour.

^v That thou mayest write in great letters, to the intent it may be more easily read.

^w Meaning, after the common fashion : because all men might read it.

^y Because the thing was of great importance, he took these two witnesses, which were of credit with the people, when he set this up upon the door of the temple, albeit Uriah was a flattering hypocrite, 2 Kings 16. 11.

^z Meaning, to his wife : and this was done in a vision.

^a Before any child be able to speak.

^b That is, the army of Assyria.

^c Which was a fountain at the foot of mount Zion, out of the which ran a small river through the city ; meaning, that they of Judah distrusting their own power, which was small, desired such power and riches as they saw in Syria and Israel.

^d That is, the Assyrians, which dwelt beyond Euphrates.

^e It shall be ready to drown them.

10 Take counsel together, yet it shall be brought to nought: pronounce a decree, yet it shall it not stand: for God is with us.

11 For the Lord spake thus to me in taking of mine hand, and taught me, that I should not walk in the way of this people, saying,

12 Say ye not, A confederacy, to all them to whom this people saith a confederacy, neither fear you their fear, nor be afraid of them.

13 Sanctify the Lord of hosts, and let him be your fear, and let him be your dread.

14 And he shall be as a sanctuary: but as a stumbling stone, and as a rock to fall upon, to both the houses of Israel, and as a snare and as a net to the inhabitants of Jerusalem.

15 And many among them shall stumble, and shall fall, and shall be broken, and shall be snared, and shall be taken.

16 Bind up the testimony: seal up the law among my disciples.

17 Therefore I will wait upon the Lord that hath hid his face from the house of Jacob, and I will look for him, 18 Behold, I and the children whom the Lord hath given me, are as signs and as wonders in Israel, by the Lord of hosts, which dwelleth in mount Zion.

19 And when they shall say unto you, Enquire at them that have a spirit of divination, and at the soothsayers which whisper: and murmur, Should not a people enquire at their God? from the living to the dead?

20 To the law, and to the testimony: if they speak not according to this word, it is because there is no light in them.

21 Then he that is afflicted and famished, shall go to and fro in it: and when he shall be hungry, he shall even fret himself, and curse his king and his gods, and shall look upwards.

22 And when he shall look to the earth, behold trouble, and darkness, vexation and anguish, and he is driven to darkness.

^a To encourage me, that I should not shrink for the infidelity of this people, and so neglect mine office.

^b Consent not, ye that are godly, to the league and friendship that this people seek with strangers and idolaters.

^c Meaning, that they should not fear the thing that they feared, which have no hope in God.

^d In putting your trust only in him, in calling upon him in adversity, patiently looking for his help, and fearing to do any thing contrary to his will.

^e He will defend you which are his elect, and reject all the rest, which is meant of Christ against whom the Jews should stumble and fall, Luke 2. 34. Rom. 9. 33. 1 Pet. 2. 7. 8.

^f Though all forsake me, yet ye that are mine, keep my words sure sealed in your hearts.

^g Meaning, them that were willing to hear and obey the word of God whom the world hated, as though they were monsters, and not worthy to live.

^h This was a consolation in their troubles, knowing that nothing could come unto them, but by the will of the Lord.

ⁱ Answer the wicked thus, Should not God's people seek succour only at him?

^j That is, will they refuse to be taught of the prophet, who is the mouth of God, and seek help at the dead, which is the illusion of Satan?

^k Seek remedy in the word of God, where his will is declared.

^l They have no knowledge, but are blind leaders of the blind.

^m That is, in Judah, where they should have had rest, if they had not thus grievously offended God.

ⁿ In whom afore they put their trust.

^o They shall think that heaven and earth and all creatures are bent against them to trouble them.

1 The vocation of the Gentiles. 6 A prophecy of Christ. 14 The destruction of the ten tribes for their pride and contempt of God.

YET the darkness shall not be according to the affliction, that it had when at the first he touched lightly the land of Zebulun and the land of Naphtali, nor afterward when he was more grievous by the way of the sea beyond Jordan, in Galilee of the Gentiles.

2 The people that walked in darkness, have seen a great light: they that dwelled in the land of the shadow of death, upon them hath the light shined.

3 Thou hast multiplied the nation, and not increased their joy: they have rejoiced before thee according to the joy in harvest, and as men rejoice when they divide a spoil.

4 For the yoke of their burthen, and the staff of their shoulder, and the rod of their oppressor hast thou broken, as in the day of Midian.

5 Surely every battle of the warrior is with noise, and with tumbling of garments in blood: but this shall be with burning and devouring of fire.

6 For unto us a child is born, and unto us a son is given: and the government is upon his shoulder, and he shall call his name Wonderful, Counsellor, The mighty God, The everlasting Father, The Prince of Peace.

7 The increase of his government and peace shall have no end, he shall sit upon the throne of David, and upon his kingdom to order it, and to stablish it with judgment and with justice, from henceforth, even for ever: the zeal of the Lord of hosts will perform this.

8 The Lord hath sent a word into Jacob, and it hath lighted upon Israel.

9 And all the people shall know, even Ephraim, and the inhabitant of Samaria, that say in the pride and presumption of the heart, ^v He comforteth the church again after these great threatenings, promising to restore them to great glory in Messiah.

^z Wherewith Israel was punished, first by Tiglath Pileser, which was a light scourge in respect of that which they suffered after by Shalmaneser, who carried the Israelites away captives.

^a Whereas the Jews and Gentiles dwelt together by reason of those twenty cities which Solomon gave to Hiram.

^b Which were captive in Babylon: and the prophet speaketh of that thing which should come to pass sixty years after, as though it were now done.

^c Meaning, the comfort of their deliverance.

^d This captivity and deliverance were figures of our captivity by sin, and our deliverance by Christ through the preaching of the gospel, Matt. 4. 15, 16.

^e Their number was greater when they went into captivity, than when they returned: but their joy was greater at their return, Hagg. 2. 10.

^f Thou gavest them perfect joy, by delivering them, and by destroying the tyrant that kept them in cruel bondage, as thou didst deliver them by Gideon from the Midianites, Judg. 7. 22.

^g He speaketh of the deliverance of his church, which he hath delivered miraculously from his enemies, but specially by the coming of Christ, of whom he prophesieth in the next verse.

^h The author of eternity, and by whom the church and every member thereof shall be preserved for ever, and have immortal life.

ⁱ His singular love and care for his elect.

^j This is another prophecy against them of Samaria, which were mockers and contempters of God's promises and menaces.

Bef. Chr. 741. 10 The¹ bricks are fallen, but we will build it with hewn stones: the wild fig-trees are cut down, but we will [change] them into cedars.

11 Nevertheless the Lord will raise up the adversaries of^m Rezin against him, and join his enemies together.

12 Aram before, and the Philistines behind, and they shall devour Israel with open mouth: yet for all this, his wrath is not turned away, but his hand is stretched out still.

13 For the people turneth not unto him that smiteth them, neither do they seek the Lord of hosts.

14 Therefore will the Lord cut off from Israel head and tail, branch and rush in one day.

15 The ancient and the honorable man, he is the head: and the prophet that teacheth lyes, he is the tail.

16 For the leaders of the people cause them to err: and they that are led by them, are devoured.

17 Therefore shall the Lord have no pleasure in their young men, neither will he have compassion of their fatherless and of their widows: for every one is an hypocrite and wicked, and every mouth speaketh folly: yet for all this his wrath is not turned away, but his hand is stretched out still.

18 For wickednessⁿ burneth as a fire: it devoureth the briars and thorns, and will kindle in the thick places of the forest: and they shall mount up like the lifting up of smoak.

19 By the wrath of the Lord of hosts shall the land be darkened, and the people shall be as the meat of the fire: no man shall^o spare his brother.

20 And he shall snatch at the right hand, and be hungry: and he shall eat on the left hand^p, and shall not be satisfied: every one shall eat the^p flesh of his own arm.

21 Manasseh, Ephraim: and Ephraim Manasseh, and they both shall be against Judah: yet for all this his wrath is not turned away, but his hand is stretched out still.

12 ¶ But when the Lord hath accomplished^y all his work upon mount Zion and Jerusalem, I will visit the fruit of the proud heart^z of the king of Asshur, and his glorious and proud looks.

14 And mine hand hath found as a nest the riches of the people, and as one gathereth eggs that are left, so have I gathered all the earth: and there was none to move the wing, or to open the mouth, or to whisper.

15 Shall the^a ax boast itself against him that heweth therewith? Or, shall the saw exalt itself against him that moveth him? as if the rod should lift up itself against him that taketh it up, or the staff should exalt itself as it were no wood.

2 Lift up a standard upon the high mountain: lift up the voice unto them: wag the ^f hand, that they may go into the gates of the nobles.

3 I have commanded them, that I have ^g sanctified: and I have called the mighty to my wrath, and them that rejoice in my ^h glory.

4 The noise of a multitude is in the mountains, like a great people: a tumultuous voice of the kingdoms of the nations gathered together: the Lord of hosts numbereth the host of the battle.

5 They come from a far country, from the end of the heaven: even the Lord with the ⁱ weapons of his wrath to destroy the whole land.

6 Howl ^k you, for the day of the Lord is at hand: it shall come as a destroyer from the Almighty.

7 Therefore shall all hands be weakened, and all men's hearts shall melt,

8 And they shall be afraid, anguish and sorrow shall take them, and they shall have pain, as a woman that travaileth: every one shall be amazed at his neighbour, and their faces shall be like ^l flames of fire.

9 Behold, the day of the Lord cometh, cruel with wrath and fierce anger, to lay the land waste: and he shall destroy the sinners out of it.

10 For the ^m stars of heaven, and the planets thereof shall not give their light: the sun shall be darkened in his going forth, and the moon shall not cause her light to shine.

11 And I will visit the wickedness upon the ⁿ world, and their iniquity upon the wicked; and I will cause the arrogancy of the ^o proud to cease, and will cast down the pride of tyrants.

12 I will make a ^p man more precious than fine gold, even a man above the wedge of gold of Ophir.

13 Therefore I will shake the heaven, the earth shall remove out of her place in the wrath of the Lord of hosts, and in the day of his fierce anger.

FOR the Lord will have compassion of Jacob, and will yet chuse Israel, and cause them to rest in their own land: and the stranger shall join himself unto them, and they shall cleave to the house of Jacob.

2 And the people shall receive them and bring them to their own place, and the house of Israel shall possess them in the land of the Lord, for servants and handmaids: and they shall take them prisoners, whose captives they were, and have rule over their oppressors.

3 ¶ And in that day when the Lord shall give thee rest from thy sorrow, and from thy fear, and from the sore bondage wherein thou didst serve,

4 Then shalt thou take up this proverb against the king of Babel, and say, How hath the oppressor ceased! and the gold-thirsty Babel rested!

5 The Lord hath broken the rod of the wicked, and the sceptre of the rulers:

* This was not accomplished when Cyrus took Babylon: but after the death of Alexander the Great.

* Who useth to go from country to country, to find pasture for their beasts, but there shall they find none.

* Which were either wild beasts, or fowls, or wicked spirits, whereby Satan deluded man, as by the fairies, goblins, and such-like fancies.

* He sheweth, why God will haste to destroy his enemies: to wit, because he will deliver his church.

* Meaning, that the Gentiles shall be joined with the church, and worship God.

* Signifying, that the Jews should be superiors to the Gentiles, and that they should be brought under the service of Christ, by the preaching of the apostles, whereby all are brought to the subjection of Christ, 2 Cor. 10. 5.

* That is, he suffered all violence and injuries to be done.

* Meaning, that when tyrants reign, there can be no rest nor quietness, and also how detestable a thing tyranny is, seeing the insensible creatures have occasion to rejoice at their destruction.

6 Which smote the people in anger with a continual plague, and ruled the nations in wrath: if any were persecuted, he did not let.

7 The whole world is at rest and is quiet: they sing for joy.

8 Also the fir-trees rejoiced of thee: and the cedars of Lebanon, saying, Since thou art laid down, no hewer came up against us.

9 Hell beneath is moved for thee, to meet thee at thy coming, raising up the dead for thee, even all the princes of the earth, and hath raised from their thrones all the kings of the nations.

10 All they shall cry and say unto thee, Art thou become weak also as we? art thou become like unto us?

11 Thy pomp is brought down to the grave, and the sound of thy viols: the worm is spread under thee, and the worms cover thee.

12 How art thou fallen from heaven, O Lucifer, son of the morning! and cut down to the ground, which didst cast lots upon the nations!

13 Yet thou saidst in thine heart, I will ascend into heaven, and exalt my throne above beside the stars of God: I will sit also upon the mount of the congregation, in the sides of the north.

14 I will ascend above the height of the clouds, and I will be like the most High.

15 But thou shalt be brought down to the grave, to the sides of the pit.

16 They that see thee, shall look upon thee, and consider thee, saying, Is this the man that made the earth to tremble, and that did shake the kingdoms?

17 He made the world as a wilderness, and destroyed the cities thereof, and opened not the house of the prisoners.

18 All the kings of the nations, even they all sleep in glory, every one in his own house.

19 But thou art cast out of thy grave like an abominable branch: like the raiment of those that are slain, and thrust through with a sword, which go down to the stones of the pit, as a carcase trodden under feet.

20 Thou shalt not be joined with them in the grave, because thou hast destroyed thine own land, and slain thy people: the seed of the wicked shall not be renowned for ever.

21 Prepare a slaughter for his children, for the iniquity of their fathers: let them not rise up nor possess the land, nor fill the face of the world with enemies.

22 ¶ For I will rise up against them (saith the Lord of hosts) and will cut off from Babel the name and the remnant, and the son, and the nephew, saith the Lord:

23 And

* As though they feared lest thou shouldest trouble the dead, as thou didst the living: and here he derideth the proud tyranny of the wicked, which know not that all creatures wish their destruction, that they may rejoice.

* Instead of thy costly carpets and coverings.

* Thou that thoughtest thyself most glorious, and as it were placed in the heaven: for the morning-star, that goeth before the sun, is called Lucifer, to whom Nebuchadnezzar is compared.

* Meaning, Jerusalem, whereof the temple was on the north side, as Psalm 48. 2. whereby he meaneth, that tyrants fight against God when they persecute his church, and would set themselves in his place.

* In marvelling at thee.

* To set them at liberty: noting his cruelty.

25 That I will break to pieces Asshur in my land, and upon my mountains will I tread him under foot: so that his yoke shall depart from^k them, and his burden shall be taken from off their shoulder.

26 This is the counsel that is consulted upon the whole world, and this is the hand stretched out over all the nations, 27 Because the Lord of hosts hath determined it, and who shall disannul it? and his hand is stretched out, and who shall turn it away?

28 ¶ In the year that king Ahaz died, was this^l burden.

29 Rejoice not (thou whole^m Palestina) because the rod of him that did beat thee, is broken: for out of the serpent's root shall come forth a cockatrice, and the fruit thereof shall be a fiery flying serpent.

30 For theⁿ first-born of the poor shall be fed, and the needy shall lie down in safety: and I will kill thy root with famine, and^o it shall slay thy remnant.

31 Howl, O gate: cry, O city: thou whole land of Palestina art dissolved, for there shall come from the^p north a smoak, and none shall be^q alone at his time appointed.

A prophecy against Moab.

THE^t burden of Moab, Surely^u Ar of Moab was destroyed, and brought to silence in a night: surely Kir of Moab was destroyed, and brought to silence in a night.

2^w He shall go up to the temple, and to Dibon to the high places to weep: for^x Nebo and for Medeba shall Moab howl: upon all^y their heads shall be baldness, and every beard shaven.

3 In their streets shall they be girded with sackcloth: on the tops of their houses, and in their streets every one shall howl, and come down with weeping.

^t As I have begun to destroy the Assyrians in Sennacherib, so will I continue and destroy them wholly, when I shall deliver you from Babylon.

^u From the Jews.

^w Read chap. 13. 1.

^x He willeth the Philistines not to rejoice, because the Jews are diminished in their power, for their strength shall be greater than ever it was.

^z To wit, my people.

^{aa} That is, from the Jews, or Assyrians: for they were both north from Palestina.

^{ab} But they shall be all ready, and join together.

^{ac} Which shall come to enquire of the state of the church.

^{ad} They shall answer, that the Lord doth defend his church, and them that join themselves thereunto.

^{ae} Read chap. 13. 1.

^{af} The chief city, whereby the whole country was meant.

^{ag} The Moabites shall flee to their idols for succour, but it shall be too late.

^{ah} Which were cities of Moab.

^{ai} For as in the west parts the people used to let their hair grow long, when they mourned: so in the east parts they cut it off.

^{aj} The prophet speaketh this in the person of the Moab-

4 And Heshbon shall cry, and Elealeh: their voice shall be heard unto Jahaz: therefore the warriors of Moab shall shout: the soul of every one shall lament in himself.

5 Mine^a heart shall cry for Moab: his fugitives shall flee unto Zoar, an heifer of three years old: for they shall go up with weeping by the mounting up of Luhith: and by the way of Horonaim they^b shall raise up a cry of destruction.

6 For the waters of Nimrim shall be dried up: therefore the grass is withered, the herbs consumed, and there was no green herb.

7 Therefore what every man hath left, and their substance shall they bear to the^c brook of the willows;

8 For the cry went round about the borders of Moab: and the howling thereof unto Eglaim; and the shrieking thereof unto Beer-Elim.

9 Because the waters of Dimon shall be full^d of blood: for I will bring more upon Dimon, even lions^e upon him that escapeth of Moab, and to the remnant of the land.

The causes wherefore the Moabites are destroyed.

SEND^f ye a lamb to the ruler of the world from the rock of the wilderness unto the mountain of the daughter Zion.

2 For it shall be as a bird that^g flieth; and a nest forsaken: the daughters of Moab shall be at the fords of Arnon.

3 Gather a counsel, execute judgment, make thy shadow as the night in the mid-day: hide them that are chased out: bewray not him that is fled.

4 Let my banished dwell with thee: Moab; be thou their covert from the face of the destroyer: for the extortioner^h shall end: the destroyer shall be consumed, and the oppressor shall cease out of the land.

5 And in mercy shall the throne be prepared; and^k he shall sit upon it in steadfastness, in the tabernacle of David, judging; and seeking judgment, and hastening justice.

6 We have heard of the pride of Moab (he is very proud) even his pride, and his arrogancy; and his indignation, but his^l eyes shall not be so.

7 Therefore shall Moab howl unto Moab: every one shall howl: for the foundations of Kir-hareseth shall ye mourn, yet they shall be^m stricken.

^c To hide themselves and their goods there.

^d Of them that are slain.

^e So that by no means they should escape the hand of God: thus will God punish the enemies of his church.

^f That is, offer a sacrifice: whereby he long derideth their long delay, which would not repent when the Lord called them, shewing them that it is now too late, seeing the vengeance of God is upon them.

^g There is no remedy, but you must die.

^h He sheweth, what Moab should have done, when Israel their neighbour was in affliction, to whom because they would give no shadow nor comfort, they are now left comfortless:

ⁱ The Assyrians shall oppress the Israelites but for a while.

^k Meaning, Christ.

^l Their vain confidence and proud brags shall deceive them, as Jer. 48. 2.

^m For all your mourning, yet the city shall be destroyed even unto the foundation.

Bef. Chr. 725. 8 For the vineyards of Heshbon are cut down, and the vine of Shibmah: the lords of the heathen have broken the principal vines thereof: they are come unto Jaazer: they wandered in the wilderness: her goodly branches stretched out themselves, and went over the sea.

9 Therefore will I weep with the weeping of Jaazer, and of the vine of Shibmah, O Heshbon: and Elealeh, I will make thee drunk with my tears, because upon thy summer fruits, and upon thy harvest, a shouting is fallen.

10 And gladness is taken away, and joy out of the plentiful field: and in the vineyards shall be no singing nor shouting for joy: the treader shall not tread wine in the wine-presses: I have caused the rejoicing to cease.

11 Wherefore my bowels shall sound like an harp for Moab and mine inward parts for Ker-harefeth.

12 And when it shall appear that Moab shall be weary of his high places, then shall he come to his temple to pray, but he shall not prevail.

13 This is the word that the Lord hath spoken against Moab since that time.

14 And now the Lord hath spoken, saying, In three years, as the years of an hireling, and the glory of Moab shall be contemned in all the great multitude, and the remnant shall be very small and feeble.

^k The chief city of Syria.
^l It was a country of Syria by the river Arnon.
^m It seemeth, that the prophet would comfort the church, in declaring the destruction of these two kings, of Syria and Israel, whereas they had conspired the overthrow of Judah.
ⁿ The ten tribes gloried in their multitude and alliance with other nations: therefore he saith, that they shall be brought down, and the Syrians also.
^o Meaning, of the ten tribes, which boasted themselves of their nobility, prosperity, strength and multitude.
^p As the abundance of corn doth not fear the harvestmen that should cut it down: no more shall the multitude of Israel make the enemy to shrink, whom God shall aphis arm, and he shall be as he that gathereth the ears in the valley of Rephaim.

6 Yet a gathering of grapes shall be left in it, as the shaking of an olive-tree, two or three berries are in the top of the utmost boughs, and four or five in the high branches of the fruit thereof, saith the Lord God of Israel.

7 At that day shall a man look to his Maker, and his eyes shall look to the holy One of Israel.

8 And he shall not look to the altars, the works of his own hands, neither shall he look to those things which his own fingers have made, as groves and images.

9 In that day shall the cities of their strength be as the forsaking of boughs and branches, which they did forsake, because of the children of Israel, and there shall be desolation.

10 Because thou hast forgotten the God of thy salvation, and hast not remembered the God of thy strength, therefore shalt thou set pleasant plants, and shalt graff strange vine branches:

11 In that day shalt thou make thy plant to grow, and in the morning shalt thou make thy seed to flourish: but the harvest shall be gone in the day of possession, and there shall be desperate sorrow.

12 Ah, the multitude of many people, they shall make a sound like the noise of the sea: for the noise of the people shall make a sound like the noise of mighty waters.

13 The people shall make a sound like the noise of many waters: but God shall rebuke them, and they shall flee far off, and shall be chased as the chaff of the mountains before the wind, and as a rolling thing before the whirlwind.

14 And lo, in the evening there is trouble: but afore the morning it is gone. This is the portion of them that spoil us, and the lot of them that rob us.

¹ The destruction of the Egyptians by the Assyrians, ¹⁸ Of their conversion to the Lord.

THE ^y burden of Egypt. Behold, the Lord ^z rideth upon a swift cloud, and shall come into Egypt, and the idols of Egypt shall be moved at his presence, and the heart of Egypt shall melt in the midst of her.

² And I will set the Egyptians against the Egyptians: so every one shall ^a fight against his brother, and every one against his neighbour, city against city, and kingdom against kingdom.

³ And the ^b spirit of Egypt shall fail in the midst of her, and I will destroy their counsel, and they shall seek at the idols, and at the forcerers, and at them that have spirits of divination, and at the soothsayers.

so the Lord did threaten to take away their strength, that the Jews should not trust therein: or that they did solicit the Egyptians, and promised them aid to go against Judah.

^a As he caused the Ammonites, Moabites, and Idumeans, to kill one another, when they came to destroy the church of God, 2 Chron. 20. 22. ch. 49. 26.

¹³ The princes of Zoan are become fools: the princes of ⁱ Noph are deceived, they have deceived Egypt, even the ^k corners of the tribes thereof.

¹⁵ Neither shall there be any work in Egypt, which the head may ^m do, nor the tail, the branch, nor the rush.

¹⁶ In that day shall Egypt be like unto women: for it shall be afraid and fear, because of the moving of the hand of the Lord of hosts, which he shaketh over it.

19 In that day shall the altar of the Lord be in the midst of the land of Egypt, and a pillar by the border thereof unto the Lord.

20 And it shall be for a sign, and for a witness unto the Lord of hosts in the land of Egypt: for they shall cry unto the Lord because of the oppressors, and he shall send them a Saviour and a great man, and shall deliver them.

21 And the Lord shall be known of the Egyptians, and the Egyptians shall know the Lord in that day, and do sacrifice and oblation, and shall vow vows unto the Lord, and perform them.

22 So the Lord shall smite Egypt, he shall smite and heal it: for he shall return unto the Lord, and he shall be intreated of them, and shall heal them.

23 In that day shall there be a path from Egypt to Asshur, and Asshur shall come into Egypt, and Egypt into Asshur: so the Egyptians shall worship with Asshur.

24 In that day shall Israel be the third with Egypt and Asshur, even a blessing in the midst of the land.

2 At the same time spake the Lord by the hand of Isaiah the son of Amos, saying, Go, and loose the sackcloth from thy loins, and put off thy shoe from thy foot. And he did so, walking naked and barefoot.

3 And the Lord said, Like as my servant Isaiah hath walked naked and barefoot three years,

^a Shall make one confession of faith with the people of God: by the speech of Canaan, meaning the language wherein God was then served.

^b Shall renounce their superstitions, and profess to serve God aright.

^c Meaning, of six cities, five should serve God, and the sixth remain in their wickedness: and so of the sixth part there should be but one lost.

^d There shall be evident signs and tokens, that God's religion is there: which manner of speech is taken of the patriarchs, and ancient times, when God had not as yet appointed the place and full manner how he would be worshipped.

^e This declareth that this prophecy should be accomplished in the time of Christ.

^f By these ceremonies, he comprehendeth the spiritual service under Christ,

^g By these two nations, which were then chief enemies of the church, he sheweth, that the Gentiles and the Jews should be joined together in one faith and religion, and should be all one fold under Christ their Shepherd.

as a sign and wonder upon Egypt and Ethiopia,

4 So shall the king of Asshur take away the captivity of Egypt, and the captivity of Ethiopia, both young men and old men, naked and barefoot, with their buttocks uncovered, to the shame of Egypt.

5 And they shall fear, and be ashamed of Ethiopia their expectation, and of Egypt their glory.

6 Then shall the inhabitant of this Isle say in that day, Behold such is our expectation, whether we fled for help to be delivered from the king of Asshur, and how shall we be delivered?

C H A P. XXI.

1 Of the destruction of Babylon by the Persians and Medes. 11 The ruin of Idumea, 13 And of Arabia.

THE burden of the desert sea. As the whirlwinds in the south use to pass from the wilderness, so shall it come from the horrible land.

2 A grievous vision was shewed unto me, The transgressor against a transgressor, and the destroyer against a destroyer. Go up, Elam, besiege Media: I have caused all the mourners thereof to cease.

3 Therefore are my loins filled with sorrow: sorrows have taken me, as the sorrows of a woman that travaileth: I was bowed down when I heard it, and I was amazed when I saw it.

4 Mine heart failed: fearfulness troubled me, the night of my pleasures hath he turned into fear unto me.

5 Prepare thou the table: watch in the watch-tower: eat, drink: arise, ye princes anoint the shield.

6 For thus hath the Lord said unto me, Go, set a watchman to tell what he saith.

7 And he saw a chariot with two horsemen: a chariot of an ass, and a chariot of a camel: and he hearkened and took diligent heed.

8 And he cried, A lion: my lord, I stand continually upon the watch-tower in the daytime, and I am set in my watch every night:

9 And behold this man's chariot cometh with two horsemen. And he answered and said, Babel

^b Of whom they boasted and gloried.

^c Meaning, Judea, which was compassed about with their enemies, as an isle with waters.

^d On the sea-side, between Judea and Chaldea, was a wilderness, whereby he meaneth Chaldea.

^e That is, the ruin of Babylon by the Medes and Persians.

^f The Assyrians and Chaldeans, which had destroyed other nations, shall be overcome of the Medes and Persians, and this he prophesied an hundred years before it came to pass.

^g By Elam, he meaneth the Persians.

^h Because they shall find no succour, they shall mourn no more: or, I have caused them to cease mourning, whom Babylon had afflicted, ⁱ This the prophet speaketh in the person of the Babylonians.

^k He prophesieth the death of Belshazzar, as Dan. 5. 30. who in the midst of his pleasures was destroyed.

^l While they are eating and drinking, they shall be commanded to run to their weapons.

^m To wit, in a vision by the spirit of prophecy.

ⁿ Meaning, chariots of men of war and others that carried the baggage.

^o Meaning, Darius which overcame Babylon.

^p The watchman whom Isaiah set up, told him who came toward Babylon, and the angel declared, that it should be destroyed: all this was done in a vision.

† Heb. for. 10 O my threshing, and the corn of my floor. That which I have heard of the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, have I shewed unto you.

11 The burden of Dumah. He calleth unto me out of Seir, Watchman, what was in the night? Watchman, what was in the night?

12 The watchman said, The morning cometh, and also the night. If ye will ask, enquire: return and come.

13 ¶ The burden against Arabia. In the forest of Arabia shall ye tarry all night, even in the ways of Dedanim.

14 O inhabitants of the land of Tema, bring forth water to meet the thirsty, and prevent him that fleeth with his bread.

15 For they flee from the drawn swords, even from the drawn sword, and from the bent bow, and from the grievousness of war.

16 For thus hath the Lord said unto me, Yet a year according to the years of an hireling, and all the glory of Kedar shall fail.

17 And the residue of the number of the strong archers of the sons of Kedar shall be few: for the Lord God of Israel hath spoken it.

C H A P. XXII.

1 He prophesieth of the destruction of Jerusalem by Nebuchadnezzar. 15 A threatening against Shebna, 20 To whose office Eliakim is preferred.

THE burden of the valley of vision. What saileth thee now that thou art wholly gone up unto the house tops?

2 Thou that art full of noise, a city full of bruit, a joyous city: thy slain men shall not be slain with the sword, nor die in battle.

3 All thy princes shall flee together from the bow: they shall be bound: all that shall be found in thee shall be bound together, which have fled from far.

4 Therefore said I, Turn away from me, I will weep bitterly: labour not to comfort me for the destruction of the daughter of my people. Bef. Chr. 712.

5 For it is a day of trouble, and of ruin, and of perplexity by the Lord God of hosts in the Valley of vision; breaking down the city: and a crying unto the mountains.

6 ¶ And Elam bare the quiver in a man's chariot with horsemen, and Kir uncovered the shield.

7 And thy chief vallies were full of chariots, and the horsemen set themselves in array against the gate.

8 And he discovered the covering of Judah: and thou didst look in that day to the armour of the house of the forest.

9 And ye have seen the breaches of the city of David: for they were many, and ye gathered the waters of the lower pool.

10 And ye numbered the houses of Jerusalem, and the houses have ye broken down to fortify the wall.

11 And have also made a ditch between the two walls, for the waters of the old pool, and have not looked unto the Maker thereof, neither had respect unto him that formed him of old.

12 And in that day did the Lord God of hosts call unto weeping and mourning, and to baldness, and girding with sackcloth.

13 And behold, joy and gladness, slaying oxen and killing sheep, eating flesh and drinking wine, eating and drinking: for to-morrow we shall die.

14 And it was declared in the ears of the Lord of hosts, Surely this iniquity shall not be purged from you till ye die, saith the Lord God of hosts.

15 Thus saith the Lord God of hosts, Go, get thee to that treasurer, to Shebna, the steward of the house, and say, 16 What hast thou to do here? and whom hast thou here? that thou shouldest here hew thee out a sepulchre, as he that heweth out his sepulchre in an high place, or that graveth an habitation for himself in a rock?

17 Behold;

² Which was a city of the Ishmaelites, and was so named of Dumah, Gen. 25. 14.

³ A mountain of the Idumeans.

⁴ He describeth the unquietness of the people of Dumah who were night and day in fear of their enemies, and ever ran to and fro to enquire news.

⁵ For fear, the Arabians shall flee into the woods, and he appointeth what way they shall take.

⁶ Signifying, that for fear they shall not tarry to eat nor drink.

⁷ He appointeth them respite for one year only, and then they should be destroyed.

⁸ Read Chap. 16. 14.

⁹ Which was the name of the people of Arabia; and by the horrible destruction of all these nations, he teacheth the Jews that there is no place for refuge, or to escape God's wrath, but only to remain in his Church, and to live in his fear.

¹⁰ Meaning, Judea, which was compassed about with mountains, and was called the Valley of visions, because of the Prophets, which were always there, whom they named Seers.

¹¹ He speaketh to Jerusalem, whose inhabitants were fled up to the house tops, for fear of their enemies.

¹² Which wast wont to be full of people and joy.

¹³ But for hunger.

¹⁴ And led into captivity.

¹⁵ Which have fled from other places to Jerusalem for succour.

¹⁶ He sheweth what is the duty of the godly when God's plagues hang over the church, and specially of the ministers, Jer. 9. 1.

¹⁷ That is, the shout of the enemies, whom God had appointed to destroy the city.

¹⁸ He putteth them in mind how God delivered them once from Sennacherib, who brought the Persians and Cyrenians with him, that they might, by returning to God, avoid that great plague which they should suffer by Nebuchadnezzar.

¹⁹ The secret place where the armour was, to wit, in the house of the forest, 1 Kings 7. 2.

²⁰ Ye fortified the ruinous places, which were neglected in time of peace: meaning, the whole city, and the city of David, which was within the compass of the other.

²¹ Either to pull down such as might hurt, or else know to what men they were able to make.

²² To provide, if need should be, of water.

²³ To God, that made Jerusalem: that is, they trusted more in these worldly means than in God.

²⁴ Instead of repentance ye were joyful, and made great cheer, contemning the admonitions of the Prophets, saying, Let us eat and drink, for our prophets say, that we shall die to-morrow.

²⁵ Because the Hebrew word doth also signify one that doth nourish and cherish, there are of the learned that think that this wicked man did nourish secret friendship with the Assyrians and Egyptians, to betray the church, and to provide for himself against all dangers: In the mean season he packed craftily, and gat of the best offices into his hand under Hezekiah, ever aspiring to the highest.

²⁶ Meaning, that he was a stranger, and came up of nothing.

²⁷ Whereas he thought to make his name immortal by his famous sepulchre, he died most miserably among the Assyrians.

17 Behold, the Lord will carry thee away with a great captivity, and will surely cover thee.
 18 He will surely soil and turn thee like a ball in a large country: there shalt thou die, and there the chariots of thy glory shall be the shame of thy lord's house.
 19 And I will drive thee from thy station, and out of thy dwelling will he destroy thee.
 20 And in that day will I call my servant Eliakim the son of Hilkiah, 21 And with thy garments will I cloath him, and with thy girdle will I strengthen him: thy power also will I commit into his hand, and he shall be a father of the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and of the house of Judah.
 22 And the key of the house of David will I lay upon his shoulder: so he shall open and no man shall shut: and he shall shut, and no man shall open.
 23 And I will fasten him as a nail in a sure place, and he shall be for the throne of glory to his father's house.
 24 And they shall hang upon him all the glory of his father's house, even of the nephews and posterity: all small vessels, from the vessels of the cups, even to the instruments of musick.
 25 In that day, saith the Lord of hosts, shall the nail that is fastened in the sure place depart and shall be broken, and fall: and the burden that was upon it shall be cut off: for the Lord hath spoken it.

1 A prophecy against Tyrus. 17 A promise that it shall be restored.

THE burden of Tyrus, Howl, ye ships of Tarshish: for it is destroyed, so that there is no house: none shall come from the land of Chittim: it is revealed unto them.
 2 Be still, ye that dwell in the isles: the merchants of Zidon, and such as pass over the sea, have replenished thee.
 3 The seed of Nilus growing by the abundance of waters, and the harvest of the river was her revenues, and she was a marr of the nations.
 4 Be ashamed, thou Zidon: for the sea hath spoken, even the strength of the sea, saying, I

¹ Signifying that whatsoever dignity the wicked attain unto, at length it will turn to the shame of those princes by whom they are preferred.

² To be steward again, out of the which office he had been put by the craft of Shebna.

³ I will commit unto him the full charge and government of the king's house.

⁴ I will establish him, and confirm him in his office: of this phrase read Ezra 9. 9.

⁵ Meaning, that both small and great, that shall come of Eliakim, shall have praise and glory by this faithful officer.

⁶ He meareth, Shebna, who in man's judgment should never have fallen.

⁷ Read chap. 13. 1.

⁸ Ye of Cilicia, that come thither for merchandize.

⁹ Tyrus is destroyed by Nebuchadnezzar.

¹⁰ By Chittim, they mean all the isles and countries westward from Palestina.

¹¹ All men know of this destruction.

¹² Have haunted thee, and enriched thee.

¹³ Meaning, the corn of Egypt, which was fed by the overflowing of Nilus.

¹⁴ That is, Tyrus, which was the chief port of the sea.

¹⁵ I have no people left in me, and am as a barren woman that never had a child.

¹⁶ Because these two countries were joined in league together.

¹⁷ Tyrus willeth other merchants to go to Cilicia, and to have not travailed, nor brought forth children, neither nourished young men, nor brought up virgins.

5 When the fame cometh to the Egyptians, they shall be sorry concerning the rumour of Tyrus.

6 Go you over to Tarshish: howl, ye that dwell in the isles.

7 Is not this that your glorious city? her antiquity is of ancient days: her own feet shall lead her afar off to be a sojourner.

8 Who hath decreed this against Tyrus (that crowneth men) whose merchants are princes? whose chapmen are the nobles of the world?

9 The Lord of hosts hath decreed this, to stain the pride of all glory, and to bring to contempt all them that be glorious in the earth.

10 Pass through thy land like a flood to the daughter of Tarshish: there is no more strength.

11 He stretched out his hand upon the sea: he shook the kingdoms: the Lord hath given a commandment concerning the place of merchandize, to destroy the power thereof.

12 And he said, Thou shalt no more rejoice when thou art oppressed, O virgin daughter of Zidon: rise up, go over unto Chittim: yet there thou shalt have no rest.

13 Behold the land of the Chaldeans: this was no people: Asshur founded it by the inhabitants of the wilderness: they set up the towers thereof: they raised the palaces thereof, and he brought it to ruin.

14 Howl, ye ships of Tarshish, for your strength is destroyed.

15 And in that day shall Tyrus be forgotten seventy years (according to the years of one king) at the end of seventy years shall Tyrus sing as an harlot.

16 Take an harp, and go about the city: (thou harlot, that hast been forgotten) make sweet melody, sing more songs that thou mayest be remembered.

17 And at the end of seventy years shall the Lord visit Tyrus, and she shall return to her wages, and shall commit fornication with all the kingdoms of the earth that are in the world.

18 Yet her occupying and her wages shall be holy unto the Lord: it shall not be laid up, nor kept come no more there.

¹⁸ Who maketh her merchants like princes.

¹⁹ Thy strength will no more serve thee, therefore flee to other countries for succour.

²⁰ For Tyrus was never touched nor afflicted before.

²¹ Because Tyrus was built by them of Zidon.

²² The Chaldeans which dwelt in tents in the wilderness were gathered by the Assyrians into cities.

²³ The people of the Chaldeans destroyed the Assyrians: whereby the prophet meaneth, that seeing the Chaldeans were able to overcome the Assyrians, which were so great a nation, much more shall these two nations of Chaldea and Assyria be able to overthrow Tyrus.

²⁴ That is, Tyrus, by whom ye are enriched.

²⁵ Tyrus shall be destroyed seventy years, which he calleth the reign of one king, or a man's age.

²⁶ Shall use all craft and subtilty to intice men again to her.

²⁷ She shall labour by all means to recover her first credit, as an harlot, when she is long forgotten, seeketh by all means to entertain her lovers.

²⁸ Though she have been chastised of the Lord, yet she shall return to her old wicked practices, and for gain shall give herself to all men's lusts like an harlot.

²⁹ He sheweth, that God yet, by the preaching of the gospel, will call Tyrus to repentance, and turn her heart from avarice and filthy gain unto the true worshipping of God, and liberality towards his saints.

Def. Chr. kept in store, but her merchandize shall be for them that dwell before the Lord, to eat sufficiently, and to have durable cloathing.

C H A P. XXIV.

A prophecy of the curse of God for the sins of the people. 13 A rannant reserved shall praise the Lord.

BEHOLD, the Lord maketh the ^a earth empty, and he maketh it waste: he turneth it upside down, and scattereth abroad the inhabitants thereof.

2 And there shall be like people like ^b priest, and like servant like master, like maid like mistress, like buyer like seller, like lender like borrower, like giver like taker to usury.

3 The earth shall be clean emptied, and utterly spoiled: for the Lord hath spoken this word.

4 The earth lamenteth and fadeth away: the world is feeble and decayed: the proud people of the earth are weakened.

5 The earth ^c also deceiveth, because of the inhabitants thereof: for they transgressed the laws: they changed the ordinances, and brake the everlasting covenant.

6 Therefore hath the ^d curse devoured the earth, and the inhabitants thereof are desolate. Wherefore the inhabitants of the land are ^e burned up, and few men are left.

7 The wine faileth, the vine hath no might: all that were of merry heart do mourn.

8 The mirth of tabrets ceaseth: the noise of them that rejoice, endeth: the joy of the harp ceaseth.

9 They shall not drink wine with mirth: strong drink shall be bitter to them that drink it.

10 The city of ^f vanity is broken down: every house is shut up, that no man may come in.

11 There is a crying for wine in the streets: all joy is darkened: the mirth ^g of the world is gone away.

12 In the city is left desolation, and the gate is smitten with destruction.

13 ¶ Surely thus shall it be in the midst of the earth, among the people, ^h as the shaking of an olive-tree, and as the grapes when the vintage is ended.

14 They shall lift up their voice: they shall

^a This prophecy is as a conclusion of that which hath been threatened to the Jews, and other nations, from chap. 13. and therefore by the earth he meaneth those lands which were before named.

^b Because this was a name of dignity, it was also applied to them which were not of Aaron's family, and so signifieth also a man of dignity, as 2 Sam. 8. 18. & 20. 25. 2 Chron. 18. 17. and by these words the prophet signifieth an horrible confusion, where there shall be neither religion, order, nor policy. Hosea 4. 9.

^c That is, rendereth not her fruit for the sin of the people, whom the earth deceived of their nourishment, because they deceived God of his honour.

^d Written in the law, as Lev. 26. 14. Deut. 28. 16. thus the prophets used to apply particularly the menaces and promises which are general in the law.

^e With heat and drought, or else, that they were consumed with the fire of God's wrath.

^f Which, as it was without order, so now should it be brought to desolation and confusion: and this was not only meant of Jerusalem, but of all the other wicked cities.

^g Because they did not use God's benefits aright, their pleasures should fail, and they fall to mourning.

^h He comforteth the faithful, declaring that in this great desolation the Lord will assemble his church, which shall praise his name, as chap. 10. 22.

ⁱ From the utmost coasts of the world where the shall be preached, as ver. 6.

shout for the magnificence of the Lord: they shall rejoice from the ¹ sea.

15 Wherefore, praise ye the Lord in the vallies, even the name of the Lord God of Israel, in the isles of the sea.

16 From the uttermost part of the earth we have heard praises, even glory to the ^k just: and I said, ^l My leanness, my leanness, woe is me: the transgressors have offended: yea, the transgressors have grievously offended.

17 Fear, and the pit, and the snare are upon thee, O inhabitant of the earth.

18 And he that fleeth from the noise of the fear, shall fall into the pit, and he that cometh up out of the pit shall be taken in the snare: for the ^m windows from on high are open, and the foundations of the earth do shake.

19 The earth is utterly broken down: the earth is clean dissolved: the earth is moved exceedingly.

20 The earth shall reel to and fro like a drunken man, and shall be removed like a tent, and the iniquity thereof shall be heavy upon it: so that it shall fall, and rise no more.

21 ¶ And in that day shall the Lord ⁿ visit the host above that is on high, even the kings of the world that are upon the earth.

22 And they shall be gathered together as the prisoners in the pit: and they shall be shut up in the prison, and after many days shall they be ^o visited.

23 ^p Then the moon shall be abashed, and the sun ashamed, when the Lord of hosts shall reign in mount Zion, and in Jerusalem: and glory shall be before his ancient men.

C H A P. XXV.

A thanksgiving to God, in that that he sheweth himself judge of the world by punishing the wicked and maintaining the godly.

OLORD, ^q thou art my God: I will exalt thee, I will praise thy name: for thou hast done wonderful things according to the counsels of old, with a stable truth.

2 For thou hast made of a ^r city an heap, of a strong city a ruin: even the palace ^s of strangers of a city, it shall never be built.

3 Therefore shall the ^t mighty people give 7 M glory

^k Meaning, to God, who will publish his gospel through all the world.

^l I am consumed with care, considering the affliction of the church, both by foreign enemies and domestic. Some read, My secret, my secret: that is, it was revealed to the prophet that the good should be preserved, and the wicked destroyed.

^m Meaning, that God's wrath and vengeance should be over and under them: so that they should not escape no more than they did at Noah's flood.

ⁿ There is no power so high, or mighty, but God will visit him with his rods.

^o Not with his rods, as ver. 21. but shall be comforted.

^p When God shall restore his church, the glory thereof shall so shine, and his ministers (which are called his ancient men) that the sun and the moon shall be dark in comparison thereof.

^q Thus the prophet giveth thanks to God, because he will bring under subjection these nations by his corrections, and make them of his church, which before were his enemies.

^r Not only of Jerusalem, but also of these other cities which have been thine enemies.

^s That is, a place wherein all vagabonds may live without danger, and as it were at ease as in a palace.

^t The arrogant and proud, which before would not know thee, shall by thy corrections fear and glorify thee.

712. Bas. Can. glory unto thee : the city of the strong nations shall fear thee.

4 For thou hast been a strength unto the poor, even a strength to the needy in his trouble, a refuge against the tempest, a shadow against the heat : for the blast^a of the mighty is like a storm against the wall.

5 Thou shalt bring down the noise of the strangers, ^{as} the heat in a dry place : he will bring down the song of the mighty as^a the heat in the shadow of a cloud.

6 And in this^b mountain shall the Lord of hosts make unto all people a feast of fat things, even a feast of fined wines, and of fat things full of marrow, of wines fined and purified.

7 And he will destroy in this mountain^c the covering that covereth all people, and the veil that is spread upon all nations.

8 He will destroy death for ever : and the Lord God will^d wipe away the tears from all faces, and the rebuke of his people will he take away out of all the earth : for the Lord hath spoken it.

9 And in that day shall men say, Lo, this is our God : we have waited for him, and he will save us. This is the Lord, we have waited for him, we will rejoice and be joyful in his salvation.

10 For in this mountain shall the hand of the Lord rest, and^e Moab shall be threshed under him, even as straw is threshed in^f Madmenah.

11 And he shall stretch out his hand in the midst of them (as he that swimmeth stretcheth them out to swim) and with the strength of his hands shall he bring down their pride.

12 The defence also of the height of thy walls shall he bring down and lay low, and cast them to the ground, even unto the dust.

C H A P. XXVI.

A song of the faithful, wherein is declared, in what consisteth the salvation of the church, wherein they ought to trust.

IN that day shall^g this song be sung in the land of Judah, We have a strong city : ^hsalvation shall God set for walls and bulwarks.

2 ⁱOpen ye the gates, that the righteous nation which keepeth the truth may enter.

^a The rage of the wicked is furious, till God break the force thereof.

^b Meaning, that as the heat is abated by the rain, so shall God bring down the rage of the wicked.

^c As a cloud shadoweth from the heat of the sun, so shall God assuage the rejoicing of the wicked against the godly.

^d To wit, in Zion, whereby he meaneth his church, which should under Christ be assembled of the Jews and the Gentiles, and is here described under the figure of a costly banquet, as Matt. 22. 2.

^e Meaning, that ignorance and blindness, whereby we are kept back from Christ.

^f He will take away all occasions of sorrow, and fill his with perfect joy, Rev. 7. 17. & 21. 4.

^g By Moab are meant all the enemies of his church.

^h There were two cities of this name, one in Judah, 1 Chr. 2. 49. and another in the land of Moab, Jer. 48. 2. which seemeth to have been a plentiful place of corn, chap. 10. 31.

ⁱ This song was made to comfort the faithful when their captivity should come, assuring them also of their deliverance, for the which they should sing this song.

^j God's protection and defence shall be sufficient for us.

^k He assureth the godly to return after the captivity to Jerusalem.

3 By an assured^l purpose wilt thou preserve perfect peace, because they trusted in thee. Bef. Chr. 712.

4 Trust in the Lord for ever : for in the Lord God is strength for evermore.

5 For he will bring down them that dwell on high : the^m high city will he abase : even unto the ground will he cast it down, and bring it unto dust.

6 The foot shall tread it down, even the feet of theⁿ poor, and the steps of the needy.

7 The way of the just is righteousness : thou wilt make equal the righteous path of the just.

8 Also we, O Lord, have waited for thee in the way of thy^o judgment : the desire of our soul is to thy name, and to the remembrance of thee.

9 With my soul have I desired thee in the night, and with my spirit within me will I seek thee in the morning : for seeing thy judgments are in the earth, the inhabitants of the world shall learn^p righteousness.

10 Let mercy^q be shewed to the wicked, yet he will not learn righteousness : in the land of uprightness will he do wickedly, and will not behold the majesty of the Lord.

11 O Lord, they will not behold thine high hand, but they shall see it, and be confounded with^r the zeal of the people, and the fire of^s thine enemies shall devour them.

12 Lord, unto us thou wilt ordain peace : for thou also hast wrought all our works for us.

13 O Lord our God, other^t lords beside thee have ruled us, but we will remember thee only, and thy name.

14 The^u dead shall not live, neither shall the dead arise, because thou hast visited and scattered them, and destroyed all their memory.

15 Thou hast increased^v the nation, O Lord, thou hast increased the nation : thou art made glorious : thou hast enlarged all the coasts of the earth.

16 Lord, in trouble have^w they visited thee : they poured out a prayer when thy chastening was upon them.

17 Like as a woman with child, that draweth near to the travail, is in sorrow, and crieth in her pains, so have we been in thy^x fight, O Lord.

18 We have conceived, we have borne in pain, as though we should have brought forth wind :

^l Thou hast decreed so, and thy purpose cannot be changed.

^m There is no power so high that can let God, when he will deliver his.

ⁿ God will set the poor afflicted over the power of the wicked.

^o We have constantly abided in the adversities wherewith thou hast afflicted us.

^q The wicked, though God shew them evident signs of his grace, shall be never the better.

^r Through envy and indignation against thy people.

^s The fire and vengeance wherewith thou dost destroy thine enemies.

^t The Babylonians which have not governed according to thy word.

^u Meaning, that the reprobate even in this life shall have the beginning of everlasting death.

20 Come, my people, ^z enter thou into thy chambers, and shut thy doors after thee : hide thyself for a very little while, until the indignation pass over.

21 For lo, the Lord cometh out of his place, to visit the iniquity of the inhabitants of the earth upon them : and the earth shall disclose her ^a blood, and shall no more hide her slain.

C H A P. XXVII.

A prophecy against the kingdom of Satan, 2 and of the joy of the church for their deliverance.

IN that ^b day the Lord with his fore, and great, and mighty ^c sword, shall visit Leviathan, that piercing serpent, even Leviathan, that crooked serpent, and he shall slay the dragon that is in the sea.

2 In that day sing of the vineyard ^d of red wine :

3 I the Lord do keep it : I will water it every moment, lest any assail it : I will keep it night and day.

4 Anger ^e is not in me : who would set the briers and the thorns against me in battle ? I would go through them, I would burn them together.

5 Or will he ^f feel my strength, that he may make peace with me, and be at one with me ?

6 ^g Hereafter Jacob shall take root : Israel shall flourish and grow, and the world shall be filled with fruit.

7 Hath he smitten ^h him as he smote those that smote him ? or is he slain according to the slaughter of them that were slain by him ?

^u Our sorrows had no end, neither did we enjoy the comfort that we looked for.

^w The wicked, and men without religion, were not destroyed.

^x He comforteth the faithful in their afflictions, shewing them, that even in death they shall have life : and that they should most certainly rise to glory : the contrary should come to the wicked, as ver. 14.

^y As herbs dead in winter, flourish again by the rain in the spring-time, so they that lie in the dust shall rise up to joy when they feel the dew of God's grace.

^z He exhorteth the faithful to be patient in their afflictions, and to wait upon God's work.

^a The earth shall vomit and cast out the innocent blood which it hath drunk, that it may cry for vengeance against the wicked.

^b At the time appointed.

^c That is, by his mighty power, and by his word. He prophesieth here of the destruction of Satan and his kingdom, under the name of Leviathan, Ashur, and Egypt.

^d Meaning, of the best wine, which this vineyard, that is, the church, should bring forth as most agreeable to the Lord.

^e Therefore he will destroy the kingdom of Satan, because he loveth his church for his own mercy's sake, and cannot be angry with it, but wisheth that he may pour his anger upon the wicked infidels, whom he meaneth by briers and thorns.

^f He marvelleth, that Israel will not come by gentleness, except God make them to feel his rods, and so bring them to him.

taking away of his sin : when he shall make all the stones of the altar, as chalk stones broken in pieces, that the groves and images may not stand up.

10 Yet the ^l defenced city shall be desolate, and the habitation shall be forsaken, and left like a wilderness. There shall the calf feed, and there shall he lie, and consume the branches thereof.

11 When the boughs of it are dry, they shall be broken : the ^m women come, and set them on fire : for it is a people of no understanding : therefore he that made them, shall not have compassion of them : and he that formed them, shall have no mercy on them.

12 And in that day shall the Lord thresh from the channel of the ⁿ river unto the river of Egypt, and ye shall be gathered one by one, O children of Israel.

13 In that day also shall the great trump be ^o blown, and they shall come which perished in the land of Ashur : and they that were chased into the land of Egypt, and they shall worship the Lord in the holy mount at Jerusalem.

C H A P. XXVIII.

Against the pride and drunkenness of Israel. 9 The untowardness of them that should learn the word of God. 24 God doth all things in time and place.

WO to the ^p crown of pride, the drunkards of Ephraim : for his glorious beauty shall be a fading flower, which is upon the head of the ^q valley of them that be fat, and are overcome with wine.

2 Behold, the Lord hath a mighty and ^r strong host, like a tempest of hail, and a whirlwind that overthroweth, like a tempest of mighty waters that overfloweth, which throw to the ground mightily.

3 They shall be trodden under foot, even the crown and the pride of the drunkards of Ephraim.

4 For his glorious beauty shall be a fading flower, which is upon the head of the valley of them that be fat, and as ^s the hasty fruit afore sum-

^s Though I afflict and diminish my people for a time, yet shall the root spring again and bring forth in great abundance.

^t He sheweth that God punisheth his in mercy, and his enemies in justice.

^l That is, thou wilt not destroy the root of thy church, though the branches thereof seem to perish by the sharp wind of affliction.

^k He sheweth, that there is no true repentance, nor full reconciliation to God, till the heart be purged from all idolatry, and the monuments thereof destroyed.

ⁱ Notwithstanding his favour that he will shew them after, yet Jerusalem shall be destroyed, and grafs for cattle shall grow in it.

^m God shall not have need of mighty enemies : for the women shall do it to their great shame.

ⁿ He shall destroy all from Euphrates to Nilus : for some fled toward Egypt, thinking to have escaped.

^o In the time of Cyrus, by whom they should be delivered : but this was chiefly accomplished under Christ.

^p Meaning, the proud kingdom of the Israelites : which were drunken with worldly prosperity.

^q Because the Israelites for the most part dwelt in most plentiful vallies, he meaneth hereby the valley of them that had abundance of worldly prosperity, and were, as it were, crowned therewith as with garlands.

^r He seemeth to mean the Assyrians, by whom the ten tribes were carried away.

^s Which is not of long continuance, but is soon ripe, and first eaten.

28 summer, which when he that looketh upon it, seeth it, while it is in his hand he eateth it.

5 In that day shall the Lord of hosts be for a crown of glory, and for a diadem of beauty unto the residue of his people :

6 And for a spirit of judgment to him that sitteth in judgment, and for strength unto them that turn away the battle to the gate.

7 But they have erred because of wine, and are out of the way by strong drink : the priest and prophet have erred by strong drink : they are swallowed up with wine : they have gone astray through strong drink : they fail in vision : they stumble in judgment.

8 For all their tables are full of filthy vomiting : no place is clean.

9 Whom shall he teach knowledge ? and whom shall he make to understand the things that he heareth ? them that are weaned from the milk, and drawn from the breasts.

10 For precept must be upon precept, precept upon precept, line unto line, line unto line, there a little, and there a little.

11 For with a stammering tongue, and with a strange language, shall he speak unto this people.

12 Unto whom he said, This is the rest : give rest to him that is weary : and this is the refreshing : but they would not hear.

13 Therefore shall the word of the Lord be unto them, precept upon precept, precept upon precept, line unto line, line unto line, there a little, and there a little, that they may go, and fall backward, and be broken, and be snared, and be taken.

14 Wherefore hear the word of the Lord, ye scornful men, that rule this people which is at Jerusalem.

15 Because ye have said, We have made a covenant with death, and with hell are we at agreement : though a scourge run over, and pass through, it shall not come at us : for we have made falsehood our refuge, and under vanity are we hid :

16 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I will lay in Zion a stone, a tried stone, a precious corner-stone, a sure foundation. He that believeth shall not make haste.

17 Judgment also will I lay to the rule, and righteousness to the balance, and the hail shall sweep away the vain confidence, and the waters shall overflow the secret place.

18 And your covenant with death shall be disannulled, and your agreement with hell shall not stand : when a scourge shall run over and pass through, then shall ye be trod down by it.

19 When it passeth over, it shall take you away : for it shall pass through every morning in the day, and in the night, and there shall be only fear to make you to understand the hearing.

20 For the bed is so straight that it cannot suffice, and the covering narrow that one cannot wrap himself.

21 For the Lord shall stand as in mount Perazim : he shall be wroth as in the valley of Gibeon, that he may do his work, his strange work : and bring to pass his act, his strange act.

22 Now therefore be no mockers, lest your bonds increase : for I have heard of the Lord of hosts a consumption, even determined upon the whole earth.

23 Hearken ye, and hear my voice : hearken ye, and hear my speech :

24 Doth the ploughman plow all the day to sow ? doth he open and break the clots of his ground ?

25 When he hath made it plain, will he not then sow the fitches, and sow cummin, and cast in wheat by measure, and the appointed barley and rye in their place ?

26 For his God doth instruct him to have discretion, and doth teach him.

27 For fitches shall not be threshed with a threshing instrument, neither shall a cart wheel be turned about upon the cummin : but the fitches are beaten out with a staff, and cummin with a rod.

28 Bread corn when it is threshed, he doth not always thresh it, neither doth the wheel of his cart still make a noise, neither will he break it with the teeth thereof.

29 This also cometh from the Lord of hosts, which is wonderful in counsel, and excellent in works.

1 A prophecy against Jerusalem. 13 The vengeance of God on them that follow the traditions of man.

A H

¹ Signifying, that the faithful, which put not their trust in any worldly prosperity, but made God their glory, shall be preserved.

² He will give counsel to the governor, and strength to the captain, to drive the enemies in at their own gates.

³ Meaning, the hypocrites which were among them, and were altogether corrupt in life and doctrine, which is here meant by drunkenness and vomiting.

⁴ For there was none that was able to understand any good doctrine : but were foolish, and as unmeet as young babes.

⁵ They must have one thing oft-times told.

⁶ Let one teach what he can, yet they shall no more understand him, than if he spake in a strange language.

⁷ That is, the prophet, whom God should send.

⁸ This is the doctrine, whereupon ye ought to stay and rest.

⁹ Shew to them that are weary and have need of rest, what is the true rest.

¹⁰ Because they will not receive the word of God when it is offered, it cometh of their own malice, if after their hearts be so hardened, that they care not for it, as before.

¹¹ They thought they had shifts to avoid God's judgments, and that they should escape though all other perished.

¹² Though the prophets condemned their idols, and van-trust of falsehood and vanity, yet the wicked thought in themselves that they would trust in these things.

¹³ That is Christ, by whom all the building must be tried and upholden. Psalm 118. 22. Matt. 21. 42. Acts 4. 11. Rom. 9. 33. 1 Pet. 2. 6.

¹⁴ He shall be quiet and seek no other remedies, but be content with Christ.

¹⁵ In the restitution of his church, judgment and justice shall reign.

¹⁶ God's corrections and affliction.

¹⁷ Affliction shall discover their vain confidence, which they kept secret to themselves.

¹⁸ Terror and destruction shall make you to learn that which exhortations and gentleness could not bring you unto.

¹⁹ Your affliction shall be so sore, that you are not able to endure it.

A H^r altar, altar of the city that David dwelt in : add year unto year : ^s let them kill lambs.

² But I will bring the altar into distress, and there shall be heaviness and sorrow, and it shall be unto me like ^t an altar.

³ And I will besiege thee as a circle, and fight against thee on a mount, and will cast up ramparts against thee.

⁵ Moreover, the multitude of thy ^w strangers shall be like small dust : and the multitude of strong men shall be as chaff that passeth away, and it shall be in a moment, even suddenly.

⁶ Thou shalt be visited of the Lord of hosts with thunder, and shaking, and a great noise, a whirlwind, and a tempest, and a flame of a devouring fire.

⁷ And the ^x multitude of all the nations that fight against the altar, shall be as a dream or vision by night : even all they that make the war against it, and strong holds against it, and lay siege unto it.

⁸ And it shall be like as an hungry man dreameth, and behold, ^y he eateth : and when he awaketh, his soul is empty : or like as a thirsty man dreameth, and lo, he is drinking : and when he awaketh, behold he is faint, and his soul longeth : so shall the multitude of all nations be that fight against mount Zion.

⁹ ^z Stay yourselves, and wonder, they are blind, and make you blind : they are drunken, but not with wine : they stagger, but not by strong drink.

¹⁰ For the Lord hath covered you with a spirit of slumber, and hath shut up your eyes : the prophets and your chief seers hath he covered.

¹¹ And the vision of them all is become unto you as the words of a book that is sealed up, which they deliver to one that can read, saying, Read this, I pray thee. Then shall he say, I ^a cannot : for it is sealed.

^s Your vain confidence in your sacrifices shall not last long.

^t Your city shall be full of blood, as an altar whereon they sacrifice.

^u Thy speech shall be no more so lofty, but abased and low, as the very charmers which are in low places : and whisper, so that their voice can scarce be heard.

^w Thine hired soldiers, in whom thou trustest, shall be destroyed as dust, or chaff in a whirlwind.

¹⁴ Therefore behold, I will again do a marvellous work in this people, even a marvellous work, and a wonder : for the wisdom of their wise men shall ^d perish, and the understanding of their prudent men shall be hid.

¹⁵ Wo unto them that ^e seek deep to hide their counsel from the Lord : for their works are in darkness, and they say, Who seeth us ? and Who knoweth us ?

¹⁶ Your turning of devices shall it not be esteemed ^f as the potter's clay ? for shall the work say of him that made it, He made me not ? or the thing formed say of him that fashioned it, He had no understanding ?

¹⁷ Is it not yet but a little while, and Lebanon shall be ^g turned into Carmel ? and Carmel shall be counted as a forest ?

¹⁸ And in that day shall the deaf hear the words of the book, and the eyes of the blind shall see out of obscurity, and out of darkness.

¹⁹ The meek in the Lord shall receive joy again, and the poor men shall rejoice in the holy One of Israel.

²⁰ For the cruel man shall cease, and the scornful shall be consumed : and all that hastened to iniquity shall be cut off :

²¹ Which made a man to sin in the ^h word, and took him in a snare : which reproved them in the gate, and made the just to fall without cause.

²³ But when he seeth his children, the work of mine hands, in the midst of him, they shall sanctify my name, and sanctify the holy One of Jacob, and shall fear the God of Israel.

29 But there shall be a song unto you as in the ^k night, when a solemn feast is kept: and gladness of heart, as he that cometh with a pipe to go unto the mount of the Lord, to the mighty One of Israel.

1 Sennacherib sendeth Rabshakeb to besiege Jerusalem. 15 His blasphemies against God.

NOW ^v in the ² fourteenth year of king Hezekiah, Sennacherib king of Asshur came up against all the strong cities of Judah, and took them.

2 And the king of Asshur sent Rabshakeh from Lachish toward Jerusalem unto king Hezekiah with a great host, and he stood by the conduit of the upper pool, in the path of the fuller's field.

3 Then came forth unto him Eliakim the son of Hilkiah the ² steward of the house, and Shebna ^b the chancellor, and Joah the son of Asaph the recorder.

4 And ^c Rabshakeh said unto them, Tell you Hezekiah, I pray you, Thus saith the great king, the king of Asshur, What confidence is this, wherein thou trustest?

5 I say, ^d Surely I have eloquence, but counsel and strength are for the war: on whom then dost thou trust, that thou rebellest against me?

6 Lo, thou trustest in this broken staff of reed, on Egypt, whereupon if a man lean, it will go into his hand, and pierce it: so is ^e Pharaoh king of Egypt unto all that trust in him.

7 But if thou say to me, We trust in the Lord our God, is not that he whose high places and whose altars Hezekiah took down, and said to Judah and to Jerusalem, Ye shall worship before this altar?

8 Now therefore give hostages to my lord the king of Asshur, and I will give thee two thousand horses, if thou be able on thy part to set riders upon them.

9 For how canst thou [†] despise any captain of the ^f least of my lord's servants? and put thy trust on Egypt for chariots and for horsemen? ^{† Or, turn back.}

10 And

^w As he threatened to the wicked to be destroyed hereby, chap. 30. 6.

^x Whom the Lord shall deliver from the captivity of Babylon.

^v This history is rehearsed, because it is a seal and confirmation of the doctrine afore, both for the threatenings and promises: to wit, that God would suffer his church to be afflicted, but at length would send deliverance.

² When he had abolished superstition and idolatry, and restored religion, yet God would exercise his church, to try their faith and patience.

³ For he was now restored to his office, as Isaiah had prophesied, chap. 22. 20.

^b This declareth, that there were few godly to be found in the king's house, when he was driven to send this wicked man in such a weighty matter.

^c Sennacherib's chief captain.

^d He speaketh this in the person of Hezekiah, chiefly charging him that he put his trust in wit and eloquence, whereas his only confidence was in the Lord.

^e Satan laboured to pull the godly king from one vain confidence to another: to wit, from trust in the Egyptians, whose power was weak and would deceive them, to yield himself to the Assyrians, and so not to hope for any help of God.

^f He reproacheth to Hezekiah his small power, which is not able to resist one of Sennacherib's least captains.

Be. Chr. 10 And am I now come up without the Lord 710. to this land to destroy it? The Lord said unto me, ^e Go up against this land, and destroy it.

11 ¶ Then said Eliakim, and Shebna, and Joah unto Rabshakeh, ^h Speak, I pray thee, to thy servants in the Aramites language, (for we understand it) and talk not with us in the Jews tongue, in the audience of the people that are on the wall.

12 Then said Rabshakeh, Hath my master sent me to thy master and to thee, to speak these words, and not to the men that sit on the wall? that they may eat their own dung, and drink their own [†] piss with you?

† Heb. the water of their feet.

13 So Rabshakeh stood and cried with a loud voice in the Jews language, and said, Hear the words of the great king, of the king of Asshur.

14 Thus saith the king, Let not Hezekiah deceive you: for he shall not be able to deliver you.

15 Neither let Hezekiah make you to trust in the Lord, saying, The Lord will surely deliver us: this city shall not be given over into the hand of the king of Asshur.

16 Harken not to Hezekiah: for thus saith the king of Asshur, Make ⁱ appointment with me, and come out to me, that every man may eat of his own vine, and every man of his own fig-tree, and drink every man the water of his own well,

17 Till I come and bring you to a land like your own land, even a land of wheat and wine; a land of bread and vineyards, 18 Lest Hezekiah deceive you, saying, The Lord will deliver us. Hath any of the gods of the nations delivered his land out of the hand of the king of Asshur?

19 Where is the god of ^k Hamath, and of Arpad? where is the god of Sepharvaim? or how have they delivered Samaria out of mine hand?

20 Who is he among all the gods of these lands that hath delivered their country out of mine hand, that the Lord should deliver Jerusalem out of mine hand?

21 Then they ^l kept silence, and answered him not a word: for the king's commandment was, saying, ^m Answer him not.

22 Then came Eliakim the son of Hilkiah the steward of the house, and Shebna the chancellor, and Joah the son of Asaph the recorder, unto Hezekiah with rent cloaths, and told him the words of Rabshakeh.

^e Thus the wicked, to deceive us, will pretend the name of the Lord: but we must try the spirits, whether they be of God or no.

^h They were afraid, lest by his words he should have stirred the people against the king, and also pretended to grow to some appointment with him.

ⁱ The Hebrew word signifieth blessing: whereby this wicked captain would have persuaded the people that their condition should be better under Sennacherib, than under Hezekiah.

^k That is, of Antiochia in Syria, of the which these two other cities also were: whereby we see how every town had his peculiar idol, and how the wicked make God an idol, because they do not understand that God maketh them his scourge, and punisheth cities for sin.

^l Not that they did not shew by evident signs, that they did detest his blasphemy, for they had now rent their cloaths, but they knew it was in vain to use long reasoning with this infidel, whose rage they should have so much more provoked.

14 ¶ So Hezekiah received the letter of the hand of the messengers and read it, and he went up into the house of the Lord, and Hezekiah spread it before the Lord.

15 And Hezekiah prayed unto the Lord, saying,

16 O Lord of hosts, God of Israel, which ^x dwellest between the cherubims, thou art very God alone over all the kingdoms of the earth: thou hast made the heaven and the earth.

17 Incline thine ear, O Lord, and hear: open thine eyes, O Lord, and see: and hear all the words of Sennacherib, who hath sent to blaspheme the living God.

18 Truth it is, O Lord, that the kings of Asshur have destroyed all lands, and ^v their country, 20 Now therefore, O Lord our God, save thou us out of his hand, that ^z all the kingdoms of the earth may know that thou only art the Lord.

^a Whom God hath chosen to himself as a chaste virgin, and over whom he had care to preserve her from the lusts of the tyrant, as a father would have over his daughter.
^b Declaring hereby, that they that are enemies to God's church, fight against him, whose quarrel his church only maintaineth.
^c He boasteth of his policy, in that that he can find means to nourish his army: and of his power, in that that his army is so great, that it is able to dry up whole rivers, and to destroy the waters which the Jews had closed in.
^d Signifying, that God made not his church to destroy it, but to preserve it: and therefore he saith, that he formed it of old, even in his eternal counsel, which cannot be changed.
^e He sheweth, that the state and power of most flourishing cities endureth but a moment, in respect of the church,

26 Hast thou not heard how I have of old time made it, ^d and have formed it long ago? and should I now bring it, that it should be destroyed, and laid on ruinous heaps, as cities defenced, 27 Whose inhabitants [†] have small power, and are afraid and confounded? they are like the grafs of the field and green herb, or grafs on the house-tops, or corn blasted ^e afore it be grown.

28 But I know thy dwelling, and thy going ^f out, and thy coming in, and thy fury against me.

29 Because thou ragest against me, and thy tumult is come up unto mine ears, therefore will I put my ^g hook in thy nostrils, and my bridle in thy lips, and will bring thee back again the same way thou ^h camest.

1 Hezekiah is sick. 3 He is restored to health by the Lord, and liveth fifteen years after. 10 He giveth thanks for his benefits.

2 Kings 20. 1. 2 Chron. 32. 24.

ABOUT that time was Hezekiah sick unto the death, and the prophet Isaiah, son of Amos, came unto him, and said unto him, Thus saith the Lord, Put thine house in an order, for thou shalt die, and not live.

2 Then Hezekiah turned his face to the wall, and prayed to the Lord,

3 And said, I beseech thee, Lord, remember now, how I have walked before thee in truth, and with a perfect heart, and have done that which is good in thy sight: and Hezekiah wept fore.

4 ¶ Then came the word of the Lord to Isaiah, saying,

5 Go, and say unto Hezekiah, Thus saith the Lord God of David thy father, I have heard thy prayer, and seen thy tears: behold, I will add unto thy days fifteen years.

6 And I will deliver thee out of the hand of the king of Asshur, and this city: for I will defend this city.

7 And this sign shalt thou have of the Lord, and the Lord will do this thing that he hath spoken.

8 Behold I will bring again the shadow of the degrees (whereby it is gone down in the dial of Ahaz by the sun) ten degrees backward: so the sun returned by ten degrees, by the which degrees it was gone down.

9 ¶ The writing of Hezekiah king of Judah, when he had been sick, and was recovered of his sickness.

10 I said in the cutting off of my days, I shall go to the gates of the grave: I am deprived of the residue of my years.

11 I said, I shall not see the Lord, even the Lord in the land of the living: I shall see man no more among the inhabitants of the world.

12 Mine habitation is departed, and is re-

° Soon after that the Assyrians were slain: so that God will have the exercise of his children continual: that they may learn only to depend upon God, and aspire to the heavens.

¶ For his heart was touched with fear of God's judgment, seeing he had appointed him to die, so quickly after his deliverance from so great calamity, as one unworthy to remain in that estate, and also foreseeing the great change that should come in the church, forasmuch as he left no son to reign after him: for as yet Manasseh was not born: and when he reigned, we see what a tyrant he was.

¶ He doth not only promise of prolong his life, but to give him rest and quietness from the Assyrians, who might have renewed their army to revenge their former discomfiture.

¶ For Hezekiah had asked for the confirmation of his faith, a sign, as ver. 22. and 2 King 20. 8. whereunto he was moved by the singular motion of God's Spirit.

¶ Read 2 Kings 20. 10.

¶ He left this song of his lamentation and thanksgiving to all posterity, as a monument to his own infirmity and thankful heart for God's benefits, as David did, Psalm 51.

¶ At what time it was told me that I should die.

¶ I shall no more praise the Lord here in this temple among the faithful: thus God suffereth his dearest children to want his consolation for a time, that his grace afterward may the more appear when they feel their own weakness.

¶ By my sin I have provoked God to take my life from me.

¶ That is, in one day, or shortly.

¶ Over-night I thought that I should live till morning, but my pangs in the night persuaded me the contrary: he sheweth the horror that the faithful have when they apprehend God's judgments against their sin.

¶ I was so oppressed with sorrow, that I was not able to ut-moved from me, like a shepherd's tent: I have cut off like a weaver my life: he will cut me off from the height: from day to night thou wilt make an end of me.

13 I reckoned to the morning: but he brake all my bones, like a lion: from day to night wilt thou make an end of me.

14 Like a crane, or a swallow, so did I chatter: I did mourn as a dove: mine eyes were lift up on high: O Lord, it hath oppressed me, comfort me.

15 What shall I say? for he hath said it to me, and he hath done it, I shall walk weakly all my years in the bitterness of my soul.

16 O Lord, to them that overlive them, and to all that are in them, the life of my spirit, shall be known, that thou causest me to sleep, and hast given life to me.

17 Behold, for felicity I had bitter grief, but it was thy pleasure to deliver my soul from the pit of corruption: for thou hast cast all my sins behind thy back.

18 For the grave cannot confess thee: death cannot praise thee: they that go down into the pit, cannot hope of thy truth.

19 But the living, the living, he shall confess thee, as I do this day: the father to the children shall declare thy truth.

20 The Lord was ready to save me: therefore we will sing my song all the days of our life in the house of the Lord.

21 Then said Isaiah, Take a lump of dry figs, and lay it upon the boil, and he shall recover.

22 Also Hezekiah had said, What is the sign, and I shall go up into the house of the Lord?

C H A P. XXXIX.

Hezekiah is reproved, because he sheweth his treasures unto the ambassadors of Babylon.

ter my words, but only to groan and sigh.

¶ To wit, sorrow and grief both of body and mind.

¶ God hath declared by his prophet that I shall die, and therefore I will yield unto him.

¶ I shall have no release, but continual sorrows while I live.

¶ They that shall overlive the men that are now alive, and all they that are in these years shall acknowledge this benefit.

¶ That after that thou hadst condemned me to death, thou restoredst me to life.

¶ Whereas I thought to have lived in rest and ease, being delivered from mine enemy, I had grief upon grief.

¶ He esteemeth more the remission of his sins, and God's favour, than a thousand lives.

¶ Forasmuch as God hath placed man in this world to glorify him, the godly take it as a sign of his wrath when their days were shortened, either because that they seemed unworthy for their sins to live longer in his service: or for their zeal to God's glory, seeing that there are so few in earth that do regard it, Psalm 6. 5. and 115. 17.

¶ All posterity shall acknowledge, and the fathers, according to their duty toward the children, shall instruct them in thy graces and mercies toward me.

¶ He sheweth what is the use of the congregation and church, to wit, to give the Lord thanks for his benefits.

¶ Read 2 Kings 20. 7.

¶ As ver. 9.

¶ This was the first king of Babylon, which overcame the Assyrians in the tenth year of his reign.

¶ Partly moved with the greatness of the miracle, partly because he shewed himself enemy of his enemies; but chiefly, because he would join with them whom God favoured, and have their help if occasion served.

Chr. 2 And Hezekiah was ^s glad of them, and shewed them the house of the treasures, the silver, and the gold, and the spices, and the precious ointment, and all the house of his armour, and all that was found in his treasures: there was nothing in his house, nor in all his kingdom, that Hezekiah shewed them not.

3 Then came Isaiah the prophet unto king Hezekiah, and said unto him, What said these men? and from whence came they to thee? And Hezekiah said, They are come from a far country unto me, from Babel.

4 Then said he, What have they seen in thine house? And Hezekiah answered, All that is in mine house have they seen: there is nothing among my treasures that I have not shewed them.

5 And Isaiah said to Hezekiah, Hear the word of the Lord of hosts:

6 Behold, the days come, that all that is in thine house, and which thy fathers have laid up in store until this day, shall be ^s carried to Babel: nothing shall be left, saith the Lord.

7 And of thy sons, that shall proceed out of thee, and which thou shalt beget, shall they take away, and they shall be ^s eunuchs in the palace of the king of Babel.

8 Then said Hezekiah to Isaiah, The word of the Lord is good, which thou hast spoken: and he said, Yet let there be peace and truth in my days.

1 The obedience and humility of Christ. 6 Why he was sent into the world. 11 The vocation of the Gentiles.

BEHOLD, my servant: I will stay upon him: mine elect, in whom my soul delighteth: I have put my Spirit upon him: he shall bring forth judgment to the Gentiles.

2 He shall not cry, nor lift up, nor cause his voice to be heard in the street.

3 A bruised reed shall he not break, and the smoking flax shall he not quench: he shall bring forth judgments in truth.

4 He shall not fail nor be discouraged till he have set judgment in the earth: and the isles shall wait for his law.

5 Thus saith God the Lord (he that created the heavens, and spread them abroad: he that stretched forth the earth, and the buds thereof: he that giveth breath unto the people upon it, and spirit to them that walk therein)

6 I the Lord have called thee in righteousness, and will hold thine hand, and I will keep thee, and give thee for a covenant of the people, and for a light of the Gentiles,

7 That thou mayest open the eyes of the blind, and bring out the prisoners from the prison: and them that sit in darkness out of the prison house.

2 The Lord comforteth his people. He promiseth deliverance to the Jews. 11 There is no God but one alone.

BUT now thus saith the Lord^d that created thee, O Jacob: and he that formed thee, O Israel, fear not: for I have redeemed thee: I have called thee by thy name, thou art mine.

2 When thou passest through the waters, I will be with thee; and through the floods, that they do not overflow thee. When thou walkest through the very fire, thou shalt not be burnt, neither shall the flame kindle upon thee.

3 For I am the Lord thy God, the holy One of Israel, thy Saviour: I gave^e Egypt for thy ransom, Ethiopia and Seba for thee.

4 Because thou wast precious in my sight, and thou wast honourable, and I loved thee, therefore will I give^h man for thee, and people for thy sake.

5 Fear not, for I am with thee: I will bring thy seed from the East, and gather thee from the West.

6 I will say to the north, Give: and to the south, Keep not back: bring my sons from far, and my daughters from the ends of the earth.

7 Every one shall be called by my^k name: for I created him for my glory, formed him, and made him.

8 I will bring forth the blind people, and they shall have eyes: and the deaf, and they shall have ears.

2 For they are called of the holy city, and stay themselves upon the God of Israel, whose name is the Lord of hosts.

3 I have declared the former things of old, and they went out of my mouth, and I shewed them: I did them suddenly, and they came to pass.

4 Because I knew that thou art obstinate, and thy neck is an iron sinew, and thy brow brass.

5 Therefore I have declared it to thee of old: before it came to pass, I shewed it thee, lest thou shouldest say, Mine idol hath done them, and my carved image, and my molten image hath commanded them.

6 Thou hast heard, behold all this, and wilt not yet declare it? I have shewed thee new things, even now, and hid things which thou knewest not.

7 They are created now, and not of old, and even before this thou heardest them not, lest thou shouldest say, Behold, I knew them.

8 Yet thou heardest them not, neither didst know them, neither yet was thine ear opened of old: for I knew that thou wouldest grievously transgress: therefore have I called thee a transgressor from the womb.

9 For my name's sake will I defer my wrath, and for my praise will I refrain it from thee, that I cut thee not off.

10 Behold, I have fined thee, but not as silver: I have chosen thee in the furnace of affliction.

11 For mine own sake, for mine own sake will I do it: for how should my name be polluted? surely, I will not give my glory unto another.

7 They shall flee every one to that place, which he thought by his speculation to be most sure: but that shall deceive them.

8 He detecteth their hypocrisy, which vaunted themselves to be Israelites, and were not so in deed.

9 Meaning, the fountain and flock.

10 They make shew as though they would have none other God.

11 He sheweth, that they could not accuse him in any thing, so much as he had performed whatsoever he had promised.

12 I have done for thee more than I promised, that thy stubbornness and impudency might have been overcome.

13 How thou shouldest be delivered out of Babylon.

14 Will ye not acknowledge this my benefit, and declare it unto others?

15 Shewing, that man's arrogancy is the cause why God doth not declare all things at once, lest they should attribute this knowledge to their own wisdom.

16 From the time that I brought thee out of Egypt: for that deliverance was at the birth of the church.

17 As it was: my free mercy that I did chuse thee, so it is my free mercy that must save thee.

18 For I had respect to thy weakness and infirmity: for in silver there is some pureness, but in us there is nothing

12 Hear me, O Jacob and Israel, my called, I am, I am the first, and I am the last. Bef. Chr. 712.

13 Surely mine hand hath laid the foundation of the earth, and my right hand hath spanned the heavens: when I call them, they stand up together.

14 All you assemble yourselves, and hear: which among them hath declared these things? the Lord hath loved him: he will do his will in Babylon, and his arm shall be against the Chaldeans.

15 I, even I have spoken it, and I have called him: I have brought him, and his way shall prosper.

16 Come near unto me: hear ye this: I have not spoken it in secret from the beginning: from the time that the thing was, I was there, and now the Lord God and his Spirit hath sent me.

17 Thus saith the Lord thy Redeemer, the holy One of Israel, I am the Lord thy God, which teach thee to profit, and lead thee by the way that thou shouldest go.

18 Oh that thou hadst hearkened to my commandments! then had thy prosperity been as the flood, and thy righteousness as the waves of the sea.

19 Thy seed also had been as the sand, and the fruit of thy body like the gravel thereof: his name should not have been cut off nor destroyed before me.

20 Go ye out of Babylon: flee ye from the Chaldeans, with a voice of joy: tell and declare this: shew it forth to the end of the earth: say ye, The Lord hath redeemed his servant Jacob.

21 And they were not thirsty: he led them through the wilderness: he caused the waters to flow out of the rock for them: for he clave the rock, and the waters gushed out.

22 There is no peace, saith the Lord, unto the wicked.

C H A P. XLIX.

1 The Lord exhorteth all nations to believe his promises. 6 Christ is the salvation of all that believe, and will deliver them from the tyranny of their enemies.

HEAR ye me, O isles, and hearken, ye people from far. The Lord hath called me, but drofs

1 I took thee out of the furnace, where thou shouldest have been consumed.

2 God joineth the salvation of his with his own honour: so that they cannot perish, lest his glory should be diminished, as Deut. 32. 27.

4 Read chap. 41. 4.

5 To obey me, and to do whatsoever I command them.

6 Meaning, Cyrus, whom he had chosen to destroy Babylon.

7 Since the time that I declared myself to your fathers.

8 Thus the prophet speaketh for himself, and to assure them of these things.

9 What things shall do thee good.

10 That is, the prosperous estate of Israel.

11 After that he had forewarned them of their captivity, and of the cause thereof, he sheweth them the great joy that shall come of their deliverance.

12 He sheweth that it shall be as easy to deliver them, as he did their fathers out of Egypt.

13 Thus he speaketh, that the wicked hypocrites should not abuse God's promise, in whom was neither faith nor repentance, as chap. 57. 21.

712. ¹ me from ² the womb, and made mention of my name from my mother's belly.

2 And he hath made my mouth like a sharp sword: under the shadow of his hand hath he hid me, and made me a chosen shaft, and hid me in his quiver,

3 And said unto me, Thou art my servant ⁴ Israel, for I will be glorious in thee.

4 And I said, I have ⁵ laboured in vain: I have spent my strength in vain, and for nothing: but my judgment is with the Lord, and my work with my God.

5 And now saith the Lord, that formed me from the womb to be his servant, that I may bring Jacob again to him (though Israel be not gathered, ⁶ yet shall I be glorious in the sight of the Lord: and my God shall be my strength.)

6 And he said, It is a small thing that thou shouldest be my servant, to raise up the tribes of Jacob, and to restore the desolations of Israel: I will also give ⁷ thee for a light of the Gentiles, that thou mayest be my salvation unto the end of the world.

7 Thus saith the Lord the Redeemer of Israel, and his holy One, to him that is despised in soul, to a nation that is abhorred, to a ⁸ servant of rulers, Kings shall see, and ⁹ arise, and princes shall worship, because of the Lord, that is faithful: and the holy One of Israel which hath chosen thee.

8 Thus saith the Lord, ¹⁰ In an acceptable time I have heard thee: and in a day of salvation have I helped thee: and I will preserve thee, and will ¹¹ give thee for a covenant of the people, that thou mayest raise up the ¹² earth, and obtain the inheritance of the desolate heritages:

9 That thou mayest say to the ¹³ prisoners, Go forth: and to them that are in darkness, Shew yourselves: they shall feed in the ways, and their ¹⁴ pastures shall be in all the tops of the hills.

10 They shall not be hungry, neither shall they be thirsty, neither shall the heat smite them, nor the sun: for he that hath compassion ¹⁵ on them, shall lead them: even to the springs of waters shall he drive them.

11 And I will make all my mountains as a way, and my paths shall be exalted.

12 Behold, these shall come from far: and

¹ This is spoken in the person of Christ, to assure the faithful, that these promises should come to pass, for they were all made in him, and in him should be performed.

² This is meant of the time that Christ should be manifested to the world, as Psalm 2. 7.

³ By the sword and shaft, he signifieth the virtue and efficacy of Christ's doctrine.

⁴ God hath taken me to his protection and defence: this chiefly is meant of Christ, and may also be applied to the ministers of his word.

⁵ By Israel is meant Christ, and all the body of the faithful, as the members and their head.

⁶ Thus Christ in his members complaineth that his labour and preaching take no effect, yet he is content that his doings are approved of God.

⁷ Though the Jews refuse my doctrine, yet God will approve my ministry.

⁸ To declare my gospel to the Gentiles, chap. 42. 6. Acts 13. 47. Luke 2. 32.

⁹ Meaning, the Jews, whom tyrants keep in bondage.

¹⁰ The benefit of their deliverance shall be so great, that great and small shall acknowledge it, and reverence God for it.

¹¹ Thus he speaketh of his church, when he would shew his mercy toward it, 2 Cor. 6. 2.

¹² Meaning, Christ alone.

¹³ Signifying, that before Christ renew the earth by his word, there is nothing but confusion and disorder.

¹⁴ To them that are in the prison of sin and death.

10, these from the North and from the West, ¹⁵ and these from the land of ¹⁶ Sinim. Bef. Chr. 712.

13 Rejoice, O ¹⁷ heavens, and be joyful, O earth: break forth into praise, O mountains: for God hath comforted his people, and will have mercy on his afflicted.

14 But Zion said, The Lord ¹⁸ hath forsaken me, and my Lord hath forgotten me.

15 Can a woman forget her child, and not have compassion on the son of her womb? though they should forget, yet will I not forget thee.

16 Behold, I have graven thee upon the palm of ¹⁹ mine ²⁰ hands: thy ²¹ walls are ever in my sight.

17 Thy builders make ²² haste: thy destroyers, and they that made thee waste are departed from thee.

18 Lift up thine eyes round about; and behold: all these gather themselves together, and come to thee: as I live, saith the Lord, thou shalt surely ²³ put them all upon thee as a garment, and gird thyself with them like a bride.

19 For thy desolations, and thy waste places, and thy land destroyed, shall surely be now narrow for them that shall dwell in it: and they that did devour thee, shall be far away.

20 The children of thy barrenness shall say again in thine ears, The place is strait for me: give place to me that I may dwell.

21 Then shalt thou say in thine heart, Who hath begotten me these, seeing I am barren and desolate, a captive and a wanderer to and fro? and who hath nourished them? behold; I was left alone: whence are these?

22 Thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I will lift up mine hand to the ²⁴ Gentiles, and set up my standard to the people: and they shall bring thy sons in their arms: and thy daughters shall be carried upon their shoulders.

23 And kings ²⁵ shall be thy nursing fathers, and queens shall be thy nurses: they shall worship thee with their faces toward the earth, and lick up the ²⁶ dust of thy feet: and thou shalt know that I am the Lord: for they shall not be ashamed that wait for me.

24 Shall the prey be ²⁷ taken from the mighty? or the just captivity delivered?

25 But thus saith the Lord, ²⁸ Even the captivity of the mighty shall be taken away, and the ¹ Being in Christ's protection, they shall be safe against all dangers, and free from the fear of their enemies.

² Meaning, that there should be nothing in their way from Babylon, that should hinder or hurt them: but this is accomplished spiritually.

³ Meaning, the South country, so that Christ shall deliver his from all the parts of the world.

⁴ Read chap. 44. 23.

⁵ He objecteth what the faithful might say in their long affliction, and answereth thereunto to comfort them with a most proper similitude and full of consolation.

⁶ Because I would not forget thee.

⁷ Meaning, the good order of policy and discipline.

⁸ I have a continual care to build thee up again, and to destroy thine enemies.

⁹ He sheweth, what are the ornaments of the church: to have many children, which are assembled by the word of God, and governed by his Spirit.

¹⁰ He sheweth, that Christ will not only gather this great number of the Jews, but also of the Gentiles.

¹¹ Meaning, the kings shall be converted to the gospel, and bestow their power and authority for the preservation of the church.

¹² Being joined with the church, they shall humble themselves to Christ their head, and give him all honour.

¹³ He maketh this as an objection, as though the Chaldeans were strong, and had them in just possession.

¹⁴ This is the answer to their objection, that none is stronger than the Lord, neither hath a more just title unto them.

11. Ch. the prey of the tyrant shall be delivered: for I will contend with him that contendeth with thee, and I will save thy children:

20 And will feed them that spoil thee, with their own flesh, and they shall be drunken with their own blood, as with sweet wine: and all flesh shall know that I the Lord am thy Saviour and thy Redeemer, the mighty One of Jacob.

1 The Jews forsaken for a time. 2 Yet the power of God is not diminished. 5 Christ's obedience and victory.

THUS saith the Lord, Where is that bill of your mother's divorcement, whom I have cast off? or who is the creditor to whom I sold you? Behold, for your iniquities are ye sold, and because of your transgressions is your mother forsaken.

2 Wherefore came I, and there was no man? I called, and none answered: is mine hand shortened, that it cannot help? or have I no power to deliver? Behold, at my rebuke I dry up the sea: I make the floods desert: their fish rotteth for want of water, and dieth for thirst.

3 I cloath the heavens with darkness, and make black their covering.

4 The Lord God hath given me a tongue of the learned, that I should know to minister a word in time to him that is weary: he will raise me up in the morning: in the morning he will waken mine ear to hear, as the learner.

5 The Lord God hath opened mine ear, and I was not rebellious, neither turned I back.

6 I gave my back unto the smiters, and my cheeks to the nippers: I hid not my face from shame and spitting.

7 For the Lord God will help me, therefore shall I not be confounded: therefore have I set my face like a flint, and I know that I shall not be ashamed.

8 He is near that justifieth me: who will contend with me? Let us stand together: who is mine adversary? let him come near to me.

9 Behold, the Lord God will help me: who is he that can condemn me? lo, they shall wax old as a garment: the moth shall eat them up.

10 Who is among you that feareth the Lord? let him hear the voice of his servant: he that walketh in darkness, and hath no light, let him trust in the name of the Lord, and stay upon his God.

I will cause them to destroy one another, as Judg. 7. 22. 2 Chron. 20. 22. chap. 19. 2.

^h To him that is oppressed by affliction and misery.

ⁱ As they that are taught and made meet by him.

^k I did not shrink from God for any persecution or calamity: whereby he sheweth, that the true ministers of God can look for no other recompence of the wicked, but after this sort, and also what is their comfort.

11 Behold, all you kindle a fire, and are compassed about with sparks: walk in the light of your fire, and in the sparks that ye have kindled. This shall ye have of mine hand: ye shall lie down in sorrow.

2 Consider Abraham your father, and Sarah that bare you: for I called him alone, and blessed him, and increased him.

3 Surely the Lord shall comfort Zion: he shall comfort all her desolations, and he shall make her desert like Eden, and her wilderness like the garden of the Lord: joy and gladness shall be found therein: praise, and the voice of singing.

4 Harken ye unto me, my people: give ear unto me, O my people: for a law shall proceed from me, and I will bring forth my judgment for the light of the people.

5 My righteousness is near: my salvation goeth forth, and mine arms shall judge the people: the isles shall wait for me, and shall trust unto mine arm.

6 Lift up your eyes to the heavens, and look upon the earth beneath: for the heavens shall vanish away like smok, and the earth shall wax old like a garment, and they that dwell therein shall perish in like manner: but my salvation shall be for ever, and my righteousness shall not be abolished.

7 Harken unto me, ye that know righteousness, the people in whose heart is my law. Fear ye not the reproach of men, neither be ye afraid of their rebukes.

8 For the moth shall eat them up like a garment, and the worm shall eat them like wool: but my righteousness shall be for ever, and my salvation from generation to generation.

messengers thereof.

ARISE, arise: put on thy strength, O Zion:
put on the garments of thy beauty, O Jerusalem, the holy city: for henceforth there shall no^b more come into thee the uncircumcised and the unclean.

2 Shake thyself from the^c dust: arise, and sit down, O Jerusalem: loose the bands of thy neck, O thou captive daughter, Zion.

3 For thus saith the Lord, Ye were sold for nought: therefore shall ye be redeemed without money.

4 For thus saith the Lord God, My people went^e down aforetime into Egypt to sojourn there, and Asshur^f oppressed them without cause.

5 Now therefore what have I here, saith the Lord, that my people is taken away for nought, and they that rule over them make them to howl, saith the Lord? and my name all the day continually is^g blasphemed?

6 Therefore my people shall know my name:
therefore they shall know in that day, that I am he that doth speak: behold, it is I.

1 Of Christ and his kingdom, whose word few will believe. 6 All men are sinners. 11 Christ is our righteousness, 12 And is dead for our sins.

WH O^e will believe our report? and to whom is the arm of the Lord revealed?

2 But he shall grow up before him as a branch, and as a root out of a dry ground: he hath neither form nor beauty: when we shall see him, there shall be no form that we should desire him.

3 He is despised and rejected of men: he is a man full of sorrows, and hath experience of infirmities: we hid, as it were, our faces from him: he was despised, and we esteemed him not.

4 Surely he hath borne our infirmities, and carried our sorrows: yet we did judge him as plagued, and smitten of God, and humbled.

5 But he was wounded for our transgressions, he was broken for our iniquities: the chastisement of our peace was upon him, and with his stripes we are healed.

6 All we like sheep have gone astray: we have turned every one to his own way, and the Lord hath laid upon him the iniquity of us all.

7 He was oppressed and he was afflicted, yet did not open his mouth: he is brought as a sheep to the slaughter, and as a sheep before his shearers is dumb, so he opened not his mouth.

8 He was taken out from prison, and from judgment: and who shall declare his age? for he was cut out of the land of the living: for the transgression of my people was he plagued.

9 And he made his grave with the wicked, and with the rich in his death, though he had done no wickedness, neither was any deceit in his mouth.

10 Yet the Lord would break him, and make him subject to infirmities: when he shall make his soul an offering for sin, he shall see his seed, and shall prolong his days, and the will of the Lord shall prosper in his hand. Bef. Chr. 712.

11 He shall see of the travail of his soul, and shall be satisfied: by his knowledge shall my righteous servant justify many: for he shall bear their iniquities.

12 Therefore will I give him a portion with the great: and he shall divide the spoil with the strong, because he hath poured out his soul unto death: and he was counted with the transgressors, and he bare the sin of many, and prayed for the trespassers.

2 Enlarge the place of thy tents, and let them spread out the curtains of thine habitations: spare not: stretch out thy cords, and make fast thy stakes.

3 For thou shalt increase on the right hand and on the left, and thy seed shall possess the Gentiles, and dwell in the desolate places.

4 Fear not, for thou shalt not be ashamed, neither shalt thou be confounded: for thou shalt not be put to shame: yea, thou shalt forget the shame of thy youth, and shalt not remember the reproach of thy widowhood any more.

5 For he that made thee, is thine husband, (whose name is the Lord of hosts) and thy Redeemer the holy One of Israel, shall be called the God of the whole world.

¹⁰ That is, the punishment due to our sins: for the which he hath both suffered and made satisfaction, Matt. 8. 17. 1 Pet. 2. 24.

¹¹ We judged evil, thinking that he was punished for his own sins, and not for ours.

¹² He was chastised for our reconciliation, 1 Cor. 15. 3.

¹⁸ Christ by offering up himself shall give life to the church, and so cause them to live with him for ever.

¹⁹ That is, the fruit and effect of his labour, which is the salvation of his church.

²⁰ Christ shall justify by faith, through his word, whereas Moses could not justify by the law.

²¹ Because he humbled himself, therefore he shall be exalted to glory, Phil. 2. 7, 8.

²³ After that he hath declared the death of Christ, he speaketh to the church, because it should feel the fruit of the same; and calleth her barren, because that in the captivity she was a widow without hope to have any children.

²⁴ The church in this her affliction and captivity shall bring forth more children than when she was at liberty: or this may be spoken by admiration, considering the great number that should come of her. Her deliverance under Cyrus was as her childhood, and therefore this was accomplished when she came to her age, which was under the gospel.

²⁵ Signifying, that for the great number of children that God should give her, she should seem to want room to lodge them.

9 For this is unto me as the^w waters of Noah: for as I have sworn that the waters of Noah should no more go over the earth, so have I sworn that I would not be angry with thee, nor rebuke thee.

10 For the mountains shall remove, and the hills shall fall down: but my mercy shall not depart from thee, neither shall the covenant of my peace fall away, saith the Lord, that hath compassion on thee.

11 O thou afflicted and tossed with tempest, that hast no comfort, behold, I will lay thy stones with^x the carbuncle, and lay thy foundation with sapphires.

12 And I will make thy windows of † emeralds, and thy gates shining stones, and all thy border of pleasant stones.

13 And all thy children shall be^y taught of the Lord, and much peace shall be to thy children.

14 In^z righteousness shalt thou be established, and be far from oppression, for thou shalt not fear it: and from fear, for it shall not come near thee.

15 Behold, the enemy shall gather himself, but without^a me: whosoever shall gather himself in thee, ^b against thee, shall fall.

16 Behold, I have created the^c smith that bloweth the coals in the fire, and him that bringeth forth an instrument for his work, and I have created the destroyer to destroy.

17 But all the weapons that are made against thee, shall not prosper: and every tongue that shall rise against thee in judgment, thou shalt condemn. This is the heritage of the Lord's servants, and their righteousness is of me, saith the Lord.

1 An exhortation to come to Christ. 8 God's counsels are not as man's. 12 The joy of the faithful.

HO, every one that ^d thirsteth, come ye to the waters, and ye that have^e no silver, come, buy and eat: come, I say, buy^f wine and milk without silver and without money.

2 Wherefore do ye lay out silver, and not for bread? ^g and your labour, without being satisfied?

^w As sure as the promise that I made to Noah, that the waters should no more overflow the earth.

^x Hereby he declareth the excellent estate of the church under Christ.

^y By the hearing of his word and inward moving of his Spirit.

^z In stability and sureness, so that it shall stand for ever.

^a And therefore shall not prevail.

^b Meaning, the domestical enemies of the church, as are the hypocrites.

^c Signifying hereby, that man can do nothing but so far as God giveth power: for seeing that all are his creatures, he must needs govern and guide them.

^d Christ by proposing his graces and gifts to his church, exempteth the hypocrites which are full with their imagined works, and the Epicures which are full with their worldly lusts, and so think not after these waters.

^e Signifying, that God's benefits cannot be bought for money.

^f By waters, wine, milk and bread, he meaneth all things necessary to the spiritual life, as these are necessary to this corporal life.

^g He reproveth their ingratitude, which refuse those things that God offereth willingly, and in the mean time spare neither cost nor labour to obtain those which are nothing profitable.

^h You shall be fed abundantly.

8 For a moment in mine anger, I hid my face from thee for a little season, but with everlasting mercy have I had compassion on thee, saith the Lord thy Redeemer. which is good, and let your soul delight in^h fatness. Def. Chr. 712.

3 Incline your ears, and come unto me: hear, and your soul shall live: and I will make an everlasting covenant with you, even theⁱ sure mercies of David.

4 Behold, I gave^k him for a witness to the people, for a prince and a master unto the people.

5 Behold, thou shalt call a nation that thou knowest not, ^l and a nation that knew not thee shall run unto thee, because of the Lord thy God, and the holy One of Israel: for he hath glorified thee.

6 Seek ye the Lord while he may^m be found: call ye upon him while he is near.

7 Let the wickedⁿ forsake his ways, and the unrighteous his own imaginations, and return unto the Lord, and he will have mercy upon him: and to our God, for he is very ready to forgive.

8 For my^o thoughts are not your thoughts, neither are your ways my ways, saith the Lord.

9 For as the heavens are higher than the earth, so are my ways higher than your ways, and my thoughts above your thoughts.

10 Surely as the rain cometh down, and the snow from heaven, and returneth not thither; but watereth the earth, and maketh it to bring forth and bud, that it may give seed to the sower, and bread unto him that eateth,

11 So shall my^p word be, that goeth out of my mouth: it shall not return unto me void, but it shall accomplish that which I will, and it shall prosper in the thing whereto I sent it.

12 Therefore ye shall go out with joy, and be led forth with peace: the^q mountains and the hills shall break forth before you into joy, and all the trees of the field shall clap their hands:

13 For thorns there shall grow fir-trees: for nettles shall grow the myrrh-tree, and it shall be to the Lord^r for a name, and for an everlasting^s sign that shall not be taken away.

⁴ Meaning, the enemies of the church, as the Babylonians, Assyrians, &c. thus he speaketh to fear the hypocrites, and to assure the faithful, that when this cometh, they may know it was told them before.

^e We are well yet, and to-morrow shall be better: therefore let us not fear the plagues before they come: thus the wicked contemned the admonitions and exhortations which were made them in the name of God.

5 Is it such a fast that I have chosen, that a man should afflict his soul for a day, and to bow down his head as a bulrush, and lie down in sackcloth and ashes? wilt thou call this a fasting, or an acceptable day to the Lord?

6 Is not this the fasting that I have chosen, to loose the bands of wickedness, to take off the heavy burdens, and to let the oppressed go free, and that ye break every yoke?

7 Is it not to deal thy bread to the hungry, and that thou bring the poor that wander, unto thine house? when thou seest the naked, that thou cover him, and hide not thyself from thine own flesh?

8 Then shall thy light break forth as the morning, and thine health shall grow speedily: thy righteousness shall go before thee, and the glory of the Lord shall embrace thee.

9 Then shalt thou call, and the Lord shall answer: thou shalt cry, and he shall say, Here I am: if thou take away from the midst of thee the yoke, the putting forth of the finger, and wicked speaking:

10 If thou pour out thy soul to the hungry, and refresh the troubled soul: then shall thy light spring out in the darkness, and thy darkness shall be as the noon day.

11 And the Lord shall guide thee continually, and satisfy thy soul in drought, and make fat thy bones: and thou shalt be like a watered garden, and like a spring of water, whose waters fail not.

12 And they shall be of thee, that shall build the old waste places: thou shalt raise up the foundations for many generations, and thou shalt be called the repairer of the breach, and the restorer of the paths to dwell in.

13 If thou turn away thy foot from the sabbath, from doing thy will on mine holy day, and call the sabbath a delight, to consecrate it, as glorious to the Lord, and shalt honour him, not doing thine own ways, nor seeking thine own will, nor speaking a vain word,

14 The sons also of them that afflicted thee, shall come and bow unto thee : and all they that despised thee, shall ^e fall down at the soles of thy feet : and they shall call thee, The city of the Lord, Zion of the holy One of Israel.

15 Whereas thou hast been forsaken and hated, so that no man went by thee, I will make thee an eternal glory, and a joy from generation to generation.

16 Thou shalt also suck the milk of the Gentiles, and shalt suck the ^f breasts of kings : and thou shalt know, that I the Lord am thy Saviour, and thy Redeemer, the mighty One of Jacob.

17 For brass will I bring gold, and for iron will I bring silver, and for wood brass, and for stones iron. I will also make thy government
^g peace, and thine exactors righteousness.

18 Violence shall no more be heard of in thy land, neither desolation, nor destruction within thy borders : but thou shalt ^h call salvation thy walls, and praise thy gates. Bef. Chr.

19 Thou shalt have no more sun to shine by day, neither shall the brightness of the ⁱ moon shine unto thee : for the Lord shall be thine everlasting light, and thy God thy glory.

20 Thy sun shall never go down, neither shall thy moon be hid : for the Lord shall be thine everlasting light, and the days of thy sorrow shall be ended.

21 Thy people also shall be all righteous :
they shall possess the land for ever, the ^k graff of my planting shall be the work of mine hands, that I may be glorified.

22 A little one shall become as a ^l thousand, and a small one as a strong nation : I the Lord will hasten it in due time.

THE ^m Spirit of the Lord God is ⁿ upon ^o me, therefore hath the Lord anointed me :
he hath sent me to preach good tidings unto the poor, to bind up the ^p broken hearted, to preach liberty to the ^q captives, and to them that are bound, the opening of the prison,

2 To preach the ^r acceptable year of the Lord, and the day of ^s vengeance of our God, to comfort all that mourn,

3 To appoint unto them that mourn in Zioil of joy for mourning, the garment of gladness for the spirit of heaviness, that they might be called ^u trees of righteousness, the planting of the Lord, that he might be glorified.

4 And they shall build the old waste places, and raise up the former desolations, and they shall repair the cities that were desolate and waste through many ^v generations.

5 And the stranger shall ^w stand and feed be your plowmen, and dressers of your vines.

6 But ye shall be named ^x the priests of the CHAPTER LXII.

1 The great desire that the prophets have had for Christ's coming. 6 The diligence of the pastors to preach.

FOR Zion's sake I will not hold my tongue, and for Jerusalem's sake I will not rest, until the righteousness thereof break forth as the light, and salvation thereof as a burning lamp.

2 And the Gentiles shall see thy righteousness, and all kings thy glory: and thou shalt be called by a new name, which the mouth of the Lord shall name.

3 Thou shalt also be a crown of glory in the hand of the Lord, and a royal diadem in the hand of thy God.

4 It shall no more be said unto thee, Forsaken, neither shall it be said any more to thy land, Desolate, but thou shalt be called Hephzi-bah, and thy land Beulah: for the Lord delighteth in thee, and thy land shall have an husband.

5 For as a young man marrieth a virgin, so shall thy sons marry thee: and as a bridegroom is glad of the bride, so shall thy God rejoice over thee.

6 I have set watchmen upon thy walls, O Jerusalem, which all the day and all the night

² I will not receive their offering, which are extortioners, deceivers, hypocrites, or that deprive me of my glory.

³ That is, of thy church.

⁴ He sheweth what shall be the affection, when they feel this their deliverance.

⁵ The prophet saith, that he will never cease to declare unto the people the good tidings of their deliverance.

⁶ Till they have full deliverance: and this the prophet speaketh to encourage all other ministers to the setting forth of God's mercies towards his church.

⁷ Thou shalt have a more excellent fame than thou hast had hitherto.

⁸ He shall esteem thee as dear and precious, as a king doth his crown.

⁹ Thou shalt no more be contemned as a woman forsaken of her husband.

continually shall not cease: ye that are mindful of the Lord, keep not silence.

7 And give him no rest, till he repair, and until he set up Jerusalem the praise of the world.

8 The Lord hath sworn by his right hand, and by his strong arm, Surely I will no more give thy corn to be meat for thine enemies: and surely the sons of the strangers shall not drink thy wine, for the which thou hast laboured:

9 But they that have gathered it shall eat it, and praise the Lord, and the gatherers thereof shall drink it in the courts of my sanctuary.

10 Go through, go through the gates: prepare you the way for the people: cast up, cast up the way, and gather out the stones, and set up a standard for the people.

11 Behold, the Lord hath proclaimed unto the ends of the world: tell the daughter Zion, Behold thy Saviour cometh: behold, his wages is with him, and his work is before him.

12 And they shall call them, The holy people, the redeemed of the Lord, and thou shalt be named, A city sought out, and not forsaken.

CHAPTER LXIII.

1 God shall destroy his enemies for his church's sake.

7 God's benefit towards his church.

WHO is this that cometh from Edom, with red garments from Bozrah? he is glorious in his apparel, and walketh in his great strength. I speak in righteousness, and am mighty to save.

2 Wherefore is thine apparel red, and thy garments like him that treadeth in the wine-press?

3 I have trodden the wine-press alone, and of all people there was none with me: for I will tread them in mine anger, and tread them under foot in my wrath, and their blood shall be sprinkled upon my garments, and I will stain all my raiment.

4 For the day of vengeance is in mine heart, and the year of my redeemed is come.

5 And I looked, and there was none to help, and I wondered that there was none to uphold: therefore mine own arm helped me, and my wrath itself sustained me. 6 There-

¹ Signifying the great number that should come to the church, and what means he would prepare for the restitution of the same, as chap. 57. 14.

² Ye prophets and ministers, shew the people of this their deliverance: which was chiefly meant of our salvation by Christ, Zech. 9. 9. Matt. 21. 5.

³ He shall have all power to bring his purpose to pass, as chap. 40. 10.

⁴ That is, one, over whom God hath had a singular care to recover her, when she was lost.

⁵ This prophecy is against the Idumeans, and enemies which persecuted the church, on whom God will take vengeance, and is here set forth all bloody after that he hath destroyed them in Bozrah, the chief city of the Idumeans: for these were the greatest enemies, and under the title of circumcision, and the kindred of Abraham, claimed to themselves the chief religion, and hated the true worshippers, Psalm 137. 7.

⁶ God answereth them that asked this question, Who is this? &c. and saith, Ye see now performed indeed the vengeance which my prophets threatened.

⁷ Another question to the which the Lord answereth.

⁸ Shewing, that when God punisheth his enemies, it is for the profit and deliverance of his church.

⁹ God sheweth, that he hath no need of man's help for the deliverance of his, and though men refuse to do their duty through negligence and ingratitude, yet he himself will deliver his church, and punish the enemies, read chap. 59. 16.

6 Therefore I will tread down the people in my wrath, and make them ^a drunken in mine indignation, and will bring down their strength to the earth.

7 ^b I will remember the mercies of the Lord, and the praises of the Lord, according unto all that the Lord hath given us, and for the great goodness toward the house of Israel, which he hath given them according to his tender love, and according to his great mercies.

8 For he said, Surely they are my ^c people, children that will not lye: so he was their Saviour.

9 In all their troubles he was ^d troubled, and the angel ^e of his presence saved them: in his love and in his mercy he redeemed them, and he bare them, and carried them always continually.

10 But they rebelled and vexed his holy Spirit: therefore was he turned to be their enemy, and he fought against them:

11 Then he ^f remembered the old time of Moses and his people, saying, Where is he that brought them up out of the sea, with the ^g shepherd of his sheep? Where is he that put his holy Spirit within ^h him?

12 He led them by the right hand of Moses: with his own glorious arm, dividing the water before them, to make himself an everlasting name.

13 He led them through the deep, as an ⁱ horse in the wilderness, that they should not stumble.

14 As the beast goeth down into the valley, the Spirit of the Lord gave them rest: so didst thou lead thy people, to make thyself a glorious name.

15 ^k Look down from heaven, and behold from the dwelling place of thine holiness, and of thy glory. Where is thy ^l zeal and thy strength, the multitude of thy mercies, and of thy compassions? they are restrained from ^m me.

16 Doubtless thou art our Father: though ⁿ Abraham be ignorant of us, and Israel know us not, yet thou, O Lord, art our Father, and our Redeemer: thy name is for ever.

17 O Lord, why hast ^o thou made us to err

^a I will so astonish them, and make them so giddy, that they shall not know which way to go.

^b The prophet speaketh this to move the people to remember God's benefits in times past, that they may be confirmed in their troubles.

^c For I did chuse them to be mine, that they should be holy, and not deceive mine expectation.

^d He bare their afflictions and griefs, as though they had been his own.

^e Which was a witness of God's presence: and this may be referred to Christ, to whom belongeth the office of salvation.

^f That is, the people of Israel, being afflicted, called to remembrance God's benefits, which he had bestowed upon their fathers in times past.

^g Meaning, Moses.

^h That is, in Moses, that he might well govern the people: some refer this giving of the Spirit to the people.

ⁱ Peaceably, and gently, as an horse is led to his pasture.

^k Having declared God's benefits shewed to their forefathers, he turneth himself to God by prayer, desiring him to continue the same graces toward them.

^l Thy great affection which thou barest toward us.

^m Meaning, from the whole body of the church.

ⁿ Though Abraham would refuse us to be his children, yet thou wilt not refuse to be our Father.

^o By taking away thy holy Spirit from us, by whom we were governed, and so for our ingratitude didst deliver us up to our own concupiscence, and didst punish sin by sin, according to thy just judgment.

^p Meaning, for the covenant's sake made to Abraham, from thy ways? and hardened our heart from thy fear? return, for thy ^p servants sake, and for the tribes of thine inheritance.

18 The people of thine holiness have possessed it but a little ^q while: for our adversaries have trodden down thy sanctuary.

19 We have been as they over whom thou never barest rule, and upon whom thy name was not called.

C H A P. LXIV.

1 The prophet prayeth for the sins of the people. 6
Man's righteousness is like a filthy cloth.

OH that thou wouldst ^r break the heavens, and come down, and that the mountains might melt at thy presence!

2 As the melting fire burned, as the fire caused ^s the waters to boil (that thou mightest declare thy name to thy adversaries); the people did tremble at thy presence.

3 When thou didst terrible things, which we looked not for, thou camest down, and the mountains melted at thy presence.

4 For since the beginning of the world they have not ^t heard, nor understand with the ear, neither hath the eye seen another God beside thee, which doth so to him that waiteth for him.

5 Thou didst meet him ^u that rejoiced in thee, and did justly: they remembered thee in thy ^v ways: behold, thou art angry, for we have sinned: yet in ^x them is continuance, and we ^y shall be saved.

6 But we have all been as an unclean thing, and all our ^z righteousness is as filthy clouts, and we all do fade like a leaf, and our iniquities like the wind have taken us away.

7 And there is none that calleth upon thy name, neither that stirreth up himself to take hold of thee: for thou hast hid thy face from us, and hath consumed us because of our iniquities.

8 But now, O Lord, thou art our Father: we are the ^a clay, and thou art our potter, and we all are the work of thine hands.

Isaac, and Jacob his servants.

^q That is, in respect of the promise, which is perpetual: albeit they had now possessed the land of Canaan a thousand and four hundred years: and thus they lament, to move God rather to remember his covenant, than to punish their sins.

^r The prophet continueth his prayer, desiring God to declare his love towards his church, by miracles and mighty power, as he did in mount Sinai.

^s Meaning, the rain, hail, fire, thunder, and lightnings.

^t St. Paul useth the same kind of admiration, 1 Cor. 2. 9. marvelling at God's great benefits shewed to his church by the preaching of the gospel.

^u Thou shewedst favour toward our fathers when they trusted in thee, and walked after thy commandments.

^v They considered thy great mercies.

^x That is, in thy mercies, which he calleth the ways of the Lord.

^y Thou wilt have pity upon us.

^z We are justly punished and brought into captivity; because we have provoked thee to anger, and though we would excuse ourselves, yet our righteousness and best virtues are before thee as vile clouts, or (as some read) like the menstruous cloths of a woman.

^a Albeit, O Lord, by thy just judgment thou mayest utterly destroy us as the potter may his pot, yet we appeal to thy mercies, whereby it hath pleased thee to adopt us to be thy children.

^b For so the flesh judgeth when God doth not immediately send succour.

21 And they shall ^f build houses, and inhabit them: and they shall plant vineyards, and eat the fruit of them.

22 They shall not build, and another inhabit: they shall not plant, and another eat: for as the days of the tree are the days of my people, and mine elect shall enjoy in old age the work of their hands.

23 They shall not labour in vain, nor bring forth in fear: for they are the seed of the blessed of the Lord, and their buds with them.

24 Yea, before they call, I will answer, and while they speak, I will hear.

25 The ^b wolf and the lamb shall feed together, and the lion shall eat straw like the bullock: and to the serpent dust shall be his meat. They shall no more hurt nor destroy in all mine holy mountain, saith the Lord.

C H A P. LXVI.

1 God dwelleth not in temples made with hands. 3 He despiseth sacrifices done without mercy and faith. 4 God comforteth them that are troubled for his sake. 19 The vocation of the Gentiles. 23 The perpetual sabbath. 24 The punishment of the wicked is everlasting.

3 He that killeth a bullock, is as if he ^l slew a man: he that sacrificeth a sheep, as if he cut off a dog's neck: he that offereth an oblation, as if he offered swines blood: he that remembereth incense, as if he blessed an idol: yea, they have chosen their own ways, and their soul delighteth in their abominations.

4 Therefore will I ^m chuse out their delusions, and I will bring their fear upon them: because I called them, and none would answer: I spake, and they would not hear: but they did evil in my sight, and chose the things which I would not.

8 Who hath heard such a thing? who hath seen such things? shall the earth be brought forth in one ^q day? or shall a nation be born at once? for as soon as Zion travailed, she brought forth her children.

9 Shall I ^r cause to travail, and not bring forth? shall I cause to bring forth, and shall be barren, saith thy God?

T H E A R G U M E N T.

The prophet Jeremiab, born in the city of Anathoth in the country of Benjamin, was the son of Hilkiab, whom some think to be he that found out the book of the law, and gave it to Josiah. This prophet had excellent gifts of God, and most evident revelations of prophecy, so that by the commandment of the Lord he began very young to prophesy, that is, in the thirteenth year of Josiah, and continued eighteen years under the said king, and three months under Jehoabaz, and under Jehoiakim eleven years, and three months under Jehoiachin, and under Zedekiah eleven years, unto the time that they were carried away into Babylon. So that this time amounteth to above forty years, besides the time that he prophesied after the captivity. In this book he declareth with tears and lamentation, the destruction of Jerusalem, and the captivity of the people for their idolatry, covetousness, subtilty, cruelty, excess, rebellion, and contempt of God's word; and for the consolation of the church, revealeth the just time of their deliverance. And here chiefly are to be considered three things: First, the rebellion of the wicked, which wax more stubborn and obstinate, when the prophets do admonish them most plainly of their destruction. Next, how the prophets and ministers of God ought not to be discouraged in their vocation, though they be persecuted and rigorously handled of the wicked for God's cause. And thirdly, though God shew his just judgment against the wicked, yet he will ever shew himself a preserver of his church; and when all means seem to man's judgment to be abolished, then will he declare himself victorious in preserving his.

C H A P. I.

1 In what time Jeremiab prophesied. 6 He acknowledgeth his imperfection, and is strengthened of the Lord. 11 The Lord sheweth him the destruction of Jerusalem. 17 He commandeth him to preach his word without fear.

THE words of Jeremiah the son of Hilkiab, one of the priests that were at Anathoth in the land of Benjamin:

^a That is, the sermons and prophecies.

^b Which is thought to be he that found the book of the law under king Josiah, 2 Kings 22. 8.

^c This was a city about three miles distant from Jerusalem, and belonged to the priests the sons of Aaron, Josh. 21. 18.

^d This is spoken to confirm his vocation and office: forasmuch as he did not presume of himself to preach and prophesy, but was called thereunto by God.

2 To whom the word of the Lord came in the days of Josiah the son of Amon king of Judah, in the thirteenth year of his reign:

3 And also in the days of Jehoiakim the son of Josiah king of Judah, unto the end of the eleventh year of Zedekiah the son of Josiah king of Judah, even unto the carrying away of Jerusalem captive, in the fifth month.

4 Then the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

5 Before

phesy, but was called thereunto by God.

^e Meaning, the nephew of Josiah: for Jehoabaz was his father, who reigned but three months, and therefore is not mentioned, no more is Jehoiachin that reigned no longer.

^f Of the eleventh year of Zedekiah, who was also called Mattaniah, and at this time the Jews were carried away into Babylon by Nebuchadnezzar.

5. Before I^s formed thee in the womb, I knew thee, and before thou camest out of the womb I sanctified thee, and ordained thee to be a prophet unto the^h nations.

6 Then said I, ⁱ Oh, Lord God, behold, I cannot speak, for I am a child.

7 But the Lord said unto me, Say not, I am a child: for thou shalt go to all that I shall send thee, and whatsoever I command thee, shalt thou speak.

8 Be not afraid of their faces: for I am with thee to deliver thee, saith the Lord.

9 Then the Lord stretched out his hand, and^k touched my mouth, and the Lord said unto me, Behold, I have put my words in thy mouth.

10 Behold, this day have I set thee over the^l nations, and over the kingdoms, to pluck up, and to root out, and to destroy and throw down, to build and to plant.

11 After this, the word of the Lord came unto me, saying, Jeremiah, what seeest thou? And I said, I see a rod of an^m almond-tree.

12 Then the Lord said unto me, Thou hast seen aright: for I will hasten my word to perform it.

13 Again, the word of the Lord came unto me the second time, saying, What seeest thou? And I said, I see aⁿ seething-pot look out of the North.

14 Then said the Lord unto me, Out of the^o North shall a plague be spread upon all the inhabitants of the land.

15 For lo, I will call all the families of the kingdoms of the North, saith the Lord, and they shall come, and every one shall set his throne in the entering in of the gates of Jerusalem, and on the walls thereof round about, and in all the cities of Judah.

16 And I will declare unto them my^p judgments touching all the wickedness of them that have forsaken me, and have burnt incense unto other gods, and worshipped the works of their own hands.

17 Thou therefore truss up thy loins, and arise and speak unto them all that I command thee: be not afraid of their faces, lest I^q destroy thee before them.

^s The scripture useth this manner of speech, to declare that God hath appointed his ministers to their offices before they were born, as Isa. 49. 1. Gal. 1. 15.

^h For Jeremiah did not only prophesy against the Jews, but also against the Egyptians, Babylonians, Moabites, and other nations.

ⁱ Considering the great judgments of God, which according to his threatenings should come upon the world, he was moved with a certain compassion on the one side to pity them that should thus perish, and on the other side by the infirmity of man's nature, knowing how hard a thing it was to enterprize such a charge, as Isa. 6. 11. Exod. 3. 11. and 4. 1.

^k Which declareth, that God maketh them meet, and assureth them, whom he calleth to set forth his glory, giving them all means necessary for the same, Exod. 4. 12. Isa. 6. 7.

^l He sheweth, what is the authority of God's true ministers, which by his word have power to beat down whatsoever listeth itself up against God: and to plant and assure the humble, and such as give themselves to the obedience of God's word, 2 Cor. 10. 4. Heb. 4. 12. and these are the keys which Christ hath left to loose and bind, Matt. 18. 18.

^m He joineth the sign with the word for a more ample confirmation: signifying by the rod of the almond-tree, which first buddeth, the hasty coming of the Babylonians against the Jews.

ⁿ Signifying, that the Chaldeans, and Assyrians, should be as a pot to seethe the Jews, which boiled in their pleasures and lusts.

^o Syria and Assyria were northward, in respect of Jerusalem, which were the Chaldeans dominion.

18 For I, behold, I this day have made thee a defenced city, and an^r iron pillar and walls of brass against the whole land, against the kings of Judah, and against the princes thereof, against the priests thereof, and against the people of the land.

^q Which declareth that God's vengeance is prepared against them which dare not execute their duty faithfully, either for fear of man, or for any other cause, 1 Cor. 9. 16.

^r Signifying, on the one part, that the more that Satan and the world rage against God's ministers, the more present will he be to help them, Josh. 1. 5. Heb. 13. 5. and on the other part, that they are utterly unmeet to serve God and his church, which are afraid and do not resist wickedness, whatsoever danger depend thereon, Isa. 50. 7. Ezek. 3. 8.

11 Hath any nation changed their gods, which yet are no gods? but my people have changed their ^g glory for that which doth not ^k profit.

12 O ye ^h heavens, be astonished at this: be afraid and utterly confounded, faith the Lord.

13 For my people have committed two evils: they have forsaken me, the fountain ^m of living waters, to dig them pits, even broken pits that can hold no water.

14 Is Israel a ⁿ servant, or is he born in the house? why then is he spoiled?

^g That is, God which is their glory, and who maketh them glorious above all other people: reproving the Jews, that they were less diligent to serve the true God, than were the idolaters to honour their vanities.

^m Meaning, the idols, which were their destruction, Psalm 106. 36.

^h He sheweth, that the insensible creatures abhor this vile ingratitude, and as it were tremble for fear of God's great judgments against the same.

^v Signifying, that when men forsake God's word, which is the fountain of life, they reject God himself, and so fall to their own inventions and vain confidence, and procure themselves destruction, Jonah 2. 8. Zech. 10. 2.

^w Have I ordered them like servants, and not like dearly beloved children? Exod. 4. 22. therefore it is their fault only, if the enemy spoil them.

^y Though thou use all the purifications and ceremonies of the law, thou canst not escape punishment, except thou turn to me by faith and repentance.

^z Meaning, that hypocrites deny that they worship the idols: but that they honour God in them, and therefore they call their doings God's service.

^a He compareth the idolaters to these beasts, because they never cease running to and fro: for both vallies and hills are full of their idolatry.

^b He compareth the idolaters to a wild ass: for she can never be tamed, nor yet wearied: for as she turneth, she can take her wind at every occasion.

^c That is, when she is with foal: and therefore the hunters wait their time: so though thou canst not be turned back now from thine idolatry, yet when thine iniquity shall be at the full, God will meet with thee.

^d Hereby he warneth them, that they should not go into strange countries to seek help: for they should but spend their labour and hurt themselves, which is here meant by the bare foot and thirst, Isa. 57. 10.

^e As a thief will not acknowledge his fault, till he be taken with the deed, and ready to be punished: so they will not confess their idolatry, till the plagues due to the same light upon them.

^f Meaning, that idolaters spoil God of his honour: and whereas he hath taught to call him the father of all flesh, they attribute this title to their idols.

^g Thou thoughtest that thy gods of blocks and stones could have holpen thee, because they were many in number, and present in every place: but now let me see whether either the multitude, or their presence can deliver thee from my plague, chap. 11. 13.

31 For I have heard a noise as of a woman travailling, or as one labouring of her first child, even the voice of the daughter Zion that sigheth and stretcheth out her hands: ^l wo is me now: for my soul fainteth because of the murderers.

ⁱ In Judah no righteous man is found, neither among the people nor the rulers. ¹⁵ Wherefore Judah is destroyed of the Chaldeans.

RUN to and fro by the streets of Jerusalem, and behold now, and know, and inquire in the open places thereof, if ye can find a man, or if there be any that executeth judgment, and seeketh the truth, and I will spare^m it.

2 For though they say, Theⁿ Lord liveth, yet do they swear falsely.

3 O Lord, are not thine eyes upon the^o truth? thou hast^p stricken them, but they have not sorrowed: thou hast consumed them, but they have refused to receive correction: they have made their faces harder than a stone, and have refused to return.

4 Therefore I said, Surely they are poor, they are foolish, for they know not the way of the Lord, nor the judgment of their God.

5 I will get me unto the^q great men, and will speak unto them: for they have known the way of the Lord, and the judgment of their God: but these have altogether broken the yoke, and burst the bonds.

6 Wherefore^r a lion out of the forest shall slay them, and a wolf of the wilderness shall destroy them: a leopard shall watch over their cities: every one that goeth out thence shall be torn in pieces, because their trespasses are many, and their rebellions are increased.

7 How should I spare thee for this? thy children have forsaken me, and^s sworn by them that are no gods: though I fed them to the full, yet they committed adultery, and assembled themselves by companies in the harlots houses.

8 They rose up in the morning like fed horses: for every man^t neighed after his neighbour's wife. * Ezek. 22: 11.

9 Shall I not visit for these things? saith the Lord: Shall not my soul be avenged on such a nation as this?

10^u Climb up upon their walls and destroy them, but make not a full end: ^v take away their battlements, for they are not the Lord's.

^o He sheweth that the true ministers are lively touched with the calamities of the church, so that all the parts of their body feel the grief of their heart, albeit with zeal to God's glory, to pronounce his judgments against the people.

^f Meaning, the cities, which were as easily cast down as a tent.

^g Their wisdom and policy tend to their own destruction, and pulleth them from God.

^h By these manner of speeches, he sheweth the horrible destruction that should come upon the land, and also condemneth the obstinacy of the people, who repent not at the fear of these terrible tidings, seeing that the insensible creatures are moved therewith, as if the order of nature should be changed, Isa. 13. 10. and 24. 23. Ezek. 32. 7. Joel 2. 31. and 3. 15.

ⁱ But for his mercy's sake, he will reserve himself a residue to be his church, and to praise him in earth, Isa. 2. 9.

^k Neither thy ceremonies nor rich gifts shall deliver thee.

to repentance, Isa. 22. 4. chap. 9. 1.

^m That is, the city.

ⁿ Though they pretend religion and holiness, yet all is but hypocrisy: for under this kind of swearing is contained the true religion.

^o Dost not thou love uprightnes and faithful dealing?

^p Thou hast oft-times punished them, but all is in vain, Isa. 9. 13.

^q He speaketh this to the reproach of them which should govern and teach others, and yet are farther out of the way than the simple people.

14 Wherefore thus saith the Lord God of hosts, Because ye speak such words, behold, I will put my words into thy mouth, like a fire, and this people shall be as wood, and it shall devour them.

15 Lo, I will bring a nation upon you from far, O house of Israel, saith the Lord, which is a mighty nation, and an ancient nation, a nation whose language thou knowest not, neither understandest what they say.

16 Whose quiver is an open sepulchre, they are all very strong.

17 And they shall eat thine harvest and thy bread, they shall devour thy sons and thy daughters, they shall eat up thy sheep and thy bullocks, they shall eat thy vines and thy fig-trees, they shall destroy with the sword thy fenced cities, wherein thou didst trust.

18 Nevertheless, at those days, saith the Lord, I will not make a full end of you.

19 And when ye shall say, Wherefore doth the Lord our God do these things unto us? then shalt thou answer them, Like as ye have forsaken me and served strange gods in your land, so shall ye serve strangers in a land that is not yours.

20 Declare this in the house of Jacob, and publish it in Judah, saying, 21 Hear now this, O foolish people, and without understanding, which have eyes and see not, which have ears and hear not.

22 Fear ye not me? saith the Lord: or will ye not be afraid at my presence, which have placed the sand for the bounds of the sea by the perpetual decree that it cannot pass it: and though the waves thereof rage, yet can they not prevail: though they roar, yet can they not pass over it?

23 But this people hath an unfaithful and rebellious heart: they are departed and gone.

24 For they say not in their heart, Let us now fear the Lord our God, that giveth rain both early and late in due season: he reserveth unto us the appointed weeks of the harvest.

25 Yet your iniquities have turned away these things, and your sins have hindered good things from you.

26 For among my people are found wicked persons, that lay wait as he that setteth snares: they have made a pit to catch men.

27 As a cage is full of birds, so are their houses full of deceit: thereby they are become great, and waxen rich.

28 They are waxen fat and shining: they do overpass the deeds of the wicked: they execute no judgment, no not the judgment of the fatherless: yet they prosper, though they execute no judgment for the poor.

29 Shall I not visit for these things? saith the Lord: or shall not my soul be avenged on such a nation as this?

30 An horrible and filthy thing is committed in the land.

31 The prophets prophesy lyes, and the priests receive gifts in their hands, and my people delight therein. What will ye then do in the end thereof?

The coming of the Assyrians and Chaldeans. 16 He exhorteth the Jews to repentance.

YE children of Benjamin, prepare to flee out of the midst of Jerusalem, and blow the trumpet in Tekoa: set up a standard upon Beth-haccerem: for a plague appeareth out of the North, and great destruction.

2 I have compared the daughter of Zion to a beautiful and dainty woman.

3 The pastors with their flocks shall come unto her: they shall pitch their tents round about by her, and every one shall feed in his place.

4 Prepare war against her: arise, and let us go toward the South: wo unto us, for the day declineth, and the shadows of the evening are stretched out.

5 Arise, and let us go up by night, and destroy her palaces.

6 For thus hath the Lord of hosts said, Hew down wood, and cast a mount against Jerusalem: this city must be visited: all oppression is in the midst of it.

7 As the fountain casteth out her waters, so she casteth out her malice: cruelty and spoil is continually heard in her before me with sorrow and strokes.

8 Be thou instructed, O Jerusalem, lest my soul depart from thee, lest I make thee desolate as a land that none inhabiteth.

9 Thus saith the Lord of hosts, They shall gather as a vine the residue of Israel: turn back thine hand as the grape-gatherer into the basket.

10 Unto whom shall I speak and admonish, that they may hear? behold, their ears are uncircumcised, and they cannot hearken: behold, the word of the Lord is unto them as a reproach: they have no delight in it.

^g As thieves hid in holes and dens think themselves safe, so when you are in my temple, you think to be covered with the holiness thereof, and that I cannot see your wickedness, Matt. 21. 13.

12 But go ye now into my place which was in Shiloh, ^h where I set my name at the beginning, and behold what I did to it for the wickedness of my people Israel.

13 Therefore now because ye have done all these works, saith the Lord, (and I ⁱ rose up early, and spake unto you: but when I spake, ye would not hear me, neither when I called, would ^k ye answer)

14 Therefore will I do unto this house, whereupon my name is called, wherein also ye trust, even unto the place that I gave to you, and to your fathers, as I have done unto Shiloh.

15 And I will cast ^l you out of my sight, as I have cast out all your brethren, even the whole seed of Ephraim.

16 Therefore thou shalt not ^m pray for this people, neither lift up cry nor prayer for them, neither intreat me, for I will not hear thee.

17 Seest thou not what they do in the cities of Judah, and in the streets of Jerusalem?

18 The children gather wood, and the fathers kindle the fire, and the women knead the dough to make cakes to ⁿ the queen of heaven, and to pour out drink-offerings unto other gods, that they may provoke me unto anger.

19 Do they provoke me to anger, saith the Lord, and not themselves to the confusion of their own faces?

20 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Behold, mine anger and my wrath shall be poured upon this place, upon man and upon beast, and upon the tree of the field, and upon the fruit of the ground, and it shall burn and not be quenched.

21 Thus saith the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, put your burnt-offerings unto your sacrifices, and eat the flesh.

22 For ^o I spake not unto your fathers, nor commanded them, when I brought them out of the land of Egypt, concerning burnt-offerings and sacrifices.

23 But this thing commanded I them, saying, Obey my voice, and I will be your God, and ye shall be my people: and walk ye in all the ways which I have commanded you, that it may be well unto you.

24 But they would not obey, nor incline their ear, but went after the counsels and the stubbornness of their wicked heart, and went backward and not forward.

^m To assure them that God had determined with himself to punish their wickedness, he sheweth that the prayer of the godly can nothing avail them, whilst they remain in their obstinacy against God, and will not use the means that he useth to call them to repentance, chap. 11. 14. and 14. 11.

ⁿ That is, they sacrifice to the sun, moon and stars, which they called the queen of heaven, chap. 44. 17.

26 Yet would they not hear me, nor incline their ear, but hardened their neck and did worse than their fathers.

27 Therefore shalt thou speak all these words unto them, but they ^r will not hear thee: thou shalt also cry unto them, but they will not answer thee.

28 Thou shalt say unto them, This is a nation that heareth not the voice of the Lord their God, nor receiveth discipline: truth is perished, and is clean gone out of their mouth.

29 Cut off thine ^s hair, O Jerusalem, and cast it away, and take up a complaint on the high places: for the Lord hath rejected and forsaken the generation of his ^t wrath.

30 For the children of Judah have done evil in my sight, saith the Lord: they have set their abominations in the house, whereupon my name is called, to pollute it.

31 And they have built the high place of ^u Tophet, which is in the valley of Ben-hinnom, to burn their sons and their daughters in the fire, which I ^v commanded them not, neither came it in my heart.

32 Therefore behold, the days come, saith the Lord, that it shall no more be called Tophet, nor the valley of Ben-hinnom, but the valley of slaughter, for they shall bury in Tophet till there be no place.

33 And the carcases of this people shall be meat for the fowls of the heaven, and for the beasts of the earth, and none shall fray them away.

10 Upon the ^a mountains will I take up a weeping and a lamentation, and upon the fair places of the wilderness a mourning, because they are burnt up, so that none can pass through them, neither can men hear the voice of the flock: both the fowl of the air, and the beast, are fled away and gone.

11 And I will make Jerusalem an heap, and a den of dragons: and I will make the cities of Judah waste without an inhabitant.

12 Who is ^a wise to understand this? and to whom the mouth of the Lord hath spoken, even he shall declare it. Why doth the land perish, and is burnt up like a wilderness, that none passeth through?

13 And the Lord saith, Because they have forsaken my law, which I set before them, and have not obeyed my voice, neither walked thereafter:

15 Therefore thus saith the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, Behold, I will feed their people with wormwood, and give them waters of gall to drink:

16 I will scatter them also among the heathen, whom neither they nor their fathers have known, and I will send a sword after them, till I have consumed them.

17 Thus saith the Lord of hosts, Take heed, and call for ^a mourning women, that they may come, and send for skilful women, that they may come.

18 And let them make haste, and let them take up a lamentation for us, that our eyes may cast out tears, and our eyelids gush out of water.

19 For a lamentable noise is heard out of Zion, How are we destroyed, and utterly confounded, for we have forsaken the land, and our dwellings ^a have cast us out!

20 Therefore hear the word of the Lord, O ye women, and let your ears regard the words of his mouth, and ^a teach your daughters to mourn, and every one her neighbour to lament.

21 For death is come up into our ^a windows, and is entered into our palaces, to destroy the children without, and the young men in the streets.

22 Speak, Thus saith the Lord, The carcasses of men shall lie even as the dung upon the field, and as the handful after the mower, and none shall gather them.

23 Thus saith the Lord, Let not the ^a wise man glory in his wisdom, nor the strong man glory in his strength, neither the rich man glory in his riches.

24 But let him that glorieth, glory in this, that he understandeth and knoweth me: for I am the Lord, which ^a shew mercy, judgment and righteousness in the earth: for in these things I delight, saith the Lord.

25 Behold, the days come, saith the Lord, that I will visit all them which are ^a circumcised, with the uncircumcised:

608. Beh. Chr. Lord God of Israel, ^c Cursed be the man that obeyeth not the words of this covenant,

^d Which I commanded unto your fathers, when I brought them out of the land of Egypt from the iron furnace, saying, Obey my voice, and do according to all these things which I commanded you: so shall ye be my people, and I will be your God, ^e That I may confirm the oath that I have sworn unto your fathers, to give them a land which floweth with milk and honey, as appeared to this day. Then answered ^f I, and said, So be it, O Lord.

^g Then the Lord said unto me, Cry all these words in the cities of Judah, and in the streets of Jerusalem, saying, Hear ye the words of this covenant, and do them.

^h For I have protested unto your fathers, when I brought them up out of the land of Egypt unto this day, ⁱ rising early, and protesting, saying, Obey my voice.

^j Nevertheless they would not obey, nor incline their ear: but every one walked in the stubbornness of his wicked ^k heart: therefore I will bring upon them all the ^l words of this covenant, which I commanded them to do, but they did it not.

^m And the Lord said unto me, A ⁿ conspiracy is found among the men of Judah, and among the inhabitants of Jerusalem.

^o They are turned back to the iniquities of their forefathers, which refused to hear my words: and they went after other gods to serve them: thus the house of Israel and the house of Judah have broken my covenant, which I made with their fathers.

^p Therefore thus saith the Lord, Behold, I will bring a plague upon them, which they shall not be able to escape, and though they cry unto me, ^q I will not hear them.

^r Then shall the cities of Judah, and the inhabitants of Jerusalem, go, and cry unto the gods unto whom they offer incense, but they shall not be able to help them in time of their trouble.

^s For according to the number of thy cities were thy gods, O Judah; and according to the number of the streets of Jerusalem have ye set up altars of confusion, even altars to burn incense unto Baal.

^t Therefore thou shalt not pray ^u for this people, neither lift up a cry or prayer for them: for when they cry unto me in their trouble, I will not hear them.

^a Thus he spake not for hatred, but being moved with the Spirit of God, he desireth the advancement of God's glory, and the verifying of his word, which is by the destruction of his enemies.

^b To wit, both the priests and the rest of the people: for this town was the priests, and they dwelt in it: read ch. 1. 1.

^c Not that they could not abide to hear God named: (for herein they would shew themselves most holy) but because they could not abide to be sharply reprov'd, and therefore desired to be flattered, Isa. 30. 10. and to be maintained in their pleasures, Micah 2. 11. and not to hear vice condemned, Amos 7. 12.

^d The prophet confesseth God to be just in all his doings, although man be not able to give a reason of all his acts.

^e This question hath been always a great temptation to the godly, to see the wicked enemies of God in prosperity, and his dear children in adversity, as Job 21. 7. Psalm 37. 1. & 73. 3. Hab. 1. 3.

Bef. Chr. 2 Thou hast planted them, and they have taken root: they grow, and bring forth fruit: thou art near in their mouth, and far from their reins.

3 But thou, Lord, knowest me: thou hast seen me, and tried mine heart toward thee: pull them out like sheep for the slaughter, and prepare them for the day of slaughter.

4 How long shall the land mourn, and the herbs of every field wither, for the wickedness of them that dwell therein? the beasts are consumed, and the birds, because they said, ² He will not see our last end.

5 If thou hast run with ³ footmen, and they have wearied thee, then how canst thou match thyself with horses? and if thou thoughtest thyself in a peaceable land, what wilt thou do in the swelling of Jordan?

6 For even thy brethren, and the house of thy father, even they have dealt unfaithfully with thee, and they have cried out altogether upon thee: but believe them not, though they speak fair to thee.

7 I have forsaken ⁴ mine house: I have left mine heritage: I have given the dearly beloved of my soul into the hands of her enemies.

8 Mine heritage is unto me as a ⁵ lion in the forest: it crieth out against me, therefore have I hated it.

9 Shall mine heritage be unto me as a bird ⁶ of divers colours? are not the birds about her, saying, Come, assemble all the beasts of the field, come to eat her?

10 Many pastors have destroyed my ⁷ vineyard, and trodden my portion under foot: of my pleasant portion they have made a desolate wilderness.

11 They have laid it waste, and it, being waste, mourneth unto me: and the whole land lieth waste, because no man setteth his mind on ⁸ it.

12 The destroyers are come upon all the high places in the wilderness: for the sword of the Lord shall devour from the one end of the land even to the other end of the land: no flesh shall have peace.

⁹ The Hebrew word is, Sanctify them, meaning, that God would be sanctified in the destruction of the wicked, to whom God for a while giveth prosperity, that afterward they should the more feel his heavy judgment when they lack their riches, which were a sign of his mercy.

¹¹ Some think that God reproveth Jeremiah, in that that he would reason with him, saying, that if he were not able to match with men, that he were far unable to dispute with God. Others by the footmen, mean them of Anathoth: and by the horiemen, them of Jerusalem, which should trouble the prophet worse than his own countrymen did.

¹² God willeth the prophet to denounce his judgments against Jerusalem, notwithstanding that they shall both by threatenings and flatteries labour to put him to silence.

15 And after that I have plucked them out, I will return, and have compassion on them, and will bring again every man to his heritage, and every man to his land.

16 And if they will learn the ¹³ ways of my people, to swear by my name, (¹⁴ The Lord liveth, as they taught my people to swear by Baal) then shall they be built ¹⁵ in the midst of my people.

17 But if they will not obey, then will I utterly pluck up and destroy that nation, saith the Lord.

27 But if ye will not hear me to sanctify the sabbath-day, and not to bear a burden, nor to go through the gates of Jerusalem in the sabbath-day, then will I kindle a fire in the gates thereof, and it shall devour the palaces of Jerusalem, and it shall not be quenched.

27 But to the land whereunto they desire to return, they shall not return thither.

28 Is not this man Coniah as a despised and broken idol? or as a vessel wherein is no pleasure? wherefore are they carried away, he and his seed, and cast out into a land that they know not?

29 O^e earth, earth, earth, hear the word of the Lord.

Against false pastors. 5 A prophecy of the great pastor Jesus Christ.

^x For every one shall have enough to lament for himself.
^y Not honourably among his fathers, but as carrions are cast in a hole because their stink should not infect: read 2 Kings 24. 9. Josephus, Antiq. 10. 8. writeth, that the enemy slew him in the city, and commanded him to be cast before the walls unburied: see chap. 36. 30.
^z To call to the Assyrians for help.
^c For this was the way out of Judea to Assyria: whereby is meant, that all helps should fail: for the Chaldeans have subdued both them and the Egyptians.
^e Even the governors, and they that should help thee, shall vanish away, as wind.
^f Thou art built of the fair cedar trees of Lebanon.
 Who was called Jehoiachin, or Jeconiah, whom he calleth here Coniah in contempt, who thought his kingdom could never depart from him because he came of the stock of David, and therefore, for the promise sake, could not be taken from his house: but he abused God's promise, and therefore was justly deprived of the kingdom.
^g He sheweth, that all posterity shall be witnesses of this just plague, as though it were registered for perpetual memory.

W O be unto¹ the pastors that destroy and scatter² the sheep of my pasture, saith the Lord.

2 Therefore thus saith the Lord God of Israel unto the pastors that³ feed my people, Ye have scattered my flock and thrust them out, and have not visited them: behold, I will visit you for the wickedness of your works, saith the Lord.

3 And I will gather the⁴ remnant of my sheep out of all countries whither I had driven them, and will bring them again to their folds, and they shall grow and increase.

4 And I will set up shepherds over them, which shall feed them: and they shall dread no more nor be afraid, neither shall any of them be lacking, saith the Lord.

5 Behold, the days come, saith the Lord, that I will raise unto David a righteous⁵ branch, and a king shall reign and prosper, and shall execute judgment and justice in the earth.

6 In his days Judah shall be saved, and⁶ Israel shall dwell safely, and this is the name⁷ whereby they shall call him, * The Lord our righteousness.

7 Therefore behold, the days come, saith the Lord, that they shall no more say, The⁸ Lord liveth, which brought up the children of Israel out of the land of Egypt:

8 But, the Lord liveth, which brought up and led the seed of the house of Israel out of the north country, and from all countries where I had scattered them, and they shall dwell in their own land.

9 Mine heart breaketh within me, because of the⁹ prophets: all my bones shake: I am like a drunken man, (and like a man whom wine hath¹⁰ overcome) for the presence of the Lord, and for his holy words.

10 For the land is full of adulterers, and because of oaths the land mourneth, the pleasant places of the wilderness are dried up, and their¹¹ course is evil, and their force is not right.

11 For both the prophet and the priest¹² do wickedly: and their wickedness have I found in mine¹³ house, saith the Lord.

12 Wherefore their way shall be unto them as slippery ways in the darkness: they shall be driven forth, and fall therein: for I will bring a plague upon them, even the year of their visitation, saith the Lord.

13 And I have seen foolishness in the prophets of Samaria, that prophesied in Baal, and caused my people Israel to err. 14 I

¹ Not that he had no children (for after that he begat Salathiel in the captivity, Matt. 1. 12.) but that none should reign after him as king.

³ For the which I have special care, and have prepared good pastures for them.
⁴ Whose charge is to feed the flock, but they eat the fruit thereof, Ezek. 34. 3.
⁵ Thus the prophets ever use to mix the promises with the threatenings, lest the godly should be too much beaten down, and therefore he sheweth how God will gather his church after this dispersion.
⁶ This prophecy is of the restitution of the church in the time of Jesus Christ, who is the true branch: read Isa. 11. 1. and 45. 8. chap. 33. 15. Dan. 9. 24.
⁷ Read chap. 16. 4.
⁸ Meaning, the false prophets which deceive the people: wherein appeareth his great love toward his nation: read chap. 14. 13.
⁹ They run headlong to wickedness, and seek vain help.
¹⁰ My temple is full of their idolatry and superstitions.

- 14 I have seen also in the prophets of Jerusalem ^p filthiness: they commit adultery and walk in lyes: they strengthen also the hands of the wicked, that none can return from his wickedness: they are all unto ^q me as Sodom, and the inhabitants thereof as Gomorrah.
- 15 Therefore thus saith the Lord of hosts concerning the prophets, Behold, I will feed them with ^r wormwood, and make them drink the water of gall: for from the prophets of Jerusalem is [†] wickedness gone forth into all the land.
- 16 Thus saith the Lord of hosts, Hear not the words of the prophets that prophesy unto you, and teach you vanity: they speak the vision of their own ^s heart, and not out of the mouth of the Lord.
- 17 They say still unto them that despise me, The Lord hath said, Ye ^t shall have peace: and they say unto every one that walketh after the stubbornness of his own heart, No evil shall come upon you.
- 18 For ^u who hath stood in the counsel of the Lord, that he hath perceived and heard his word? Who hath marked his word, and heard it?
- 19 Behold, the tempest of the Lord goeth forth in his wrath, and a violent whirlwind shall fall down upon the head of the wicked.
- 20 The anger of the Lord shall not return until he have executed, and till he have performed the thoughts of his heart: in the latter days ye ^w shall understand it plainly.
- 21 ^{*} I have not sent these prophets, saith the Lord, yet they ran: I have not spoken to them, and yet they prophesied.
- 22 But if they had stood in my counsel, and ^x had declared my words to my people, then they should have turned them from their evil way, and from the wickedness of their inventions.
- 23 Am I a God at hand, saith the Lord, and not a God ^y far off?
- 24 Can any hide himself in secret places, that I shall not see him, saith the Lord? Do not I fill heaven and earth, saith the Lord?
- 25 I have heard what the prophets said, that prophesy lyes in my name, saying, I ^z have dreamed, I have dreamed.
- 26 How long? [†] Do the prophets delight to prophesy lyes, even prophesying the deceit of their own hearts?
- 27 Think they to cause ^a my people to forget my name by their dreams, which they tell every man to his neighbour, as their forefathers have forgotten my name for Baal?
- 28 The prophet that hath a dream, let him ^b tell a dream: and he that hath my word, let him speak my word faithfully: ^c what is the chaff to the wheat? saith the Lord.
- 29 Is not my word even like a fire? saith the Lord: and like an hammer; that breaketh the stone?
- 30 Therefore behold, I will come against the prophets, saith the Lord, that ^d steal my word, every one from his neighbour.
- 31 Behold, I will come against the prophets, saith the Lord, which have sweet tongues, and say, ^e He saith.
- 32 Behold, I will come against them that prophesy false dreams, saith the Lord, and do tell them, and cause my people to err by their lyes, and by their flatteries, and I sent them not, nor commanded them: therefore they bring no profit unto this people, saith the Lord.
- 33 And when this people, or the prophet, or a priest shall ask thee, saying, What is the ^f burden of the Lord? thou shalt then say unto them, What burden? I will even forsake you; saith the Lord.
- 34 And the prophet, or the priest, or the people that shall say, The ^g burden of the Lord, I will even visit such one and his house.
- 35 Thus shall ye say every one to his neighbour, and every one to his brother, What hath the Lord answered? and what hath the Lord spoken?
- 36 And the burden of the Lord shall ye mention no more: for every man's ^h word shall be his burden: for ye have perverted the words of the living God, the Lord of hosts our God.
- 37 Thus shalt thou say to the prophet, What hath the Lord answered thee? and what hath the Lord spoken?
- 38 And if you say, The burden of the Lord, then thus saith the Lord, Because ye say this word, The burden of the Lord, and I have sent unto you, saying, Ye shall not say, The burden of the Lord:
- 39 Therefore behold, I, even I, will utterly [†] forget you, and I will forsake you, and the city that I gave you and your fathers, and [†] cast you out of my presence.
- 40 And will bring ^{*} an everlasting reproach upon you, and a perpetual shame, which shall never be forgotten.

^a He sheweth that Satan raiseth up false prophets to bring the people from God.

^b Let the false prophet declare that it is his own fancy, and not slander my word, as though it were a cloak to cover his lyes.

^c Meaning, that it is not sufficient for God's ministers to abstain from lyes, and to speak the word of God: but that there be judgment in alledging it, and that it may appear to be applied to the same purpose that it was spoken, Ezek. 3. 17. 1 Cor. 2. 13. and 4. 2. 2 Tim. 2. 15. 1 Pet. 4. 10, 11.

^d Which set forth in my name that which I have not commanded.

^e To wit, the Lord.

^f The prophets called their threatenings, God's burden, which the sinners were not able to sustain: therefore the wicked, in deriding the word, would ask of the prophets, What was the burden? as though they would say, You seek nothing else, but to lay burdens on our shoulders: and thus they rejected the word of God as a grievous burden.

^g Because this word was brought to contempt and derision, he will teach them another manner of speech, and will cause this word Burden to cease, and teach them to ask with reverence, What saith the Lord?

C H A P. XXIV.

1 The vision of the basket of figs, 5 signifieth that part of the people should be brought again from captivity, 8 and that Zedekiah, and the rest of the people, should be carried away.

THE Lord shewed me, and behold, two baskets of figs were set before the temple of the Lord, after that Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel had carried away captive Jeconiah the son of Jehoiakim king of Judah, and the princes of Judah, with the workmen, and the cunning men of Jerusalem, and had brought them to Babel.

2 One basket had very good figs, even like the figs that are first ripe: and the other basket had very naughty figs, which could not be eaten, they were so evil.

3 Then said the Lord unto me, What seeft thou, Jeremiah? And I said, Figs: the good figs very good, and the naughty very naughty, which cannot be eaten, they are so evil.

4 Again, the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

5 Thus saith the Lord, the God of Israel, Like these good figs, so will I know them that are carried away captive of Judah to be good, whom I have sent out of this place, into the land of the Chaldeans.

6 For I will set mine eyes upon them for good, and I will bring them again to this land, and I will build them, and not destroy them, and I will plant them, and not root them out.

7 And I will give them an heart to know me, that I am the Lord, and they shall be my people, and I will be their God: for they shall return unto me with their whole heart.

8 And as the naughty figs which cannot be eaten, they are so evil: (surely thus saith the Lord) so will I give Zedekiah the king of Judah, and his princes, and the residue of Jerusalem that remain in this land, and them that dwell in the land of Egypt:

9 I will even give them for a terrible plague to all the kingdoms of the earth, and for a reproach, and for a proverb, for a common talk, and for a curse, in all places where I shall cast them.

10 And I will send the sword, the famine, and the pestilence among them, till they be consumed out of the land that I gave unto them and to their fathers.

THE word that came to Jeremiah concerning all the people of Judah, in the fourth year of Jehoiakim the son of Josiah king of Judah, that was in the first year of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel:

2 The which Jeremiah the prophet spake unto all the people of Judah, and to all the inhabitants of Jerusalem, saying,

3 From the thirteenth year of Josiah the son of Amon king of Judah, even unto this day, (that is, the three and twentieth year) the word of the Lord hath come unto me, and I have spoken unto you, rising early, and speaking, but ye would not hear.

4 And the Lord hath sent unto you all his servants the prophets, rising early, and sending them, but ye would not hear, nor incline your ears to obey.

5 They said, Turn again now every one from his evil way, and from the wickedness of your inventions, and ye shall dwell in the land that the Lord hath given unto you, and to your fathers for ever and ever.

6 And go not after other gods, to serve them and to worship them, and provoke me not to anger with the works of your hands, and I will not punish you.

7 Nevertheless ye would not hear me, saith the Lord, but have provoked me to anger with the works of your hands to your own hurt.

8 Therefore thus saith the Lord of hosts: Because ye have not heard my words,

9 Behold, I will send and take to me all the families of the North, saith the Lord, and Nebuchadnezzar the king of Babel, my servant, and will bring them against this land, and against the inhabitants thereof, and against all the nations round about, and will destroy them, and make them an astonishment, and an hissing, and a continual desolation.

10 Moreover, I will take from them the voice of mirth, and the voice of gladness, the voice of the bridegroom and the voice of the bride, the noise of the millstones, and the light of the candle.

11 And this whole land shall be desolate, and an astonishment, and these nations shall serve the king of Babel seventy years:

12 And when the seventy years are accomplished, I will visit the king of Babel, and that nation, saith the Lord, for their iniquities, even the land of the Chaldeans, and will make it a perpetual desolation.

13 And I will bring upon that land all my words

16 And they shall drink, and be moved, and be mad, because of the sword that I will send among them.

17 Then took I the cup at the Lord's hand, and made all people to drink, unto whom the Lord had sent me:

18 Even Jerusalem, and the cities of Judah, and the kings thereof, and the princes thereof, to make them desolate, an astonishment, an hissing, and a curse, ^a as appeareth this day:

6 Then will I make this house like ^a Shiloh, and will make this city ^a a curse to all the nations of the earth.

7 So the priests, and the prophets, and all the people heard Jeremiah speaking these words in the house of the Lord.

8 Now when Jeremiah had made an end of speaking all that the Lord had commanded him to speak unto all the people, then the priests and the prophets, and all the people took him, and said, Thou shalt die the death.

9 Why hast thou prophesied in the Name of the Lord, saying, This ^a house shall be like Shiloh, and this city shall be desolate without an inhabitant? and all the people were gathered against Jeremiah in the house of the Lord.

10 And when the princes of Judah heard of these things, they came up from the king's house into the house of the Lord, and sat down in the entry of the ^a new gate of the Lord's house.

11 Then spake the priests and the prophets unto the princes, and to all the people, saying, ^a This man is worthy to die: for he hath prophesied against this city, as ye have heard with your ears.

12 Then spake Jeremiah unto all the princes, and to all the people, saying, The Lord hath ^a sent me to prophesy against this house, and against this city all the things that ye have heard.

13 Therefore now amend your ways, and your works, and hear the voice of the Lord your God, that the Lord may repent him of the plague that he hath pronounced against you.

14 As for me, behold, I am in your hands: do with me as you think good and right.

15 But know ye for certain, that if ye put me to death, ye shall surely bring innocent blood upon yourselves, and upon this city, and upon the inhabitants thereof: for of a truth the Lord hath sent me unto you, to speak all these words in your ears.

16 Then said the princes and all the people unto the priests, and to the prophets, This man is not worthy to die: for he hath spoken unto us in the name of the Lord our God.

17 ¶ Then rose up certain of the elders of the land, and spake to all the assembly of the people, saying,

18 Micah the Morashite ^a prophesied in the days of Hezekiah king of Judah, and spake to all the people of Judah, saying, Thus saith the Lord of hosts, Zion shall be ploughed like a field, and Jerusalem shall be an heap, and the mountain of the ^a house shall be as the high places of the forest.

19 Did Hezekiah king of Judah, and all Judah put him to death? did he not fear the Lord, and prayed before the Lord, and the Lord repented him of the ^a plague that he had pronounced against them? Thus might we procure great evil against our souls.

20 And there was also a man that prophesied in the name of the Lord, one Urijah the son of Shemaiah, of Kirjath-jearim, who prophesied against this city, and against this land, according to all the words of Jeremiah.

21 Now when Jehoiakim the king, with all his men of power, and all the princes heard his words, the king sought to slay him. But when Urijah heard it, he was afraid, and fled, and went into Egypt.

22 Then Jehoiakim the king ^a sent ten men into Egypt, even Elnathan the son of Achbor, and certain with him into Egypt:

23 And they fetched Urijah out of Egypt, and brought him unto Jehoiakim the king, who slew him with the sword, and ^a cast his dead body into the graves of the children of the people.

24 But the hand of Ahikam ^b the son of Shaphan was with Jeremiah, that they should not give him into the hand of the people, to put him to death.

C H A P. XXVII.

Jeremiah, at the commandment of the Lord, sendeth bonds to the king of Judah, and to the other kings that were near, whereby they are admonished to be subject unto Nebuchadnezzar. 9 He warneth the people, and the kings, and rulers, that they believe not false prophets.

IN the beginning of the reign of ^a Jehoiakim, the son of Josiah king of Judah, came this word unto Jeremiah, from the Lord, saying,

2 Thus saith the Lord to me, Make thee ^a bonds and yokes, and put them upon thy neck,

3 And send them to the king of Edom, and to the king of Moab, and to the king of the Ammonites, and to the king of Tyrus, and to the king of Zidon, by the hand of the messengers which came to Jerusalem unto Zedekiah the king of Judah,

4 And command them to say unto their masters, Thus saith the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, Thus shall ye say unto your masters, to hear God's word declared, but persecute the ministers thereof; and yet in the end they prevail nothing, but provoke God's judgments so much the more.

5 I

^a As in the first, Hezekiah's example is to be followed; so in this other, Jehoiakim's act is to be abhorred; for God's plague did light on him and his household.

^b Which declareth that nothing could have appeased their fury, if God had not moved this noble man to stand valiantly in his defence.

^c As touching the disposition of the prophecies, they that gathered them into a book did not altogether observe the order of times, but did set some afore which should be after, and contrariwise; which if the reader mark well, it shall avoid many doubts, and make the reading much more easy.

^d By such signs the prophets used sometimes to confirm their prophecies, which notwithstanding they could not do of themselves, but inasmuch as they had a revelation for the same, Isa. 20. 2. and therefore the false prophets, to get more credit, did use also such visible signs, but they had no revelation, 1 Kings 22. 11.

^a Read chap. 7. 12.

^b So that when they would curse any, they shall say, God do to thee as to Jerusalem.

^c Because of God's promise to the temple, Psalm 132. 14 that he would for ever remain there, the hypocrites thought this temple could never perish, and therefore thought it blasphemy to speak against it, Matt. 26. 61. Acts 6. 13. not considering that this was meant of the church, where God will remain for ever.

^d So called, because it was repaired by Jotham, 2 Kings 15. 35.

^e He both sheweth the cause of his doings plainly, and also threateneth them that they should nothing avail, tho' they should put him to death, but heap greater vengeance upon their heads.

^f That is, of the house of the Lord, to wit, Zion; and these examples the godly alledged to deliver Jeremiah out of the priests hands, whose rage else would not have been satisfied, but by his death.

^g So that the city was not destroyed, but by miracle was delivered out of the hands of Sennacherib.

^h Here is declared the fury of tyrants, who cannot abide

5 I have made the earth, the man, and the beasts that are upon the ground, by my great power, and by my out-stretched arm, and have given it unto whom it pleased me.

6 But now I have given all these lands into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar the king of Babel, my servant, and the beasts of the field have I also given him to serve him.

7 And all nations shall serve him, and his son, and his sons son, until the very time of his land come also: then many nations and great kings shall serve themselves of him.

8 And the nation and kingdom which will not serve the same Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel, and that will not put their neck under the yoke of the king of Babel, the same nation will I visit, saith the Lord, with the sword, and with the famine, and with the pestilence, until I have wholly given them into his hands.

9 Therefore hear not your prophets, nor your soothsayers, nor your dreamers, nor your enchanters, nor your sorcerers, which say unto you thus, Ye shall not serve the king of Babel.

10 For they prophesy a lye unto you, to cause you to go far from your land, and that I should cast you out, and you should perish.

11 But the nation that put their necks under the yoke of the king of Babel, and serve him, those will I let remain still in their own land, saith the Lord, and they shall occupy it, and dwell therein.

12 ¶ I spake also to Zedekiah king of Judah according to all these words, saying, Put your necks under the yoke of the king of Babel, and serve him and his people, that ye may live.

13 Why will ye die, thou and thy people by the sword, by the famine, and by the pestilence, as the Lord hath spoken against the nation that will not serve the king of Babel?

14 Therefore hear not the words of the prophets, that speak unto you, saying, Ye shall not serve the king of Babel: for they prophesy a lye unto you.

15 For I have not sent them, saith the Lord, yet they prophesy a lye in my name, that I might cast you out, and that ye might perish, both you and the prophets that prophesy unto you.

16 ¶ Also I spake to the priests and to all this people, saying, Thus saith the Lord, Hear not the words of your prophets that prophesy unto you, saying, Behold, the vessels of the house of the Lord shall now shortly be brought again from Babel: for they prophesy a lye unto you.

17 Hear them not, but serve the king of Babel, that ye may live: wherefore should this city be desolate?

18 But if they be prophets, and if the word of the Lord be with them, let them intreat the Lord of hosts, that the vessels, which are left in the house of the Lord, and in the house of the king of Judah, and at Jerusalem, go not to Babel.

19 For thus saith the Lord of hosts concerning the pillars, and concerning the sea, and concerning the bases, and concerning the residue of the vessels that remain in this city,

20 Which Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel took not, when he carried away captive Jeconiah the son of Jehoiakim king of Judah from Jerusalem to Babel, with all the nobles of Judah and Jerusalem:

21 For thus saith the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, concerning the vessels that remain in the house of the Lord, and in the house of the king of Judah, and at Jerusalem, 22 They shall be brought to Babel, and there they shall be until the day that I visit them, saith the Lord: then will I bring them up, and restore them unto this place.

C H A P. XXVIII.

1 The false prophecy of Hananiah. 10 Jeremiah reproveth Hananiah, and prophesieth.

AND that same year, in the beginning of the reign of Zedekiah king of Judah, in the fourth year, and in the fifth month, Hananiah the son of Azur the prophet, which was of Gibeon, spake to me in the house of the Lord, in the presence of the priests, and of all the people, and said,

2 Thus speaketh the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, saying, I have broken the yoke of the king of Babel.

3 † Within two years space I will bring into this place all the vessels of the Lord's house, that Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel took away from this place, and carried them into Babel.

4 And I will bring again to this place Jeconiah the son of Jehoiakim king of Judah, with all them that were carried away captive of Judah, and went into Babel, saith the Lord: for I will break the yoke of the king of Babel.

5 Then the prophet Jeremiah said unto the prophet Hananiah in the presence of the priests, and in the presence of all the people that stood in the house of the Lord,

6 Even the prophet Jeremiah said, So be it: the Lord so do, the Lord confirm thy words, which thou hast prophesied, to restore the vessels of the Lord's house, and all that is carried captive from Babel, into this place.

7 But hear thou now this word that I will speak in thine ears, and in the ears of all the people:

8 The prophets that have been before me and before thee in times past, prophesied against many countries, and against great kingdoms, of war, and of plagues, and of pestilence.

9 And

^p That is, I would wish the same for God's honour and wealth of my people, but he hath appointed the contrary.

^q Meaning, that the prophets that did either denounce war or peace, were tried either true or false by the success of their prophecies. Albeit God maketh to come to pass sometime that which the false prophet speaketh, to try the faith of his, Deut. 13. 3.

9 And the prophet which prophesieth of peace, when the word of the prophet shall come to pass, then shall the prophet be known, that the Lord hath truly sent him.

10 Then Hananiah the prophet took the yoke from the prophet Jeremiah's neck, and brake it.

11 And Hananiah spake in the presence of all the people, saying, Thus saith the Lord, Even so will I break the yoke of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel, from the neck of all nations, within the space of two years: and the prophet Jeremiah went his way.

12 ¶ Then the word of the Lord came unto Jeremiah the prophet, (after that Hananiah the prophet had broken the yoke from the neck of the prophet Jeremiah) saying, 13 Go, and tell Hananiah, saying, Thus saith the Lord, Thou hast broken the yokes of wood, but thou shalt make for them yokes of iron.

14 For thus saith the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, I have put a yoke of iron upon the neck of all these nations, that they may serve Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel: for they shall serve him, and I have given him the beasts of the field also.

15 Then said the prophet Jeremiah unto the prophet Hananiah, Hear now, Hananiah, the Lord hath not sent thee, but thou makest this people to trust in a lye.

16 Therefore thus saith the Lord, Behold, I will cast thee from off the earth: this year thou shalt die, because thou hast spoken rebelliously against the Lord.

17 So Hananiah the prophet died the same year, in the seventh month.

1 Jeremiah writeth unto them that were in captivity in Babylon. 10 He prophesieth their return after seventy years. 16 He prophesieth the destruction of the king and of the people that remain in Jerusalem. 21 He threateneth the prophets that seduce the people. 32 The death of Shemaiah is prophesied.

4 Thus hath the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, spoken unto all that are carried away captives, whom I have caused to be carried away captives from Jerusalem unto Babel:

5 Build you houses to dwell in, and plant you gardens, and eat the fruits of them.

6 Take you wives, and beget sons and daughters, and take wives for your sons, and give your daughters to husbands, that they may bear sons and daughters, that ye may be increased there, and not diminished.

7 And seek the prosperity of the city, whither I have caused you to be carried away captives: and pray unto the Lord for it: for in the peace thereof shall ye have peace.

8 ¶ For thus saith the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, Let not your prophets, and your soothsayers that be among you, deceive you, neither give ear to your dreams which you dream.

9 For they prophesy you a lye in my name, I have not sent them, saith the Lord.

10 But thus saith the Lord, that after seventy years be accomplished at Babel, I will visit you, and perform my good promise toward you, and cause you to return to this place.

11 For I know the thoughts that I have thought towards you, saith the Lord, even the thoughts of peace, and not of trouble, to give you an end, and your hope.

12 Then shall you cry unto me, and ye shall go and pray unto me, and I will hear you.

13 And ye shall seek me, and find me, because ye shall seek me with all your heart.

14 And I will be found of you, saith the Lord, and I will turn away your captivity, and I will gather you from all the nations, and from all the places, whither I have cast you, saith the Lord, and will bring you again unto the place whence I caused you to be carried away captive.

15 ¶ Because ye have said, The Lord hath raised us up prophets in Babel:

16 Therefore, thus saith the Lord of the king that sitteth upon the throne of David, and of all the people that dwell in this city, your brethren that are not gone forth with you into captivity:

17 Even thus saith the Lord of hosts, Behold, I will send upon them the sword, the famine, and the pestilence, and will make them like vile figs, that cannot be eaten, they are so naughty.

18 And I will persecute them with the sword, with the famine, and with the pestilence: and I will make them a terror to all kingdoms of the earth,

* The prophet speaketh not this for the affection that he bare to the tyrant, but that they should pray for the common rest and quietness, that their troubles might not be increased, and that they might with more patience and less grief wait for the time of their deliverance, which God had appointed most certain: for else not only the Israelites, but all the world, yea, and the insensible creatures, should rejoice when these tyrants should be destroyed, as Isa. 14. 4.

† When your oppression shall be great, and your afflictions cause you to repent your disobedience, and also when the seventy years of your captivity shall be expired, 2 Chr. 36. 22 Ezra 1. 1. chap. 25. 12. Dan. 9. 2.

20 ¶ Hear ye therefore the word of the Lord, all ye of the captivity, whom I have sent from Jerusalem to Babel.

21 Thus saith the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, of Ahab the son of Kolaiah, and of Zedekiah the son of Maaseiah, which prophesy lyes unto you in my name, Behold, I will deliver them into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel, and he shall slay them before your eyes.

22 And all they of the captivity of Judah, that are in Babel, shall take up this curse against them, and say, The Lord make thee like Zedekiah, and like Ahab, whom the king of Babel burnt ^h in the fire:

23 Because they have committed ⁱ villainy in Israel, and have committed adultery with their neighbours wives, and have spoken lying words in my name, which I have not commanded them, even I know it, and testify it, saith the Lord.

25 Thus speaketh the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, saying, Because thou hast sent letters in thy name unto all the people that are at Jerusalem, and to Zephaniah the son of Maaseiah the priest, and to all the priests, saying,

26 The Lord hath made thee priest for ^k Jehoiada the priest, that ye should be officers in the house of the Lord, for every man that raveth and maketh himself a prophet, to put him in prison and in the stocks.

28 For, for this cause he sent unto us in Babel, saying, This captivity is long: build houses to dwell in, and plant gardens, and eat the fruits of them.

29 And Zephaniah the priest read this letter in the ears of Jeremiah the prophet.

30 Then came the word of the Lord unto Jeremiah, saying,

31 Send to all them of the captivity, saying, Thus saith the Lord of Shemaiah the Nehelamite, Because that Shemaiah hath prophesied unto you, and I sent him not, and he caused you to trust in a lye,

32 Therefore thus saith the Lord, Behold, I will visit Shemaiah the Nehelamite, and his seed: he shall not have a man ^l to dwell among this

C H A P. XXXII.

Jeremiah is cast into prison, because he prophesied that the city should be taken of the king of Babylon. 7 He sheweth that the people should come again to their own possession. 38 The people of God are his servants, and he is their Lord.

THE word that came unto Jeremiah from the Lord, in the tenth year of Zedekiah king of Judah, which was the eighteenth year of Nebuchadnezzar.

2 For then the king of Babel's host besieged Jerusalem: and Jeremiah the prophet was shut up in the court of the prison which was in the king of Judah's house.

3 For Zedekiah king of Judah had shut him up, saying, Wherefore dost thou prophesy, and say, Thus saith the Lord, * Behold, I will give this city into the hands of the king of Babel, and he shall take it:

4 And Zedekiah the king of Judah shall not escape out of the hand of the Chaldeans, but shall surely be delivered into the hands of the king of Babel, and shall speak with him mouth to mouth, and his eyes shall behold his face:

5 And he shall lead Zedekiah to Babel, and there shall he be, until I visit him, saith the Lord: though ye fight with the Chaldeans, ye shall not prosper?

6 ¶ And Jeremiah said, The word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

7 Behold, Hanameel, the son of Shallum thine uncle, shall come unto thee, and say, Buy unto thee my field, that is in Anathoth: for † the title by kindred appertaineth unto thee * to buy it.

8 So Hanameel, mine uncle's son, came to me in the court of the prison, according to the word of the Lord, and said unto me, Buy my * field, I pray thee, that is in Anathoth, which is in the country of Benjamin: for the right of the possession is thine, and the purchase belongeth unto thee: buy it for thee. Then I knew that this was the word of the Lord.

9 And I bought the field of Hanameel, mine uncle's son, that was in Anathoth, and weighed him the silver, even seven shekels, and ten pieces of silver.

10 And I wrote it in the book and signed it, and took witnesses, and weighed him the silver in the balances.

11 So I took the book of the possession, being sealed ² according to the law, and custom, with the book that was open,

12 And I gave the book of the possession unto Baruch the son of Neriah, the son of Maaseiah, in the sight of Hanameel mine uncle's son, and in the presence of the witnesses, written in the book of the possession, before all the Jews that sat in the court of the prison.

13 And I charged Baruch before them, saying,

14 Thus saith the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, Take the writings, even this book of the possession, both that is sealed, and this book that is open, and put them in an earthen ³ vessel, that they may continue a long time.

15 For the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, saith thus, Houses, and fields, and vineyards shall be possessed again in this land.

16 ¶ Now when I had delivered the book of the possession unto Baruch, the son of Neriah, I prayed unto the Lord, saying, 17 Ah Lord God, behold, thou hast made the heaven and the earth by thy great power, and by thy stretched out arm, and there is nothing † hard unto thee.

18 * Thou shewest mercy unto thousands, and recompenseth the iniquity of the fathers into the bosom of their ^b children after them: O God, the great and mighty, whose name is, The Lord of hosts,

19 Great in counsel, and mighty in work, (for thine eyes are open upon all the ways of the sons of men, to give to every one according to his ways, and according to the fruit of his works)

20 Which hast set signs and wonders in the land of Egypt unto this ^c day, and in Israel, and among all men, and hast made thee a name, as appeareth this day, and with a strong hand, and with a stretched out arm, and with great terror,

22 And hast given them this land, which thou didst swear to their fathers to give them, even a land that floweth with milk and honey :

23 And they came in, and possessed it, but they obeyed not thy voice, neither walked in thy law : all that thou commandedst them to do, they have not done : therefore thou hast caused this whole plague to come upon them.

24 Behold, the ^d mounts, they are come into the city to take it, and the city is given into the hand of the Chaldeans, that fight against it by means of the sword, and of the famine, and of the pestilence, and what thou hast spoken is come to pass, and behold, thou seest it.

25 And thou hast said unto me, O Lord God, Buy unto thee the field for silver, and take witnesses : for the city shall be given into the hand of the Chaldeans.

26 ¶ Then came the word of the Lord unto Jeremiah, saying;

27 Behold, I am the Lord God of all ^e flesh: is there any thing too hard for me ?

28 Therefore thus saith the Lord, Behold, I will give this city into the hand of the Chaldeans, and into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel, and he shall take it.

29 And the Chaldeans shall come and fight against this city, and set fire on this city, and burn it, with the houses, upon whose roofs they have offered incense unto Baal, and poured drink-offerings unto other gods, to provoke me unto anger.

30 For the children of Israel, and the children of Judah, have surely done evil before me from their ^f youth : for the children of Israel have surely provoked me to anger with the works of their hands, saith the Lord.

31 Therefore this city hath been unto me as a provocation of mine anger, and of my wrath, from the day that they built it, even unto this day, that I should remove it out of my sight,

32 Because of all the evil of the children of Israel, and of the children of Judah, which they have done to provoke me to anger, even they, their kings, their princes, their priests, and their prophets, and the men of Judah, and the inhabitants of Jerusalem.

33 And they have turned unto me the back, and not the face : though I taught them, ^g rising up early, and instructing them, yet they were not obedient to receive doctrine,

34 But they set their abominations in the house (whereupon my name was called) to defile it,

35 And they built the high ^h places of Baal, which are in the valley of ⁱ Ben-hinnom, to cause their sons and their daughters to ^k pass through the fire unto Moloch, which I commanded them not, neither came it into my mind, that they should do such abomination to cause Judah to sin. Bef. Chr. 590.

36 And now ^l therefore, thus hath the Lord God of Israel spoken concerning this city, whereof ye say, It shall be delivered into the hand of the king of Babel by the sword, and by the famine, and by the pestilence;

37 * Behold, I will gather them out of all ^m countries wherein I have scattered them in mine anger; and in my wrath, and in great indignation, and I will bring them again unto this place, and I will cause them to dwell safely.

38 And they shall be ⁿ my people, and I will be their God. * Ch. 30. 22.

39 And I will give them ^o one heart, and one way, that they may fear me for ever, for the wealth of them, and of their children after them.

40 And I will make an ^p everlasting covenant with them, that I will never turn away from them to do them good : but I will put my fear in their hearts, that they shall not depart from me.

41 Yea, I will delight in them to do them good, and I will plant them in this land assuredly, with my whole heart, and with all my soul.

42 For thus saith the Lord; Like as I have brought all this great plague upon this people; so will I bring upon them all the good that I have promised them.

43 And the fields shall be possessed in this land, whereof ye say, It is desolate without man or beast, and shall be given into the hand of the Chaldeans.

44 Men shall buy ^q fields for silver; and make writings and seal them, and take witnesses in the land of Benjamin, and round about Jerusalem; and in the cities of Judah; and in the cities of the mountains, and in the cities of the plain; and in the cities of the South : for I will cause their captivity to return, saith the Lord.

3 And thou shalt not escape out of his hand, but shalt surely be taken, and delivered into his hand, and thine eyes shall behold the face of the king of Babel, and he shall speak with thee mouth to mouth, and thou shalt go to Babel.

4 Yet hear the word of the Lord, O Zedekiah, king of Judah: thus saith the Lord of thee, Thou shalt not die by the sword,

5 But thou shalt die in ^h peace: and according to the burning of thy fathers the former kings which were before thee, so shall they burn odours for thee, and they shall lament thee, saying, Oh ^l lord: for I have pronounced the word, saith the Lord.

6 Then Jeremiah the prophet spake all these words unto Zedekiah king of Judah in Jerusalem,

7 (When the king of Babel's host fought against Jerusalem, and against all the cities of Judah, that were left even against Lachish, and against Azekah: for these strong cities remained of the cities of Judah)

8 This is the word that came unto Jeremiah from the Lord, after that the king Zedekiah had made a covenant with all the people which were at Jerusalem, ^k to proclaim liberty unto them,

9 That every man should let his ^l servant go free, and every man his handmaid, which was an Hebrew or an Hebrewess, and that none should serve himself of them, to wit, of a Jew his brother.

10 Now when all the princes, and all the people which had agreed to the covenant, heard that every one should let his servant go free, and every one his handmaid, and that none should serve themselves of them any more, they obeyed and let them go.

11 But afterward they [†] repented, and caused the servants and the handmaids, whom they had let go free, to return, and held them in subjection as servants and handmaids.

12 Therefore the word of the Lord came unto Jeremiah from the Lord, saying,

13 Thus saith the Lord God of Israel, I made a covenant with your fathers, when I brought them out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of [‡] servants, saying,

14 * At the term of seven years let ye go every man his brother an Hebrew which hath been sold unto thee: and when he hath served thee six years, thou shalt let him go free from thee: but your fathers obeyed me not, neither inclined their ears.

15 And ye were now turned, and had done right in my sight in proclaiming liberty every man to his neighbour, and ye had made a covenant before me in ^m the house, whereupon my name is called.

16 But ye repented, and polluted my name:

for ye have caused every man his servant, and every man his handmaid, whom ye had set at liberty at their pleasure, to return, and hold them in subjection to be unto you as servants and as handmaids.

17 Therefore thus saith the Lord, Ye have not obeyed me, in proclaiming freedom every man to his brother, and every man to his neighbour: behold, I proclaim a liberty for you; saith the Lord, to ⁿ the sword, to the pestilence, and to the famine, and I will make you a terror to all the kingdoms of the earth.

18 And I will give those men that have broken my covenant, and have not kept the words of the covenant which they had made before me, when they ^o cut the calf in twain, and passed between the parts thereof,

19 The princes of Judah, and the princes of Jerusalem, the eunuchs, and the priests, and all the people of the land which passed between the parts of the calf, 20 I will even give them into the hand of their enemies, and into the hands of them that seek their life: and their dead bodies shall be for meat unto the fowls of the heaven, and to the beasts of the earth.

21 And Zedekiah king of Judah, and his princes, will I give into the hand of their enemies, and into the hand of them that seek their life, and into the hand of the king of Babel's host, which ^p are gone up from you.

22 Behold, I will command, saith the Lord, and cause them to return to this city, and they shall fight against it, and take it, and burn it with fire: and I will make the cities of Judah desolate without an inhabitant.

11 But when Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel came up into the land, we said, Come, and let us go to Jerusalem, from the host of the Chaldeans, and from the host of Aram: so we dwell at Jerusalem.

12 Then came the word of the Lord unto Jeremiah, saying,

13 Thus saith the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, Go, and tell the men of Judah, and the inhabitants of Jerusalem, Will ^z ye not receive doctrine to obey my words, saith the Lord?

14 The commandment of Jonadab son of Rechab, that he commanded his sons, that they should drink no wine, is surely kept: for unto this day they drink none, but obey their fathers commandment: notwithstanding I have spoken unto you, ^y rising early, and speaking, but ye would not obey me.

16 Surely the sons of Jonadab the son of Rechab have kept the commandment of their father, which he gave them, but this people hath not obeyed me.

17 Therefore thus saith the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, Behold, I will bring upon Judah, and upon all the inhabitants of Jerusalem, all the evil that I have pronounced against them: because I have ^b spoken unto them, but they would not hear, and I have called unto them: but they would not answer.

¹ Baruch writeth, as Jeremiah inditeth, The book of the curses against Judah and Israel. 9 He is sent with the book unto the people, and readeth it before them all. 14 He is called before the rulers, and readeth it before them also. 32 The king casteth it into the fire. 28 There is another written at the commandment of the Lord.

AND in the fourth ^d year of Jehoiakim the son of Josiah king of Judah, came this word unto Jeremiah from the Lord, saying,

2 Take thee a roll or book, and write therein all the words that I have spoken to thee against Israel, and against Judah, and against all the nations, from the day that I spake unto thee, ^e even from the days of Josiah unto this day.

3 It may be that the house of Judah will hear of all the evil which I determined to do unto them, that they may return every man from his evil way, that I may forgive their iniquity and their sins.

4 Then Jeremiah called Baruch the son of Neriah, and Baruch wrote ^f at the mouth of Jeremiah all the words of the Lord which he had spoken unto him, upon a roll or book.

5 And Jeremiah commanded Baruch, saying, I am ^g shut up, and cannot go into the house of the Lord.

6 Therefore go thou, and read the roll, wherein thou hast written at my mouth the words of the Lord, in the audience of the people in the Lord's house upon the ^h fasting day: also thou shalt read them in the hearing of all Judah, that come out of their cities.

7 It may be that they will ⁱ pray before the Lord, and every one return from his evil way, for great is the anger and the wrath that the Lord hath declared against this people.

8 So Baruch the son of Neriah did according unto all that Jeremiah the prophet commanded him, reading in the book the words of the Lord in the Lord's house.

9 ¶ And in the fifth ^k year of Jehoiakim the son of Josiah king of Judah, in the ninth month, they proclaimed a fast before the Lord to all the people in Jerusalem, and to all the people that came from the cities of Judah unto Jerusalem.

10 Then

^k The fast was then proclaimed, and Baruch read this roll, which was a little before that Jerusalem was first taken, and then Jehoiakim and Daniel, and his companions, were led away captives.

Bef. Chr. 606. 10 Then read Baruch in the book the words of Jeremiah in the house of the Lord, in the chamber of Gemariah the son of Shaphan the secretary, in the higher court, at the entry of the ¹ new gate of the Lord's house, in the hearing of all the people.

11 When Michaiah the son of Gemariah, the son of Shaphan, had heard out of the book all the words of the Lord, 12 Then he went down to the king's house in the chancellor's chamber, and lo, all the princes sat there, even Elishama the chancellor, and Delaiah the son of Shemaiah, and Elnathan the son of Achbor, and Gemariah the son of Shaphan, and Zedekiah the son of Hananiah, and all the princes.

13 Then Michaiah declared unto them all the words that he had heard when Baruch read in the book in the audience of the people.

14 Therefore all the princes sent Jehudi the son of Nethaniah, the son of Shelemiah, the son of Cushi, unto Baruch, saying, Take in thine hand the roll, wherein thou hast read in the audience of the people, and come. So Baruch the son of Neriah took the roll in his hand, and came unto them.

15 And they said unto him, Sit down now, and read it, that we may hear. So Baruch read it in their audience.

16 Now when they had heard all the words, they were ^m afraid both one and other, and said unto Baruch, We will certify the king of all these words.

17 And they examined Baruch, saying, Tell us now, how didst thou write all these words at his mouth?

18 Then Baruch answered them, He pronounced all these words unto me with his mouth, and I wrote them with ink in the book.

19 Then said the princes unto Baruch, Go, ⁿ hide thee, thou and Jeremiah, and let no man know where ye be.

20 ¶ And they went in to the king, to the court, but they laid up the roll in the chamber of Elishama the chancellor, and told the king all the words, that he might hear.

21 So the king sent Jehudi to fetch the roll, and he took it out of Elishama the chancellor's chamber, and Jehudi read it in the audience of the king, and in the audience of all the princes which stood beside the king.

22 Now the king sat in the winter house, in the ^o ninth month, and there was a fire burning before him.

23 And when Jehudi had read three or four sides, he cut it with the penknife, and cast it into the fire that was on the hearth, until all the roll was consumed in the fire that was on the hearth.

25 Nevertheless Elnathan, and Delaiah, and Gemariah, had besought the king, that he would not burn the roll: but he would not hear them.

26 But the king commanded Jerahmeel the son of Hammelech, and Seraiah the son of Azriel, and Shelemiah the son of Abdiel, to take Baruch the scribe, and Jeremiah the prophet: but the Lord ^q hid them.

27 ¶ Then the word of the Lord came to Jeremiah (after that the king had burnt the roll, and the words which Baruch wrote at the mouth of Jeremiah) saying, 28 Take thee again ^r another roll, and write in it all the former words that were in the first roll which Jehoiakim the king of Judah hath burnt.

29 And thou shalt say to Jehoiakim king of Judah, Thus saith the Lord, Thou hast burnt this roll, saying, Why hast thou written therein, saying, That the king of Babel shall certainly come and destroy this land, and shall take thence both man and beast?

30 Therefore thus saith the Lord of Jehoiakim king of Judah, He shall ^s have none to sit upon the throne of David, and his ^t dead body shall be cast out in the day to the heat, and in the night to the frost.

31 And I will visit him and his seed; and his servants for their iniquity, and I will bring upon them and upon the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and upon the men of Judah, all the evil that I have pronounced against them: but they would not hear.

32 Then took Jeremiah another roll; and gave it Baruch the scribe the son of Neriah, which wrote therein at the mouth of Jeremiah all the words of the book which Jehoiakim king of Judah had burnt in the fire; and there were added besides them many like words.

3.5. Car. 595. Jeriah the priest, to the prophet Jeremiah, saying, Pray now unto the Lord our God for us.

4 (Now Jeremiah^a went in and out among the people: for they had not put him into the prison.)

5 Then Pharaoh's host was^a come out of Egypt: and when the Chaldeans that besieged Jerusalem, heard tidings of them, they[†] departed from Jerusalem.)

6 Then came the word of the Lord unto the prophet Jeremiah, saying,

7 Thus saith the Lord God of Israel, Thus shall ye say to the king of Judah, that sent you unto me, to enquire of me, Behold, Pharaoh's host which is come forth to help you, shall return to Egypt into their own land.

8 And the Chaldeans shall come again, and fight against this city, and take it, and burn it with fire.

9 Thus saith the Lord, † Deceive not yourselves, saying, The Chaldeans shall surely depart from us: for they shall not depart.

10 For though ye had smitten the whole host of the Chaldeans that fight against you, and there remained but wounded men among them, yet should every man rise up in his tent, and burn this city with fire.

11 ¶ When the host of the Chaldeans was broken up from Jerusalem, because of Pharaoh's army, 12 Then Jeremiah went out of Jerusalem to go into the^b land of Benjamin, separating himself thence from among the people.

13 And when he was in the^c gate of Benjamin, there was a chief officer whose name was Irijah, the son of Shelemiah, the son of Haniah, and he took Jeremiah the prophet, saying, Thou[†] fleest to the Chaldeans.

14 Then said Jeremiah, That is false, I flee not to the Chaldeans: but he would not hear him: so Irijah took Jeremiah, and brought him to the princes.

15 Wherefore the princes were angry with Jeremiah, and smote him, and laid him in prison in the house of Jonathan the scribe: for they had made that the^d prison.

16 When Jeremiah was entered into the dungeon, and into the prisons, and had remained there a long time, 17 Then Zedekiah the king sent and took him out, and the king asked him secretly in his house, and said, Is there any word from the Lord? And Jeremiah said, Yea: for, said he, thou shalt be delivered into the hand of the king of Babel.

18 Moreover, Jeremiah said unto king Zedekiah, What have I offended against thee, or against thy servants, or against this people, that ye have put me in prison?

19 * Where are now your prophets which prophesied unto you, saying, The king of Babel shall not come against you, nor against this land?

20 Therefore hear now, I pray thee, O my lord the king: let my prayer[†] be accepted before thee, and thou cause me not to return to the house of Jonathan the scribe, lest I die there.

21 Then Zedekiah the king commanded, that they should put Jeremiah in the court of the prison, and that they should give him daily a piece of bread out of the baker's street, until all the^e bread in the city were eaten up. Thus Jeremiah remained in the court of the prison.

C H A P. XXXVIII.

1 By the motion of the rulers Jeremiah is put into a dungeon. 10 At the request of Ebed-melech the king commandeth Jeremiah to be brought forth of the dungeon. 17 Jeremiah sheweth the king how he might escape death.

THEN Shephatiah the son of Mattan, and Gedaliah the son of Pashur, and Jucal the son of Shelemiah, and Pashur the son of Malchiah, heard the words that Jeremiah had spoken unto all the people, saying,

2 Thus saith the Lord, He that remaineth in this city shall die by the sword, by the famine, and by the pestilence: but he that goeth forth to the Chaldeans, shall live: for he shall have his life for a^g prey, and shall live.

3 Thus saith the Lord, This city shall surely be given into the hand of the king of Babel's army, which shall take it.

4 Therefore the princes said unto the king, We beseech you, let this man be put to death: for thus he[†] weakeneth the hands of the men of war^h that remain in this city, and the hands of all the people, in speaking such words unto them: for this man seeketh not the wealth of this people, but the hurt.

5 Then Zedekiah the king said, Behold, he is in your hands, for the king canⁱ denyⁱ you nothing.

6 Then took they Jeremiah, and cast him into the dungeon of Malchiah the son of Hammelech, that was in the court of the prison: and they let down Jeremiah with cords, and in the dungeon there was no water, but mire: so Jeremiah stuck fast in the mire.

7 Now when Ebed-melech the[†] black-moor, one of the eunuchs which was in the king's house, heard that they had put Jeremiah in the dungeon, (then the king sat in the^k gate of Benjamin)

8 And Ebed-melech went out of the king's house, and spake to the king, saying,

9 My lord the king, these men have done evil in all that they have done to Jeremiah the prophet, whom they have cast into the dungeon, and he dieth for hunger in the place where he is: for there is no more bread in the city.

13 So they drew up Jeremiah with cords, and took him up out of the dungeon, and Jeremiah remained in ^m the court of the prison.

14 ¶ Then Zedekiah the king sent and took Jeremiah the prophet unto him, into the third entry that is in the house of the Lord, and the king said unto Jeremiah, I will ask thee a thing: hide nothing from me.

15 Then Jeremiah said to Zedekiah, If I declare it unto thee, wilt not thou slay me? and if I give thee counsel, thou wilt not hear me.

16 So the king sware secretly unto Jeremiah, saying, As the Lord liveth, that made us these souls, I will not slay thee, nor give thee into the hands of those men that seek thy life.

17 Then said Jeremiah unto Zedekiah, Thus saith the Lord God of hosts, the God of Israel, If thou wilt go forth unto the king of Babel's ⁿ princes, then thy soul shall live, and this city shall not be burnt up with fire, and thou shalt live, and thine house.

18 But if thou wilt not go forth to the king of Babel's princes, then shall this city be given into the hand of the Chaldeans, and they shall burn it with fire, and thou shalt not escape out of their hands.

19 And Zedekiah the king said unto Jeremiah, I am careful for the Jews that are fled unto the Chaldeans, lest they deliver me into their hands, and ^o they mock me.

20 But Jeremiah said, They shall not deliver thee: hearken unto the voice of the Lord, I beseech thee, which I speak unto thee: so shall it be well unto thee, and thy soul shall live.

21 But if thou wilt refuse to go forth, this is the word that the Lord hath shewed me.

22 And behold, all the women that are ^p left in the king of Judah's house, shall be brought forth to the king of Babel's princes: and those women shall say, Thy friends have persuaded thee, and have prevailed against thee: thy feet are fastened in the mire, and they are turned back.

23 So they shall bring out all thy wives, and thy children to the Chaldeans, and thou shalt not escape out of their hands, but shalt be taken by the hand of the king of Babel: and this city shalt thou cause to be burnt with fire.

24 Then said Zedekiah unto Jeremiah, Let no man know of these words, and thou shalt not die.

25 But if the princes understand that I have talked with thee, and they come unto thee, Bef. Chr. and say unto thee, Declare unto us now, what 589. thou hast said unto the king, hide it not from us, and we will not slay thee: also what the king said unto thee:

27 Then came all the princes unto Jeremiah, and asked him. And he told them according to all these words that the king had commanded: so they left off speaking with him, for the matter was not perceived.

28 So Jeremiah abode still in the court of the prison, until the day that Jerusalem was taken: and he was there, when Jerusalem was taken.

† Jeremiah hath licence to go whither he will. 6 He dwelleth with the people that remain with Gedaliah.

THE word which came to Jeremiah from the Lord, after that Nebuzar-adan the chief steward had let him go from Ramath, when he had taken him being bound in chains among all that were carried away captive of Jerusalem and Judah, which were carried away captive unto Babel.

2 ^a And the chief steward took Jeremiah, and said unto him, The Lord thy God hath pronounced this plague upon this place.

3 Now the Lord hath brought it, and done according as he hath said : because ye have ^b sinned against the Lord, and have not obeyed his voice, therefore this thing is come upon you.

4 And now behold, I loose thee this day from the chains which were on thine hands, if it please thee to come with me into Babel, come, and I will look well unto thee : but if it please thee not to come with me into Babel, † tarry still : behold, all the land is † before thee : whither it seemeth good and convenient for thee to go, thither go.

said, Return to Gedaliah the son of Ahikam, the son of Shaphan, whom the king of Babel hath made governor over all the cities of Judah, and dwell with him among the people, to go whither-soever it pleaseth thee to go. So the chief steward gave him victuals, and a reward, and let him go.

6 Then went Jeremiah unto Gedaliah the son of Ahikam, to ^c Mizpah, and dwelt there with him among the people that were left in the land.

7 Now when all the captains of the host, ^d which were in the fields, even they and their men, heard that the king of Babel had made Gedaliah the son of Ahikam governor in the land, and that he had committed unto him men and women, and children, and of the poor of the land, that were carried away captive to Babel,

8 Then they came to Gedaliah to Mizpah, even ^e Ishmael the son of Nethaniah, and Johanan and Jonathan the sons of Kareah, and Seraiah the son of Tanhumeth, and the sons of Ephai the Netophathite, and Jezaniah the son of Maachathi, they and their men.

10 As for me, Behold, I will dwell at Mizpah, to † serve the Chaldeans, which will come unto us : but you, gather you wine, and summer fruits and oil, and put them in your vessels, and dwell in your cities, that ye have † taken.

11 Likewise when all the Jews that were in Moab, and among the Ammonites, and in Edom, and that were in all the countries, heard that the king of Babel had left a remnant of Judah, and that he had set over them Gedaliah the son of Ahikam, the son of Shaphan, 12 Even all the Jews returned out of all places whither they were driven, and came to the land of Judah to Gedaliah unto Mizpah, and gathered wine and summer fruits, very much.

13 Moreover Johanan the son of Kareah, and all the captains of the host that were in the fields, came to Gedaliah to Mizpah, 14 And said unto him, Knowest thou not that ^g Baalis the king of the Ammonites hath sent to Ishmael the son of Nethaniah to slay thee : but Gedaliah the son of Ahikam believed them not.

15 Then Johanan the son of Kareah spake to Gedaliah in Mizpah secretly, saying, Let me go, I pray thee, and I will slay Ishmael the son of Nethaniah, and no man shall know it. Wherefore should he kill thee, that all the Jews, which are gathered unto thee should be scattered, and the remnant in Judah perish ?

16 But Gedaliah the son of Ahikam said unto Johanan the son of Kareah, Thou shalt ^h not do this thing : for thou speakest falsely of Ishmael.

1 Ishmael killeth Gedaliah guilefully, and many other with him. 11 Johanan followeth after Ishmael.

BUT in the ¹ seventh month came Ishmael the son of Nethaniah, the son of Elishama, of the seed royal, and the princes of the ^k king, and ten men with him, unto Gedaliah the son of Ahikam, to Mizpah, and there they did ¹ eat bread together in Mizpah.

2 Then arose Ishmael the son of Nethaniah, with these ten men that were with him, and smote Gedaliah the son of Ahikam, the son of Shaphan, with the sword, and slew him whom the king of Babel had made governor over the land.

3 Ishmael also slew all the Jews that were with Gedaliah at Mizpah, and all the Chaldeans that were found there, and the men of war.

4 Now the second day that he had slain Gedaliah, and no man knew it,

5 There came men from Shechem, from Shiloh, and from Samaria, even fourscore men, having their beards shaven, and their cloaths rent and cut, with ^m offerings, and incense in their hands, to offer in the house of the Lord.

6 And Ishmael the son of Nethaniah went forth from Mizpah to meet them, weeping as he went, and when he met them, he said unto them, Come to ⁿ Gedaliah the son of Ahikam.

7 And when they came into the midst of the city, Ishmael the son of Nethaniah slew them, and cast them into the midst of the pit, he and the men that were with him.

8 But ten men were found among them, that said unto Ishmael, Slay us not: for we have treasures in the field, of wheat, and of barley, and of oil, and of honey: so he staid, and slew them not among their brethren.

9 Now the pit wherein Ishmael had cast the dead bodies of the men (whom he had slain because of Gedaliah) is it, which Aza the king had ^o made because of Baasha king of Israel, and Ishmael the son of Nethaniah filled it with them that were slain.

10 Then Ishmael carried away captive all the residue of the people that were in Mizpah, even the king's daughters, and all the people that remained in Mizpah, whom Nebuzar-adan the chief steward had committed to Gedaliah the son of Ahikam, and Ishmael the son of Nethaniah carried them away captive, and departed to go over to the Ammonites.

11 But when Johanan the son of Kareah, and all the ^p captains of the host that were with him, heard of all the evil that Ishmael the son of Nethaniah had done,

12 Then they all took their men, and went to fight with Ishmael the son of Nethaniah, 13 Now when all the people whom Ishmael had carried away captive, saw Johanan the son of Kareah, and all the captains of the host that were with him, they were glad.

14 So all the people that Ishmael had carried away captive from Mizpah, returned and came again, and went unto Johanan the son of Kareah.

15 But Ishmael the son of Nethaniah escaped from Johanan with eight men, and went to the ^a Ammonites.

16 Then took Johanan the son of Kareah, and all the captains of the host that were with him, all the remnant of the people, whom Ishmael the son of Nethaniah had carried away captive from Mizpah (after that he had slain Gedaliah the son of Ahikam) even the strong men of war, and the women, and the children, and the eunuchs, whom he had brought again from Gibeon.

17 And they departed and dwelt in Geruth Chimham, which is by Beth-lehem, to go and to enter into Egypt, 18 Because of the Chaldeans: for they feared them, because Ishmael the son of Nethaniah had slain Gedaliah the son of Ahikam, whom the king of Babel made governor in the land.

8 Then called he Johanan the son of Kareah, and all the captains of the host, which were with him, and all the people from the least to the most,

9 And said unto them, Thus saith the Lord God of Israel, unto whom ye sent me to present your prayers before him,

10 If ye will dwell in this land, then I will build you, and not destroy you, and I will plant you, and not root you out: for I repent me of the evil that I have done unto you.

11 Fear not for the king of Babel, of whom ye are afraid: be not afraid of him, saith the Lord: for I am with you, to save you, and to deliver you from his hand, 12 And I will grant you mercy, that he may have compassion upon you, and he shall cause you to dwell in your own land.

13 But if ye say, We will not dwell in this land, neither hear the voice of the Lord your God,

14 Saying, Nay, but we will go into the land of Egypt, where we shall see no war, nor hear the sound of the trumpet, nor have hunger of bread, and there will we dwell:

15 (And now therefore hear the word of the Lord, ye remnant of Judah: thus saith the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, If ye set your faces to enter into Egypt, and go to dwell there,)

16 Then the sword that ye feared, shall take you there in the land of Egypt, and the famine, for the which ye care, shall there hang upon you in Egypt, and there shall ye die.

17 And all the men that set their faces to enter into Egypt to dwell there, shall die by the sword, by the famine, and by the pestilence, and none of them shall remain nor escape from the plague that I will bring upon them.

18 For thus saith the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, As mine anger and my wrath hath been poured forth upon the inhabitants of Jerusalem: so shall my wrath be poured forth upon you, when ye shall enter into Egypt, and ye shall be a detestation, and an astonishment, and a curse and a reproach, and ye shall see this place no more.

19 O ye remnant of Judah, the Lord hath said concerning you, Go not into Egypt: know certainly that I have admonished you this day.

20 Surely ye dissembled in your hearts when ye sent me unto the Lord your God, saying, Pray for us unto the Lord our God, and declare unto us even according unto all that the Lord our God shall say, and we will do it.

21 Therefore I have this day declared it you, but you have not obeyed the voice of the Lord your God, nor any thing for the which he hath sent me unto you.

22 Now therefore, know certainly that ye shall die by the sword, by the famine, and by the pestilence, in the place whither ye desire to go and dwell.

Johanan carrieth the remnant of the people into Egypt, contrary to the mind of Jeremiah. 8 Jeremiah prophesieth the destruction of Egypt.

NOW when Jeremiah had made an end of speaking unto the whole people all the words of the Lord their God, for the which the Lord their God had sent him to them, even all these words,

2 Then spake Azariah the son of Hofaniah, and Johanan the son of Kareah, and all the proud men, saying unto Jeremiah, Thou speakest falsely: the Lord our God hath not sent thee to say, Go not into Egypt to dwell there:

3 But Baruch the son of Neriah provoketh thee against us, for to deliver us into the hand of the Chaldeans, that they might slay us, and carry us away captives into Babel.

4 So Johanan the son of Kareah, and all the captains of the host, and all the people, obeyed not the voice of the Lord, to dwell in the land of Judah.

5 But Johanan the son of Kareah, and all the captains of the host, took all the remnant of Judah that were returned from all nations, whither they had been driven, to dwell in the land of Judah:

6 Even men and women and children, and the king's daughters, and every person that Nebuzar-adan the chief steward had left with Gedaliah the son of Ahikam, the son of Shaphan, and Jeremiah the prophet, and Baruch the son of Neriah.

7 So they came into the land of Egypt: for they obeyed not the voice of the Lord: thus came they to Tahpanhes.

8 ¶ Then came the word of the Lord unto Jeremiah in Tahpanhes, saying,

He reproveth the people for their idolatry. 15 They that set light by the threatening of the Lord, are chastened. 26 The destruction of Egypt, and of the Jews therein, is prophesied.

THE word that came to Jeremiah concerning all the Jews which dwell in the land of Egypt, and remained at Migdol and at ^p Tahpanhes, and at Noph, and in the country of Pathros, saying,

2 Thus saith the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, Ye have seen all the evil that I have brought upon Jerusalem, and upon all the cities of Judah: and behold, this day they are desolate, and no man dwelleth therein,

3 Because of their wickedness which they have committed, to provoke me to anger, in that they went to burn incense, and to serve other gods whom they knew not, neither they, nor you, nor your fathers.

4 Howbeit I sent unto you all my servants the prophets, ^a rising early and sending them, saying, Oh do not this abominable thing that I hate!

5 But they would not hear, nor incline their ear to turn from their wickedness, and to burn no more incense unto other gods.

7 Therefore now thus saith the Lord of hosts,

^s To wit, Nebuchadnezzar's army.

^t Some take the Hebrew word Amon for the king's name of No, that is, of Alexandria.

^u Meaning, that after the space of forty years Egypt should be restored, Isa. 19. 23. Ezek. 29. 13.

^v God comforteth all his that were in captivity, but specially the small church of the Jews, whereof were Jeremiah and Baruch, which remained among the Egyptians: for the Lord never forsaketh his, Isa. 44. 2. chap. 30. 10.

THE word of the Lord that came to Jeremia the prophet against the Philistines, before that Pharaoh smote^e Azzah.

2 Thus saith the Lord, Behold, waters rise up out of the^a North, and shall be as a swelling flood, and shall overflow the land, and all that is therein, and the cities with them that dwell therein: then the men shall cry, and all the inhabitants of the land shall howl.

3 At the noise and stamping of the hoofs of his strong horses, at the noise of his chariots, and at the rumbling of his wheels: the fathers shall not^b look back to their children, for feebleness of^c hands,

4 Because of the day that cometh to destroy all the Philistines, and to destroy Tyrus, and Zidon, and all the rest that take their part: for the Lord will destroy the Philistines, the remnant of the isle of^d Caphtor.

5 Baldness is come upon Azzah: Ashkelon is cut up with the rest of their vallies. How long wilt^e thou cut thyself?

6 O thou sword of the Lord, how long will it be ere thou cease^f? turn again into thy scabbard, rest and be still.

7 How can it^g cease, seeing the Lord hath given it a charge against Ashkelon, and against the Sea bank^h? even there hath he appointed it.

The word of the Lord against the Moabites: 26
Because of their pride and cruelty.

CONCERNING Moab, thus saith the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, Wo untoⁱ Nebo: for it is wasted: Kiriathaim is confounded and taken: Misgab is confounded and afraid.

2 Moab shall boast no more of Heshbon: for they have devised evil against it. Come, and let us destroy it, that it be no more a nation: also thou shalt be destroyed, O madmen, and the sword shall pursue thee.

3 A voice of crying shall be from Horonaim, with desolation and great destruction.

4 Moab is destroyed: her little ones have caused their cry to be heard.

5 For at the going up of^j Luhith, the mourner shall go up with weeping: for in the going down of Horonaim, the enemies have heard a cry of destruction.

6 Flee, and save your lives, and be like unto the^k heath in the wilderness.

7 For because thou hast trusted in thy^l works and in thy treasures, thou shalt also be taken, and^m Chemosh shall go forth into captivity, with his priests and his princes together.

^a Which was also called Gaza, a city of the Philistines.

^b He meaneth the army of the Chaldeans, Isa. 8. 7. 8.

^c The great fear shall take away their natural affection.

^d Their hearts shall so fail them.

^e For the Caphtorims, which are also called Cappadocians, had destroyed in old time the Philistines, and dwelt in their land even to Gaza, Deut. 2. 23.

^f They have pulled off their hair for sorrow and heaviness.

^g As the heathen used in their mourning, which the Lord forbade his people to do, Deut. 14. 1.

^h Meaning, that it is not possible that the wicked should by any means escape or stay the Lord, when he will take vengeance.

ⁱ These were cities of the Moabites, which Nebuchadnezzar took before he went to fight against Necho king of Egypt.

^j Thus shall the Babylonians encourage one another.

^k Read Isa. 25. 10.

^l Horonaim and Luhith were two places whereby the Moabites should flee, Isa. 15. 5.

8 And the destroyer shall come upon all cities, and no city shall escape: the valley also shall perish, and the plain shall be destroyed, as the Lord hath spoken.

9 Give wings unto Moab, that it may flee and get away: for the cities thereof shall be desolate, without any to dwell therein.
